MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

THE LIFE OF FAITH is the name of a paper which comes to me every week with unfailing regularity. And I look for it and welcome it as a personal friend. I first made its acquaintance many years ago, and have never quite lost touch with it since. In journeyings, by land and by sea, around the world it has kept me company when otherwise I might have been lonely. And I honestly believe that I would rather have my appendix removed (and so be in the fashion), than have this printed friend cut out of my life. I love it for its name and for all that name suggests. It never fails to remind me that mine is to be a life of faith if it is to be well pleasing unto God. I love it for its contents which are always interesting, informing, inspiring, and truly catholic. I admire it for its convictions, so clear-cut and conservative, in this age of widely advertised doubt. And I like it for its winsome spirit when so much bitterness is being manifested within the Christian Church, at home and abroad. But, being human, I have come to like it in a very special way since getting to know its worthy editor and been privileged to count him among my friends.

A GREAT PREACHER.

Scotland has produced some great preachers in the past and is still producing them. She has given the Christian Church a truly great preacher in Dr. George H. Morrison, of the Wellington Church, Glasgow. He combines within himself a wide culture, rare spiritual insight, and popular pulpit gifts which account for the crowds of young men and young women who flock to his ministry in a land famous for its ability to judge good preaching.

I count myself fortunate in having nine volumes of his sermons which I would not part with at any price—although I am Scottish born and supposed to be fond of money—if I could not replace them. They have been worth their weight in gold for the sheer pleasure I have had in just reading them. And for their suggestive value to a preacher they are equalled only by Spurgeon and Parker.

The titles of these volumes give more than a hint to the initiated of the wonderful discoveries which await all who will 'come and see.' These are, "Flood-Tide," "Sunrise," "The Wind on the Heath," "The Wings of the Morning," "The Weaving of Glory," "The Return of the Angels," "The Afterglow of God," "The Unlighted Lustre," and, "The Footsteps of the Flock."

SOME SAMPLES.

In his sermon on the text: "Consider the lilies of the field," Matt. 6: 28. After a striking introduction, the reading of which always makes this exile homesick for the land of his birth, Dr. Morrison says:

"Now in this matter there is one thing which strikes me, and that is the contrast between Christ and Paul. You never feel that Paul is at home in the country. You always feel that Paul is at home in the city. Country life did not appeal to Paul; it did not flash into spiritual suggestion as he viewed it. He heard the groans of a travailing creation, but he did not love it to its minutest feature. It was the city which appealed to Paul, with its great and crying problems of humanity, with its pageantry and its murmuring and its stir, with its crowds that would gather when one began to preach. The kingdom of heaven is not like a seed to Paul; the kingdom of heaven is like some noble building. When he would illustrate the things of grace, he does not turn to the vine or the lily. He turns to the soldier polishing his armour; to the gladiator fighting before ten thousand eyes; to the free-born citizen whose civic charter had been won in the senate of imperial Rome. I need hardly wait to indicate to you how different this is from Christ's procedure. Not in the city did Jesus find His parables, save when He saw the children in the market-place. He found them in the clustering of the vine. He found them in the springing of the corn. He found them in the lake where boats were rocking, and in the glow of sunset and of sunrise. He found them in the birds that wheeled above Him—in the fig-tree—in the fowl of the farmyard. He found them in the lily of the field, with which even Solomon could not compare.

It is for that reason that when the springtime comes I always thank God that Christ was bred at Nazareth. We owe far more to that quiet home at Nazareth than some of us may be ready to acknowledge.

Paul was a native of Tarsus—no mean city. It was a place like Glasgow, the seat of a wide commerce, Paul was a city boy, bred among city streets, familiar with crowds since he had eyes to see. And though the gardens of a Roman city were very beautiful in their arrangement, yet gardens and fountains are a sorry substitute for the lone glen and the silence of the hills. But in the providence of God, Christ was a country child. There was no 'Please keep off the grass' at Nazareth. Trespassers were never prosecuted on the hills there, as they ought never to be in any country..

And it was there that Jesus spent His boyhood—keen-eyed, quick-hearted, loving all God's creatures, moving as if at home, where all was beautiful, and praying best because He loved it all. That is the note which you detect at once when you come to the public ministry of Jesus."

MORRISON THE MODERATOR.

When the United Free Church in Scotland conferred upon Dr. Morrison the highest honor within her power, she, at the same time, honored herself: for no man in all the land had a better right to that office on the ground of work done; and it is certain that no man will better grace the position than this prince of present-day Presbyterian preachers. Under his wise leadership the United Free Church ought to have one of the best years in its history. When a man of this kind is called to occupy such a position we are interested to see what his opening address will deal with: and in his case we are neither surprised nor disappointed.

MORRISON AND REVIVAL.

In a recent number of The Life of Faith, there is an interesting paragraph which I shall quote in full. It reads as follows: "In his opening address as Moderator of the United Free Church, Dr. George H. Morrison dealt with the important question of a spiritual revival. He believes, and he explained that his faith draws strength from history, that such a time of revival was at hand. Anyone who had studied the great revival movements of the past—and the history of the Church, was little else than the story of revivals—was aware that such great times had always come amid peculiar national conditions. They had come in times of national transition, when new conceptions of society were surging in the minds of men, when new classes, hitherto inaudible and powerless, were rising into power, when the social fabric was rent and torn by forces which, seemingly disruptive and destructive, were really the passionate cry of the human spirit for fair dealing, for personal liberty, for justice. Such was the period of St. Francis. Such the epoch of the Reformation. Such the national condition in the days of Wesley.

And the coldest historian admitted now that, in an England seething with unrest and with rebellion Wesley did more to save his country from bloody revolution than all the statecraft of his time. He must be blind indeed Dr. Morrisson continued who failed to recognise in the prevailing conditions of to-day the features which had characterised the great revival periods of history. Therefore did he strongly hold that the first duty of the Church to-day—the greatest service she could render to a divided and distracted country—was not merely to give good advice not merely to pray for peace and brotherhood or to offer ineffectual suggestions but recognising the signs of the times to have vision to stand a-tiptoe with expectancy to give Heaven no rest till its windows were opened by a hand that is not reluctant and till not by might nor by power but by My Spirit saith the Lord there was granted us a national revival of religion.

This would not settle strikes. This would not, as by any magic touch, change the storm into a calm. But it would give the atmosphere the calmer and kindlier air in which, with a new sense of human values and of duties and of responsibilities, men would draw together, lay aside their bitterness, often so justifiable, and move into that general deep harmony of spirit without which pecae was but a fleeting shadow."

WHAT WE OWE TO REVIVALS.

I have seen it stated that almost one-half of the Presbyterian membership found Christ in the time of revival; that at least one-half of the Presbyterian ministry came into the Church in times of special interest, and when some years ago the Presbyterian Alliance met in Philadelphia, it was recorded in the Minutes of that great meeting, that seven-eighths of the members of all Presbyterian bodies came to Christ at the time of an awakening.

That was the testimony of the late Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman one of the most cultured and successful evangelists the Christian Church has ever had.

Religious revivals or awakenings are phenomena of life as old as nations! To them is due the major portion of Christian progress. Our hope of the world's conversion—if we have any such hope—must be a dream if religious progress is to be measured by that of the intervals between these great awakenings of the popular heart.

Somebody has said that a pulpit not adjusted to them is like a system of husbandry not planned for a harvest. One of the saddest sights in the history of the pulpit is that of a ministry which regards revivals as abnormal, and which therefore adjusts itself in scholarly ease and refinement to the slow and well-nigh hopeless growth of periods which lie between revivals.

—Allan Fairbairn.

Revive Us Again

REVIVALS are often spoken of as an American product but such is not strictly so. It is true that American revivals have had peculiarities growing out of the national temperament and history but it is a mistake to limit them to any one country or people. Revivals are a normal working of human nature moved by supernatural forces. All the past is dotted over with them—and in the nature of things all the future must be the same.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

IS THE BOOK GENESIS AN ACCURATE ACCOUNT OF THE CREATION?

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 27. The Permanent Message of Genesis. Golden Text: Romans 8:28.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The permanent value of the book of Genesis is, as its name implies, to be found in its story of beginnings. But someone will ask, is this story of beginnings authentic? Is it a scientific record of how the world came into existence, and is it a historical record of what actually happened to a human pair who began the human family and to a few patriarchs and their retainers who lived in a distant age?

Let us say at once that the significance of the book of Genesis is far deeper than such questions as these would imply. It is primarily a history of spiritual ideals and spiritual movements.

The account of creation is not a scientific account in the sense in which we speak of science today, though one should realize that this primitive story of creation anticipates modern science in its conception of creation as a gradual and orderly process, a bringing of order out of chaos. As a basal fundamental conception, science has gone beyond that, though through the testimony of the rocks and from various other quarters, patient scientific investigation has filled in many of the details of that process.

Spiritual Forces.

But it should be remembered that this story in Genesis seeks to account for creation in a way in which modern science does not. Modern science describes the process but it does not account for the power and purpose back of the process.

What is significant in this story of Genesis is that the process of creation is assigned to spiritual forces, and these spiritual forces are found in personality. The writer postulates being at the center and soul of the universe. Is that a mere guess? Is it not rather a sublime perception of the supreme values of life? What higher fact have we in the universe than personality?

Man sees himself as a being with creative powers, with intelligence and will. Is it amazing that he should regard the world as having back of it a Creator?

Not to put a Creator back of this universe is to reverse the logic of all fact and life. What is amazing is that in the far-off past a religious writer should have expressed so sublime a philosophy of creation and life.

It is significant further, and here we have the very basis of sound religion, that the book of Genesis links this Creator with man himself. What spiritual daring there was in the man who dared to say that he was made in the image and likeness of God!

And yet this was a perfectly logical reasoning concerning God from all that man found in himself and in his own life. If God and man have not somewhere a meeting place, if there can be no communion between them, there can be no such thing as intelligent religion.

Genesis lays the foundations as deeply and securely as they can be laid. But it should be recognized that upon these foundations the book of Genesis very quickly builds a very high and noble morality.

Moral Choice.

We have, first of all, the conception of moral choice. This is the essence of the story of the so-called "fall of man." We have the noble moral conception of the sacredness of human life and the sinfulness of murder—a conception to which many in the modern world have not yet attained with the clearness with which it was asserted in this book of Genesis.

We have the conceptions of unselfishness, peaceableness and magnanimity as they are expressed in the character and deeds of Abraham. We have the conceptions of purity of life and integrity and unselfishness of purpose as expressed in the story of Joseph.

It is remarkable that out of a far distant past, pages such as these should have come that clearly and unquestionably blaze the way for the future moral and spiritual development of mankind.

Review Lesson.

Golden Text: Romans 8:28. And we know that to them that love God all things work together for good, even to them that are called according to His purpose.

CHIPS AND SHAVINGS

From The Workshop Of JOHN PLANE

WHEN I had just finished a piece of work, on which I had been working steadily for several hours, the other day, The Under Pup came into the shop with a knowing look on his face, and I felt pretty certain that I was going to hear more about question of the hour. And I was not mistaken: because he started right in to unburden himself, and he did it in the most dogmatic way possible.

He said to me—"My master was saying something the other day with which I find myself in hearty agreement. It was to the effect that there always have been inequalities among men, and there always will be. As long as all men have not the same brain power, the same ambition, and the same amount of physical energy, there will be inequalities, for which no system of economics, that is not based on pure sophistry, can offer any sort of equalizing solution."

I said, 'Pup, your master is a wise man and a close, careful observer of men and the conditions in which men find themselves. And he has hit the nail on the head this time if he never hit it before. The difficulty with so many Socialists is that they seem to carry their brains in their boots, and their boots are leaking. It would pay them better to think less with their heels and more with their heads.

With your master I have noticed that there are those who come to this North American Continent from Northern and Western Europe as poor as the proverbial 'church mice,' and after ten or twenty years they are among the most prosperous farmers, merchants and artisans. And the country is full of others, with as good opportunities staring them in the face, and the same hand of fortune beckoning them on: but they are too blind to see and too lazy to seize. They are as poor now as they were twenty years ago—many of them even closer to the ragged edge.

Let men say what they will, the difference is in the quality and character of the men, and not in the times, lack of opportunity, nor in the much talked of unequal economic conditions. What one man can do to attain success can be done by every other man if the quality of the men is the same. No man need be the creature of his circumstances. He can rise above the most adverse circumstances and make them contribute to his ultimate success if his wish-bone is not where his back-bone ought to be.

Then the Pup said to me, "If I weren't a dog but a man I would stump the country in the interests of the working-man. I might have difficulty in getting him to listen to me at first: for I have noticed that he is more prone to listeh to fools than he is to listen to philosophers. But I would stay on the job until h: did take notice. I would not deny that there are victimising economic conditions in the industrial and social world, but I should certainly try my best to get him to see that our personal condition is more the result of natural causes than of anything else."

"Yes sir! If I could stimulate the working-man to the point that he could see that he could also be somebody if he would shake off his lethargy, take something for his liver, and launch out for individual success, it would not be long before he agreed that it was a good day for him the day he listened to my barking and biting remarks."

"Even if I am only a dog, and men know me as "The Under Pup," I have picked up enough common sense in the school of hard knocks to know that there is success ahead for every man if he will keep in the middle of the road and not sit down too often to rest. If he will do this, and get off the Groucher's Bench, he will run down success and be a better dispositioned individual in the end."

"I can remember my Master saying to me one day when we were talking over such matters as I have been discussing with you. Let the simple fact—that what you will be in fortune in fifteen years from to-day depends on what you do, how you live, and what you are between times—let that homely truth "stick to the ribs," and you will begin to depend on yourself as to where, in the world of fortune, you finally land."

It was a wise man who said "The only way you can get rich quick is to do big things or rob somebody. Fortune, like genius, comes at the end of a long road of self-sacrifice and hard, incessant work. Lie idle and growl, and you will lose: work, sing, save, and you will win."

How the sting of poverty, or small means, is gone when one keeps house for one's own comfort, and not for the comfort of one's neighbors.

LIFE TRUTH HAPPINESS

Standard For The People

Millions Now Living Will Never Die

"The world lacks leadership"—this is the plaint of statesmen and philosophers, teachers and ministers, editors and politicians; and educators the world over are trying to solve the problem in a variety of ways.

The standard which God demands of those who would be found pleasing to Him is a high one—not less than the "image of Christ." Rom. 8-29. Those who would lead the people in this period of the passing away of an old world order, and the setting up of new standards of truth, equity, justice and righteousness, must be men who are not given to self-seeking for position or power.

There is only one answer to the world's problem of leadership, and the Bible contains that answer. Hear the lecture on this subject to be given by SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1926.

ST. LUKE'S ANNIVERSARY.

How swift is the flight of time!

Tomorrow St. Luke's Anglican Church will hold the first of its jubilee services.

Fifty years have passed since St. Luke's was established, fifty years of ministering to the spiritual needs of the Anglicans of Ashburnham.

In that half century the church over the river has been the source of comfort and inspiration to many well-known citizens, and its activities have been presided over by men who have made their mark.

There have been seven rectors of St. Luke's in its fifty years of service, one of them the late Rev. Dr. Symonds, who for eleven years before passing on to greater triumphs in a larger field occupied the pulpit of St. Luke's.

In arranging the jubilee ceremonies with which the people of the church are fittingly marking the fiftieth anniversary of its founding, the rector, Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield, has been splendidly assisted by the wardens, Messrs. R. A. McKee and E. E. Lee, and by Messrs. J. J. Turner and Frank Adams.

EVERY VISITOR A REPEATER

A contemporary has the right idea about the tourist traffic question, when it suggests that it should be the business of every one in Ontario to convert all our visitors into "repeaters."

In other words, to make their visit to Ontario so pleasant that they will be glad to come back again.

The Examiner has frequently advanced the same thought in a different way, but the slogan, "Every visitor a repeater," is one that drives the idea straight home.

Ontario offers much to her visitors: Nature has seen to it that in this respect there is nothing lacking.

It is the human contact we must be careful about; it should be regarded as a general duty to treat our friends from over the border with courtesy and consideration, deal with them fairly in the matter of charges and as efficiently as possible in point of service.

It will keep coming year after year, steadily increasing indeed, if the visitors are made to feel that they are coming among people who are genuinely glad to see them, not among those who regard them merely as birds to be plucked.

CIRCUS COURTESY.

Once more has the intensive and businesslike organization of a mammoth circus impressed the people of Peterboro.

The visit of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's big shows yesterday was a revelation in the efficiency and smoothness with which the whole circus machinery was operated.

A better example of the effectiveness of co-ordination and co-operation could not be found than this great organization.

And perhaps even more striking than this businesslike functioning of the huge plant was the courteous bearing of everybody connected with the circus.

Ticket men, ushers, candy "butchers," canvas men, animal attendants—in fact, the whole personnel were courteous and polite.

There was none of the careless language so often heard around the circus lot, no snapping at confused patrons.

The staff in general acted as though every visitor was an honoured guest, and the impression made upon the thousands of patrons was a lasting one.

The big show will be remembered for this courteous treatment of its customers long after the thrills of its sensational and spectacular programme have been forgotten.

A "NO ACCIDENT" VACATION

The Ontario Safety League has issued a very timely letter addressed to the parents of the Province, asking for their co-operation in making this a "No Accident" Vacation.

The figures quoted are arresting.

1. Drownings, 307.
2. Automobiles, trucks and motor cycles, 298.
3. Falls, 146.
4. Railways, 79.
5. Burns and scalds, 71.
6. Fires, 60.
7. Gas poisoning, 45.
8. Gun shot, 35.

Against these and other hazards the League is appealing to parents to protect themselves and their families.

It should be the duty of every parent to teach his children to be more thoughtful and more careful; teach them to avoid accidents.

The careful child of to-day will be the careful man or woman of tomorrow, so that every adult should regard it as his duty to set an example to children and show them how to do things safely.

One-third of these are children under 16 years of age.

The League is doing a great public service in seeking to impress upon parents everywhere the need of reducing this heavy annual death toll.

DIFFERENT WORLDS.

By different worlds we refer not to the differences arising out of geographical position, climatic conditions, nationality or any of those outward things, but conditions which we may find without going from home to far-away and strange lands—to what we may discover in our own city or community. We may live next door to a man and still not live in the same world as that man. Have we never realized, as we have listened to the conversation of some of our noisy and voluble fellow-travellers, how every different is their world from ours? The things with which their world is filled, if not unfamiliar to us, have little or no interest for us. They are not a part of our world. The world in which these people live, move and have their being is not our world at all. Our thinking and speaking, our interests, our friendships, our ambitions and hopes lie entirely along other lines. We are as far away from some of those who live on the same street or, it may be, in the same house with us, as if we were in another world altogether. The barriers which seas and continents have raised between us in the physical world have been almost annihilated by the modern means of communication and of travel. Space no longer keeps us apart. Other barriers of a more subtle character have been largely removed by social conditions and the levelling process of education.

But no one is able to bridge the gulf that separates the man of refined tastes, of lofty ideals and spiritual mind, from his neighbor of low nature and beastly instincts. The two live in altogether different worlds, and no similarity in outward surroundings or worldly circumstances could bring them closer to each other.

We need not argue the question of different worlds in the life to come while these different worlds exist in the present life. The fact of the matter is that the world in which we live is largely within us. Either "my mind to me a kingdom is," or it is a place where anarchy reigns. We cannot judge men by their outward appearance or by their worldly estate. We would need to know the thoughts and the desires and the inner life of a man, to be able to say to what kingdom he belongs and what is the nature of the world in which he lives. There is a sort of spiritual gravitation going on in the world all the time by which men and women inevitably find their own places. Like draws to like, and men themselves, by their own choices and preferences, determine to what world they belong. There is nothing arbitrary or of the nature of fate in the lines which divide us, either in this life or in that which is to come. We make these choices as freely as we select our friends or decide our country or our calling.—The New Outlook.

"PEOPLE TAKE CHANCES."

"Throughout North America the population of a whole city is wiped out every year," said the Official Bulletin of the Roads Department of the Province of Quebec recently in commenting upon records of casualties due to automobile accidents. The publication asserted that in 1924 in the United States and Canada 19,000 people were killed and 450,000 were injured in motor accidents, and that in 1925 in the two countries 23,000 were killed and 600,000 were injured. "Will 1926 reveal an increase proportionate to that of 1925 over 1924?" asks the publication.

The Bulletin cited the figures and asked the question by way of a warning to drivers of motor vehicles not to "trifle with human life." In that connection a statement issued a few days ago by the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners is worthy of note. That statement contains a record of risks of accidents run by drivers of motor vehicles and other conveyances and by pedestrians at railway crossings. "The Canadian National Railway lines," says the Railway Board's statement, "from May 25, 1925, to May 12, 1926, show 124 cases where there was danger at protected crossings due to the negligence of those using the crossings." The cases, it will be observed, did not occur at unprotected level crossings in the country. They included only instances of negligence at crossings where watchmen are stationed, or gates are installed or some other device has been provided for the protection of the public. "The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo lines, from July 16, 1925, to October 25, 1925," the statement continued, "show five cases. The Canadian Pacific lines, from February 1, 1925, to January 31, 1926, show 239 cases of dangerous practises by automobile drivers, 496,026 by pedestrians, and 38,850 cases of bicycles passing under lowered gates." The statement discussing these figures reaches the conclusion "notwithstanding safety devices and cautionary signals, people take chances and disregard safety." It deals with only one situation in which persons described as "culpably negligent motorists" and others display recklessness. There are other situations in which such persons "take chances and disregard safety." Furthermore, there are other pastimes besides motoring in which serious accidents from time to time occur. The newspapers of Monday, June 21st, disclosed that seventeen persons had been drowned in the Dominion during the preceding two days. Six men, it is true, perished when a dredge capsized in a gale off the coast of Nova Scotia. They may have been facing the hazards of their occupation. Ten of the remaining eleven persons, young men and women, on the other hand, all lost their lives through the upsetting of small pleasure craft—rowboats or canoes. Youth is venturesome. At least one of the accidents, the newspaper reports indicated, was due to an attempt by a party of very young pleasure-seekers to navigate an overcrowded boat on rough water.

Not alone in motoring do "people take chances." The tale of lives lost through boating accidents in one week-end is a large one. It may well serve as a warning to those who are fond of aquatic sports not to run unnecessary risks in the season now before them. No one, seeking enjoyment on the highways or on the lakes and rivers of the country, is justified in uselessly placing his own life in jeopardy. Still less is he justified in taking chances with the lives of other people as the stake.—The Mail and Empire.

EDITORIA LNOTES AND COMMENT.

Wear a maple leaf on Dominion Day.

With the circus over, the next big event is the Peterboro Rotary Club Carnival during the week of July 5th. A big week's fun in aid of a big cause.

In yesterday's ball game at Kingston the Ponies scored as many runs as there are vacant ridings in Ontario, and the Petes just as many as the number of by-elections announced by Premier Ferguson. Yes, that's right, 7 to 0.

Modern fables: Once there was a small boy who didn't want to go to the circus.

WESTWOOD NEWS

WESTWOOD, June 26.—A miscellaneous shower was given in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Manley. The country for miles around was well represented by the young people. The gifts were numerous and showed the esteem in which the young couple are held by the community.

Mr. Manley expressed their joint appreciation and thanks in a short but fiting reply. Everyone enjoyed a few hours of dancing and refreshments were served at the midnight hour.

Mr. A. Fleming of Colborne spent a few days this week with her mother, Mrs. Comstock.

W. Cannan of Niaagra Falls spent Sunday with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson spent Friday in Peterboro.

Mrs. William Renwick spent a few days this wek with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., June 25 (Canadian Press)—The feature of the export grain trade in Montreal yesterday was the demand from New York exporters for Manitoba spring wheat and considerable business was done direct with Winnipeg. Sales included No. 1 northern at sixteen cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, No. 2 northern at twelve cents over, and No. 3 northern at seven cents over, C.I.F Montreal. Canadian western oats sold at 6 1-4 cents per bushel over, No. 1 feed oats at two cents per bushel over, and No. 2 feed oats at 1 1-4 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, C.I.F. Montreal.

In sympathy with the further weakness in the Winnipeg future market for oats, spot prices for car lots were easier at a decline of 1-2 cent per bushel. The demand was moderate.

Another high spot of the export trade was the general improvement in the demand for ocean grain room from this port which resulted in engagements of about 100 loads at 2s 9d to 3c 3d per quarter for heavy grain to United Kingdom ports for July loading, and at 2s 6d to 3s per quarter for oats. On the whole the market was more active than any other day this season and the prospects for the future movement from this port are more encouraging.

The foreign trade in spring wheat flour was fair but the local demand was quiet. Prices were unchanged. Extreme dullness marked the winter wheat situation but prices ruled steady.

An unsettled feeling prevailed in the millfeed market and millers in some cases have cut their prices a further 50c to $1.00 per ton. A fair volume of business was transacted.

While the tone of the potato market was steady at the recent declines noted, indications point to a further reduction in the near future. The trade was quiet.

Considerable business was transacted in eggs and prices were steady. The receipts were 1,263 cases.

Owing to the more liberal supplies of butter coming forward, the market was again easier and prices scored another decline of 1-4 cent per pound. The receipts were 4,862 packages.

The export trade in cheese continued good and a fair volume of business was transacted. The undertone to the spot market was easier and prices suffered a fractional decline. The receipts were 10,879 boxes.

The demand for beans was quiet and the market was firm. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.25 per bushel, and broken lots at $2.35 to $3.45 per bushel.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, June 26—The record for good business at the Union Stock Yard was changed this week and prices of most stocks were lower with not too active a market and a number of cattle were unsold. Cattle receipts were about 8,000 had, but of these about 1,000 were western feeders and stocks. Rogers and Maybee wanted only 350 export steers for the week and these were obtained without difficulty at 25 cents a cwt. lower than last week. Top steers were $9.25 a cwt., but the bulk were bought around $8.50 a cwt. and some were had as low as $8 a cwt.

The inquiry for handyweight butchers was responsible, but packers were less keen in their bids and these were bought at about the same concession as that on heavy steers. A few very choice handyweights sold at $9.50 a cwt., but late in the week good butchers were had in quantity at $8 to $8.25 and mediums from $7 to $7.75 a cwt. In the butchers' cows the decline was more marked and only real choice cows sold over $6 a cwt. and good cows were down 50 cents to 75 cents a cwt.

Baby beeves were marketed freely from $8 to $11 a cwt., but anything above $10 a cwt., had to be exceptionally good and stockers and feeders were slow and lower by 25 to 50 cents a cwt. The quality was not the wanted kind and several loads were unsold on Thursday. There are still a good many stable cattle in the country and any of the export kind should have a fair market next week as Rogers and Maybee expect orders for double the number bought this week. Grass cattle should be well finished if the shipper desires any competition for his consignments.

The calf market has been weak, due partly to a poor demand for Buffalo where tops have been selling at 12 1-2 cents a pound. At the close here choice calves are only good for about 11 cents a pound; good calves are 10 cents, mediums 8 to 9 cents and common calves are 6 to 7 cents.

Lambs were a little firmer on Monday and Tuesday with choice up to 18 cents. Later tops were not better than 17 cents, but the quality was not as good. Cull lambs are about 13 cents a pound. Heavy sheep have been weak at 4 1-2 and 5 cents a pound.

Hogs were dropped just below $14 a cwt. f.o.b. on Monday, but Tuesday forward $14 a cwt. was paid and the prospects are that this figure will stand good for Monday.

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, June 26 (Canadian Press) — Sudden expansion of the movement of newly harvested wheat southwest, combined with apparent defeat of farm relief legislation, tumbled down grain values yesterday, especially wheat. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1 1-8 to 3 3-8c net lower; corn 1-2 to 1c down; oats, 3-8 to 1-2c off, and provisions showing five cents to 30c decline.

Arrivals of wheat yesterday at Wichita, Kansas, alone totaled 350 cars, and at Hutchinson, Kansas, expects 450 cars on Monday. Under such circumstances, selling pressure in the wheat market here began to broaden out almost from the start and with favorable crop reports at hand, the market rapidly receded.

Lowest prices of the day in the wheat market were current at the finish. This fact was largely due to an evident general tendency to increase estimates of yield both in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Owing chiefly to action of the Senate regarding the McNary-Haugen bill, corn fell to new low price records for the season. Oats followed other wheat and corn down grade.

Despite buying of lard for cotton oil interests, the provision market was responsive to grain weakness.

BUTTER MARKET

MONTREAL, Que., June 26 (Canadian Press) — On the local curb market yesterday there were 1,200 packages creamery butter offered which were settled for at 33 3-4c per lb. for No. 1 pasteurized, at 32 3-4c per lb. for No. 1 unpasteurized and at 31 3-4c per lb. for No. 2 grades. There was no business done in cheese.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., June 26 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand—$4.85 3-8.

Sterling cables—$4.85 7-8.

CHEESE MARKETS

Danville, Que., June 26 (Canadian Press)—At yesterday's meeting of the Danville Cheese Board 1,169 boxes of cheese were offered and all sold at 17 1-4c.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

PHILOSOPHY—2.

We make our charts, then, according to inspiration or desire. But when it comes to advising a mariner where he may venture with a valuable ship, according to her draught, then it is essential that words should be chosen with care, and the student warned to note with unusual caution every qualitative parenthesis. There can be no casual and friendly agreement to differ about the truth when the question concerned is a coral reef in five fathoms and a ship drawing thirty feet. One must be able to asure a sailor either that his ship can do it, or he must be told that he may not try. Yet with what confidence each of us will venture to pilot others in the more dangerous, the more alluring, and the supremely frustrating elements of morality and aesthetics!—H. M. Tomlinson in his rare and beautiful book, "Tide Marks".

LAUNDERING STREET CARS.

Washing street cars is a more difficult job for a subway company than for one that operates surface equipment. The iron dust that subway cars accumulate during their trips oxydizes in wet weather and causes stains on the exterior paint of the car. Many surface lines maintain cleaning stations through which each car passes daily. There the outside of the car is sprayed with water from perforated pipes and employees with mops and cloths do the drying.

BISHOPS ARRIVE AT COMPROMISE

NOT FOR ADORATION.

LONDON, June 26 (Canadian Press).—The conference of Anglican bishops at Lambeth Palace, residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, are reported to have arrived at a compromise on the question of reservation of the sacrament. It is believed the decision avoids the rigid position taken by the extremists on either side. The agreement will not extend beyond making permissible the reservation of the sacrament for the sick and others prevented from attending church service, it is expected.

The great question is whether the half-million Anglo-Catholics will accept the settlement. The Daily News says that the report that they will go over to the Roman Catholic Church is unaccepted in well-informed quarters.

Evangelical members of the Church of England are certain to continue their campaign against instituting reservation as a settled practice of the church, and will probably appeal to the House of Commons and House of Lords to discard the bill providing for the revised prayer book.

This party, led by the venerable but still vigorous Bishop E. A. Knox, Bishop of Manchester from 1903 to 1921, stoutly maintains that it is impossible to allow reservation of the sacrament while fobidding adoration. Some Anglo-Catholics indeed do not hide their desire for adoration to become a rule of Anglicanism.

MONEY NEEDED TRAIN SETTLERS

SCHEME EXCELLENT.

LONDON, June 26. — "When I get back to Canada I am going to take up with our Government the question of spending more money and devoting more energy for the development of the British scheme of training agriculturists here as emigrants for Canada," said E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to the British United Press yesterday.

"I think the scheme is an excellent one," he said, "because it gives the prospective emigrant sufficient training to give him confidence in himself when he goes to Canada and thus reduces his risk of failure and eliminates a great deal of the discouraging outlook which often faces the untrained emigrant, but the scope of this effort must be widened and increased, and I feel that the Canadian Government in co-operation with Great Britain can insure a stream of emigrants of excellent quality from this source."

"So far as shipbuilding is concerned, the British worker maintains all his old craftsmanship. No other shipbuilder in the world can equal him for this and also for the durability of the work turned out. That is why the Canadian Pacific places its contracts here." Mr. Beatty also expressed the belief that Canada's financial relationship with London will soon be restored to its pre-war basis, offsetting the present inflow of American capital. He also complained about the small amount of Canadian news published in British newspapers, saying that even the little published was inadequate and in the main unimportant. However, he is inclined to blame Canadians for this, saying "we should keep Englishmen informed with regard to all our developments."

VISITING OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 26.—(Canadian Press.)—"The coal strike has caused the worse setback to the poultry industry in England," declared Sydney L. Lemer, president of the British section of the World's Poultry Congress, and joint editor of the Feathered World, London, England, in an interview yesterday.

"Ordinarily the coal miner in England is a natural poultry fancier. He always wishes for the best breed, especially when it came to a fighting cock." As a result there had been a great demand from this quarter, which the coal strike had practically stopped. Under the existing conditions the miner was forced to sell his high breed fowl to obtain money with which to buy food.

That it will out-accelerate, out-pull and out-perform any other car of its size or weight or price class.

HERE is a remarkable new-type car . . . different in performance, comfort and driving-ease from anything you have ever known before.

It is a complete new departure in automobile engineering. That is why it is offered on the unqualified basis that it will out-pull and out-accelerate any other car of its size and weight and price class.

Don't take our word for it. Don't take anybody's word for it. We will place a car at your disposal. Drive and test it yourself. You choose the road. You pick the hill. You fix the traffic point. You name the ruts, the turns, the mud, the sand. What you'll find will be a revelation.

Brilliant Performance

You can drive the Overland Six at an average road speed of 50 to 60 miles an hour without excessive wear on the engine. It will pick up in high gear from 5 to 40 miles an hour in 21 seconds.

The motor is a new-type power plant—hung low in the chassis to give a straight line drive. Its advanced type full-pressure oiling system eliminates friction . . . lubricates each part in a continuous bath of oil.

This modern engineering has also made possible a lower centre of gravity . . . thus keeping the weight of the car down close to the ground. Without side-sway, slipping or wandering, it is always under perfect control.

As you look up at the heavy, cumbersome, bulky cars you pass on the road, you will realize what it means in performance, in comfort, in downright satisfaction to own a modern car such as this Overland Six.

The Overland Six will turn in a forty-foot circle. Rear springs are underslung and 52 inches long. 141 square inches of braking surface provide an ample safety margin.

Exceptional Comfort

It has more inside space. More cubic feet than the average car of this price, due to the extra long wheel base. The result is ample comfort for 5 full-size passengers . . . The seats are wider, the windows larger, the doors much broader. The exceptional quality throughout the car is indicated by the luxurious velour upholstery.

You owe it to yourself to find out what this Overland Six offers before you buy any car today. You will be agreeably surprised at the low prices of the Overland Six Touring, Coupe, Coach and Sedan. Excise tax reductions and list price adjustments on these cars range from $45 to $100.

ST. LUKE'S ANGLICAN CHURCH JUBILEE

East City Congregation Fifty Years Old Celebrates Birthday in Fitting Ceremony

Interesting History Reprinted From Parish Magazines of Long Ago—Members Have Shown Themselves Loyal To God and Their Country.

MANY GIFTS BRIGHTEN CHURCH LIFE AND ADD TO BEAUTY OF EDIFICE

Scores of Faithful Workers United Through Years in Upbuilding of Parish—Additions and Improvements Made —Many Distinguished Men in Charge.

(Compiled from vestry records and other sources, by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., fourth rector of St. Luke's.)

The parish of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, was formed chiefly through the exertions and by the liberality of the late Rev. Mark Burnham, B.A., who not only gave the site for a church, but also aided largely in its erection, and for two years contributed generously to the clergyman's support. The first service was held on the 9th of July, 1876, the late Bishop of Toronto, Right Reverend Dr. Bethune, officiating in the morning, and the first incumbent, the late Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, preaching his first sermon in the evening. The only building then erected was a small school room.

The first Vestry Meeting was held on Thursday, July 13th, 1876, at which the following gentlemen were present: Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Rev. Mark Burnham, Messrs. H. T. Strickland, Jacob Friend, A. Ingram, John Burnham, Wm. Mills, J. Z. Rogers, G. C. Rogers, A. H. Peck.

The first Wardens then elected were Mr. H. T. Strickland, People's Warden, and Mr. John Burnham, Rector's Warden, who held their office for twenty-one consecutive years. Mr. G. C. Rogers was the first Vestry Clerk.

The following items of interest are noted:

It was decided to name the Church, "St. Luke, the Evangelist."

Mr. Jacob Friend volunteered to act as sexton, free of charge.

Rev. Mark Burnham offered to build a driving shed, which offer was gratefully accepted.

Very soon the little school-house was found inadequate to the needs of the constantly increasing congregation, and at a congregational meeting held on Monday, September 4th, 1876, it was unanimously decided to build a new church. A committee, consisting of Rev. Mark Burnham, Messrs. H. T. Strickland, Mark Curtis, and John Burnham was elected to take all necessary steps in obtaining funds, providing plans and letting contracts for the erection of a church for the parish.

The foundation stone was laid on Ascension Day, May 10th, 1877. A special service was prepared for the occasion.

The Church was opened under auspicious circumstances on September 23rd, 1877, and subsequently consecrated in May 1878, all indebtedness having been removed.

The preacher on this occasion was Rev. Canon Stennett.

At the Easter Vestry Meeting in 1878, the reports gave much encouragement and proved to be highly favorable, showing a marked progress in every department of Church life.

At this meeting thanks were tendered to Wm. McCullough and others for their kind gift of a Communion Service; to Hon. George A. Cox for his kindness in insuring the Church premises for three years free of charge; and to Mr. Rogers for the gift of a stove for the school room.

On May 17th, 1877, the Rev. Mark Burnham, the generous and loyal friend and supporter of St. Luke's, was called to his well-earned rest, aged seventy-three years. He was buried in the Little Lake Cemetery on May 19th, the Rev. Messrs. Beck, Clementi and Bradshaw officiating. Subsequently, a memorial window in memory of Rev. M. Burnham was placed in the Chancel by his friends.

Mr. William Wand presented the Church with a pulpit, and the Ladies' Aid Society presented to the Church a font. Both gifts were received in 1877.

The Church bell was given by the Sunday School scholars.

At the Easter Vestry in 1878, the first Assistant Wardens were elected in the persons of Messrs. H. C. Burrit, M.D., and Henry Denne, Esq.

At this meeting Messrs. H. A. Peck and Henry Denne were appointed Auditors.

First Sunday School.

The first record of the Sunday School is found in the Vestry report of 1878, when a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. George C. Rogers, for his efficient and untiring services as its first Superintendent.

Harvest Thanksgiving Services were inaugurated on Sept. 26th, 1879, and the Church decorated for the first time.

A Committee to raise funds for the purpose of obtaining a pipe organ was also appointed at this meeting, consisting of Messrs. H. C. Burrit, M.D., H. H. Smith, John Butcher and J. Z. Rogers.

Two memorial windows were placed in the church in 1879, by Richard White, Esq., of Montreal, in memory of Thomas and Dorothea White, who died in 1877 and 1872, respectively.

The Envelope System was introduced in 1879.

Messrs. C. Crowe, Abs. Ingraham and J. Heap were the first Sidesmen.

In 1880 a Pipe Organ was placed in the Church, Mr. W. J. Hallett being the organist.

In the same year steps were taken to raise funds for the building of a parsonage. The efforts in this matter were so successful that the first Rector could occupy a handsome brick parsonage in 1881.

In 1882, two other memorial windows were placed in the Church in memory of Mr. Charles Bertram Orde, who died August 24, 1872, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers, who died September 20-

In 1883, a memorial window was placed in the Church in memory of Mrs. Isabelle Balfour Calcutt, who died March 3rd, 1881.

Mrs. Soanes presented a brass Alms Dish to the Church in 1884. Silver Offertory Plates were also donated by unknown friends.

The first public Baptism took place in the Church on August 27th, 1876, the person baptized being Joseph Samuel, son of Joseph and Mary Ann Phillips.

The first marriage was celebrated on August 17th, 1876, the contracting parties being Thomas White and Mary Ann O'Neill. At both ordinances the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw officiated.

The first appointment of Lay Reade, and Catechists dates from March 31st 1880, Messrs. H. C. Burrit, M.D., and G. C. Rogers receiving the appointment.

In March, 1880, a monthly issue of a Parish Magazine was begun. A very interesting publication called Church Work, edited in Halifax, N.S., was used as a centre, while the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw edited a cover, which contained parochial matters of interest to Church and people. The first subscribers to this Parish Magazine were Mrs. H. C. Burritt, Mrs. M. Clementi, Mrs. T. Lannin, Mrs. J. B. Clementi, Messrs. J. Butcher, R. Nimmo, H. H. Smith, J. Ball, A. Ingram, H. Robinson, H. C. Rogers, E. Morgan, J. Howden and R. Taylor.

In the April number of 1880 we notice in the Parish Magazine the first reference to prize-takers in the Sunday School. They were W. Rogers, John Canning, John Maniece, John Murray, W. Carter, H. Milliken, Henry Adams, Albert Milliken, Stella Bennett, Florence Burritt, Lilly Wigester, Maggie Rummings, George Chrowe, Willie Ball, J. Cuningham, Maggie Milliken, Lizzie Long, Victoria Maniece, W. Cunningham, George Mills, Fannie Ball, Katie Stroud, E. Shields, Louie Calcutt, David Chrowe, Alex. Carter, Eva Strain, Bella Maniece, Annie Denne, Lizzie Tighe, Lizzie Long, Maggie Long and W. Armstrong.

Sad were the circumstances that surrounded the untimely death of one of the most faithful and loyal members of St. Luke's, the much lamented Mr. George C. Rogers. On April 20th, 1883, his sudden death by drowning occurred. His body was not found until May 6th. "He was such a noble character, and he was such an earnest and devout churchman, so cheerful and unassuming, so bright and happy and helpful to all, in church and Sunday school, in business and social life and recreation, that our loss as a congregation and community is, humanly speaking, irreparable," were the words which Mr. Bradshaw uttered when he alluded to this sad death at a memorial service held in St. Luke's on April 29th. He was buried May 7th, 1883.

On the occasion of the 7th anniversary held on July 9th, 1883, Mr. Bradshaw was presented with an address and ten volumes of "The Speaker's Commentary," and Mrs. Bradshaw with a silver fruit dish, as a tribute of esteem and regard for their labours since the inception of the parish.

First Rectory.

Through the liberality of the congregation, aided by the generous anonymous donation of a member, an endowment was raised and the parish constituted a rectory, the first incumbent, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw being duly inducted as Rector by the Bishop of Toronto, on the 26th of October, 1884.

In September, 1885, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith presented to St. Luke's a beautiful brass lectern, containing this inscription "To the glory of God and for services much appreciated."

In 1885, the old school-room was torn down, it being found too small for the increasing number of Sunday School scholars. A very commodious and well designed structure was erected, with library and infant-class room according to the most modern ideas. The cornerstone was laid by John Burnham, Esq., October 22nd, 1885.

The members of St. Luke's Church are not only loyal to their God, but also to their country. In 1885, when the Riel rebellion unsettled the country, Messrs. M. B. Orde, A. B. Rogers, Joseph Chrowe, Thos. Graham and A. G. Tytler, responded to the call to arms and served their country faithfully in the suppression of the rebellion. They returned safe and sound on July 19th.

Two memorial windows were placed in the Church in memory of Mr. and Mrs. William Mills and Miss Clara Mills, who died in 1886 and 1887, the Misses Mills being the donors of the same.

August 29th, 1886, the last service in the old chancel was held. Reconstruction began at once: the Chancel which had been very small, was enlarged to double its size, cathedral glass windows with suitable emblems were put in and a new carpet, the gift of the Ladies' Aid Society, provided. Dr. Burritt presented a beautiful Corona.

New Chancel Opened.

The formal opening of the new Chancel was held on Dec. 12th, 1886. The Rev. Rural Dean Allen, M.A., (the present Ven. Archdeacon of Peterborough), was the special preacher that day.

The faithful sexton, Mr. Jacob Friend, who volunteered his services without remuneration at the commencement of the new parish, died January 30th, 1888.

In 1888, the present organ was purchased and placed in the Church.

On Monday evening, October 8th, 1888, a meeting was held at which Rev. W. C. Bradshaw was made the recipient of an address and a cheque for two hundred dollars, in order that he might take a well-earned rest and strengthen his health. Mr. Bradshaw had received instructions from his medical advisers to rest entirely from his duties, and spend the winter in a warmer climate.

Mr. Bradshaw spent the winter in Denver, Colorado, returning in June, 1889. During the absence of Mr. Bradshaw, the Rev. George Warren, B.A., was the "locum tenens."

In April, 1889, the Rev. G. Warren received the appointment of Incumbent of the parish of Lakefield. At the Vestry meeting a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Warren was passed for his care and attention to the Church and parish as Curate-in-Charge.

In August, 1889, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw was again compelled, by poor health, to leave his parish to seek restoration in another climate.

In August 25th, 1889, the Rev. J. W. McCleary took charge of St. Luke's Parish as "locum tenens."

In January, 1890, the Hon. Robert Hamilton died, one of St. Luke's most generous and faithful members. He had been a communicant of St. Luke's since its inception, and his death removed from the Church a very earnest and sincere friend.

A letter dated April 3, 1890, and sent from Jarvis Hall, St. John's College, Denver, Colorado, was received by the Vestry of St. Luke's, in which Rev. Mr. Bradshaw tendered his resignation on account of ill-health. The resignation was reluctantly and with much regret accepted by the congregation among whom Mr. Bradshaw had so faithfully labored for fourteen years.

From July 6th up to July 27th, Mr. Bradshaw was once more with his people, before leaving for Denver, Colorado.

At a Vestry meeting held April 14th, 1890, the Rev. J. W. McCleary was offered the position of Rector of the parish, which he, with the consent of the Bishop, accepted.

In the March number of the Parish Magazine of 1891 appears this item: "The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw has built a "St. Luke's Church" in connection with the military school, called St. Luke's, in which he has a vested choir."

In February, 1892, the new furnace was put into the basement of the Church.

In March, 1892, the Parish Church Work, the magazine which Rev. Mr. Bradshaw adopted for circulation, was changed by Mr. McCleary, and another, called "The Church Monthly" adopted.

Rev. W. J. McCleary resigned the Rectorship of St. Luke's on account of the uncertain condition of his health, at the Vestry meeting held April 18th, 1892. The retiring Rector during his charge had won many friends who admired his kindness of heart, his firmness of purpose and his many noble qualities of head, heart and hands.

A committee, appointed by the Vestry to consider the selection of a successor to Mr. McCleary, met the congregation at a meeting held on April 25th, and recommended that Rev. Herbert Symonds, M.A., Professor of Theology in Trinity College, Toronto, be invited to become St. Luke's Rector, subject to the approval of the Bishop.

New Rector.

Rev. Herbert Symonds, M.A., accepted the position of Rector of St. Luke's in a letter sent to the Wardens. A Peterborough paper in alluding to the appointment says: "Rev. Prof. Symonds is a young man of unusual ability, implied by his appointment to the important position which he now holds, and which he fills to the satisfaction of all concerned, and which he might continue to fill, did not his preference lie in the direction of parish work."

On May 15th, 1892, Rev. H. Symonds preached for the first time at St. Luke's, and on Monday, May 16th, a reception was tendered him by the congregation. From May till September, 1892, the parish was supplied with services by Mr. C. W. Hedley, B.A., then a student at Trinity College, who afterwards became missionary of the Mission of Otonabee.

In July, 1892, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, M.A., was appointed Rector of St. Paul's Church at Highlands, a suburb of Denver, Colorado.

St. Luke's Guild, subdivided into several chapters, was organized in January, 1893.

The Parish Magazine experienced another change in March, 1893, when "Home Words" became its centre-sheet. The paper is considerably larger in size and more interesting in its reading matter.

On September 17th, 1893, the Right Reverend T. Hunter Dunn, D.D., Lord Bishop of Quebec, preached in St. Luke's in the morning, and at an open air service on the Market Square, in Peterborough, in the afternoon.

In the September number, 1894, of the Parish paper we notice this item:—"Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, for many years Rector of St. Luke's, has fully recovered his health during his sojourn at Denver, Colorado, and has returned to Canada to take charge of Port Arthur, one of the most important parishes in the Diocese of Algoma."

In October, 1894, the brothers and sisters of the late Mary Bradfield, placed in St. Luke's Church a handsome brass reading-desk for the Altar, in memory of the departed.

In the same month the Woman's Auxiliary was formed in the parish, out of the old Dorcas Branch of the Visiting Chapter of the Guild. The officers were: Mrs. Bennett, President; Mrs. Gaskin, vice-President, and Mrs. McGregor, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Rectory was enlarged to its present size in 1895 and was ready for occupation in July, 1895.

Rev. W. C. Bradshaw accepted in October, 1895, the charge of Christ Church, Winnipeg.

On Friday, June 5th, 1896, the dedication of a beautiful memorial, presented to the Church by Mrs. Robert Hamilton in memory of her husband, the late Honorable Robert Hamilton, took place. The memorial consists of a new chancel, altar, credence-table, sedilia, communion rail, choir seats and prayer-desk, all executed in solid oak. The memorial plate has the following inscription: "To the greater glory of God, and in memory of Honorable Robert Hamilton, this altar and other work adorned with carving was erected by his surviving widow, Easter, 1896."

The Rev. H. Symonds, M.A., preached the sermon at the dedication service, and the following clergy took part in the service: Ven. Archdeacon Allan, Revs. J. C. Davidson, Carl Smith, E. V. Stevenson, G. Warren, J. Gibson and W. L. Baynes-Reed.

On June 24th, 1896, the first Rector of St. Luke's entered into rest, leaving behind him in the Parish of St. Luke's a memorial that testifies to the noble work he did.

On July 5th, 1896, a memorial service was held in St. Luke's at which Rev. H. Symonds preached. In his sermon, referring to the death of Mr. Bradshaw, he said:—

"We, dear brethren, this morning are contemplating the life of one who, so far as human judgment may decide, was faithful to his calling, who, with no mean gifts, used them to the uttermost in the field of duty, and that field lay here. The fourteen best years of Mr. Bradshaw's life were spent in the work of building up this parish. Upon one of the walls of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, built by Sir C. Wren, is this inscription: 'Si Monumentum requiris circumspice.' May we not say the same of Mr. Bradshaw; this Church, this School house and Rectory, this congregation, the flourishing and honorable condition of the Church in this locality are his monument. I do not think it an exaggeration to say that his very life is here; its energy is transformed into these walls, those large lists of Baptisms and Communicants: 'Si Monumentum requiris circumspice' (If you seek his monument, look around you)."

Memorial Tablet.

A memorial tablet to the late Rev. W. C. Bradshaw was placed on the north wall of the chancel. The following is the inscription "To the glory of God, and in memory of Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, who, during fourteen years, 1876-1890, laboured earnestly in the erection of this Church and in the organization of this Parish, this tablet is erected by his former parishioners. Died June 26, 1896. 'One soweth and another reapeth.'"

At Christmas, 1896, a Brass Font Ewer was placed in the Church by Mr. Grassett, as a memorial to two deceased children.

In commemoration of the Queen's Jubilee in 1897, the sixtieth year of her glorious reign, a flag staff was raised on the Church grounds, and the flag for the first time raised on Sunday, June 20th (Jubilee Sunday), when the event was also commemorated in Church by special services and sermons.

On January 21st, 1899, the Junior Branch of W. A. was organized, with Miss Helen Rogers as President.

From Feb. 3rd to 10th, 1899, the Rev. Osborne Troop, M.A., Rector of St. Martin's Church, Montreal, conduced a Mission at St. Luke's.

Percy Price and Achilles Turner, both members of St. Luke's, joined the contingent and went to South Africa to serve their Queen and Country in the war against the Boers. They sailed by S. S. Milwaukee on Feb. 21st, 1900.

Miss Godfrey presented the Church with a silk chalice-veil and white silk markers for the Bible and Prayer Books, in October, 1900.

On January 22nd, 1901, Her Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria died.

In February, 1901, Rev. Herbert Symonds, M.A., was honoured by the Senate of Queen's University, Kingston, with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

In April, 1901, the Rector received an intimation from the governing body of Trinity College School that he was chosen to become the Headmaster of that School. After accepting the appointment, he placed his resignation, in the hands of the Church Wardens.

At a congregational meeting shortly afterwards a strong committee was appointed to consider the question of a successor.

On May 25th, 1901, the ladies of St. Luke's Congregation presented Rev. Dr. Symonds with an M.A. Trinity University Hood.

Before leaving St. Luke's, Ashburnham, the Rev. H. Symonds was made the recipient of a Doctor of Divinity Gown, a China Dinner Set, and set of Silver Fruit Knives from St. Luke's, and an Arm Chair and Dressing Case from St. Mark's.

At a special Vestry Meeting, held May 20th, 1901, the resignation of Dr. Symonds was accepted, and a Committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. F. Adams, E. A. Peck and A. Dawson, to draft a resolution expressing the regret of St. Luke's Congregation at the forthcoming separation.

At the same time a Committee was appointed to take the necessary steps to secure a successor to Dr. Symonds.

A congregation meeting which was attended by a large number, was held on July 4th, 1901, when the committee to secure a successor to Dr. Symonds reported favorably on the name of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of Omemee. The congregation unanimously decided to extend a call to Rev. E. A. Langfeldt and instructed the Wardens and Delegates to wait upon His Lordship the Bishop, to secure his consent.

The Wardens and Lay Delegates, Messrs. Frank Adams, Adam Dawson, E. A. Peck, F. J. Jameson, and G. F. Warde, waited upon the Bishop of Toronto and received from him the announcement that he was pleased to appoint Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Rector of St. Luke's, to take effect September 15th, 1901.

The Rectory underwent extensive repairs in July, 1901. Electric light was put in and the building thoroughly papered and painted at an expense of about $200.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., the newly appointed Rector, entered upon his duties on Sunday, September 22nd, 1901.

His Royal Highness, the Duke of Cornwall and York (Prince of Wales) and his illustrious consort visited the Provincial Synod of the Church of England in Montreal in September, 1901.

In October, 1901, Mr. Achilles Turner and Mr. Percy Price, both members of St. Luke's, received from His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York their well-earned war medals.

Rector Inducted.

The induction of the new Rector took place on St. Luke's Day, October 18th, 1901. Rev. Herbert Symonds, D.D., of Trinity College School, preached the sermon, and the Ven. Archdeacon of Peterborough, as Commissary of the Bishop of Toronto, inducted Mr. Langfeldt. Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. W. L. Armitage took part in the service.

Rev. Arthur Murphy, M.A., held a Mission in St. Luke's Church from December 8th to 22nd, 1901.

In January, 1902, again two members joined the army to fight for King and Country. Mr. Percy Price, who already had seen one campaign, re-enlisted, and Mr. Reginald Turner also joined the ranks.

The members of the W.A. presented Mrs. Phillips, vice-President of the W.A., with a certificate of life-membership and a gold W.A. pin, at the annual meeting of the W.A., held in February.

The War in South Africa came to a happy conclusion through the generous and humane efforts of Great Britain, on May 31st, 1902.

On Sunday, June 8th, 1902, a Thanksgiving Service for Peace was held at St. Luke's, at which the Rector preached a patriotic sermon. The Church was decorated with flags and other patriotic emblems.

The Coronation of King Edward VII., which was to be held on June 26th, was postponed on account of the serious sickness of the King.

"As we go to press," the history says, we are about to celebrate the 26th anniversary of our Church and Parish, which (D.V.) will be on July 9th. Looking back upon our past history we trace the good hand of our Heavenly Father in everything. We gratefully acknowledge His tender care and His prospering our endeavors. We thank Him for the good men He has sent us to begin and to continue the work here. But with profound thankfulness we bow our knees before Almighty God, who has sustained and prospered us and our Church, and acknowledge that "not one thing hath failed of all the good things the Lord our God spake concerning us: all are come to pass unto us, and not one thing hath failed thereof."

To our Lord we ascribe all honour and glory, and we beseech Him to continue to bless and prosper us in the future as He has done in the past, and to grant that St. Luke's Church may be the means of bringing many souls to the Lord Jesus Chirst. Amen.

Progress Recorded.

The 25th anniversary of the parish should have been celebrated in 1901, but owing to the fact of Dr. Symonds leaving to become Headmaster of Trinity College School, Port Hope, it was not held. However, Dr. Langfeldt made arrangements for it the following year. In connection with this event he compiled a "History of the Church of Saint Luke the Evangelist," which he dedicated to Dr. Symonds. It is from this booklet that we have secured most of the matter for this sketch.

A movement was begun during Dr. Langfeldt's time to introduce a surpliced choir, and also to have St. Mark's, Otonabee, separated from St. Luke's, so that the Rector might devote all his attention to the latter. These matters came up before several meetings when they were fully discussed. No definite action was taken till years later.

In 1909 the Bible Class undertook the expense of placing a cement walk into the Rectory.

Dr. Langfeldt's resignation took place at Easter, 1911. A testimonial of his valued services was presented to him on leaving the parish.

At a meeting of the congregation held on the 28th of March, 1911, the Bishop submitted three names for consideration for the Rectorship. The meeting, after a very full discussion decided that the Bishop be asked to appoint the Rev. F. J. Sawyers, M.A. To this His Lordship agreed and Mr. Sawyers entered upon his duties in April, 1911.

Parish Divided.

St. Marks' Otonabee, was separated from St. Luke's and attached to St. George's, South Peterborough, during Mr. Sawyers' time. The surpliced choir came into being during this period. The interior of the Church was re-decorated in June, 1913.

After a very successful four years as Rector of the parish, Mr. Sawers resigned. He left to become Rector of St. Peter's, Cobourg.

The Rev. W. H. White, M.A., took charge of the parish in February, 1915, succeeding to the Rectorship shortly afterwards.

In 1918 it was decided to provide a kitchen in connection with the Parish Hall. This was soon accomplished and the present commodious room was the result. It also serves as a place for the Primary Sunday School to meet. Two rooms in the Rectory had hardwood floors placed in them.

The resignation of Mr. White took place in February, 1921. He held the Rectorship for six years. Over half of this time was during the Great War. Many men from the parish responded to the call to arms. This added to the difficulties of parochial work, as many who were "right hand" men went overseas to do their bit for King and Country. The Bishop appointed him to the important parish of St. Mark's, Parkdale, Toronto.

The Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield, B.A., the present Rector, succeeded him in April, 1921.

Church Improvements.

Various repairs and improvements have been done to the Church property during the past five years. The most important are: the re-shingling of the Church and part of the Parish Hall, the placing of a hardwood floor in the Choir and Vestry by the Women's Guild, the removing of one of the sheds, the substitution of an iron and wire fence for the board one between the Rectory and Church grounds, repainting of the interior of the Church by the A.Y.P.A. All but three of the rooms in the Rectory have been redecorated. The outside of the Rectory is being re-painted, as we go to press, and will, we hope, be done in time for the Jubilee.

There still remain some further improvements to be done, e.g., the interior of the Parish Hall to be re-decorated and re-seated. These we hope to do in the next two years. The whole plant will then be in good order.

These "Points of Interest" are being published in a condensed form. We hope the matters touched on will be found of interest to past and present parishioners and friends of the parish. The names of many who took a prominent part in the work of the parish during the past fifty years are not included. This is owing to the fact that our space is limited. We, therefore, have to confine ourselves very largely to enumerating the most outstanding features in regard to the parish. Their work is nevertheless highly valued and much appreciated. We, who now enjoy the advantages of a completed Church plant, desire to place on record our heart-felt thanks to them for these same advantages, which we enjoy, very largely as a result of their unselfish labors in the past.

Seven Rectors!

There have been seven Rectors of St. Lukes:

1. The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, M.A.
2. The Rev. J. W. McCleary.
3. The Rev. Herbert Symonds, M.A., D.D.
4. The Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., Ph.D.
5. The Rev. F. J. Sawyers, M.A., (now a Canon of the Diocese).
6. The Rev. W. H. White, M.A.
7. The Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield, B.A.

The first three have entered into rest, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw in 1896, the Rev. J. W. McCleary and the Rev. Herbert Symonds in 1921. Requiescat in pace.

We have not referred to spiritual matters to any extent. These cannot be judged in anything like the same manner that more material things can be set forth. We, however, believe we can say, in all humility, that St. Luke's has wielded a great influence for good in the community. In all her activities, services and ministrations many souls have been brought to a knowledge of God, through Jesus Christ our Saviour, to whom with the Father and Holy Spirit be praise and glory forever and ever. Amen.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

Here is an old story which I heard many years ago, but I am quite sure that it is still interesting and instructive: and, without any apology I am going to pass it on to my young readers.

A gentleman advertised for a boy, and nearly fifty applicants presented themselves in answer. Out of the whole number he selected one and dismissed the rest. "I should like to know," said a friend, "on what ground you selected that boy, who had not a single recommendation." "You are mistaken" said the gentleman: "he has a great many. He wiped his feet when he came in, and closed the door after him, showing that he was careful. He gave his seat instantly to that lame old man, showing that he was thoughtful and kindly. He took off his cap when he came in, and answered my questions promptly, showing that he was gentlemanly. He picked up the book which I had purposely laid on the floor, and replaced it upon the table, and he waited quietly for his turn, instead of pushing, crowding, showing that he was honourable and orderly. When I talked to him, I noticed that his clothes were brushed, and his hair in order; when he wrote his name, I noticed that his fingernails were clean. Don't you call these things letters of recommendation? I do; and I would give more for what I can tell about a boy by using my eyes ten minutes than all the letters he can bring me." Little things show character, and frequently determine a boy's whole career.

Whoever will prosper in any line of life must save his own time and do his own thinking. He must spend neither time nor money which he has not earned.

—David Starr Jordan.

SPEEDIRON

AT last—after years of experiment and research a perfect electric cooking element has been developed. An element which brings speed, lasting durability and absolute safety to electric cooking—McClary's Speediron!

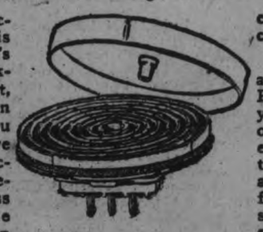
This wonderful, new element is as far ahead of all others as electric light is ahead of candle light.

McClary's Speediron is the only protected, removable, repairable element made. It operates on contact heat. This gives it marvellous speed and eliminates waste by radiation, which is one of the greatest defects of open elements. And the Speediron is durable. It cannot be injured by liquids boiling over, spilling—or contact with pots and pans.

The cast iron surface protects the coils year in and year out—and if the coils by any chance burn out you can replace them easily, inexpensively and quickly.

Now On All McClary's Electric Ranges

This great, new electric cooking feature is now on all McClary's Electric Ranges—making it the most efficient, satisfactory range on the market. And you also get the exclusive advantages of McClary's famous porcelain enameled "fireless cooker" oven—the oven which keeps on cooking even after the current is turned off.



Ask your dealer about a McClary's Electric Range. After you've seen him demonstrate the Speediron element, you'll agree that McClary's is far ahead of any other for economy, speed, strength and general satisfaction.

Miss I. J. Ross, Scollard, Alta., writes:—"I am only twenty years old, but have suffered from heart palpitation and nerve trouble for several years.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

WHERE WE ARE MAKING A MISTAKE.

Why? Because the Western Progressives are "independent," and not being hide-bound members of either of the old parties thec could vote against any government that did not do what they desired. The "greenhorns" from the far north of Canada have proven themselves masters of the old parties and of the situation. Recently a Liberal ex-member in your columns said that the T. V. C. would have been opened from end to end if he had been at Ottawa—and I believe him. He would have marshalled the spineless partisans of the whole T. V. C. littoral, and who could have resisted them? But, no; we bow before the idols of ouh parties like the poor benighted blacks of Dahomey, who would be "read out" of the party if they did not obey—what a picture!

In England, it is all for "England" and it must have thrilled with shame the hearts of those Canadians who read the fierce denial of the strikers of the old land that they contemplated the overthrow of England! Is Canada our first thought, or party (which is self)? Now, honestly, which is it?

Had the genial Mr. Peck, M. P., at the head of his T. V. C. friends, been able to say to the government, "We will vote for you when we honestly can and give you the support you may deserve, if you will complete our canal, but look out for us if you don't," Peterboro would now be rejoicing with exceeding great joy. But Mr. Peck is a "faithful" Liberal-Conservative.

"Politics" are the affairs of party, and the day has gone by for being tied to the tail of the party carts.

The party cart, which carries along with all their fine household furnishings a lot of jobbers and smugglers, whose sole object is their own and not the public benefit. A good man is loyal to his party when his party is doing what he knows is best for his country. He is a disloyal man when it is otherwise.

Both Liberals and Conservatives from the T.V.C. district should have said: "No T.V.C. no Hudson Bay Railway!" and we would have got it. This whole district, like Peterboro itself, is running behind. The rest of Canada is laughing at us. We can't manage our own public business. We are sacrificed for the "benefit" of others. There has never been a more colossal failure in this district than the failure to get the appropriation. The Hon. G. N. Gordon is of course primarily responsible. But Mr. Peck could have helped. The party tug-o'-war forbids it. It's power we're after, not the country's benefit. Why oppose a measure if it is good, or a man if he is doing right? Is that all we have so far learned to know? Let us admit that the Western Federal Progressives have shown us a way.

Personally, Messrs. Peck, M.P., and Gordon, ex-M.P., are doubtless as good men as the constituency can put up, but their hands are tied. They will have to change their ways for the next election. It is time the old madness departed. It doesn't pay. Future candidates should feel bound to say, "Public interests must be ranked above party." Even Agnes McPhail knows that. Unless the public insists upon it, the public will not get it, and the public interests will continue to suffer. The whole Trent Valley, from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario, held up by a handful of Western Progressives, with both parties at their feet! What do you know about that?

An Independent Conservative.

KILLED BY TREE.

Splits and Falls on Head of Man Felling It.

EGANVILLE, Ont., June 26. — Canadian Press. — Christopher Risteau, aged 18 years, son of Ernest Risteau, farmer of South Algoma, 12 miles west of here, was killed yesterday while cutting pulpwood with his father on his farm, when he was struck on the head by a tree which split as he was felling it.

George Cummings, the world's champion walker, and Rocky Knight, a British colored boxer, took part in a novel test of endurance recently in Hyde Park, London. The match was the outcome of a wager, the terms being that Cummings should walk and Knight run at a pace of not less than seven miles an hour. Knight gave up after covering about three miles, while Cummings continued and completed seven miles in 51 minutes.

LLOYD GEORGE IN ACTION

LINIMENT FOUND TO BE POWERFUL GERMICIDE

Originally, Absorbine Jr. was sold only as a pain reliever and an embrocation. It was soon discovered that the liniment had value as a germicide and it is now used as a mouth wash, for wound dressing and for disinfecting purposes.

Another surprise was yet in store. A. Wm. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., applied Absorbine Jr. to a varicose vein to relieve the intense pain. Not only did the pain leave, but he noticed every day the swollen vein becoming smaller. The treatment was kept up and, today, Mr Pratt's legs, though he has never used anything else on them, are as smooth as when he was a boy. It has now been proved that Absorbine Jr. is of value in the treatment of varicose veins, leg ulcers, boils, pyorrhoea and a number of other ailments and injuries besides that for which it was first prepared. ODD QUESTIONS BECOME FEWER; MORE AMERICANS VISIT CANADA

Citizens of United States Gaining More Knowledge of Country.

SOME INQUIRIES.

Queer Queries Received at Chamber of Commerce From Both Countries.

The citizens of the United States are becoming more acquainted with Canada each year and with this the strange requests to the Chamber of Commerce are becoming fewer in number. The Chamber of Commerce for the past few years has been distributing literature in the States explaining the wondrous opportunities that this district offers to the tourist and as a result of this a few tourists from across the border came to see and were delighted with the wonderful summer resorts. When they went home they told their friends about this distrist and so there have been greater numbers coming here each year to spend the summer. In this way the average American citizen has secured a better knowledge of Canada and he does not look upon this fair land as a country of ice and snow but as a land that has wonderful opportunities, where the fishing is good, where there is splendid canoeing, and where there is wonderful hunting in season. The day for the requests about the wild men and the snow and ice and many other nonsensical questions is past to a large degree for the vision of our neighbors has been greatly enlarged in the past few years. But still there have been a few peculiar requests come in since the beginning of the year.

A man in Cincinnati, Ohio, wrote to the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce the other day asking for a collection of cigar bands of the different brands of cigars made in this city, as his boy was making a collection of the bands of the different kinds of cigars manufactured in this continent, and he thought there might be some peculiar brand of cigars made here. He closed by saying that he was coming to Canada this summer and that he would likely pay this district a visit. While the secretary was unable to comply with the man's request he did not lose the opportunity to send some literature to him describing this district and explaining the wonderful tourist opportunities and promising to give further information if he would call in the office of the Chamber of Commerce when in this city.

A letter was received from a young lady in Hamilton lately asking for the christian names of a certain family living in this city. A young man belongng to this family had become lost to her and she wished to locate him but she had forgotten the Christian name of his parents and she wished the different names sent to her so as she might find out his whereabouts through his parents. She ended the letter by saying hat she was the proprietress of a beauty parlor and this young man was a barber.

Some little time ago a man who lives in Essex county, New York, wrote to the secretary asking the nature of the land in Belmont township around concessions six and eight. He stated that he was born in Owen Sound and went overseas with the Canadian army and when he returned he went to the United States but he was having a hard time existing there and that he missed the social life of Canada so he wished to return to Canada and start a poultry farm in Belmont township. In the States this man was earning $2.60 per day and with the high cost of living there he considered it a pretty slim wage to live on.

In early winter a married woman wrote from the Maritime provinces asking the secretary to send her the names of dry goods stores which might buy men's socks as she had an auto knitter and was able to supply four dozen pair a week. Naturally the letter went unanswered. One day a doctor from Iowa wrote asking the number of chiropractors in this city and if there was any civic legislation governing this profession here. He stated that he had thirty years experience and three diplomas and was looking towards Canada.

Thn again many letters are received asking about the Trent Valley canal route, the best roads to certain places in the county, good camping grounds and where there is good fishing and many other questions which affect the writer, who is coming on a tourist trip. There are also the various questions about this city, the number of grocery stores, the size of the city, and many other civic queries.

PIANO RECITAL IN OMEMEE HALL

Pupils of Miss McKee Show Much Ability—Omemee News.

OMEMEE, June 25.—On Tuesday evening a pleasing recital was given in the U.F.O. hall, Omemee, by the piano pupils of Miss E. Isobel McKee, A.C.A.M., before a large and appreciative audience. They were assisted by Miss Jean Padget, vocal pupil of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, with Miss G. Donley, of Peterborough, as accompanist, also Jack Thackeray, 'cellist, pupil of Mr. Gliddon of the Conservatory of Music, Peterborough. Both artists were very much enjoyed and their selections made a pleasing variation in the instrumental programme. The pupils, the majority of whom were of junior years, played remarkably well, reflecting great credit to themselves as well as the careful tuition of their teacher, most of the selections being played from memory.

Following Miss Padget's second number, she, with her accompanist, were presented with beautiful bouquets of roses by Misses Frances McPherson and Jean McGinness, and at the conclusion of the programme, Miss McKee was made the recipient of a large sheaf of roses by her class, accompanied by the following address, the presentation being made by Jean Parsons, while Audrey Weir read the address:

Dear Miss McKee,—We, your pupils in Omemee, desire to take this opportunity of expressing to you our appreciation of the earnest efforts you have put forth during the past year, in trying to impart to us a better knowledge of music. We know that had it not been for your kind and loving disposition, your patience would have been exhausted long ago, because there have been times when we have not put forth our best efforts.

It has been a pleasant term for us and we are the better for having made your acquaintance. You have won the esteem and confidence of your pupils.

We, therefore, ask you on this occasion, as we are about to sever our connections for the summer months, to accept this bouquet of roses as a slight token of our regards and couple with it the wish that your holiday may be one of pleasure.

Signed on behalf of your pupils,
Audrey Weir,
Jean Parsons,
Omemee, June 22nd, 1926.

Following was the programme given:

Duet, "Enchanted Moments" — Ethel Stephenson and Marion Dickson.
"My Lady's Mantle"—Jean Parsons.
(a) Ivy, (b) Crocus— Frances McPherson.
Tulip—Jean McGinness.
Mountain Gnome—Audrey Weir.
Duet, "Golden Star Waltz" — Frances McPherson, Jean McGinnes.

Duet, "The Twins Valse"— Jean and Daisy Duguid.
Vocal solo—Wilbert Clemett.

Legend of Love—Edna Morton.
(a) La Scintilla; (b) Humoreske—Lenore Jamieson.
'Cello solo—Jack Thackeray.
(a) Valsette; (b) In a Monastery Garden—Jane Earle.
(a) Butterfly; (b) To the Rising Sun—Marion Dickson.
God Save the King.

Several from Omemee attended the garden party at Bethel on Wednesday evening, which was a decided success in spite of the heavy showers of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning in the afternoon. About four o'clock the sky brightened and the sun peeped out and the weather was ideal for an affair of this sort. With the big moon throwing its bright beams around, the dampness was the least of the thoughts of the large crowd who attended.

The orchestra of the George street United church presented the programme and as in Omemee recently, again delighted the audience. Miss Outram who appeared in costume in a reading, was possibly the star member of the party, as her numbers almost brought the house down with applause.

Mr. F .G. Sandy, of Omemee, acted as chairman in his usual capable manner in the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland.

PROHIBITION MAY DECIDE PRESIDENCY

Politicians See Wet Vs. Dry Fight For U. S. Chief Executive.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 26.—(By Jhon Snure, Canadian Press Washington Correspondent).—Politicians of both the great parties, Republican and Democrat, are worried over the numerous signs that the wet and dry issue is going to have a foremost place in the 1928 presidential campaign. Many of them would like to thrust it aside but the signs are increasing that it will be impossible to do so.

Should he 1928 campaign resolve itself largely into a wet and dry fight it would be embarrassing to most of the leaders. Raising of this issue wil inevitably tend to throw other issues into the eclipse. This was demonstrated in the recent senatorial fight on a wet platform, defeaing Senator W. G. Pepper. It was declared by friends of Senator Pepper that it was impossible to get the Pennsylvania voters to consider anything else but the wet and dry issue.

It is likely to be so in the presidential campaign. If the prohibition controversy becomes hot, all the important economic issues are likely to be completely overshadowed.

The fact Senator Borah of Idaho has lately come out in support of the drys against the idea of a referenndum on prohibition is interpreted here as meaning he isa presidential aspirant and is playing for the support of the drys, including the anti-Saloon League and kindred organizations. President Coolidge latterly has taken a course which many believe is intended to solidify himself with the drys.

Governor Al Smith of New York just now is looming up as the man most likely to get the Democratic nomination for President in 1928. He is an avowed wet. Should he be nameed, a Republican nominee who had the support of the dry throughout the country would be in a strong position to win if the conenion of he drys is true that the country on a test would be overwhemingly for prohibition.

In any event, the maouevres of political leaders of both parties, including presidential aspirants, on the liquor question from now on are going to be watched with keenness. The liquor question is looming up to a degree that was unknown in 1924 or 1920 or, indeed, if any presidential campaign year heretofore.

Order is heaven's first law and, this confessed.
Some are and must be greater than the rest. —Pope.

GOVERNMENT SUSTAINS THREE DEFEATS

not take a stand for itself it had no reason to exist.

R. S. White, Conservative, of Mount Royal, declared that a service had been rendered by Mr. Stevens in bringing up the inquiry into the Customs Department. He thought that the suggestion of a Dominion Appraisal Board should be considered.

"I want to say," he added, "that I consider the report unfair in at least two respects. I refer to its allusions to Mr. Weldon, collector, and Mr. McLaughlin, surveyor, of the Port of Montreal. Mr. McLaughlin has been forty years in the Customs service. I want to express my confidence in his integrity. No one is more profound in his knowledge of the Customs law than he is. Mr. Weldon is a new-comer, but he has a good reputation. It is unfair to blemish it. I would ask the Minister when after the session these recommendations are taken up to treat these gentlmen not with mercy—for mercy implied cupability—but with justice.."

Chances For Heaven.

T. W. Bird, Progressive of Nelson, read a part of an anonymous letter he had received on House of Commons paper and mailed in the House. It began, "If you continue to allow yourself to be bought and sold much longer the hope for your entry into Heaven is small." Bore the initials H.F.G. Bird said, he had always some doubts about getting to Elysium, but added, "This is an attack upon one's reputation under cover, and I want to submit that the person who wrote it is a contemptible and despicable coward."

Bird proceeded to say he would support the Woodsworth amendment, but he thought that the Prime Minister had not quite risen to public opinion in regard to Mr. Bureau. He strongly criticized him being put in the Senate, "Immune from punishment."

Fundamental Rottenness.

Mr. Bird declared he was not concerned with one party or another, but with the "fundamental rottenness that had been shown up." He had concluded when he came to Ottawa this season that either there had to be co-operation with one party or another, or else a general election. He and his party had agreed to support the Liberal party because of its programme.

"Would you support the Government if it had not proceeded with the Hudson Bay Railway project?" asked Mr. Lucas, M.P.

"I certainly would not," replied Bird.

Political Expediency.

"I am not putting the blame upon anyone," said Bird, who went on to argue that the Progressives should support the Government. Mr. Campbell was not equipped to talk about political expediency. "Expediency is stamped all over the epidermis of that gentleman," he declared, amid Liberal and Progressive applause.

"Oh, oh, oh," called out Eccles Gott.

"That is about all that gentleman is capable of saying," retorted Bird. "He sits there all the time making inarticulate remarks about others. It is unworthy of any member of this House." (Liberal applause.)

Mr. Bird concluded by stating that he would support the Woodsworth amendment.

Desire For Office.

Hon. C. A. Dunning, declared that it was not the conduct of the Minister of Customs but the Conservative desire to get into office.

"Will some one tell me," he proceeded, "what the fate of the Campbell amendment to the Grain Act now in the Senate has to do with the Minister of Customs?"

Did anyone pretend that the fate of the Grain Act was not being exploited to coerce votes. Mr. Meighen said that he gave explicit device to this. Mr. Dunning said that it was well known that a measure could be held up and this was being done with the Grain Act in the Senate.

Mr. Meighen rose to a point of order. It was inconceivable that any member, particularly a minister of the crown, should so refer to the upper chamber, he said.

Mr. Dunning said he spoke merely of the Conservative majority and not of the Upper Chamber itself or any of its committee.

Going Beyond Right.

Speaker Lemieux suggested that the Minister was going on a little beyond his right.

Mr. Dunning suggested that he could ask, if it was right for an action in the Senate to be used to decide the innocence of guilt of the Minister of Customs, and he added that it was well known that Conservative members and Senators met in caucus for concerted action.

Mr. Meighen declared that the language of the Minister was "amazing."

The Minister said that Campbell had promised to support the Government if it took action similar to that of the Scott Ministry in Saskatchewan when its Ministers were under susicion. On that ground he asked Mr. Campbell to support the Woodsworth amendment. He would also refer ot Mr. Campbell's failure to justify his classing Mr. Boivin as a criminal.

Asked For Leniency.

Within two months he had requested the same Minister to withhold a warrant of committment—the very thing for which he now proposed to condemn the Minister. This was a practice of years, and Mr. Meighen well knew it. Mr. Campbell had interceded on behalf of a man who had been fined for making home brew. If there was one thing worse than smuggling it was "making and selling that vile stuff known as home brew."

The request was that the man be given until fall to secure the money to pay his fine.

The motion was lost by 115 to 114.

The Liberals again continued the debate. After several hours of talk Premier King announced that the Government would be prepared to accept it with reservations. The Fansher sub-amendment, he said, was identical in its phraseology with the Woodsworth sub-amendment. Under these circumstances he could see no reasons why the Fansher sub-amendment could not be accepted. But in doing so the Government reserved the right to move further amendments or to reject the Conservative amendment as amended by the Fansher sub-amendment. Without division the Fansher sub-amendment was carried and became part of the Conservative amendment.

Discussion followed on the Conservative amendment as thus amended. Then, with the Conservative amendment still before the House, the Power motion to adjourn was carried by one vote. Liberals cheered wildly. For the first time in four divisions they were on the winning side. Both sides rose in a body, shouting excitedly as the Speaker left the chair and the long, hectic day was over.

Withdrew the Word.

Mr. Campbell re-entered the Chamber at this point, and, as a matter of privilege, withdrew the word "criminal" he had used in his speech and substituted offender. At the same time he had not included the Minister of Customs, as Mr. Dunning charged. Mr. Dunning then read Mr. Campbell's letter, which was sent to the Minister of Justice. It said that a man named Chermantsoff had paid $50 on a fine and wanted a stay of execution of the alternative sentence to jail until he could get the money later on.

Mr. Woodsworth asked the Minister to note that this was not based on a plea that Chermantsoff was a supporter of Campbell. The Minister's reply was that anyone could read between the lines. Just because he was not so foolish as to put it in the letter as the member for Gloucester had, did not mean it was not there.

Moses Aziz Case.

Mr. Bury, Edmonton, could not get yes or no to a question as to whether the Minister charged Campbell with similar motives to those expressed by Robichaud in his "Precious help" letter about Moses Aziz.

Mr. Dunning showed that he was fully prepared for Campbell's defection by producing the entire file on the Chermantsoff case. He said the convicted man was still out of jail. When Mr. Campbell attempted to make an explanation on the ground that the Minister was misrepresenting him, he was advised vociferously from the Liberal benches to "Go and hide yourself."

The file showed that the plea for Chermantsoff's liberty was on the ground that he was a farmer and the seeding season was at hand. All the correspondence took place while the Customs Committee was sitting. Chermantsoff would not go to jail unless he was still in default on his fine next October 10

Moses in Jail.

"Where's Moses?" asked a Liberal.

"Moses is in jail," replied the Minister.

They were being asked to vote for the Conservatives when they all knew that smuggling was profitable because of the height of the tariff wall. They were being asked to increase the premium of smuggling.

"Would the same argument apply equally to the application of the excise and sales taxes?" asked Mr. Stevens.

"That's why we reduced them," came the reply.

Cry From Conservatives.

"Let's get an honest Government," came from the Conservative side.

"I have always held that honesty is not the peculiar prerogative of any party," said Mr. Dunning. "There are men in this House who, when their country was in danger in times of war, grafted out of the public purse."

This was followed by uproar from both sides, and a shout finally came from General Clark, Burrard, which could be heard above the noise, "What did you do in the war?"

Mr. Dunning said he did not discuss such matters, but he would merely retort, "Look at your own leader."

No Further Explanation.

Mr. Campbell, on a question of privilege, said that he felt his request was justified by the fact that the Minister of Justice granted it.

Mr. Dunning declared that the action taken was by the Minister of Customs, exactly as in the Aziz case.

Speaker Lemieux said he did not think further explanation was necessary. He, himself in common with many members, had written letters similar to that written by Mr. Campbell.

Henri Bourassa, Labelle, discussed foreign relations, treaties and various other matters. He found himself always coming back to the point in this Customs matter, he said, that if he voted the Liberals out he voted into power a party that stood for things he could not support.

Both Equal.

He thought that if the inquiry had gone far enough both parties would have been equal. Mr. Stevens pointed out that the order to the committee permitted them to go back to any year. They had not produced anything further back than four or five years.

Mr. Bourassa said that the sub-amendment, the amendment and the motion for the adoption of the report did not "correspond at all" with his view.

Would Support Sub-Amendment.

In the existing circumstances, however, he would vote for the Woodsworth sub-amendment, as it recommended referring the matter to a judicial commission. He also thought that the report was incomplete and that the House was not in a position or in the mood to pass upon the report.

Mr. Bourassa thought that the Liberal members of the Customs Committee had been far too anxious to prove that they were not acting from political motives, and had permitted the probe to be restricted to the last year or two.

C. W. Bell (Conservative, Hamilton West) suggested that they might have been asleep. "Perhaps," said Mr. Bourassa.

Sir Andrew MacPhail's Book.

He thought that all the revelations were simply a preparation for "a mud slinging election campaign." The Liberals would have plenty of incriminating facts to quote against their opponents too. For instance, there would be Sir Andrew MacPhail's book, with its history of "that orgy of peculation and exploitation of patriotism for political purposes under the Union Government," said Mr. Burassa.

Mr. Bourassa thought the enquiry should be proceeded with by a judicial commission, instead of the report "being passed upon by the House at this stage."

If a political crisis were created upon the issue, without an examination into conditions at Vancouver, Toronto and other ports in Canada, it might create racial and other discord.

Stevens Rendered Service.

In division five Progressives voted with Conservatives against sub-amendment. They were Messrs. Campbell (Mackenzie), Lucas (Camrose), Bontillier (Vegreville), Fansher (Last Mountain), and Kennedy (Peace River).

Mr. Kennedy was the Progressive members of the customs committee which prepared the customs report. Other Progressives present voted with the government for sub-amendment. Two Labor men, Messrs. Woodsworth and Heaps and two independents, Messrs. Bourassa and Neill did likewise. Miss Agnes MacPhail and C. G. Coote, MacLeod, both Progressives were paired against each other and did not vote.

Second Sub-Amendment

The Woodsworth sub-amendment defeated, the Speaker then put the Conservative amendment containing censure of the government. Immediately Mr. Fansher rose with another sub-amendment. This takes Woodsworth sub-amendment providing for appointment of judicial committee and adds it to Conservative amendment, but does not strike from the Conservative amendment censure of the government.

Ruled Out of Order

Speaker Lemieux questioned if new sub-amendment was in order and, after a brief discussion ruled that it was out of order.

Mr. Meighen appealed against the Speaker's ruling.

Again the House divided, this time on the point whether the Speaker's ruling should be sustained. Government threw its strength in affirmative, Conservatives against.

Decision Overruled

House overruled decision on the following vote:

Against, 118; for, 116. Majority against 2.

Five Progressives who had voted against the Woodsworth sub-amendment again voted with the Conservatives. Miss MacPhail and Mr. Coote, however, who had not voted in the previous division now voted with the government to susain he Speaker's ruling and J. S. Woodsworth (Labor) switched his vote, casting it now with the Conservatives against the Speaker's ruling. While the point of order was under discussion Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor General, proposed the adjournment of the debate to permit consideration of the Fansher sub-amendment. But his suggestion was drowned by Conservative shouts of "no" and the motion to adjourn was not put. Liberals continued the debate. Early in the morning, Arthur Beaubien (Progressive, Provencher) moved the adjournment of the debate. Government supported motion, Conservatives opposed it.

NORHAM NEWS

NORHAM, June 26.—At a meeting of the congregation held recently in the United Church at Meyersburg it was decided to hold the usual annual garden party on the church lawn on Friday evening, July 23rd, the admission to be 20c and 35c. Committees were appointed to arrange tables and fix a booth, also one to have charge of the program for the evening. There is to be a fish-pond.

The lawn social held on Tuesday evening at the home of Clarence Massey, Morganston, was well attended. A pick-up team from Norham and one from Morganston staged a game of softball, which resulted in a score of 16 to 17 in favor of Norham. The game was played on the school grounds, after which the gathering repaired to the lawn of Mr. Massey, where a number of group games were engaged in until 10.00 p.m., when cake and ice cream were served.

While turning the water on in a cistern pipe at the home of Oscar Laver, where she is employed, Miss Lillian Theobald received a shock from a flash of lightning that has effected her arm, and she is obliged to carry it in a sling. Fortunately, it is on the right side, as results might have been serious had it been her left.

The ball game on Wednesday night between Norham and the Masons of Warkworth resulted in a score of 15 to 16 in favor of the Masons.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A CRISP TAFFETA FROCK OF YOUTHFUL DESIGN.

Madame has made a number of smart frocks this season. All of them were special orders, as Madame wisely said that she liked only an occasional taffeta frock, and that on someone who could wear taffeta to advantage.

"As soft as the new taffeta is," Madame observed, "it isn't quite soft enough in effect for some of us. And if a client looks better in crepe or chiffon I insist upon her having crepe or chiffon instead of taffeta."

"But don't you think some slim girls, especially, are just about right in chic taffeta frocks," I asked.

"Indeed I do," Madame agreed heartily. "I've just designed a charming taffeta for Miss Brown."

"May I see it?" I asked.

For answer Madame led me into her office and drew a sketch from a pile of them that lay on her desk.

She held it up for my inspection. I saw a slim frock of black, trimmed in bands of white, with black crossbars on it, and the effect of the whole was so crisp and youthful that I could hardly take my glance away from it.

"You see, the dress is perfectly straight and plain at the back," Madame explained. "The gathered flounces across the front are smart and youthful and the long neckline, with the big bow, is a touch I like especially."

"I love it all," I exclaimed with enthusiasm.

There was a pleated chiffon vestee of the most delicate cream imaginable, which gave a delightful softness to the costume.

"You'll like the hat, too," Madame observed, sketching it as she spoke.

I watched eagerly and saw her draw a small hat with black brim, faced in white, and a crown of black-and-white crossbarred taffeta. There with a tiny bow in an alert position at one side of the back.

This Taffeta Frock Is Trimmed In White.

Madame explained that Miss Brown has a special crush on black-and-white combinations this season, so Madame is doing her a white taffeta evening frock with smart touches of black silk net.

BERRIES AND PRUNES.

Eugene Field, the poet, refused to eat strawberries at parties because he said it would spoil him—he couldn't return to his boarding house and be content with prunes. The landlady and prune joke is out of date today. Landladies have learned, for instance, that a fruit sponge may vary the prunes. Made like this: Two tablespoons gelatin, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 cup grated pineapple or fresh strawberries, 3 egg whites, 1 cup whipped cream. Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar and fruits and set in cool place until mixture begins to thicken, stirring occasionally. When thick beat until frothy and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and cream. Pile by spoonfuls in sherbet glasses. Chill and serve with custard sauce.

TURKEY BREAST.

When I was a child my eyes bunged out of my head at the tale my grandmother told me of the day when the wild turkey darkened the sky and the wheat had failed. Platters of sliced turkey breast were the family bread, she said, and I marveled at one so blest. "But we tired of it," she said. "We would have given all the game in the world for one slice of bread."

HAIRPINS AND TAPESTRY.

The same feeling of the commonplaceness of too much luxury is found in a fascinating new book called "By the City of the Long Sand." The author, Alice Tisdale Hobart, is the wife of an oil man stationed in the city of that name in China. She writes—"Take from your town the things you consider necessities and put in their places the things you have always thought of as luxuries. Think of all the prosaic things of an American town as thrilling, and all the thrilling things as prosaic.

"That is what our towns here are like. Any number of servants, but plumbing and steam heat are luxuries. We can buy ourselves curios such as only the rich aspire to at home, but often we cannot secure a spool of thread. All of us can afford to buy beautiful hand-made silks and satins, but in these ten years I have never lived nearer than a day's journey to a package of hairpins."

Two Sides to Tiers and Satin Crepe Make a French Frock

Circular ruffles placed one above the other give the twice-tiered sides that Paris has been exploiting this season. Chartreuse-green crêpe satin edges itself with its own more brilliant underside in bands and tie that fighten the duller crêpe of the one-piece frock. For a frock of this type that belongs to the leisure hours, the sleeveless effect is new and smart. It is also much more comfortable for the hot days ahead than the long, full sleeve which, however, is perfectly correct if one cares to wear it. The narrow hem and the close fitting at the hip keep our shadows from increasing even when the silhouette is rippled.

DELICATE GIRLS NEED NEW BLOOD

Nature intended every girl to be happy, active and healthy. Yet too many of them find their lives saddened by suffering nearly always because their blood is to blame. All those with colorless cheeks, dull skins and lusterless eyes are in this condition because they have not enough red blood in their veins to keep them well and in the charm of health. They suffer from depressing weariness and periodical headaches. Dark lines form under their eyes, their heart palpitates violently after the slightest exertion, and they are often attacked with fainting spells. These are only a few of the miseries of bloodlessness. When the blood becomes thin and watery it can be enriched through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the troubles that come from poor blood disappear. In almost every neighborhood you will find some formerly ailing girl who has a good word to say for this medicine. Among them there is Miss Ida M. Withrow, Hardwood Lands, N.S., who says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did more for me than all the other medicine I took, and I cannot praise them too highly. When I began the use of these pills I was in a terribly run down condition, very thin and very pale. My appetite was gone, and I had a tired, worn out feeling all the time. Doctor's medicine did not seem to improve my condition and I was getting greatly discouraged when a friend advised me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. After some urging I decided to do so. After taking six boxes I felt like a new person. I gained weight, had a good color, and an improved appetite, and the constantly tired feeling that had made me so miserable was gone. I took a few boxes more before I stopped and by that time I had never felt so well in my life. I shall always feel very grateful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and strongly recommend them to those who are run down."

You can get these pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co, Brockville, Ont.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY JUNE 27 AND 28.

Sunday's horoscope shows a generally propitious state of affairs, with social and domestic and affectional activities uppermost. There may be an event of an unexpected and surprising nature.

Those whose birthday it is are assured an auspicious year, but with the personal affairs holding a conspicuous place in the attention. An occurrence of an unexpected nature is likely. A child born on this day may be artistic, talented and popular, although quick and restless by nature.

Monday's astrological forecast shows lively conditions in all matters, but particularly in the realm of pleasure or adventure. It is probable that a sensational episode may enliven the realm of romance.

Those whose birthday it is are to have a lively year in all interests, with affairs possibly assuming a spectacular or unconventional nature. The mind may be pitched to a high and original vibration. A child born on this day may have a highly adventurous and romantic nature, with the mind alert, and original in its speculations and experiments.

This Cream Crepe Day Frock Shows Novel Trimming.

The woman who knows how to do simple crocheting will be interested in the frock above.

It has been some time since lace has been used on day frocks, because most of them have been strictly of the sports variety. This model is a happy combination of the sports type, with a softening touch which makes it suitable for any daytime occasion.

The cream crepe skirt is attached to a bodice, and shows two groups of pleats at the front. The overblouse has squares of crocheted cream lace arranged in a checker pattern at the front.

BARRY THE GIGOLO.

"Would I, Joan Meredith, upon whose slightest nod any man in my set would come running to dance with me have to pay some unknown man to consent to be the partner of not only the richest girl in Chicago but one who was acclaimed the best dancer in her set?

"'Come on,' I said. 'I would like to see those men and that place.'

"I hailed a taxi that was passing when we left the park, and I saw the girl's eyes open as I took out a big roll of yellow-backed bills to pay for some flowers at the street corner.

"I had just been to the bank and had drawn a thousand dollars.

"'Don't show all that money when you get to The Circle,' she said.

"I peeled off two twenty dollar bills from the roll. 'Where will I put the others?' I asked.

"She looked me over carefully.

"'Well, you can't put them in your stocking,' she remarked, 'for your skirt is quite as short as mine and you are too thin to put them in the front of your waist. It would spoil your boyish figure.

"I was about to put the bills back in my bag, when she said 'Don't do that. I'll tell you a secret. When I have a little money that I want to hold out I put it inside the lining of my hat.'

"Quickly I tore off my hat and made a little hole in the lining and clipped in the bills. The girl produced a safety pin from somewhere and I pinned the jagged tear together and we started for the dance hall.

"When we got in I was rather disinclined to stay, as the people looked very common. It seemed to be filled with fat old women being hauled around the room by pale-faced young men with tired eyes and cruel mouths, and fat old men holding pretty girls tight up to their pouchy stomachs. It made me rather sick.

"The girl had left me and I stood hesitating to walk across the crowded floor to the door when a fine looking women came up to me and said

"'Would you like a partner, Miss?'

"Before I could refuse, the girl that I had met in the park produced from somewhere a splendid looking chap and mumbled a kind of introduction.

"He is dark—for it was Barry—Barry Cornwall is his name. He is grace itself and yet when he holds you in his arms you know that he has nerves of steel covered with muscles that ripple and twist like fine soft skeins of silk. His red lips, perhaps a trifle too red for a man, open over dazzling teeth and his lean face if lighted with large brown eyes that can be tender and almost cruel in the same breath. His black hair is combed back from his forehead, and I have never seen one of his shining locks awry.

"He is, withal, a man different from any of the society pets or rah rah college boys that I have known."

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

Over 30 years a standard wherever good tea is liked.

The banks of streams are dirty places in town, as a rule, but up stream a bit, they offer entertainment for an afternoon, if one happens to be in the mood.

One day, as I sat on the edge of one of these country streams, just above a village, I had a flock of fun that has made the whole village gasp and wonder who will be next and what the picture will be.

You see, it is dangerous in these days to do anything out of the ordinary, because you never can tell when some movie fiend will be grinding his machine from behind a tree, and grinding you into it, "as is". So look out.

Well, I was up stream, hidden in the bushes of a bank that formed the river rim at high water, but in June the water was down and about fifteen feet away. Anyway, there I was, watching a "Teeter-tail", or what is known also as a spotted sandpiper.

I had promised some boys that I would show the movie film in the village in a month or two, with them well to front, so to speak, if they would help me find a spotted sandpiper nest.

We found the nest. Then I took some film showing the mother teeter-tail pretending to have a broken wing and fooling the boys and leading them among the slippery rocks up stream, so that they fell into the water and all that. Then, I took her, standing on a rock in the sun, teetering gracefully up and down, as though she were so nicely balanced on those legs that one extra feather on her head would make her tail tip up and stay up.

Well now, I had all that, and the boys were gone, and I had taken at the nest in the bank, showing her spotted breast and speckled eggs, and I was quietly waiting for her to change position, when who should come along but one of the town's social leaders in a swell sedan and wearing a pair of new and pinching shoes. They must have hurt when she was driving, for she parked the car, came down and sat on a rock, placed the dainty shoes where they showed up well, bathed her feet, then went her way. All this went into the camera, and after the film was shown in the village, an order was given to the police to shoot all movie men on sight.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

BRIDGEWORK.

You would not expect a crutch to serve as efficiently as a sound limb, but you would not on that account, (being minus the limb), throw away the crutch.

Now the dental bridge is somewhat analagous to the crutch. How usefully does it serve?

Investigators, through exhaustive tests, have computed the loss of from two to four or five teeth to be an impairment in masticating efficiency from one quarter to one third, depending on the teeth involved. So that the replacement of missing teeth, by artificial substitutes, restores to a large extent, this lost efficiency. Frequently too, a bridge will bring into use, a tooth or teeth which otherwise would not be used and which consequent to this disuse, might be thrown out by Nature and so lost.

There is to be considered too, the esthetic value of replacing missing teeth by artificial substitutes especially since today, the latter can be selected so to harmonize with the natural remaining teeth as to almost defy detection.

There are two main types of bridgework, the fixed and the removable bridge. Obviously the former is to be retained in the mouth permanently, while the latter is so constructed, as to be readily removed by the wearer for hygienic purposes.

And, as respecting the merits of the two types, the dentist must necessarily be guided by the oral conditions presenting as to which should be inserted.

But it should be said that the individual who is neglectful of daily mouth toilet, could not be well intrusted to keep a removable bridge in a hygienic state.

Also, with the fixed bridge, there is a sense of comfort and stability that does not equally pertain to the removable type owing to the mobility of the attachments which retain the latter in place, and which attachments we may add, because of this mobility, might in some cases, prove destructive to the supporting teeth.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I don't know exactly how the Man-in-the-Moon managed to get the Twins to the Sandman's house in Shut-Eye Town, but he did it someway.

It runs in my mind, but I'm not sure, that he telephoned with his magic telescope to the Dream-Maker Man and his three sons. (Oh, my yes, they all had reached home safely, and Snore had his airplane fixed as fine as new, and everything was lovely!) Well, as I said before, it runs in my mind that the Man-in-the-Moon telephoned through his telescope to them, and one of them managed to take the Twins back to Shut-Eye Town.

Yes, I'm sure of it now. It was Snore, and he said that as he had an order to stop at the Sand Hill and take a load of sleepy sand to the Sandman's house anyway, he'd take the Twins right along.

And that's the way the Twins got there.

There sat Flops on the steps. And there stood Inco, the runaway china elephant, leaning against the Sandman's front door, exactly as he had done in the children's room at home. Inco still looked down at the floor with his china eyes.

"Hello, there!" cried the Twins. "My, but we're glad we found you."

Flops jumped up and waved his cap. "Hello," he shouted. "I'm glad you came, aren't you, Inco?"

"No," said Inco. "Not very."

"Oh, Inco!" said Nancy falling on her knees beside him. 'I never knew you had any feelings. Honest I didn't. Neither did Nick. We just thought you were a—a—"

"I know," said Inco. "Just a doorstop! And you hugged all your toys and played with them, but you only shoved me with your foot when I was in your way. And everybody laughed at me because I had pink roses painted on me. Nobody laughs at me here. The Sandman told me to come one night when he was in your room dropping sand into your eyes. I like it here on the moon. I don't want to go back on earth. Unless—"

"Unless what?" said Nancy. "We want you to be happy."

"Unless I can be a really elephant in a circus,' said Inco.

"And I don't want to go back to the earth, either," said Flops, "unless I can be a really clown in a circus. I'd rather stay up here at the Sandman's house in Shut-Eye Town in Drowsy Land on the moon."

"That's just what we've come for," said Nick. "We're going to take you with us to a circus the Man-in-the-Moon told us about. And if you like it, we are going to ask the Fairy Queen to—"

"Oh, you mean it?" asked Inco waving his china trunk in his excitement.

"Of course, we mean it," said Nancy. "I'll ring the door bell and tell the Sandman right now that we are taking you with us, so he won't be worried."

So the Twins rang the doorbell and theSa ndman came out with a big bag on his back.

"No, I won't mind if you take Inco and Flops," he said. 'But you'll have to hurry. I heard Mister Bluster Gust, the weatherman, say that there was to be a storm at eight fifteen. The last moonbeam goes down to the earth then. That's the one I'm going on. You'd better come with me."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

THE LITTLE FLY WHO LEARNED TOO LATE.

"Dear, dear, dear," buzzed the good Mother Fly to her youngest son, "won't you ever learn to mind what I tell you? There, you've fallen into that sticky fly paper, put there on purpose to catch naughty flies. Here, give me your front foot and jerk." Mrs. Fly took hold of her little boy's foot and with much pulling and kicking she finally loosened it from the sticky fly paper.

"How many times have I told you to be careful about sticky fly paper?" she asked. "Fly paper and fly whips. Once a fly whip hits you, you're—" but Mrs. Fly got no farther; for the very whip she had been warning her son against descended on her, and Little Fly found himself alone in the great wide world.

He hopped away to think. His mama had warned him of fly paper and whips and —"whack!", came a folded newspaper right near him. Little Fly saw it coming in time and leaped into the air.

"Shoo-oo-oo!" cried the little girl as she waved a towel back of him. Little Fly, not knowing just what to do, flew out the open door into the garden.

"This is a terrible world," he sighed. "I only wish now I had paid attention to all the things mother told me. I remember she warned me against some kind of a plant, but what kind I don't remember."

He sailed off toward the meadows. He had never been so far away from home before and he felt quite big as he flew along in the sunshine.

He stopped to chat with a little brown ant and she warned him of the great tall plant on the edge of the stream.

"It's called the Pitcher Plant, and it's a terror to all bugs and flies. Don't be tempted by the sweetened juices running down its stem; for once you climb into the pitcher part of the plant you can never get out again."

"This is a bridge."

Little Fly thanked her and flew on. Soon he grew tired and sat down upon a weed to rest, right near a lovely pattern of lacy silk, swung between two weeds.

"Well, someone is artistic, to be sure," he mused. "I'd like to know to whom that lace belongs."

"It just happens to belong to me," chuckled a funny little creature. Little Fly had never seen anything like her before. "Isn't it a work of art, though? However, it isn't lace. It's a bridge connecting these two weeds. I very seldom invite strangers to inspect my work, but I'd be charmed to have one so refined and well bred as you to look it over. Just step right out on it and see how lovely it feels to your feet. You are a handsome stranger. I'm delighted to have you."

This was too much flattery for Little Fly. He flipped his wings proudly and stepped into Mrs. Spider's trap, which she had called a bridge. But he grew excited when he found that once his foot was on the silken threads they stuck there and held him prisoner.

With a wicked laugh Mrs. Spider rapped him with her fangs, and Little Fly fell into a sleep from which he never awoke. He had failed to pay attention to his little mother when she had tried to teach him the great lessons of life. He had learned too late, and that was the end of Little Fly.

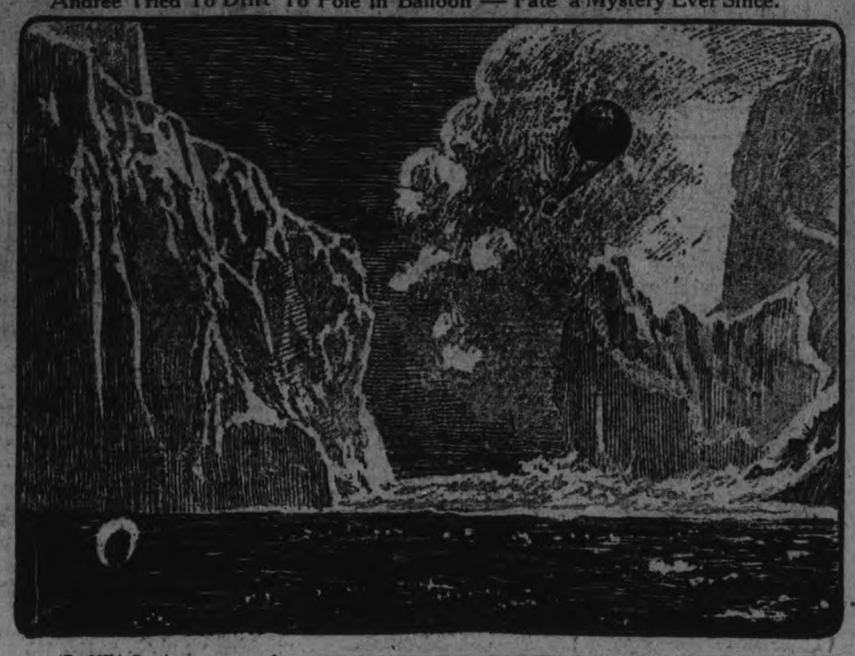
MOST DARING OF THEM ALL!

Andree Tried To Drift To Pole in Balloon — Fate a Mystery Ever Since.



(By NEA Service.)

WASHINGTON, June 26.—High up on top of the world, where men risk their lives for glory and where the gales from endless space come whistling down to howl about the eternal winter of the north pole, the northland is still keeping its strangest, most romantic mystery hugged close to its breast.

Byrd and Amundsen have flown over the pole and are alive to tell about it. They have seen lands that no man ever saw before; they have pushed their flying machines through space that was empty since time began—

But they have not solved the mystery of the lost balloon of Solomon Andree, most daring aviator of them all.

When half a dozen aerial expeditions headed north this spring to explore the polar fastnesses, one of the most interesting phases of the whole business was the possibility that the 29-year mystery of Andree's fate would be cleared up—the possibility that some part of the wrecked balloon or the log might be found.

A Tremendous Risk.

Any aviator who tries to explore the arctic by air is taking a long chance—a very long chance. But Andree, who tried it before airplanes and dirigibles and radio had even been invented, took a risk that fairly dwarfs those of Byrd and Amundsen.

It was in July, 1897, that Andree made his attempt. With him were Knut Fraenkel and Nils Strindberg. Their craft was a balloon, motorless and rudderless.

These three men, with breath-taking daring, bet their lives that they could drift with the wind across the north pole, land safely somewhere and make their way back to civilization on foot, if necessary.

Its globular bag was about 70 feet in diameter. Below it was suspended a basket, seven feet wide and seven feet deep, watertight and covered by a railed observation deck. Sleeping quarters were inside the basket. On the deck were observation instruments, control cords and sacks of ballast.

A peculiar sail-like attachment was fastened to the lower part of the bag. With this they expected to be able to exercise some kind of control over their movements. But they were almost entirely at the mercy of the wind.

For weeks they waited at Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, for favorable weather. At last the wind came strong and steady from the south. The three men climbed in the basket, cast off their moorings and sailed away.

Up over the waves went the glistening balloon, following the wind to the north. The watchers on shore strained their eyes to follow it; it drifted steadily northward, shrinking and shrinking until it was a mere dot on the sky.

Then it went over the horizon completely and the men on shore could see it no longer.

And no one ever saw it again.

Pigeon Brings Tidings.

A number of carrier pigeons had been taken aboard the balloon, to be released at regular intervals. Only one of these came back. It had been released two days after the balloon had started and bore a message stating that all was well and that the balloon had traveled about 175 miles to the north.

That is all that is known.

Whether the balloon sailed on to the pole and past, whether it dropped in the sea far from its goal or whether it crashed on some bleak artic islet are matters of conjecture. Probably it never will be known.

Neither will the world ever know just what took place in that seven-foot basket at the very last; how the men fought to keep their craft afloat, staggered about as the wind sent the bag spinning, waited between hope and despair as they gained a temporary advantage—and finally realized that they had lost their desperate gamble.

WELL ENOUGH.

That blamed expression "well enough" has caused a heap of trouble. Because of it our finest stuff has oft' been just a bubble. We have a task that must be done, but do it in the rough because we feel, when it's begun, when done, it's well enough.

I wonder who the man can be who let that boner slip. "Let well enough alone," said he. We all have grabbed the tip. In daily things that we must meet, we slide them by and sluff. At heart we know it's indiscreet to do just well enough.

Of course that gets you by, but then, there's not much satisfaction in doing things haphazard when you've snitched by just a fraction. The finest job a man can do is worthy of the trouble. It brings the pep that sees you through and makes the pleasure double.

The world will keep on going though you pick the softest way to make your daily showing, but, you'll find it doesn't pay. Try cutting out the well enough, and be the sort of man who doesn't slide along on bluff, but does the best he can.

WHO RUNS THE ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANIES?

So used are we to relying on electricity to light our homes and do our daily chores that it is easy to forget how recently this service came into being and how rapidly it has grown. The strides made by the electrical industry within one generation are indicated by the fact that a comparatively small number of men in this line of endeavor saw its possibilities at the outset of their career. A hasty glance down the list of officers and division heads of one prominent public utility reveals a group of men who can be classified by original training as a shoemaker, a house painter, a lawyer, two carpenters, a banker, a cigar store proprietor, and a metal worker. All these men were attracted from their original pursuits by the rapid development of th electrical industry and its unparalleled opoprtunities for service.

A Pleasing Colonial Design

By H. B. Little Architect.

The house is of the Colonial type and measures 36 ft., 3-in. long by 25 ft., 3 in. deep has added to this a sun room, front and rear entrance porches. The house was built at a cost of 9,600 or 30c. per cubic foot.

The ceiling heights are as follows — Basement to ground floor, 8 ft.: ground floor to first floor, 9 ft., 6-in.: first floor to attic floor, 9 ft.

The exterior woodwork is all painted white. The roof is covered with red Flextone Asbestos Strip Shingles, and the walls with wet dash rough cast stucco of a light cream color. The front entrance is of pine painted white and the steps and landing are of concrete.

The construction consists of balloon frame sheeted both sides with pine shiplap. Then on the outside comes two layers of paper, wood counter lath, lath and stucco. On the inside paper, counter lath, lath and plaster. The space between the shiplap boards is packed with granulated cork and there is four inches of cork in the first floor ceiling and the ceiling of the sun porch.

This has been found to be a very satisfactory construction and the house is of a uniform warmth during the severest winter weather.

The ground floor is laid out with the entrance, hall and stairs in the centre. On the left is the living room and on the right the dining room, kitchen and pantry. There are small rooms for the telephone and coats each side of the vestibule. The whole floor is of birch except the kitchen and pantry, which are of spruce covered with painted canvas.

The living room is a large room, 24 ft. by 12 ft. 6 inches, entered by glass doors and lighted by large three-light windows. Two glass doors lead to the sun room and the effect from the hall is one of cheerful spaciousness which gives the house the appearance of being much larger than it is. There is a fireplace of Milton Pressed Brick with wood shelf and a colored cement hearth marked off to resemble tiles. The plaster walls are tinted a buff color and all the woodwork is in white enamel except the doors which are of fir stained mahogany. The room is lighted with bracket lights and by lamp standards wired to base plugs.

The sun room has eight double-hung windows and a door to the garden. The plaster walls and ceiling are sand finished and the woodwork is white enamelled.

The hall is of ample size, 11 ft. 8-in. by 9 ft., well lighted through the glass doors to the living room, dining room and vestibule. The stair ascends to the first floor from this hall and it has birch treads, newels and handrail. The handrail and newels are stained mahogany: the treads are oiled and polished. The risers and balusters are of pine painted white. The coat room and telephone room windows are in leaded glass and there is a leaded glass fanlight over the entrance door. The door itself is of pine with solid raised wood panels.

The dining room is 13 ft. by 12 ft. 6-in., with two large triple-light windows. There is a corner china closet and a plate rail extending around the whole room. There is a central pendant light as well as two brackets and in the floor is a floor plug for a buzzer and electric toaster. A swing door leads to the pantry from where a door leads to the entrance hall, another to the rear entry and cellar and a third to the kitchen. The kitchen is 10 ft. 6-in. by 8 ft. 6-in., and contains an electric range, sink with drainboard and cabinet. It is cross ventilated by two windows. A switch here controls the electric water heater in the basement, and an annunciator indicates the ringing of a bell at the front or rear doors, or the dining or living room buzzers.

The first floor partitions come over those below wherever possible and this gives the central hall with the bathroom at the rear, the large, master's bed room and sleeping porch on one side and the two bed rooms on the other. The entire floor is of birch except the bath room which is of spruce covered with linoleum. The bath room is 7 ft. 9-in. by 5 ft. 10 in. with a 5 ft. tub and a large pedestal basin. There are two medicine cabinets and a mirror over the basin. The wall is marked off with squares in Keenes cement and enamelled to form a wainscot 4 ft. high.

The master's bed room is 16 ft. 6-in. by 12 ft. 6-in. with a large closet, a sleeping porch and two windows. The sleeping porch is 9 ft. by 7 ft. with four double hung windows. The two other bed rooms are both 12 ft. 6-in. by 10 ft. 6-in. with closet and two windows each. A stair ascends to the attic which is unfinished and unheated.

The basement contains two cement laundry tubs, a cold room under the sun porch and a coal bin. The boiler is a No. W6 Newport magazine feed, coal burning water boiler, burning pea coal. As this coal can be bought at a cost of 9 per ton and it is estimated that it will require six or seven tons for the season it will be seen what a saving is made possible in the fuel bill.

As the city drainage does not extend to this suburb, the house is drained to a septic tank and distributed over an absorption area in the garden by means of tile pipe lines laid with open joints about 1 ft. 6-in. below the surface of the soil.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. H. B. Little, Architect, 31 Fraser Bldg., Ottawa.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR LITTLE TOT

Indian Ferryman's Son Is Carried Under Ferry By Current.

NONE THE WORSE.

CHATHAM, Ont., June 25. — A report from the Indian Reserve of Walpole Island tells of the narrow escape from drowning of the three-year-old son of Solomon Hill, the Indian ferryman. The little fellow fell off the side of the ferry, a flat-bottomed scow, as it was making a trip and disappeared from view. The scow was stopped, those aboard believing that the child would be caught underneath. The current carried him under the scow and he came to the surface just within arm's reach of a passenger, who effected a rescue. The child is no worse for his exciting experience.

ONE MAN KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Four Others Hurt When Charge Goes Off Too Soon.

AT LANSDOWNE.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 26. — A man was killed and four others injured as a result of the premature explosion of a charge of dynamite at the county stone quarry, about two miles north of the village of Lansdowne, on Thursday night. The man killed was Raymond McDonald, aged 27, the only son of Charles McDonald, of Fairfax.

When the explosion occurred, the five men were thrown a considerable distance in the air. Raymond McDonald was tapping the dynamite in the hole, in readiness to set it off, and he received the full force of the explosion. The other four men were close to him. There were 20 men in the gang and the others were some distance away. The men were engaged working on a stone crusher which was engaged getting out stone for the roads in that district.

The explosion was a terrific one. McDonald was instantly killed, his body being badly mutilated. The others, the four men who suffered injuries are: Gordon Johnston, Nathan McKay and Roff Vanornam of Lansdowne, and Gordon Leadbeater of Ellisville.

The injured men were taken to Lansdowne, where their injuries were dressed. It is stated that the young man who met death was soon to be married.

Scout News and Notices

TENDERFOOT TESTS.

The Knots.

The knots should always be made with rope, not with string. String is apt to slip round and alter the shape of the knot, but the knots, if properly tied with rope, will never slip. The tenderfoot should also be shown the practical use of the knots.

For instance, it is not sufficient merely to be able to tie the "bowline." The tenderfoot should be shown how to tie the loop round himself and round another Scout.

Before describing the knots and their uses, a short description of the composition of a rope may be found useful.

A rope is made out of a fibre called hemp. This is grown in several countries, but a rather peculiar fact is that each country's hemp is of a quite distinctive character, and in most cases, a totally different fibre.

Hemp is produced in Russia, Italy, India, Mexico and New Zealand, but by far the largest hemp-producing country is the Philippine Islands. This hemp is called Manila hemp, after the name of the principal town in the islands. It is exceedingly strong, and stands sea water without becoming weak or spongy.

When sailors talk of Manila rope they mean rope made from Manilla hemp. Yacht Manila rope is a term they use for a rope made from very good Manila hemp, which is a very pretty white hemp, and also very strong, and is used on all yachts where a pretty white rope is wanted, which, at the same time, is strong and can stand sea water.

When a sailor talks of a hemp rope he means one made from Russian hemp; this is used for small ropes, such as the running rigging and the bolt-rope that goes round the outside of a sail.

At a rope-work the hemp fibre is first of all spun into what is called "yarn." The yarns are then spun together to make a "strand."

A Hawser-Laid rope is a rope made of three strands, laid what is called right-hand—that is to say, the strands run from left to right. This is the commonest kind of rope, and any Scout can see its composition by first unlaying the strands and then the yarns.

It is important to notice the "lay" of a rope when tying knots; don't tie a knot against the lay of the rope.

Three Hawser-Laid ropes laid up together left-handed, form what is called a cable-laid rope.

So much for the ropes themselves. We will now consider how to tie the knots and their uses.

A "bend" simply means a knot.

"Bending" ropes means joining a rope to another rope or to a pole by a bend or hitch.

A "bight" is a loop.

It is impossible without the use of diagrams to give any instruction on how to tie the knots. You must first learn how to tie them and then practise until you are proficient. You should be able to tie every knot quickly and surely. Learn also to tie them in the dark. You never know when you may be called on to demonstrate your knowledge and put it to practical use. It may be the means of saving a life, and the unprepared Scout is then worse than useless, because he gives others a false sense of security.

You must know how to tie six knots and know their uses, in order to pass your tenderfoot test. But don't stop at six. There are plenty more to learn, and you will find knot tying quite an interesting specialty.

A "reef" knot, sometimes called the sailor's square knot, is used for bending two dry ropes of the same size together. Used also in all first aid knots.

A "single-sheet bend" is used for joining two dry ropes of different sizes together.

For wet ropes, or in order to give greater security, a "double-sheet bend" is used.

A "clove hitch" is used for securing a rope to a spar or pole. This hitch is always used for commencing and for finishing a lashing.

A "bowline" is a loop that will not slip.

A "sheepshank," for strengthening a weak part in a rope; also used for shortening a rope.

"Fisherman's knot," used to tie two wet lines or ropes together. A knot quickly made and easy to undo, the ends being simply pulled apart.

KIWANIS CLUB TO CONDUCT A SAFETY FIRST CAMPAIGN

CARELESSNESS.

Headlight Glare is Menace That Law Tries in Vain To Curb.

Nearly all the members of Peterborough Kiwanis Club drive cars, and in starting a safety drive withing its own membership the Club is doing a good work. It is intended, however, to carry the campaign farther, and make it general in the city.

There has been a shocking number of automobile accidents this year, though Peterborough has been singularly free of them. Several minor accidents and one fatality occurred yesterday, and many crashes are not reported because the parties settle their differences privately.

The Kiwanis Club campaign now under plan will endeavor to bring home to motorists and pedestrians alike the alarming death toll exacted through carelessness. The "safety foot tracks" will again appear on the sidewalks as reminders to pedestrians that they cannot argue in personal conflict with automobiles, and alternate schemes are being discussed for bringing home to motorists their responsibilities in preventing accidents.

One of the greatest menaces in automobile driving to-day is the glaring headlight. According to the rules, the headlight of an approaching automobile should not strike a driver at all, but the regulations [illegible] not kept. It is a curious comment on human nature that a [illegible] would rush into a burning [illegible] save a dog will not take the initial trouble to switch off his headlights to save a car load of human beings.

Another frequent source of accident is the cutting of corners, an almost universal practice. Drivers gossip for half an hour and then try to save half a second by cutting a corner. The unusual sight of a driver rounding a corner in the safe and sane manner is worth looking for, but may take some finding.

The Kiwanis drive is intended, first, to inform Kiwanians on safety measures, and, second, to spread the gospel of 'Safety First' throughout the community.

If He's a Perfect Driver Beware Of His Honk!

The mediocre automobile driver must save the traffic situation in our large cities today.

The inferior and the perfect drivers are causing all the difficulties and are responsible for accidents and traffic tieups.

It is not difficult to understand how the inferior driver causes accidents to his own and other machines, but the "perfect" driver appears too perfect to be blamed.

The "perfect" driver never gets into an accident himself. He never violates a traffic rule. He never gives vociferous traffic cops a chance to enjoy themselves at his expense.

The "perfect" driver careens down the street just to and not exceeding the maximum traffic speed limit. Pedestrians see him a block away, and even if they have the right-of-way they hesitate to cross the street as the "perfect" driver speeds toward the crossing. However, he makes a "perfect" stop just to and not beyond the danger line, breaking no traffic laws but frightening pedestrians so that they fear to cross the street while they have a chance.

The "perfect" driver turns around corners with amazing accuracy and disagreeableness. He winds in and out of traffic with a skill that drives other motorists frantic. He is always immediately behind some automobile, honking for them to speed up or get out of the way and passing them at the most inopportune moment.

The "perfect" driver is always right. He is so absolutely and recklessly right that other drivers and pedestrians fear him. He is the most disrupting element in the traffic situation.

It is the drivers who are not quite perfect and know it, who are mediocre and therefore careful who keep traffic moving in a steady and orderly line.

Thirteen Unlucky Actions Brought Death To Drivers

Here are thirteen "unlucky" practices that brought fatalities to motorists last year. There were 21,000 fatal motor accidents in America during the year. Avoid the thirteen complex—play safe.

1. Did not have right of way.
2. Exceeded speed limit.
3. On wrong side of road.
4. Failed to signal.
5. Cut in or cut left corner.
6. Backed up.
7. Drove off roadway.
8. Passed street car too soon.
9. Car ran away when left by driver.
10. Drove through safety zone.
11. Passed on wrong side, passed on curve or hill.
12. Tried to operate car while intoxicated.
13. Didn't have car in good condition, brakes defective or some other mechanical trouble.

WOMEN AREN'T MORE LIABLE TO ACCIDENTS

Average Driver May Expect To Have Serious Smash in 20 Years.

TESTS MADE.

Half a Second Required To Act in Emergency Usually.

The average automobile driver may expect to have a serious accident about once in 20 years.

But one or two per cent of the drivers should thank their special guardian angels if they don't smash a car or run down a pedestrian every six months, or oftener.

This is the way drivers classify under today's standards and conditions, according to Dr. Walter V. Bingham of New York, director of the Personnel Research Federation.

One of the large problems of high way safety, he says, is to recognize incorrigibles before they do any damage and to banish them from the steering wheel.

Accident "repeaters" cannot be picked out by outward physical appearance, psychologists agree. There probably are just as many blonds among them as brunets. They have no distinctive facial characteristics or other earmarks.

"How, then, can you determine who will be predisposed to accidents before the subject begins driving?" The question was put up to Dr. Bingham, who was chairman of the committee on causes of accidents reporting here at Secretary Hoover's recent safety conference, and also to Dr. F. A. Moss, professor of psychology at George Washington University and secretary of the same committee.

Drivers Are Tested.

"There are personal factors which can be revealed by psychology laboratory test of the applicant for a driver's licence," answers Dr. Bingham. "You can determine exactly how long it takes to act after an emergency is perceived.

"The average driver, we have found, requires about one-half a second in emergency to take his foot off the accelerator and put it on the brake. This means the car traveling at 30 miles an hour would go about 22 feet before the driver acted.

"Some types of nervous disorders unfit a person to drive, while others have no such effect. One eminent psychologist says that a person suffering from acute melancholia is one of the safest of all drivers, because he takes extreme precautions against accidents."

Dr. Moss has made extensive tests into the personal factors which cause accidents. One of his tests was a simple device of "What's wrong with this picture" to determine a person's judgment and perception of danger. He has applied the standard intelligence test to drivers, also.

You Needn't Be "Smart."

A high grade of general intelligence is not necessary to be a good driver, he demonstrated, but a subnormal mentality makes a dangerous driver. He found taxicab chauffeurs with the minds of seven-year-old children, and they were having trouble.

"A small number of people become chilled and quite helpless from fear when confronted by sudden emergency," sasy Dr. Moss. "We have located them in tests on students in the university.

"It is possible, also, to judge one's eye and hand co-ordination by tests. This is important in passing cars and driving up to curbs. These tests are quick and practical and will locate dangerous traits.

"Women are no more dangerous as drivers than men, given equal practice. They have no distinctive psychological tendency to accidents.

The influence of fatigue on automobile accidents, according to these authorities, is marked. A tabulation of 28,000 traffic accidents in New York state last year showed that more than twice as many accidents occurred during the evening rush hour as in the morning rush hour.

WOMAN KILLED IN STALLED CAR

Train Hurls Occupants To Roadside In Accident Near Belleville.

OTHERS INJURED.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 26.—Stalled while attempting to cross the railroad tracks one-half mile south of Smithfield, west of Trenton, a car driven by Mr. Joseph Woodcock was struck by a C.P.R. freight train going west and its occupants hurled to the roadside, resulting in the instant death of Mrs. John Doonan, a widow, aged 60 years; painful injuries to Mrs. Annie Whitney, 63, also a widow, and minor injuries to Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock. All are residents of Smithfield. The party, which had been out on a pleasure trip during the early part of the evening, had contemplated a further journey when Mrs. Doonan met her untimely end. An inquest is being held.

OLD MAN DIES FROM INJURIES

Fatally Hurt When His Bicycle Crashes Into Wagon.

AT GUELPH.

GUELPH, Ont., June 26.—When a bicycle on which he was coasting down a sharp grade on Neeve Street crashed into a delivery truck at the intersection of Surrey Street, William Drever, 60, well-known Guelph resident and member of the Board of Education for the past 16 years, sustained injuries which resulted in his death at the General Hospital a short time after the accident. The impact threw him with such force against the side of the car that his skull was badly fractured and his collar bone and one leg also broken. His wife and two daughters survive. An inquest will be held.

¶No man intentionally aims to injure others because in doing so his own life or property may be harmed. It is largely a matter of carelessness and thoughtlessness.

¶So, to evade and avoid accidents and disaster one has only to exercise precaution and "safety first" measures.

¶Bear in mind the rules of the road, the traffic laws and traffic signals. Give pedestrians the right of way. Remember that women, children and the aged get panicky.

¶Drive only when you have all your faculties about you. Give a wide berth to the dare devil and speedster. Be a Wreckless driver, not a reckless driver.

Circus Day Was Hoodoo For Peterborough Dogs

Every dog has its day and Circus day seemed to be destined to be the hoodoo for the pets of some of the local police department, no less than two of them being run over last night. Sergeant Deannard's valuable police dog was run over by a car and died a few minutes afterwards. An English bulldog belonging to Constable J. Wheeler was run over by the circus wagon which incidentally carried the performing dogs belonging to the show. It escaped with an injured paw.

Continuous Movement on One-Way Streets Is First Listed.

New York wants to try out one system of traffic, Chicago another, to reduce congestion and fatalities, while traffic engineers are hard at it seeking the ultimate solution to this puzzle.

Traffic is the greatest problem facing the automobile driver today. He needn't know a thing about his car, but while he's at the wheel he is thrown into a maze from which it is purely up to him to extricate himself.

Various traffic authorities have offered to help him out and a hard time they're having of it.

Here, for instance, is a summary of the more outstanding "solutions" to the traffic problem today

Continuous Movement.

1. Ernest P. Goodrich, New York consulting engineer, offers the idea of continuous movement on one-way streets, north and south streets as well as east and west. While movement on the main streets is uninterrupted, that on the cross streets is made to alternate after every block, so that a machine crossing east and west would have to wind in and out of traffic, up one street and back another.

2. Goodrich has another idea of the platoon or progressive system, by which autos may move continuously along any street, but as part of a group and at a definite speed. These groups, or platoons, cross at regular intervals, keeping traffic moving all the time, under control of a definite traffic control system.

3. Another idea, presented by Goodrich and other authorities, is that of speed highways, elevated from cross streets, to which ramps lead and on which autos are permitted to travel at a maximum speed.

Want "Step System."

4. Since congestion is greatest at quitting time for offices and factories, New York authorities are considering the idea of a step system, by which large buildings or firms alternate in dismissing their help.

5. Clarence R. Snethen of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, suggests smaller cars of improved design, permitting two cars to operate where one does now, as a solution. Cars must fit present streets, he says, instead of trying to widen streets for the present large cars.

6. Hexagon blocks have been suggested by a Canadian engineer, with a system by which traffic can be speeded up with greater safety on the same level.

All these ideas, except the last two, are already on trial or at least are being seriously planned.

The platoon, continuous movement and speed highway systems will be tried out there, while New York is trying to get large firms and office buildings to co-operate in the trial of the "step system" of dismissing their help.

One Arm and Big Specs Are Taboo For Safety

CHICAGO, June 26.—Thirty-four automobiles spinning beautifully along the boulevard, and one of them headed for an unexpected crash. That's what the National Automobile Safety Council says about motor accidents—one out of every 34 gets it!

And don't put all the blame on glaring headlights, loose steering knuckles, mechanical inefficiencies and road-burning motorists who offer homage to Demon Speed.

The youngster—from 18 to 80—who is so afraid the girl he's with is going to fall out that he puts his arm around her to keep her safe, is responsible for much of the expensive repairs made by telegraph companies to put new poles along the highway.

"You just can't drive a car safely and pet a girl at the same time," says M. Kirkland, director of the National Automobile Safety Council.

And the smoker who likes to flick ashes off a five-cent stogie and blow purple rings is increasing the danger hazard. The driver who enjoys a whiff of old Virginia should realize that it is better to light the old corn cob at home than to try lighting it while at the steering wheel and spend the next few weeks in the hospital wondering what happened.

In fact, with the horn rims obstructing his vision, the motorist may drive into a parked car without knowing it was there—at least, not until he hears the crash and begins to look around for someone to blame!

TRAIN HITS CAR KILLING WOMAN

Four Others Are Hurt in Accident Near Virden, Man.

WINNIPEG, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Miss G. Gabel, Montgomery district school teacher, received fatal injuries and four other occupants of an automobile in which she was riding were seriously injured in a crossing accident near Virden, Man., last night, according to information telegraphed to Winnipeg early this morning. The injured are Henry Stewart, driver of the car, his son and daughter, and George Atkins.

A passenger train hit the rear of the automobile at a level crossing. The victims were taken to Virden Hospital, where Miss Gabel died.

THREE CRASHES ON CIRCUS DAY

W. H. Pretty Knocked Down —George Curtis Admitted To Hospital.

ON CITY STREETS.

Three automobile accidents, two of them involving citizens who were injured, was Peterborough's total for Circus day.

W. H. Pretty was knocked down by a car at the corner of Hunter and Water Street early in the afternoon, and was reported to be suffering from shock. He was resting a little easier this morning.

George Curtis, while cycling along Charlotte Street last evening, was knocked from his wheel by a car travelling in the same direction. He was admitted to Nicholls Hospital and reports this morning indicate that his condition is unchanged.

The third accident occurred when two cars entered into a mix-up at the corner of Wescott and Aylmer Streets without injury to the occupants of the cars. One car had a wheel broken and a fender dented.

CAR ACCIDENTS THREE CAUSES

Careless Motorists, Jay-walking, Children Playing in Streets.

SAYS POLICE CHIEF

More accidents are caused in Peterborough by careless motorists who, when starting out from the curb, pull into the line of traffic without signalling their intention of doing so, than from any other cause, said Chief of Police Samuel Newhall.

In all cases when starting a car from the curb a driver should put his hand out to warn the incoming traffic.

Jay walking was the next greatest evil, he said. Almost at any time of the day you will see careless pedestrians starting out to cross a street in the centre of a block, some of them narrowly avoiding being killed or injured by the traffic as it hurries along. People who want to cross a main thoroughfare should proceed to a regular crossing and cross directly to the other side. Jay walking, becoming a nuisance in the larger cities, has brought into being laws forbidding the crossing of streets except at regular crossings, and if the habit becomes more prevalent in Peterborough it will eventually result in a law of this nature being brought here.

Allowing children to play on the streets was another source of accidents and parents should endeavor to put a stop to the practice.

Cyclists riding three abreast, in addition to causing mishaps are infringing a city by-law which states that they must not ride more than two abreast.

Persons walking on highways should always walk on the left-hand side of the road. By so doing they walk against the traffic and are in a position to see what is coming.

BRITISH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP IS CAPTURED BY BOBBY JONES CHERISHED TROPHY GOES TO U. S.

3-CORNERED FIGHT.

Four Americans Headed the List in Competition That Attracted World's Best.

ST. ANNES, June 26 (Canadian Press). — Bobby Jones, amateur golfer, of the United States, and almost as popular in Great Britain as in his home country, left the Royal Lytham and St. Annes' golf course last night to catch a liner home today, the proud possessor of the world's most cherished golfing trophy—the British open championship. His name will be engraved on its silver sides along with those of other famous players—Jim Braid, Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor, Walter Hagen —and there is added lustre to his victory, for it is the first time an invading amateur ever captured the coveted golfing grail symbolizing victory over both professionals and amateurs.

First Since 1897.

The young Atlantan is the first amateur to win the British open since Harold Hilton scored at Hoylake in 1897. Only John Ball, Hilton and Jones have taken the crown from professionals in the event which had its beginning at Prestwick in 1860.

Bobby achieved a great personal victory, but a dozen visitors made the finish top-heavy with the scores of entrants from the United States. They took the first four places,—Jones first with 291 strokes; Al Watrous second with 293, and Hagen and Von Elm tied for third with 295.

A British pair, Abe Mitchell and Tom Barber then entered the list, tied at 299, and they were followed by an American trio, Fred McLeod with 302 and Emmett French and Bill Mehlhorn tied at 303. Archie Compston, a Briton, should have been among the leading scores with 299, but he played a ball from out of bounds and suffered disqualification. He played through to the finish, however, and attained a satisfactory 71 in his final round, which tied Mitchell and Barber for low.

Three-Cornered Fight

A dramatic three-cornered fight among Jones, Watrous and Hagen featured the last 36 holes of play yesterday, with Hagen placed for one of his thrilling finishes, which for once failed to develop. Mehlhorn, who led with Jones on Thursday, passed away with a bad round of 79 in the morning. Watrous at the same time slipped into first place to lead Jones by two strokes, while Hagen was four behind the leader with 219 before the final round started.

Jones had to fight for every figure and last night he complained that for some reason he could not stir himself to the depths for the final battle. When he started weakly on his third round there was something like despair in the hearts of his admirers.

"The lad is hitting them too cautiously," said Harry Vardon.

Battle With Hagen

But Bobby knew that utmost precaution was wisdom on the tight St. Anne's course with the greens slick and hard, ever ready to let a ball slip into the sand traps surrounding them. Jones and Watrous, partners in the ground, had lunch together and then resumed their battle with Hagen behind them ready to take advantage of any possible slip. Both turned in 36. The amateur was thus still two strokes behind but he regained one at the tenth where Watrous took a five after visiting the rough on the hillside.

At the eleventh Jones missed an opportunity to level his total, missing a three-foot putt after a faultless three to the edge of the green. He lost another stroke at the thirteenth, but got it back at the next. The fifteenth saw him even with the professional when Watrous' putt overran six feet and he missed the return. The sixteenth was halved and then at the crucial seventeenth Jones found a shallow sandpit just off the fairway, a spectacular mid-iron took him to the green 170 yards away.

Stroke Won

That stroke won for Bobby—if single strokes can win golf championships. He took a four to Watrous' five. With Jones leading by a stroke, the players wedged themselves through crowds encircling the eighteenth fairway. Jones' drive winged straight and far down the middle while Watrous' tee shot found found a bunker and his second another at the left of the green. Five was the best the professional could do, while Jones obtained his par four. Then began the nerve-wracking wait for the return of Hagen.

Hagen's Home Journey

Two under fours at the fifth hole in his last round, Walter appeared to have a fine chance of wresting the lead from the couple in front of him or at least obtaining a tie which would necessitate a playoff late in the afternoon. He turned with 36 and learned that he must make the home journey in 35 to win, or 36 to tie, which necessitated even fours for the remainder of the distance.

For three holes he held firmly to the programme laid out for him with four, five, four, and seemed to be sailing along smoothly when he ran into disaster at the thirteenth where, perhaps with the championship in the balance, he missed a two-foot putt.

Fell Into Trap

The much-needed birdies failed to materialize. At the seventeenth he missed his putt for a three by inches and had to be satisfied with par. There was only one chance in a thousand that he could make the 349-yard home hole in two to tie Jones, but there was a possibility that his second shot might drop and Hagen prepared for it as if he expected it would. But the ball hit the green behind the pin and bounded into a trap.

With all chance gone, Walter calmly holed out in six.

Soon all other contestant had reported and T. E. Topping, trustee of the club, presented the trophy. Movie machines whirled and the crowds cheered lustily as Jones was lauded as 'that uncomparable exponent of the game."

Ten profesionals received money prizes, while two amateurs were awarded the value of the finishing positions in plate.

BAILIEBORO, June 26. — The softball game between the girls from Smith and the girls of Bailieboro was played at the farmers' picnic on Thursday evening. ANNUAL BOAT RACE YALE AGAIN VICTORS

Sixth Consecutive Win For New Haven Crew in Inter Varsity Contest.

REGATTA COURSE, New London, Conn., June 26 (Candian Press) —Yale for the sixth consecutive year defeated Harvard in their annual varsity race over the four mile Thames course yesterday afternoon. The Yale outgamed and outfought the Crimson crew from the start to the finish while two lengths of open water were between the shells as they swept over the finish line. Harvard took a slight lead at the start but quickly gave way to the men from New Haven, and thereafter Yale was never headed. Harvard repeatedly spurted but Yale always had power in reserve. Both crews were in god condition at the close of the contest.

The official times were: Yale 20.14 2-5; Harvard 20.21 3-5.

Yale's varsity triumph came after Harvard for the first time in four years had won the two morning races—the freshman race by three lengths and the junior varsity contest by two lengths, each over a two mile course.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

That ball game last Sat. in which the lads finally beat Belleville after nearly tossing the win away musta carried Mister Al. Heckman's memory back to the 1st year he played in Peterboro, when every game was a contest to see if him and Mister Swanston could bat enough runs in to make up for what the resta the gang presented the enemy with. Some of them hard-boiled Belleville guys what didn't believe they was no Santa Claus went away convinced that they was and that Mister Herb Wolfe was him. Now, Mister Wolfe dropping a fly is usually just like Mister Henry Ford asking the newspapers not to mention his name—1 of them things that don't never happen. Yet Sat. he did it 2 times in 2 innings, which just shows you can't take nothing for granted in a ball game.

Some unpleasantness was caused by Messrs. Gerow and Mills refusing to let somebody run for Mister Swanston in the 9th frame. Our well-known receiver had been spiked in the 1st inning in the leg, and Mister Fred Batten had galloped round the bases 3 times for him up to the last session, when Belleville suddenly insisted that Mister Swanston'd halfta do his own running or get out of the game. They mighta done worse—they mighta named Mister Johnston as a substitute runner. As it turned out, Mister Swanston was able to reach the home plate with the winning run under his own power, even if 1 leg was a passenger.

Next Thursday Mister Joe Daley and his Kingston high-hatters will help us to celebrate Dominion Day by playing a morning game at the Stevenson Park. The Ponies has kindly condecended to work a league game into between their flock of exhibition fixtures, and they will strut their stuff here on the holiday. The last time the Ponies was here the Petes hadda make nine errors and Mister Del. Cherry hadda chase almost outa the park to rob Mister Harrison of a home run to give Mister Daley's men a 7-5 win, and when they come here next week the Petes is determined they'll be another kinda of a battle. The holiday a.m. game should oughta be a lively cup of tea anyway you look at it.

THE HOCKEY OUTLOOK.

The Western Ontario senior clubs is still talking about a new pro. loop. I for 1 would hate to have much jack invested in a team in a circuit of that kind. The magnates had better look at some of the wrecks along the shore before they buy a sailor suit, as Mister George Ade used to say. If they look back to the old Ontario Professional Hockey League and remember how hard it was for that bunch of barn-stormers to earn enough to keep the players in cakes they'll not be too eager to launch no pro. league. They's a whole raft of players on the Big Six's roster which if their services was to be valued on a strict cash basis would be owing their clubs money—in fact, some of them would be lucky if they didn't halfta to pay to get in the rink.

I was among them present, Mac, at the ladies' softball game Wed. night and seen our girls go down to defeat before the Toronto Hopes. The ladies from the Queen City earned their win, but the Peterboro lasses certainly made a fighting finish and finished with a more respectable score than they looked like to have at 1 time.

I was just thinking, Mister Sporting Editor, as I watched them girls throwing the ball around that it ain't just the safest training for the matrimonial steaks. Back in the old days when they was a slight domestic jam and the ball and chain showed her displeasure by tossing the best dinner set piece by piece at the male end of the sketch, they was nothing broke but the dishes. The way I look at it with the women learning to throw a baseball straight and hard, the guy what marries 1 of these girl athletes stands a excellent chance of being crowned with a soup tureen or having a egg knocked off with the best cream jug if the boss of the house starts in shelling friend hubby. The average married man is going to be a mighty poor insurance risk if this athletic training for girls goes on.

The Kingston Ponies run into their first league loss of the season Wed., and Mister Joe Daley ain't going to get no message of condolence from me over it. Belleville did the trick with the help of some handy showers which spilled themselves over the landscape in the 5th when Peeney and his pals was leading 3 to 1. Looks like as if the Ponies' run of luck had deserted them, cause otherwise the rain woulda come in the 4th so that it wouldn't have been no game.

Well, here's hoping the Ponies run into lotta more of the same kinda luck.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

PETES SHUT OUT 7-0 BY PONIES

Cairns Pitches Splendid Ball and is Given Good Support.

TWO HOME RUNS.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 26. — (Special).—The Kingston Seniors shut out the Peterboro team here last night in a rather listless game by the score of 7-0. Only in the sixth inning, when two home runs, made by Purvis and by Britton, a two-bagger by Cherry and a single by Thompson, coupled with an error by Helson and a passed ball to start things, was there anything to enthuse over. Purvis clouted the ball clean over the stadium wall, and Britton sent his hit into the bleachers. Both teams went along scoreless until the last of the sixth, when the fun started for Kingston. Batstone reached first on Helson's error, and went to third on Cherry's two-bagger. Purvis cleaned the paths with a long homer, and Britton repeated. This accounted for four runs. Thompson hit safely and scored when Harrison erred on Teepell at first for the fifth run of the inning.

Kingston's two other runs came in the eighth inning. With one out, Tetro singled and Cairns sacrificed him on to second. Teepell reached first when the play was made on Thompson at the plate. Halbert singled and Tetro and Teepell rang up the other two counters.

The game was featured by the splendid pitching of Bruce Cairns, who had fourteen strike-outs to his credit. He pulled himself out of some very difficult fixes, and was master of the situation when the critical times showed up. He was given gilt-edged support in the field, and the only error behind him was a bad one by Cherry, who dropped a short fly into centre by Ash. Tetro, a young junior catcher from the Circle Six, appeared behind the bat for the locals in place of Jimmy Arniel, the regular catcher who is resting up from injuries, and he played a remarkably good game, considering that it was his first appearance.

There was considerable chatter from the respentive managers of the Peterboro and Kingston teams. Manager Joe Daley knew enough to keep quiet after a look from Sullivan, but "Shiner" Johnston insisted on throwing remarks from the bench and he was ordered from the grounds by Umpire George Sullivan.

There was no hair r sing baseball, although Peterboro threatened badly to score in the sixth inning with three on and only one out, but the chance went by the goard. The box score of the game is as follows.

GAMES FOR DELORO.

Matches Arranged Against Belleville Clubs Next Week.

MARMORA, June 26.—Deloro baseball team have a stiff programme before them in the coming week. Point Anne visit their grounds on Saturday to play the game postponed last Wednesday. On Monday afternoon the Belleville Alemites, who have proved to be the best Intermediate team Belleville has seen for a few seasons, will also visit the local arena and endeavor to lower the leaders' record. In all probability, Teddy Gallagher, formerly of Kingston's senior team, and now resident in Belleville, will be hurling for the Alemites, so that a real keen game is anticipated. On Dominion Day, Deloro play the Belleville senior team on the latter's ground in an exhibition game.

The game between the Alemites and Frankford at the latter place last Wednesday had to be abandoned through rain at the close of the first inning, when the visitors led 2-0.

ALEXANDER

BY GROVER ALEXANDER.

While baseball experts and opposing players have always been kind enough to say that I have plenty of stuff, yet I rate control as the greatest of my assets.

I attribute what success I have had as a pitcher more to control than any other feature of pitching.

Work for control should be the daily thought of every pitcher. No matter how good a fast ball a pitcher may have or how sharply his curve breaks, it isn't going to get him anywhere unless he has control.

Please don't mistake what I mean when I speak of control. It isn't the mere getting the ball over the plate. Rather it is putting it where the batsman will have the greatest difficulty in hitting it.

If one considers control as getting the ball over the plate, cutting the heart of it with many of the pitches, he doesn't get the proper meaning of the word from the standpoint of the big leaguer.

There are in the majors quite a few pitchers who do not win consistently simply because they make too many of their pitches "too good." In other words, they get the ball in the batter's groove, often when the wise thing to do is waste a couple.

Control is scaling the corners of the plate inside and outside, making the ball just good enough to be rated a strike by the umpire. Control is pitching the ball to a batter's weakness. If he is unable to hit a low curve on the outside, the pitcher with real control can keep it there.

Control, after all, is pitching the ball to the spot you desire it, rather than merely throwing it over the plate between the shoulder and knee. One is brain control, the other simply mechanical accuracy.

GEORGE DUNCAN—IRON CLUB PLAY

In iron-club play the transference of the weight is not quite the same as with wooden clubs. What we all wish to do when using an iron is to hit the type of shot that starts low, gradually rises until it reaches the end of its flight, and then comes nearly straight down. In other words, we want to hit the ball a descending blow beneath its center.

There are two ways of playing this shot. One consists in a marked transference of weight on to the left foot during the upswing: the other in standing more in front of the ball when addressing it. I recommend the first method. It seems to me much easier to time the transference of the weight when the swing is in action than it is when the weight is put in front before the swing is started.

When I say that there is a difference in the weight movement between wood-club shots and those with irons, I mean that the weight goes forward on to the left foot sooner in the case of an iron shot. The swing is a shorter one, therefore, less pivoting, is required and so the transference of the weight forward feels like a gradual leaning forward from right to left.

DUKE OF YORK IS COMPETITOR MEN'S DOUBLES AT WIMBLEDON BUT IS QUICKLY ELIMINATED

Suzanne Lenglen, Though Below Par Physically, Beats Opponent.

LARGE CROWD.

French Individual Stars All Registered Wins in Contests.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26 (Canadian Press).—While yesterday was rather an off day in the jubilee tennis tournament, it by no means lacked interest. For one thing, British royalty participated in tournament competition for the first time in history in the person of the Duke of York, second son of the King.

Mlle. Lenglen appeared on the courts for her match with the English player, Mrs. Dewhurst, setting at rest for the moment at least fears that her physical condition would make it necessary for her to scratch from the tournament. This match with Mrs. Dewhurst was the one which was to have been played on Wednesday when Mlle. Lenglen declined to go on the courts after Queen Mary and a large gathering of enthusiasts had waited for her appearance.

The French girl came to Wimbledon yesterday with a physician's certificate setting forth that she should not "take part in any vigorous match," consequently she did not exert herself and permitted Mrs. Dewhurst to take four games. Suzanne won, 6-2, 6-2, but the match did not afford the gallery the kind of tennis it expects to see when she is on the courts.

One of the side courts witnessed the appearance of the Duke of York as a competitor in the men's doubles and the quick elimination of him and his partner, L. Creig, at the hands of A. W. Gore and H. Roper-Barrett, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. This match was played before thronged stands, thickly sprinkled with representatives of the aristocracy and society.

The match in which His Royal Highness appeared was not without comedy features. The Duchess of York was in a box watching her husband. Apparently nervous, the Duke made several mis-shots. On one of these occasions the ball flew into a group of spectators near where the Duchess was sitting, and she laughed merrily. She also smiled on other occasions when he erred conspicuously, and applauded vigorously his numerous fine shots.

There seemed general agreement that the Duke is really a pretty good player, but hardly of Wimbledon calibre. He showed himself a useful man at the net on several occasions, got in a number of excellent kills, and his service usually was well directed.

Of the French team, the only individual stars to appear yesterday were Mlle. Lenglen, Didi Vlasto and Jean Borotra, all of whom won their matches, as did Borotra and M. Aslangul, who were permitted to team up in the men's doubles owing to the withdrawal of Paul Feret. They defeated H. G. Mays and J. M. Hillyard, 6-4, 8-6, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1.

COGS RALLY TO WIN IN SIXTH

Curve Lake Got Away Well But Faltered, Cogs Winning 8 to 5.

ONE BIG INNING.

Cognawagas had to come from behind to defeat Curve Lake at the Exhibition Park last evening by the shore of 8 to 5. The Indians were leading 4 to 1 in the fourth but disaster overtook them when the Cogs hit hard in their half and scored six counters. Curve Lake infield errors did a lot of damage in this frame. The visitors threatened to break away in the sixth but spoiled a rally by running in to an easy out at the plate.

Diamond Disputes Decided

by BILLY EVANS

If the team at bat discovers the player at bat is the wrong hitter before he is retired or reaches first, how can the mistake be properly corrected?

If the error is discovered before the batsman has been retired or reaches first base, it is a very easy matter to correct the error. Otherwise it is impossible.

When such a thing happens, the team at bat can correct the slip in the batting order by substituting the proper batsman.

The proper batsman shall take the count of balls and strikes that was on the improper batsman. There shall be no other penalty if the mistake is discovered before it is too late.

CANADIAN CITIES AID RECREATION

Nineteen Cities Spend Third of Million Dollars on Playgrounds.

PETERBOROUGH ONE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 26.—(By Canadian Press)—Canadian cities expended approximately one-third of a million dollars for community recreation last year, according to the Year Book of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, recently issued. Eighteen cities sent reports to the book, almost twice as many as the ten reporting five years ago. Two hundred and sixty directed play areas were maintained, twenty of them opened in 1925 for the first time.

Starting as a children's movement public recreation in the Dominion has expanded to include citizens of all ages. Among the facilities for adults reported were 65 community recreation centers, 149 tennis courts and ten swimming pools. Nine cities provide municipal golf: Calgary and Lethbridge, Alberta, Vancouver B.C., Winnipeg, Man., and Hamilton, London, Stratford, Toronto and Windsor, Ont. Organized winter sports were reported by eight cities, community music and drama each by seven.

Leadership for Canada's public play areas was given last year by 308 men and 277 women recreation directors, twenty-nine of whom were employed the year round. In four cities classes for training recreation leaders were conducted and had a total registration of 93. Bond issue—recreation purposes were voted during 1925 in Vancouver and Hamilton and totalled $75,009.

League athletics are flourishing under municipal auspices, the reports show. Playground ball leads, 68 leagues being reported for last year by nine cities. This game is similar to baseball but is played with a large, soft ball. Eighteen hard baseball leagues were reported by ten cities. Other leagues were as follows: Basketball, 13; volley ball, 10; soccer, 7; hockey, 7; football, 5 and cricket, 2. Rowing and quoits are also popular sports. In Toronto ten league sports were enjoyed by 15,150 players during the 1925 season.

Montreal reported 127 skating places. This city operated eleven playgrounds with an attendance of 467,737 for the year, an increase of 102,650 over 1924.

The Canadian cities reporting directed playgrounds and recreation to the Year Book were Calgary and Lethbridge, Alberta; Vancouver, B.C.; Halifax and Sydney, N.S.; Galt, Hamilton, Kitchener, London, Niagara Falls, Ottawa, Peterboro, Stratford and Toronto, Ont.; Montreal and Quebec, Quebec; Moose Jaw and Regina, Sask.

MOVIGRAPHS

Hollywood.—Red Grange, celebrated juggernaut of the football field who has come to Hollywood to make a picture tentatively titled "The Halfback," is learning that reticence is no cardinal virtue in this push-yourself-along town.

Those associated with the redoubtable Red, if not he himself, apparently relied upon his past exploits to keep him in the limelight here. No publicity campaign was organized. No brass band met him at the station. The movie capital is scarcely aware of his presence.

Hollywood's talked-about-people, as the newcomer soon learns, buy their notices and laudations at so much per week from shrewd and indefatigable press agents. These are the middlemen in the traffic of film fame. Without them Hollywood may harbor even a Grange unsung and all but unrecognized.

If Dixie Russell, former wife of Joseph B. Russell, picture actor, doesn't mount to the pinnacle of success it will not be his fault, who says as much in a letter which sounds a strange note for a movie man. The letter:

"Listen, my dear—You are a business woman and are getting on in the world. I am just a poor picture actor, and I will never become great. You will mount the ladder of success, and I will hang about your neck like a millstone. Therefore I depart. Get a divorce."

She did.

New York, June 26.—The demand for "prize babies" for film use appears to be unusually great just now. Helen Rowland, a three-year-old "perfect child," recently ended a film engagement and now Nancy Kelley, aged four and a half, is with Betty Bronson at First National, working in "Paradise."

The Little Miss Bronson is much seen about Broadway these nights, but so completely changed is her Peter Pannishness when she adopts fur evening wraps that she attended several first nights of Broadway shows without attracting the usual mob.

The tale is told that she rode in a crowded subway to the Bronx studio without being recognized.

Speaking of the "goddess of shimmy," an amusing story is told of how she came by her screen name. As fandom probably knows, Gilda Gray started life with the picturesque name of her Hungarian parents. After her first experiment in marriage and at the romantic beginning of her rise to fame, she came wandering into New York looking for theatrical engagements.

She met Sophie Tucker, than whom there is none wiser in the ways of the theater. Sophie happened to be reading the most recent story from the pen of Elinor Glyn.

The heroine of the tale happened to be named "Gilda."

Sophie and the timorous newcomer fell to talking.

"Great heavens, you can never get anywhere with your name," exclaimed Sophie. "Now why don't you get a real name, like ——"

At this moment Sophie's eye fell upon the name of the story heroine.

"Here's just the name for you — Gilda."

And Gilda it has been ever since.

Not many people in the audience of "yesterday" have forgotten the team of Murray and Mack which appeared, season in and out, in Irish musical comedies.

Some years ago the partnership split. Charles Murray went into the films and became one of the well-known comedy and character players. Mack stayed with the stage.

The other day, in the First National studios, Charles Murray walked on the set where "Mismates" was being taken. He bumped squarely into Ollie Mack! Unknown to either, they had been selected to play the comedy roles.

Thus an old-time "team" was reunited.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL

STUNTS TO BAFFLE ALL WITNESSING "THE BAT"

Screen Production of Famous Mystery Play Has Clever New Twists

The more surprises and thrills there exist in a fast-moving mystery melodrama, such as "The Bat," the fewer details its impressarios can venture to give the public that has not yet seen the picture. However, the startling Roland West film that is coming to the Capitol Theatre has new stuff in it that not even those who have witnessed the stage play will be able to solve until the director chooses; while those who have never seen the dramatic production are destined to get the treat of their lives when they attend the film presentation. For the benefit of all, an inkling of the atmosphere prevailing in the Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood story will not be amiss.

"The Bat" is frankly a mystery melodrama, and frankly, it mystifies. You may watch it at any point and you cannot possibly tell who is the guilty person in the great crime problem until the producer crashes to your aid. Circumstantial evidence points first to one person and then to another. You mistrust and doubt everyone in turn, as a clever dramatic switch points the finger of guilt in some other quarter.

Briefly stated, the plot fluctuates from a skyscraper where a big robbery is committed, to a bank which is also looted, and to a country estate tenanted by a matter-of-fact spinster, where all the mysterious proceedings culminate in a nerve-racking series of startling adventures. The mischief of all comes directly out of the evil activities of a master criminal, "The Bat" of whose identity no one has any certain idea. There are vivid "doings" around the house, and at every turn, in a mounting series of bewilderments. The grim spinster, with her house guests and servants and detectives and a half dozen intruders bravely sticks it out. Whenever tension comes to the snapping point there are a couple of comedy characters who afford a welcome relief, so that the film fluctuates between deadly earnest and roaring mirth until the end. In fact, the comedy element always spices the particularly excellent entertainment.

Of course it is not fair to tell the specific situations and plots of "The Bat," and least of all the solution. During its many years of stage success "The Bat" had its secret well kept by audiences, so that the enjoyment of new audiences might not be marred by too much fore-knowledge. The same system of friendly reticence is looked forward to among those who are thrilled and amused at the Capitol Theatre during the run of the film.

AT THE REGENT

"THE GILDED HIGHWAY."

"The Gilded Highway," the J. Stuart Blackton production for Warner Bros., which opens on Monday at the Regent Theatre for a run of three days, is a screen version of W. B. Maxwell's novel, "A Little More."

The story concerns a middle class family in a suburban town; the sort of family that manages to keep one servant and has comfortable meals and time for limited amusement, but no money for luxuries. They can't even manage an automobile. A happy, wholesome, hard-working family they are.

Then the death of an uncle brings them enormous wealth so much money that the problem of how to spend it becomes a real problem. They become the sort of people who have to worry as to whether to spend the winter on the Riviera, or at Palm Beach, or in California. Every dream of luxurious happiness is theirs for fulfilment. They are free to enjoy themselves to the limit.

The problem of whether people, untrained to the use of wealth, unskilled in social life, essentially unfitted for exquisite ease, can make themselves over to fit the environment into which their wealth helps to project them, is said to form one of the most thoughtful, and, at the same time, exciting stories of the screen.

The production is spectacular, and, according to reviewers in other cities, extremely interesting as a picture of a cross-section of modern life. It has been recommended as one of the outstanding pictures of the year.

LAWN SOCIAL.

Mark Mark Street Ladies' Aid Holds Successful Function.

The lawn social held on the parsonage grounds by the Ladies' Aid Society of Mark street United church was very well attended. The guests were received by Mrs. R. T. Richards and the president of the Society, Mrs. A. J. Throop. Mrs. E. Wand was convenor of the refreshment committee and Mrs. S. Matchett of the programme. Mrs. George Record had charge of the sale of home-made cooking. Refreshments were served from small tables placed on the lawn and centered with iris in different shades.

During the afternoon and evening, a pleasing musical programme was given, with vocal solos by Mrs. H. Hunter, Miss Fern Stenton, Miss Grace Morgan, Miss Alma Coon and Mr. V. Boorman, piano numbers by Jean Hurl, readings by Miss Alberta Throop, paino and harmonium selections by the Misses Naish and Cranham, harmonium and autoharp renditions by Mr. Forbes, and orchestral numbers by a group of boys, led by Morgan Perry. Mrs. W. Smith played accompaniments for the solo numbers.

SPANISH PLOT DUE TO SYSTEM OF PROMOTIONS

General Rivera Recently Made Advancement Selective, Instead of By Seniority.

STATEMENT ISSUED.

Government Says Rebels Wish Return To Old Conditions.

MADRID, June 26. — A plot to overthrow the administration of Premier Primo de Rivera has been discovered and, an official statement issued last night says, the movement was "utterly crushed."

The secret service is credited with having prevented the carrying out of the plot. According to the official statement, it was able to learn the names o fthose responsible, and energetic action will be taken against them. Among other things, the statement says:

The secret service is credited with having prevented the carrying out of the plot. According to the official statement, it was able to learn the names of those responsible, and energetic action will be taken against them. Among other things, the statement says:

"A small number of persons, blinded no doubt by passion, ambition and spite, have been endeavoring for several weeks to organize a plot on the allegation that for a long time they have not enjoyed freedom or a genuine constitutional Government. It is evident that they long for the conditions prevailing previous to the 13th of September (September 13, 1923, when Primo de Rivera came into power as military dictator), when they enjoyed that, and besides, terrorism, separatism, merciless rule, lack of financial credit, universal scorn, a troublesome situation in Morocco and poor agricultural and industrial conditions."

Cause of Plot
PARIS, June 26.—The question of promotions in the army was one of the principal causes of the plot which has just been frustrated in Spain, according to The Matin. The paper says that Premier Primo de Rivera recently signed a decree establishing selective promotion, instead of promotion by seniority, for all branches of the service, and this caused numerous protests which soon passed into the sphere of political action.

KING GOVERNMENT RESIGNS

Meighen Summoned By His Excellency For A Consultation

Conservative Leader Confers With Sir Robert Borden Before Visiting Byng—Visit of Governor To Toronto Is Postponed.

EXPECTED THAT MR. MEIGHEN WILL BE ASKED TO FORM CABINET

OTTAWA, June 28 (Canadian Press).—The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, has been summoned to Government House.

Mr. Meighen left his office with the Governor General's private secretary to see His Excellency.

Lord Byng, who was to leave this morning for Toronto, has tentatively postponed his departure until Wednesday.

Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada, conferred with Mr. Meighen shortly before the latter left to see His Excellency.

OTTAWA, June 28 (Canadian Press).—The Right Hon Arthur Meighen will, it is expected, be called upon during the day to form a new government. When the House rose, Mr. Meighen and the Conservative members of the customs committee were loudly cheered in the Conservative lobby. Mr. Meighen declined to make any statement for the present.

Immediately after leaving the House, he went into conference with leading Conservatives.

The remaining business of the session will probably be wound up in quick order.

(Turn to Page 9, Please)

SUMMONED.

RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN
Who was called by the Governor General this afternoon, presumably to form a Government.

MOON TO FACE SECOND CHARGE

Will Be Tried at Belleville Fall Assizes For Murder.

SERVING LIFE TERM.

BELLEVILLE, June 28.—David Arthur Moon, who was given a life term on conviction on manslaughter charge here last fall in connection with the death of John McGie on April 6, 1925, in Lattimer's drug store by shooting, will be tried on the charge of murder of Clayton McWilliams, drug clerk, at the Assizes here beginning November 2. Counsel for Moon has seen Attorney-General Nickle in regard to the second case and has been definitely notified that the Crown would proceed with the other murder charge.

"There Is No Government; I Am Not Prime Minister" MacKenzie King Announces To The House Of Commons When Byng Refuses Request To Dissolve Parliament

Sitting of House Lasted Only a Few Minutes and Broke Up Amid Wild Cheering of Conservatives—Leaders Bicker Over Motion To Adjourn and Meighen Is Allowed To Make Statement Requesting Conference.

PUBLIC INTERESTS DEMAND DISSOLUTION SAYS KING BELIEVING PRACTICE ENTITLES HIM TO CONSIDERATION

House Cannot Discuss Anything While Governor General Is Without Advisor, Is View of Late Prime Minister—Motion To Adjourn Made By King Acting as a Private Member—Agrees To Drayton's Suggestion To Meet Again To-morrow.

OTTAWA, June 28 (Canadian Press).—The King Government has resigned. At a sitting of the House which lasted only a few minutes this afternoon Premier King announced that he had advised the Governor General to dissolve Parliament, but that the Governor-General had declined to grant dissolution.

"I have a very important announcement which I wish to make to the House before proceeding any further," he said. "The public interests demand dissolution of this House of Commons. As Prime Minister, I so advised His Excellency, the Governor General, shortly after noon to-day.

"His Excellency having declined my advice to grant the dissolution to which I believe, under practice, I was entitled, I immediately tendered my resignation, which His Excellency has been graciously pleased to accept. In the circumstance, as one of the members of the House of Commons, I would move that the House do now adjourn."

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen (leader of the Opposition: "Mr. Speaker, if I caught the Prime Minister's words aright, they were that the House adjourn; that the Government has resigned. I wish to add only this, that I am——"

Premier King: "I might say that this motion is not debatable."

Mr. Meighen: "I do not propose to debate it, but I presume the Prime Minister will agree that I have a right to make a statement. As the House knows, we are close to the end of the session, and the question of how the session should be finished is one of great importance to the country."

Mr. Meighen suggested a conference between the Premier and himself.

Mr. Cannon: "I rise to a point of order. The motion made is not debatable."

Speaker Lemieux: "Everyone knows that the motion to adjourn is not debatable, but this is an extraordinary situation. I do not see that there is any opposition to the motion to adjourn; but Bourinot says plainly that before the Orders of the Day are called the leaders in the House of Commons are allowed by courtesy of the House to make statements. I understand the Right Hon. Gentleman is not debating the motion to adjourn. That would be out of order.

Mr. Cannon: "I understand that the motion has been carried. If it has not been carried, how could the Right Hon. Gentleman speak on it?"

No Government

Mr. Mackenzie King: "May I make my position clear? At the present time there is no Government: I am not the Prime Minister; I can not speak as Prime Minister; I can speak only as a member of this House and it is as a humble member of this House that I believe that as His Excellency is without an advisor, I don't think it would be proper for the House to proceed to discuss anything. Some one must assume the responsibility as His Excellency's advisor to get a dissolution in the existing circumstances, and until His Excellency has an adviser I submit that this House should not proceed to discuss any matters whatever."

Speaker Lemieux: "Exactly as I have said, the Right Hon. Gentleman is perfectly right. The motion to adjourn is not debatable. The Right Honorable Gentleman stated that he did not intend to debate that motion, but he wanted to make a statement. I think under the circumstances he should be allowed to make the statement."

Mr. Meighen: "The only statement I wish to make is this: I think on the question of completion of the session, there should be a conference between the Prime Minister and myself, which conference I am prepared to engage in."

Meet Tomorrow

Premier King said: "There is no Prime Minister."

Premier King immediately moved the adjournment of the House.

Mr. Meighen: "Till when will the House adjourn?"

Premier King: "Till tomorrow."

Sir Henry Drayton: "Until two o'clock tomorrow?"

Mr. King nodded vaguely. The Sergeant-at-Arms lifted the mace and proceeded to escort the Speaker out, as is customary at adjournment. The moment the Speaker was out of the chair, the Conservatives broke into a riot of cheers.

NO PRIME MINISTER.

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING
Who at two o'clock today declared in the House of Commons, "There is no Prime Minister; there is no Government; I am not the Prime Minister." His Government resigned at noon.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

As the Examiner goes to press this afternoon Canada is without a Government.

The Government of Hon. Mackenzie King has resigned, following a refusal on the part of His Excellency the Governor-General to grant Mr. King the privilege of dissolving the House and going to the country. When dissolution was refused Mr. King tendered the resignation of his Government which has been accepted.

Mr. Meighen has been summoned to confer with the Governor-General this afternoon and undoubtedly will be asked to form a Government.

As undoubtedly he will accept and choose a cabinet and endeavour to carry on.

Opinion is divided as to his ability to do so for any length of time owing to the difference of opinion between his party and the Progressives on tariff matters and the prophecy is widespread that Canada will see a general Federal election within the next few months.

An election is not usually welcome but if an appeal to the country does away with the present unsatisfactory conditions at Ottawa it will be cheerfully received by the Canadian people.

Strange Situation in House Meighen Can't Form Cabinet

OTTAWA, June 28.—(Canadian Press.)—The resignation of Premier King has resulted in an extraordinary situation. For the time being there is no government, and the moment Mr. Meighen accepts the paid office of Premier, he loses his seat in the House. Any Ministers he appoints with portfolios will likewise lose their seats. The creation of a Government would therefore leave Mr. Meighen without any majority in the House, unless he got either Liberal or Progressive support to wind up the business session.

A suggestion to meet the difficulty is that Mr. Meighen might appoint acting ministers without salary and appoint one of his colleagues to represent him in the House temporarily.

Human Body Not Vulgar Words Or Actions May Be

PARIS, June 28 (Canadian Press).—"Nothing in the world is more artistic than a naked feminine body," said Lee Shubert, the New York theatrical manager, when asked concerning Flo Ziegfield's campaign for modesty on the stage.

"The world has no objection to nudity in sculpture or in painting," said Mr. Shubert, "so why object to it behind the footlights? Words and actions may be vulgar, but the human body never is. Nudity is on the stage to stay, I believe."

JUBILEE SERVICE AT ST. LUKE'S FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

Rt. Rev. Bishop Sweeny is Preacher at First of Special Services.

FITTING MESSAGE.

Guidance of God in Work of Church is Stressed By Speaker.

"I remember the days of old I meditate on all thy works I muse on the work of thy hands." These words, the fifth verse of the one hundred and forty third Psalm, formed the text from which the Right Rev. Bishop Sweeney preached yesterday morning at the jubilee service commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the Church of St. Luke the Evangelist. His Lordship preached a most fitting sermon which, with special music and appropriate hymns and lessons, combined to make a most impressive service. The church was filled with parishioners, past and present, many people coming from out of town for the occasion.

The text, said the speaker, illustrated one of the moods of David, who was like all men, subject to desires and swept by emotions, but it would not be fitting, however, to approach the present occasion in any mood other than one of joy, and he would endeavor to sound a note of the joy felt by himself, the rector, and the congregation at the completion of fifty years work. He expressed his appreciation of the kind invitation to be present and of the welcome he was given, and congratulated the congregation on the progress of the half century.

First, said the bishop, he would endeavor to show from Scripture that jubilee celebrations were in accord with God's wish. He quoted the words of Moses, who exhorted the people of Israel to remember all the way the Lord had led them, and mentioned the celebrations and exhortations of Joshua, Samuel, David and Solomon in the Old Testament, and of Stephen and Paul in the New Testament. The hand of God had been leading the church in all the years and in every clime, he said, and it was right to seek the divine outpouring of the blessing of God on every detail of the services of Jubilee.

The speaker touched on the history of the church. The parish was founded in July, 1876, when the then Bishop of Toronto, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Bethune, was the special preacher. The first confirmation was held on October 15th; the corner stone of the church itself was laid on May 10th, 1877; the church was opened in September of the same year, and a year after work was started; in May, 1878, the church being entirely free from debt, was consecrated. This, said His Lordship, was a wonderful record. He spoke of the seven Rectors who have labored there, the Rev William C. Bradshaw, the founder, the Rev. J. W. Cleary, the Rev. Dr. Symonds, the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, the Rev. (now Canon) F. J. Sawers, the Rev. W. H White, and the Rev. George J. Bousfield, the present Rector.

Recognition, jubilation and expectation were the classes under which the speaker placed the lessons to be learned from the occasion. First, he referred to Samuel's action in raising a stone to commemorate the help of the Lord, and said that the service was the setting up of an invisible stone. The finger of God had directed and His hand had blessed and prospered the work of the church, and the congregation was joining with Samuel and Paul in saying "Hitherto hath the Lord led us." In proportion as God was recognized so would He bless the work of the church.

There should be jubilation in such a service, said the speaker, and the heart should be aglow with the thought of the work of God. There had seemed to be a note of peculiar interest during the singing of the hymns of praise during the service, and he hoped that the celebration would wind up with that greatest hymn of praise to God, one joined in by all creation, the one hundred and fiftieth psalm. The praise should be not merely from the lips but from the heart, and strengthened with the conviction of heart, mind and soul that God has guided.

On the subject of expectation, the Bishop urged his hearers to place the Lord on their right hand and look to Him for help and strength to

BANKING SCANDAL CAUSES SENSATION

Efforts of Fascist Party Result in Prominent Men Being Arrested.

ROME, June 28 (Canadian Press)—The efforts of secretary-general Turatio of the Fascist party, personally backed up by Premier Mussolini to drive out financial corruption and raise standards of political morality of party have borne sensational fruit in the discovery of a huge banking scandal involving a score of persons, high in party councils under regime of Robert Farinacci whom Turati succeeded as secretary-general.

In the last few days twelve men all prominent in political, financial and business life, have been arrested in Parma, Florence, Genoa, Piacenza and Cremona, while warrants for the arrest of ten others have been issued. The far reaching significance of the scandal which concerns primarily the alleged corrupt handling of the affairs of the recently defunct agricultural bank of Parma, is indicated by the fact that one of those arrived is Giambattista Biaggi, the Swiss consul general at Genoa. Others under arrest are Count Lugi Lusignani, the former president of the bank, who, the police assert attempted to commit suicide when taken into custody, Prof. Alessandro Groppali of University of Parma and Professors Calvi and Ghibellini.

Feast to-day makes fast to-morrow. —Plautus.

ODDFELLOWS GATHER AROUND GRAVES OF DEPARTED BRETHREN

270 Graves of Members of Order Decorated at Annual Ceremony.

ADDRESS ON LIFE.

Speakers Stress Responsibilities of All to the Living and the Dead.

Decoration day was observed by the local lodges of the Independent Order of Oddfellows yesterday. Many lodges from outside points were represented among whom were brethren from Millbrook, Campbellford, Lakefield, Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg. In the parade were two veteran members of the Order, Brother W. J. Green and Brother M. Mowry, each of whom have been members for over 50 years. Colonel J. W. Miller, another veteran member proved himself once again when he disdained to use the cars provided for the older members and insisted in taking his place in the ranks and walked the entire route to the cemetery. A total of 207 graves of departed members of the Order were decorated, the customary ceremony being enacted at each grave.

The Rev. N. R. McLeod, the official representative of the local Ministerial Association spoke on the subject "What is your life." One, he said, could say much on a subject but he would limit himself to a brief talk on the salient points. His first thought that life was an investment and taking the initials that stand for the Independent Order of Oddfellows—I. O. O. F.—the speaker brought out the following—I., I belong to the I.O.O.F.; O., Opportunity; O., Obligation; F., Fellowship. Being a member of the I.O. O.F. gave a man a wonderful opportunity to point upward—to live for God and to be of help to his fellow man. Taking the word obligation the speaker stated that members owed an obligation to the order to use their influence in human society. You can't call a man good, he said, simply because he ceases to do wrong. A man to be good must work for the higher things, he said. People live once and it is their responsibility to live their lives in the best possble way. Life, he said, is a fellowship, a friendship. It is the binding of great kindred spirits in great and holy tasks. As an example of what fellowship really meant the speaker referred to the members of the Great War Veteran's Association who were performing the same duty in another part of the cemetery. The bond that binds them together is the bond of a great service in which they fought, bled and died together.

Everyone, he said, should live their lives so that when the end comes they will merit the words "Well done good and faithful servant."

Rev. Brother Walter Cox

The Rev. Bro. Walter Cox, a Past Grand Master said that he brought with him greetings from the Grand Lodge. Today in Canada, he said, or within the next four weeks there will be in Canada one hundred and fifty thousand of the brethren performing a similar service. Look at our sister organization, he said, referring to the members of the G.W. V.A., and counting the number of veterans the total number would be around two millon. It represents he said, a picture of the faith of Oddfellowship. Some people, he said, asked the question if the Oddfellows were not a religious society. If they were not he said instead of carrying flowers to redecorate the graves of those who had gone they would carry crepe. Flowers, he declared, speak of immortality. A man cannot be a good Oddfellow if he is not a Christian. The three great principles of Oddfellowship were the relief of distress, bury the dead, and to care for the widow and the orphan. Referring to the value of friendship the speaker declared "He who has a thousand friends has not a friend to spare, but he who has an enemy meets him everywhere." Oddfellowship makes for fellowship, friendship and no man could be a good Oddfellow unless he kept these two great principles first in his life.

The fololwing was the order of the service:

ARMY MEMBERS EXPRESS REGRET

Major and Mrs. Higden Have Done Good Work in Peterboro.

GO TO TORONTO

Field Major and Mrs. Higden, who have been in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army for several months, said farewell yesterday, as they are being transferred to one of the Toronto corps. They will be succeeded by Adjutant and Mrs. Ham of the Toronto Temple Corps. The following expression of regret is given by the Secretary and Treasurer of the local corps:

On behalf of the Soldiers of the Peterborough S. A. Temple Corps, we desire publicly to express our regret at the farewell order received by our officers, Feild Major and Mrs Higden. We sincerely hope that our loss may be their gain. After having been in our midst for only a short time they have shown themselves to be of sterling Christian character. They have worked faithfully and well in every branch of our corps. Just recently we had an enrolment of six new recruits into our ranks, showing that our work has been advancing during their stay with us. Their family has been a valued asset to our corps. We wish them every success in their new appointment, and earnestly pray that God will abundantly bless them and crown their efforts in the salvation of many more precious souls for His Kingdom.

She Was Troubled With Chronic Constipation

Once your bowels become constipated you are in for a lot of trouble, as constipation is one of the most prolific sources of disease that the human race is addicted to, therefore a free motion of the bowels every day should be the aim of everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Mrs. O. W. Lawrence, Cloverdale East, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with chronic constipation, and became so bad I was almost afraid to eat anything.

One day I saw your advertisement of

so I got three vials, and after taking them I have never been troubled since with constipation."

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

CREW OF LIFEBOAT BATTLES ALL NIGHT LONG TO FIND MAN ADRIFT

Life-Saving Takes on Epic Proportions in Canada's Most Dangerous Water.

IN BAY OF FUNDY.

Digby Has $9,000 Boat With a Crew of Heroes For This Work.

By BONNYCASTLE DALE.

A summer sea lay in Digby basin as we motored up the hills on our way to Digby Gut and the life saving station. Not a hint of the mighty waves and the battling winds and the seething currents of the late fall season when these brave men go out to rescue drifting fishermen and the crews of seawrecked crafts.

Just a word about this Bay of Fundy. Deep sea sailors class it with the "Rollin' Bay o' Biscay." Imagine, my readers that all the waters in Lake Ontario twice a day came a-rushing back rushing so fast it is a common thing to stand by river's side far up a bay and see the tide returning with solid wall-like front of water several feet high, for all the world like the crest of a water fall pouring upstream. Imagine this unequaled flood of waters carries its rushing currents as deep as thirty feet in its boiling bosom. Put that titanic force against a keen, autumn nor-wester of a half or a full gale (52 miles an hour) and you have a sea that causes a landlubber to shut his eyes in terror and make even the old salt exclaim: "Thar' was a whale of a sea on."

The Daring lifeboat is like the mate of the one I met on the Pacific coast, in 1909 I think it was, I want to tell you to show you that even these self-righting, self-bailing, heavily-engined life-saving boats with watertight compartments have a bad moment awaiting them whtn all the skill of crew may be unavailing. This other water tight beauty had been ordered by the government for the British Columbia coast, and I saw her when she arrived in Victoria, a glorious thing of mahogany and gleaming metal, with a brawny crew that knew their work. She was destined for that fatal point of the Straits of Fuca, where the Valencia and so many other fine ships had pounded their steel plates into rusty fragments—and the crews had drowned, and the passengers, too, while a rescuing fleet from Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle steamed laboriously outside the surf, helpless to aid. Well! This marvel of the seas, this sister ship of the Daring, came to a speedy end sudden storm, sweeping down over Vancouver island, tore her from her moorings and chewed her up on the rocks as if she had been but a bundle of shingles.

Look at the mate of her moored off the Digby lifesaving station in Digby Gut, Nova Scotia. She seemed but a tiny thing as I saw her from the seat of the caravan—with the calm waters of the Gut glimmering far below. I hopped out and took a picture of the station. The crew were all at work repairing the front of the building, for these returned men are handy chaps with any kind of tools. All bear marks of the war but none of them told of it.

Well-Named the Daring.

The chief is one of the men who served overseas, and if ever a man told a gentlemanly fib to get into service this over-age father of a very large family certainly did, as certainly as he left a son lying in France. We were invited to dinner and the chef waited on us—and after dinner he sat down and any and all the men were ready to, and did, wait upon him—a proof of the brotherhood formed in the trenches.

Now the evening lamps were lighted and the twinkle of the lighthouse lanterns came glittering over the passing waters.

"How does the Daring do that self-bailing act?" I prompted the none-too-loquacious crew.

"Just as a damper works in a stove-pipe—it slops and forces the water out," said the acting-coxswain. (The officer-in-charge, Harry Raymond, was absent on some duty.) I looked at the Daring and imagined her reeling in a heavy sea, and was happy her self-bailing act was done by word of mouth instead of reality.

This $9,000 beauty, with its crew of six, is at the command of any telephoned confirmed message that tells of danger on the seas. The "hit and miss" connections on the engines of the hundreds of boats that toil nearly every day in the nine months all over the crested rollers of this mighty bay have a safeguard in that tiny looking motor lifeboat.

It was morning when I resumed my enquiries, and the crew offered to don their "oils" and go out and "speed her up" for us. So Laddie came along with the camera. We watched the crew go each to his respective locker and clothe himself in oilskins, things that leak, even if of the best, when the brine freezes on and the cold arms are waved and worked in the rolling lifeboat. No oilskin will long endure salt and ice.

We went out and examined the gleaming craft, with its mahogany, double skin, shining brass and silent, powerful engines. Soon these were spitting and put-putting on the daily exercise to keep her in shape, and they made a short spin when assured of her working—as she must be in instant readiness every moment of every day of the whole open water year.

The crew had left a watch at the station. One man relieved every two hours. After they had made a short run to "tune her up," they scrambled ashore and resumed the useful work of carpentry, all of them active in repairing their own station.

I noted there was no wireless here—(they can get reports by telephone)—yet the day will come when every lifesaving station will have this most necessary nerve centre installed. The men were now fixing the cradle that the Daring rests in on her way into the big open lower room of the lifesaving station.

There is a big engine to "steam-haul" her up, using steam power, as well as an 8 h.h. gas engine which had been taken out. I found that excepting Mr. Harry Raymond, the coxswain, the entire crew are married men.

"Yes! We have had as many as fifty men in that lifeboat at one time. Once we took off the crew of the Agnes Donaghue, seven men—a load of fifteen in all."

"It's a bit of rough work, sir," said a fisherman standing near by. My life-saving men had become mute again most thoroughly. Perhaps they are like the fishermen on the Grand Banks. After a big blow, when they have had to cut cables and run before it or tack along with a corner of a jib showing, I go and meet them, knowing full well that two have come into harbor with that sad token aloft—flag at half-mast, and all I can get out of the most loquacious master is: "Oh! Thar was a bit of a lop on."

"My Man's Out Thar Somewhar."

"I know of when they did a bit of good work, these life-savers. The people of Norm' Abbot and Herb Taylor were lamenting over their boat not gettin' n," he continued. "That was certainly a time when all fishermen like to hug the stove in the grocery, wind howlin' like mad, a drivin' mist cutting like hail, a hundred leagues of water outside the Gut tenanted by one lone boat—and the Daring had to find them, an' she did, more power to them. There be those who say 'What's the use o' a life-savin' station?' and they's the very first to run to the telephone an' cry into it, 'My man's out that somewhar, and see how late it is an' it's blowin' somethin' fierce—can't you go an' save him?'"

I do want you thoroughly to understand that his "goin' and savin' him" is an infinitely harder task than the "finding of a needle in a haystack." If you have ever traveled at night in a great steamer you know how hard it is to see big sailing craft, even with their riding lights. How much more difficult for this plunging lifeboat to find the wee motor boat when its men have to be lashed to the thwarts to save themselves from going overboard?

"They tells you of the Agnes Donaghue. Thar was a drivin' nor'wester pilin' great breakers right in on Point Prim light, and she could not weather it—BUMP! Crash! Bang! She went ashore and the waters came over like a flood. I'd 'a' gone out to her in my boat if I could of launched it, but the waves was cruel high and I was hip deep in behind my boat an' fearing she would break up. We got my boat ashore and the light's wire was hummin' for them life-savers—they phone after them any hour of night or day—even if a puppy gets swept off shore, I t'ink," he continued. "Wall—thar the wreck lay an' the waves breakin' over her and the Daring a couple of miles off yet. If ever you seen a sight you ought to o' seen that thar lifeboat as she come on towards Point Prim. She was riding them big white seas the way I 'av' seen picters of niggers a-riding surf boats in Hlleluia. (eHy meant Honolulu.) On she comes and they ride down a crest—out goes the lines and off through the awful smother goes the men. I tell ye it was some sight while she bucked an' reared on the skyline like a drunken collier. Then she makes a big dive ahead, gets a bit of way on, turns through a solid wave that gives them bits of self-bailer things somethin' to do, and off they ride over the big seas, splashing like a wounded duck, but with every man safe if not dry."

I heard from others and a little bit of authentic word from the life-savers themselves, of how they rescured the steamer Westport, afire at sea, St. John to Eastport. "I'll tell ye somethin'," went on my seafaring acquaintance. "Some o' the neighbors sort o' covet what they call the 'soft job' of them there life-savers—but they should of gone out and brought that blazin' wreck into Digby—under her own power a bit—an' the fire laddies put the blaze out."(That was, I found, in 1923.)

My old fisherman was a bit dramatic, too. "Listen," says he, "do you hear them kiddies laughin' an' squealin'? Well, in that group are sixteen children whose daddies were lost at night out thar in the blackness. Of course the women got the phone working and soon the little life-boat was crestin' the incomers goin' out the Gut. I hear'n it was an awful night. 'Tie yourselves in,' said the cox'in, and every man was lashed down and soon held down under tons of water that broke over. It was dark as in my pigsty at midnight, but the Daring kept on and searched mile after mile for that driftin' motor boat. Men told me after that the crew ought to have 'bout ship and run in the way them seas was a-fillin' her, but they kept right at it an' you couldn't see an oar's length off—an' the engineer knew of a weak bit he should replace, but he dare not open up in that devilish sea, so he kept on hopin' it wouldn't break, an' by the mercy of God they came forninst that drifting fishermen's boat and saved them."

Fisherman Lost in Storm.

Again I heard from men of these brave lifesavers towing the schooner Effort into Digby harbor after she had lost her mainmast. If you are up on seawork you will know how hard it is to tow a plunging, sailless thing into any port. They also saved the schooner General Hogg. Helping to pull her off the jagged reef they poured their men aboard her and saved her from instant destruction with the loss of all hands.

Oh, it's a good work and a message of cheer you get when you enquire about these life-saving men. It seems to be a commonplace event for the phone to ring out, "Schooner ashore—come on an' get her off," a nice message to so small a craft as the Daring, even if she is powerful. She answered the call and got the steamer Centerville off a very bad spot, and as well as saving the schooner Neva from pounding to pieces before the next tide went.

Yet the Daring is but 38 feet over all, only 9 feet wide and none too deep—but her 35-40 horse-power engines give her great dragging power and speed, eight to nine miles per hour.

It is when you get down to cases and dig up the records of the Digby life-saving station that you are appalled that any government would ever shut it up as it was from August, 1922, to October, 1923.

The total of the wrecks is large, but small compared to the mighty list of fishermen's derelict motor boats this handy, small, powerful craft has towed safely into the home harbor out of the greedy clutch of Fundy's often fatal waters.

One rescued man told me: "I broke down just about a mile off the Gut. It was then 'bout four o'clock on a November day, and it had been dull an' threatening since noon. I monkeyed with the engine until dark an' used all my matches trying to see how to doctor it. It was about ten o'clock at night, an' I was very hungry, as I took only a wee bit of food with me an' I had only a little water. I felt the air and the sting of a haildrop and knew the wind was not far off. Onct, when a rift came in the murk, I saw the light on Prim Point, an' I knew I was 'bout five miles out with the ebb of the tide. Like a door falling down that wind struck and laid me over until I took in clean green seas over the rail. All I could do was steer and drift off ahead of the wind, clear across the bay, to see if I could live it out, for I was wet an' my hands were soaked in my old mitts. I could see outen the corner of my eye the curling devil behind me, but the old boat reared up on every crest, and I sank down out of the wind for the space of a minit. I sat grippin' the wheel and pickin' out Christmas gifts for the childer—you see I have ten—an' I got up as a hard gust hit me and stung me awake. I knew the old woman would be rockin' and wailin', but I guessed she had been down to the stors an' phoned over to them soldiers that were taking the lifeboat out of quarters. Thank God, sir, it was out an' not boarded up in the station, as it had been for so long while we lost boat after boat an' men that could 'a' been saved, sir.

Thought Husband a Ghost.

"It was freezin' hard, 'cause my mitts was froze fast to the wheel, an' I let them be, 'cause it's best to freeze your hands to oar or tiller when youse lost. I know it well. I rowed two hundred miles from the Grand Banks into Cape Sable an' me hands has never been as good, sir, from the frostin' they got them five days. I was about nine miles out now by what I thought was midnight, and it was blowin' harder every hour an' the snow was lashin' along straight over the waves. Once I was sure I heard a motor engine. I was dozing then, I guess, as I goes to sleep most easy when I am cold, an' I do remember I was shivering like a young calf in a May snowstorm."

All this time the Daring had been rearing madly over the crests of the combers. All they had to go by was the hope that the missing boat had broken down off the Gut and they knew the ways of tide and wind, but the cold and the murk bothered them and they were cramped in their lashings. Truly the drifting fisherman may have heard them for once, in a less violent moment in the gale, the cox'un had dared to unrope and creep aft and to get into the engine room. He feared the lubricator would go wrong; he knew of a weakness he must repair. So in that midnight race for life, when they only did nine miles in six hours in the raging seas, he tried to 'et into the engine room, unlashed and made it—just in time to help fix her up. All this time the lookouts, through streaming volumes of water, were trying to pierce the gloom and see if mayhaps they were passing the unfortunate fisherman. Once, in a moment of brightness, they did see him—joyful moment, one chance in a million. Now, fellow landsmen, remember seeing is not saving; the really trying moment is when the life-savers' boat tries to pick up and transfer, or take in tow the derelict—I'll let the fisherman resume:

"I think I must have slept again, for I opened my eyes and as truly as I am a living man I heard the roar of an engine. It was a long time, too, before I made out just where they were. I guessed they had spied me an' were running ahead to try and drop down or fling me a line, as the case might be, but I found I was so cold I couldn't be of much help. I sort of saw them an' heard them yell, but for the life of me I couldn't move. I think I fell asleep again, and I woke up 'cause someone trod on my toe an' I told him just what I thought of him. I guess I had had some rough handlin', 'cause I was soaked an' in the life-savers' craft, an' the fellow next to me was all ice an' I was, oh! so stiff, not cold, mind you—I was tingling all over. They was good to me on the way in, and I got a bit of the breath of life 'tween my lips once more, an' the ole heart started to pound again, an' I'll be blessed if every man jack of me folks wasn't sitting around the red-hot stove sobbin' and cryin' like a lot of silly billies when I walked in just as grandfather's ole clock struck five, and my wife—lost her wits a bit, I guess—for she said, lost-like, "Won't you draw up an' have a bite, sir?' to me, an' then just slid down to the floor like a bag of salt.

"She told me next day she thought I was my own ghost, and I told her, 'Not a bit of it.' I was alive an' hearty save maybe a bit frosted, an' I had seen on the log of the station that I put the record of saved fishermsn's boats past the 300 mark—an 'I'll say good-day to you, sir."

TO AVOID LUMPS.

You will never have lumpy soups or sauces if you mix salt with the flour before moistening it. Stir with a fork instead of a spoon.

ALFONSO PRAISES SPAIN'S DICTATOR

But Criticizes Attitude of Government Towards League of Nations.

PARIS, June 28. — (Canadian Press.)—"If there were grave trouble in Spain, do you think that I would be here now?" said King Alfonso to Robert Devless, member of the French Academy, in an interview for the Figaro. King lauded the regime of Gen. Primo De Rivera who is virtually dictator in Spain.

Speaking of Spain's attitude towards the League of Nations, Alfonso said:

"I have been and am still a most ardent partisan of the League, but it seems to me it is dangerous to try and compose that Assembly of inter-belligerents as inter-allies. Wouldn't it be better to introduce neutrals who, under certain circumstances, might bring a priceless influence with their impartiality?"

ANOTHER WOMAN TO BE GUILLOTINED

French Court Sentences Madame Moulot to Die for Murder.

PARIS, June 28 (United News).—For the second time in two months a French Court has sentenced a woman to the guillotine.

Madame Moulot, who was charged with murdering her neighbors in the Voges Mountains, was given the death sentence Friday, and her two male companions in crime were sentenced to hard labor for life.

Two women now await final action of the President of France as to whether or not they shall slide under the knife of the guillotine.

"La Hierrie," who was convicted by a jury of having poisoned twenty victims, is the other apparently doomed woman. According to French custom a woman murderer is referred to not as "Mr." or "Miss" but as "the" and thus the two condemned prisoners are referred to as "Le Hierrie" and "La Moulot."

The last such legal execution of a woman in France occurred in 1886 and ever since the presidents of France have been inclined against chopping off the heads of convicted women prisoners.

THE JACKSON PARK CAMP.

The Peterboro Health Association's summer camp at Jackson Park is to begin operations tomorrow.

In previous years this splendid camp has brought happiness and a fresh hope to many a Peterboro child and there is every reason to expect even better results from this summer's effort.

The Health Association has earned community gratitude in many ways, but none of its activities perhaps has such a popular appeal as the Jackson Park camp, which reaches out and gathers in a host of little folks who need fresh air, sunshine, a scientific diet and supervised recreation.

The people of Peterboro who have generously supported the Health Association's work are deeply interested in the summer camp, and the satisfaction that is felt in the successful working out of this splendid idea would be increased were citizens to visit Jackson Park this summer and see for themselves how well the children there are looked after and how great is the enjoyment of the little folks.

SUMMER JOY FOR EVERY BOY.

Today some forty Peterboro boys are experiencing the joy of camp life as guests at the Y.M.C.A.-Rotary Boys' Camp at Clear Lake.

For nine weeks this splendid camp will remain open and during that time it is hoped that a very large number of boys will have had the opportunity of a real holiday under ideal conditions.

The Y.M.C.A.-Rotary Camp cannot be too highly commended to parents.

It offers a safe, well supervised vacation, an outing from which every boy should return benefitted not only in health but in every other way.

A boys' camp is in a sense a training school at which there is a chance to implant in youthful minds suggestions that may be of the greatest benefit later on in life, and this chance will not be neglected at the Y.M.C.A.-Rotary Camp.

Few cheaper vacations offer themselves.

Thanks to the co-operation between the Y.M.C.A. and the Rotary Club, it has been possible to keep the weekly fee down to $4.00 per boy.

The Rotary Club has placed its splendid camp under the direction of the Y.M.C.A. in order to extend the period of usefulness of the plant over the entire summer, and under this system it is hoped that many boys who up to the present have never experienced the solid joy of camp life at its best will this year have their inning.

AN ABUSE OF HOSPITALITY.

It is said that "no trespassing" signs are becoming more numerous on Ontario farms. If so, it means that decent motorists are being punished for the sins of hoodlums, says the London Advertiser. Farmers used to be most good-natured and hospitable in their treatment of motoring parties who used their property for picnics. The pleasure-seekers could let down the gates, pick out a convenient spot beside a stream, light a fire, cook a meal, and roam about unmolested amid scenes of natural beauty. The farm became a free park for city visitors.

Some motorists appreciated the farmer's goodness, and acted like civilized human beings. They burned or carried away all rubbish such as remains after a picnic. They were careful to extinguish fires. They destroyed no property. Others acted in exactly the opposite way. They broke down young trees and used them for firewood, pulled up wild flowers, defaced the landscape with paper, cans and bottles. They acted like barbarians. Naturally the farmer's resentment was aroused. He began to ask what would happen to him if he camped on the garden or boulevard of a city man, still more if he pulled up flowers, broke down trees, and strewed a lawn with cans, bottles and waste paper. Now come the no trespassing signs, which are likely to become common unless decent motorists assert themselves.

What they ought to do is to declare in the most public way their disapproval of the conduct of the black sheep who act in this disgraceful manner. Motor Leagues ought to distribute warnings against these practices, if they have not already done so. Farmers should take the numbers of the cars of offenders and report them to the Motor League or to the authority issuing the license, and the license should be cancelled if the offence is proved. Prosecutions for trespass should be instituted against all persons who abuse the farmers' hospitality.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

On Saturday the Examiner published the death record of the first eight accident hazards as listed by the Ontario Safety League.

Today we are glad to print for the benefit of our readers the league's suggestions as to the best way of preventing accidents from these causes.

1.—Drowning: Teach your children to swim, and see that they bathe in protected areas until you are sure they can swim.

2.—Death from automobiles, trucks and motorcycles: Teach your children to play in playgrounds, parks and vacant lots only, to look before crossing streets, to cross at intersections only, to let the moving vehicle pass before crossing the street, to look for the vehicle coming in the opposite direction, to keep their heads inside of the windows when riding on cars.

3.—Falls: Teach your children to look out for slippery sidewalks, banana skins and orange peelings, and to keep away from open excavations, uncovered manholes and buildings in the course of construction.

4.—Death from railroads: Teach your children to keep off railroad tracks, railroad crossings, and the railroad right-of-way.

5.—Burns and scalds: Do not leave your children alone in the house. Do not leave pans of hot or boiling material near the edge of the stove or table where the children may pull them down on themselves. Many a child has been scalded during a moment's absence of its mother.

6.—Fires: See that matches are not within the reach of children. See that the coal-oil can is carefully put away. Clean out the rubbish from under the basement stairs. Provide one or two fire extinguishers for your home. Be sure everyone in the family knows where the extinguisher hangs and how it is operated, where the nearest fire-alarm box is located and the method of sending in alarms. When a fire occurs, call the fire department immediately. See that gas jets are not adjacent to woodwork or curtains.

7.—Gas poisoning: Do not use gas stoves or heaters with rubber hose connection. Have a proper metal pipe connection made. A mother of four small children locked them in the house and went to see a neighbor; on her return, she found the four children dead, from gas poisoning. One of the children had opened the gas cock on the stove. Never leave small children alone. See that there are no flexible connections from the gas supply to the gas stove.

8.—Gunshot: To save children from this hazard, teach them that all fire arms are loaded, and not to touch them under any circumstances.

VOICING THE NEEDS OF EASTERN ONTARIO.

Eastern Ontario effected an organization in Belleville, on Friday, from which big things are expected. The association was started under splendid auspices. The presence of over one hundred representatives from some thirty municipalities demonstrated the interest in the movement. All were keenly alive to the neglect of the Provincial and Federal Governments in the past, in not giving the help required to make this section of the Province the equal of other parts. True, the apathy may have been due to the lack of pressure on our own part, but it was quite evident, from the expressions of representative men, that the Governments had overlooked Eastern Ontario in providing benefits in the way of electric power, transportation facilities and other especially helpful schemes that would have stimulated industrial life, with all the advantages that followed therefrom. The association hopes to bring about better conditions, and will bring its united force to bear upon the powers to be for a full share of all measures for the advancement, progress and prosperity of this old and well populated section of the Province.

Agriculturally, Eastern Ontario ranks first in dairy products, holds a fine place in the growing of grains and has unlimited natural resources that need development. Industrially, it is not equal to Western Ontario and the real cause of this is the neglect of the government bodies in giving the municipalities adequate electric energy. From all parts, from Oshawa to Cornwall and northerly to the line of the Ottawa River, the general feeling was that the Hydro-Electric Commission had been laggard in its work in providing a network of lines, with efficient power for all purposes. It was said that power would be provided when industries were in sight, but the meeting felt this was a wrong viewpoint. The Hydro should have such an abundance of power that industries would flock to the eastern centres to take it up.

And this energy is available in unlimited quantities in Eastern Ontario; the water to generate the power is going to waste in many places. It only needs to be harnessed. And in not availing itself of these sources of supply Eastern Ontario believes the Hydro authorities have been indeed delinquent. Rather than making the Gatineau power, recently contracted for Eastern Ontario, as was expected, the Hydro proposes to shoot it over a high-powered line and step it down for Western Ontario consumers, while the east must depend on meagerly equipped and inadequate power facilities. The deprivation of Eastern Ontario of its logical sources of unlimited power is conceived to be lamentable and unwarranted. What is Eastern Ontario's real need is unprovided, though, forsooth, we are told to wait for the St. Lawrence development, whenever that time may be. Eastern Ontario can be starved for all the electric power people care. This, however, will not be tolerated, for the people in the east are thoroughly aroused and through the association will insist on speedy remedies being applied.

Transportation, easy access to all parts of Eastern Ontario, by means of good roads, was stressed at the convention and the demand for treatment equal to other parts was insistent. This was the second outstanding requirement, voiced by many, so that Eastern Ontario may have an opportunity for easy and quick communication, for the showing to the world its great scenic beauty and to make the great mineral deposits accessible and marketable.

The convention was marked by unanimity of thought, vigorous and earnest for action in remedying eastern grievances and energetic in placing the work of direction and application upon a sane, alert and determined body of officers.

Eastern Ontario has the chance of making itself felt in the places of power. It will require zeal and enthusiasm and the people in all our municipalities must rally to the call.—Kingston Whig.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Some recreation spots are so quiet and peaceful you can rest there almost as well as you can at home.

Wouldn't it be nice if you could wear a pair of new shoes a few days before putting them on?

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Grain elevators in the southwest reported already overflowing and still larger arrivals there looked for on Monday gave a downward slant to wheat values on Saturday. Increase of selling pressure from the new harvest left the July delivery of wheat at only about one cent premium over September as compared with four cents the day previous. The wheat market as a whole closed irregular, 1 1-8c net lower to 3-8c advance; corn unchanged to 1-2c higher; oats 3-8 to 5-8 at 3-4 off, and provisions varying from 20c decline to an equal gain.

With primary receipts today more than double those of a week ago, the wheat market soon began to give way after an early upturn. The immediate weakening factor was announcement of liberal sales of wheat at Kansas City to be sent to Chicago as a measure of relief for storage room at Kansas City. Special notice was also taken of word that Wichita, Kansas, had received today 461 carloads of wheat, the biggest single day's total on record for that market, and that 750 carloads were expected at Wichita Monday. Hutchison and other harvest centers in Kansas were likewise reporting receipts of unusual magnitude. Advice telling of rains causing delay to threshing as well as damage to the quality of wheat had but little lasting effect toward lifting values in view of indications of yields both in Kansas and Oklahoma away above recent estimates. Relative firmness of Liverpool quotations appeared also to be virtually ignored, export demand for North American wheat being comparatively slow despite a forecast of smaller world shipments.

Cool weather tended somewhat to rally the corn market. Oats lacked support and fell to the lowest level yet this season.

Provisions reflected the weakness of grain.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 28.—(Canadian Press).—Saturday's session of the Montreal grain market was extremely dull owing to the absence of any firm bids from foreign buyers. The demand for ocean grain room from this port continued good and a fair amount of business was done for July loading to the United Kingdom at firm rates.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also inactive, the demand being only for odd cars, but the tone was steady.

The spring and winter wheat flour markets were extremely dull but prices were well maintained.

A moderate amount of business was transacted in all lines of millfeed but the feeling continued unsettled. Prices, however, remained unchanged. The market for standard grade of rolled oats were quiet but firm.

Prices for all grades of eggs ruled steady under a fair demand. The receipts were 5,085 cases.

The feeling in the butter market continued easier and prices closed 1-2c to 3-4c per pound lower than a week ago. Indications are that they will go still lower. The receipts were 6,883 packages.

The feature of the cheese trade this week has been the weaker tone and prices closed 3-8 to 1-2c per pound below a week ago. The receipts were 20,939 boxes.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 28.—(Canadian Press)—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.85 3-8.
Sterling cables, $4.85 7-8.

JUBILEE SERVICE

guide them in the years to come. Beginning a new half century, as it were, it was a day of high resolves for the future, and God's guidance would be needed, and should be sought. He reminded them of the days when other voices and other forms would replace theirs in this sphere, and the present members, their duty done, would go to join with those who have gone before. "Let us go on unto perfection," he said, closing with a quotation:

"Thy hand, O God, has guided,
Thy flock from age to age;
The wondrous tale is written,
Full clear, on every page;
Our fathers owned Thy goodness,
And we their deeds record;
And both of this bear witness,
One Church, one Faith, one Lord.

"The mercy will not fail us,
Nor leave Thy work undone;
With Thy right hand to help us,
The victory shall be won;
And then by men and angels,
Thy name shall be adored.
And this shall be their anthem—
One Church, One Faith, one Lord."

During the service the rector read a message from the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, who was rector of the parish from 1901 to 1911, expressing his regret at being unable to attend and his prayer for future blessing on the church. He also gave a similar message from the Rev. Walter H. White, rector from 1915 to 1921. The third of the former rectors still alive, the Rev. Canon Sawers of St. Matthew's church, Toronto, will be the preacher next Sunday morning, with the Rev. Rural Dean, the Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton of Norwood, the speaker in the evening.

The hymns and anthem sung yesterday were most appropriate. Tre hymns were "On our Way Rejoising," "What thanks and praise to Thee we Owe," "The Church's One Foundation," and "Now Thank we All Our God." while the anthem was "Let us Heartily Rejoice." A large well-trained choir led the singing.

TRIUMPH

THE Crusades were the greatest united movement of the Christian World. The TRIUMPH of the First Crusade, which captured the Holy Land and Jerusalem in 1099, A.D., was the most picturesque Triumph of History. Picture in your mind the Crusaders when, from the hills nearby, they first set their longing eyes upon the Sacred City of Jerusalem. No TRIUMPH ever recorded appealed in its day with such dramatic interest to every member of the Christian Universe as did the rescue of the Holy City from the Infidels. It was the dream of centuries realized, the dream of the Christian World, the Triumph of faith and zeal through struggle and hardship, the TRIUMPH of an Ideal.

THERE are TRIUMPHS of zeal and confidence in an ideal even in these days. It was a Triumph won by science through years of labor and experiment, to create a tire that gives such comfort, reliability and service as the "Gutta Percha" Tire. Many years have chemists and engineers studied and experimented in laboratories at great expense, to find the rubber compounds and balanced construction needed to make an ideal automobile tire. Triumph at last! The satisfaction that comes to a benefactor of mankind is the rightful reward of those who have contributed to the Triumph of a practical ideal—the "G.P." Balloon Tire.

ANY motorist may share in the benefits of the Triumph of Science in producing the ideal Tire. He may enjoy the Comfort of Easy Riding over rough roads; the Economy of Great Mileage with practically no Repair Cost; the Safety assured by tires that do not suddenly go to pieces on a risky road or when going at high speed; the Peace of Mind that comes from knowing his tires are reliable and will cause no trouble or delay on a trip or tour, if he equips his car with "Gutta Percha" Tires. The Triumph of the Perfect Tire is as much a satisfaction to the Tire Maker as it is to the User who enjoys its benefits.

LYNN FAMILY RE-UNION BRINGS TOGETHER HUNDRED DESCENDANTS

VITAL CANADIANS.

Some of the Family Met Kinsfolk For First Time.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, June 28. — Nearly one hundred descendants of Robert Lynn, a pioneer of Rawdon Township, in Hastings County, met together Saturday for a picnic among the daisies at Crow River Bridge, not many miles from the cemetery where Robert Lynn himself has long since been sleeping beneath the daisies that carpet the countryside in the fullness of another summer. So pleasant and significant was the gathering that it will likely result in an annual reunion of the family, some of whom met their kinsfolk for the first time Saturday. It was a happy gathering of the Lynn clan from Stirling, Madoc, Marmora, Belleville, Toronto, Akron, Ohio and other cities and from townships in Hastings and its neighboring counties—men and women of advancing years, young married couples just taking up the burden of life, boys and girls in their teens down to the youngest of the Lynn blood, the seven-month-old daughter of Mrs. Percy Mumby, latest of the great grandchildren of Robert Lynn.

Among the grandchildren present were the following children of James Lynn, who died a year ago: Mrs. Jonathan Thayne and Mrs. Sam. Wallace, of Wellman's Corners, Rawdon Township; Mrs. Bolter Johnston and Mrs. Louis Wilson, of Rawdon; Alfred Lynn, William Lynn and Bogart Lynn, also of Rawdon Township, and Mrs. Robert Lynn, of Menie. The homestead is occupied by Bogart, the youngest son.

Robert Lynn, who founded this vital and fecund Canadian family, came from Ireland established the homestead on the 7th Concession of Rawdon. Mrs. Jane Hogle, of Toronto, his surviving daughter, attended the picnic on Saturday. She has only one brother, George Lynn, who lives in the United States. Robert Lynn, the pioneer, is buried near Burnbrae. Among those present were James Irwin, Dominion cheese grader at Belleville, and Charles Lynn, cheese inspector, Stirling.

The celebration of this first union of the numerous relatives followed the usual picnic programme, including a softball game between the married and single men, dinner at the tables provided on the grounds and early supper necessitated by the Saturday evening's farm duties. Rain rather spoiled the dinner hour, but its unpleasantness was soon forgotten. The automobiles parked around the picnic place indicated that the posterity of Robert Lynn have secured a substantial share of this world's goods.

Shocked By Fatality.

Town and country friends of Mrs. W. I. Stillman, who was killed in the motor accident on the Keene Road, near Peterboro, Friday, have hardly recovered yet from the shock caused by the news of her death. The Stillman and Diamond families have been prominent in Campbellford affairs, and both Mrs. Stillman and Mrs. Diamond have been active in social and other phases of the community's life. The suddenness of Mrs. Stillman's death and the very circumstances of the fatal accident combined to intensify the public's reaction to the first reports from Peterboro, and upon immediate reflection to emphasize the loss the community had suffered in her death.

Mrs. Stillman was born at Lindsay about 57 years ago, and is survived by her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Dolman, of Campbellford, and by three brothers, Harry and George Jackman of Lindsay and John of Winnipeg. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. W. L. Elliott, pastor of the United Church, officiating. Mrs. Stillman's body was brought to Campbellford Saturday afternoon by Comstock's of Peterboro.

It was understood here over the week-end that Mr. Stillman's condition was regarded as serious, but it was expected that he would recover. Mr. Stillman is a retail grocer, his store being on Bridge Street, and Mr. T. L. Diamond is a real estate agent, with office on Front Street.

ALL BODIES FOUND.

Remains of Sixth Drowing Victim Taken From River.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 28.—The body of Annie McIntyre, aged 14, the sixth member of the launch party drowned in the river a week ago yesterday, was recovered at 9.10 o'clock last night by a boat manned by the Navy League. The body was found, as were the others, in practically the spot where the accident occurred.

LOST BOAT'S CREW 12 MEN ARE MISSING

Gloucester Fishing Schooner in Flames, Abandoned Last Wednesday.

HALIFAX, June 28 (Canadian Press). — Fears were being expressed yesterday that twelve men from the Gloucester fishing schooner Falmouth, missing since last Wednesday morning, when the vessel, a mass of flames, was abandoned 24 miles off Sable Island, have been lost, no word of their fate having been received from any quarter. The twelve are part of the crew of 21 men, Captain Carlson and eight other members having managed to land on Sable Island some hours after the loss of their vessel by fire. The missing men, whose names were ascertained yesterday by C. H. Harvey, agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department, here, are the following: Scott Dorsey, Lenord Hans, Jaker, Oscar Holmes, Julie Amirault, John Amirault, Lester Scholes, John Forrestall, John O'Neil, Dan Nelson, Cecil Hamilton, John Goodick and John Hickey. While the men all shipped out of Gloucester, it is believed the majority of them hail from the western part of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Harvey said yesterday that he still felt the men might have been picked up by a vessel that has not been able to reply them and pointed out that the particular section of the North Atlantic in which the accident occurred has been shrouded in fog ever since the men put off from their vessel in dories. The Canadian Government steamer Aranmore has been prevented from making any search owing to the dense fog, having been forced to remain in port five days. Providing the men were supplied with sufficient food and water to survive, he believed it possible that with the disappearance of the fog they had fair hopes of being rescued.

WORLD MIGHT REJECT CHRIST IF HE RETURNED AGAIN TO-DAY

Lloyd George Thinks Cabinet Ministers Would Regard Saviour as Undesirable.

FLOWER SERVICE.

21st Century Gospels Might Be Compiled From Police Notes.

LONDON, June 28.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Speaking at a "flower service" at the Welsh Baptist chapel here yesterday, David Lloyd George said he was not sure that Jesus Christ would be accepted if He visited the world to-day. If He had come during the recent general strike, the Liberal leader thought, His utterances would have been excluded from the columns of the British Gazette, the official government organ, by Winston Churchill's editorial blue pencil. Certainly the Sermon on the Mount would have been cut out.

Mr. Lloyd George said that equality, the right of the individual and the brotherhood of man, three doctrines of Christianity, were the most subversive and revolutionary doctrines ever preached in the world.

"If Christ had visited England during the strike, I rather think Sir William Joynson Hicks, (Secretary of State for Home Affairs), would have had Him watched as a dangerous character preaching doctrines subversive to the institutions of the country," Lloyd George said. "You probably would find that the next edition of the Gospels published in the 21st century would be compiled, not from the recollections of His disciples, but from notes taken by police attending His addresses."

Peter Was a Bad Shot But He Got Himself

MONTREAL, June 28. — Peter J. Jaftrzemske, 39, of Saratoga, N.Y., is in a serious condition at a local hospital with a self-inflicted bullet wound in the region of his heart.

The man fired the bullet into his breast after he had shot eight times at a city detective and two house detectives in the Windsor Hotel, when he was accosted by the officers Saturday morning.

While no charge was laid against the New Yorker, it is thought that Detective Savard, of the pickpocket and race track squad, wished to question the man.

None of the shots directed at the officers took effect.

Radio Detrimental In Minister's Opinion

LONDON, Ont., June 28. — "Quite detrimental to a helpful life—the radio, as it is to-day, with repeated programmes of jazz, raucously played like a jamborine of all kinds of noisy instruments, has a bad influence."

So Rev. J. Bruce Hunter, pastor of Metropolitan United Church, expresses himself in a plea for better radio programs, the elimination of clashy jazz with the substitution of the more ancient and elevating melodies.

KLAN MEETING AT BELLEVILLE

Speakers Say Organization Is To Uphold British Ideals.

1,500 PRESENT.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 28.—The Ku Klux Klan staged a mammoth demonstration here yesterday with fifteen hundred klansmen and their wives taking part. A large field on the north-western outskirts of the city was thronged with members of the organization, of townspeople and visitors in the afternoon, when speeches were delivered by several of the prominent leaders of the Klan, and a drill was put on by the visiting klanswomen.

The main points in the speech-making revealed the fact that the K.K.K. is not an anti-Catholic, not an anti Jewish order, but had outlined a definite, clear programme to maintain the old British ideals which the speakers said were in imminent danger of decay with the ever increasing influx of the foreign element into Canada.

Following the church service the Klansmen returned to the fields where three crosses were burned and a number of candidates initiated into the Order.

Shampoo Powders Bad For the Hair

Most shampoo powders, and prepared shampoos, contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

BETTY BALFOUR
Charming British Star
How she keeps her hair beautiful

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use).

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store—it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations—look for the name Watkins on the package.

VOLTAIRE CHOSEN AS PATRON SAINT

French Journalists Elect Poet Playwright To This Office.

(By Harold Butcher.)

Voltaire—poet, playwright, novelist, letter-writer, historian, critic, philosopher, theologian, socialist, philanthropist, agriculturist, humorist, reformer, wit, skeptic and man of the world—has just been acclaimed, by a publicite of French journalists, the "patron saint" of their craft. This George Bernard Shaw of the eighteenth century in France, with his sardonic wit that merely served as a cloak for his intense belief in history, led all competitors.

Not that these French journalists confined their candidates to Frenchmen. St. Paul received seven votes, "despite," says M. Paul Souday in the Temps, "his bad Greek." M. Souday admitted, however, that in the Epistles St. Paul showed a journalist's facility in touching upon a variety of topics. St. Francis de Sales ran him close with six votes; he was nominated as patron saint of journalism early in the century by Pope Pius X. John the Baptist, St. John who wrote the Gospel that bears his name, St. Antony of Padua, Moses and "the authors of the Bible," also received votes. Christ was chosen by some who sought an ideal as well as a universal figure. Among other candidates were Diderot, St. Simon, Rochefort and Victor Hugo. But Voltaire overtopped them all.

Devoted to Liberty.

"Journalist," in the limited sense of one who writes for newspapers and magazines, was not a term that would describe Voltaire's versatile genius and his remarkable output of literary works. But as one who wrote vigorously and unremittingly in the cause of human liberty—and every great journalist has done that—Voltaire was a journalist supreme. "God and Liberty," he pronounced as a benediction on the head of Benjamin Franklin's grandson, when the great American statesman took the seventeen-year-old lad to see the aged Voltaire in Paris. And he believed in both God and liberty; for, contrary to a common impression, he was a convinced Deist. His devotion to liberty was shown by the way he employed his pen to right the wrongs inflicted by bigotry and tyranny. He was anti-church, not anti-Christ.

Francois Marie Arouet—for that was his original name until he changed it, for better luck, when in the Bastille—was born on November 21, 1694. He was in the historic prison on account of a seditious poem, which he did not write. His record at that age, 23, was such that if he didn't write the poem the authorities knew he was quite capable of doing so.

He had a good start in life, being the son of substantial middle-class people, who gave him an excellent education under the Jesuit Fathers. A certain Abbe de Chateauneuf, a worldly abbe of aristocratic birth, to whose care he had been entrusted by his mother (who died when he was 7), introduced him to the most aristocratic circles of French society. His own astounding gifts did the rest.

Prison His Parnassus.

True, his rebellious and freedom-loving spirit landed him in the Bastille, but that was nothing; most of the literary men of the period were bastilled some time or other. Young Arouet, in addition to changing his name, employed his time in a room supplied with books, a fire, good wine and excellent coffee, in composing works that increased his fame. "His prison became his Parnassus," said Frederick the Great, his somewhat embarrassing friend of later years.

His new name did bring him good fortune. A few months after he had left the Bastille his tragedy of "Oedipus" was performed with such success that he was hailed as the legitimate successor of Corneille and Racine. The years that followed were years of intense literary activity.

Hendrik Willem Van Loon, in his book, "Tolerance," devotes a chapter to Voltaire, and picks out the high spots in the drama of Voltaire's career. He is compelled to select as the high spots those very features that justify the French journalists' election of Voltaire as the patron of their craft. That is, he writes of Voltaire's "publicity stunts," engineered with definite purpose for the righting of wrongs done to victims of religious persecution, such as Jean Calas, Espinas, Chaumont, Sirven and La Barre. When at last death overtook Voltaire in 1778, in the eighty-fourth year of his age, it was the power of his crusading pen that was commemorated on the sarcophagus used at his magnificent funeral. "He avenged Calas, La Barre, Sirven and Montbailli. Poet, philosopher, historian, he gave a great impetus to the human mind: he prepared us to become free."

"Voltaire, the greatest of all virtuosos in the field of free advertisement," writes Van Loon, "has very often been blamed for the way in which he sometimes played upon the tomtom of public consciousness. Perhaps he did not always show the best of good taste. But those whose lives he saved may have felt differently about it."

Take the famous Calas affair. "In Toulouse, a hotbed of religious bigotry in 1761, there lived Jean Calas, an agreeable fellow, 63 years old and a Protestant—but by no means a bigot, for one of his sons was a Catholic—who became the victim of persecution arising out of the death, by suicide, of his son Mark Anthony. Mark Anthony was of the morbid type; his career as a lawyer was hindered because he was not a Catholic; his brother Louis had become a Catholic against his advice; and Mark had to give up another career through his father's lack of capital. He brooded until he hanged himself.

In agitation at discovering the act the family committed its first mistake. A suicide would be dragged naked, head to the ground, through the streets. To avoid this shame his people denied that he had taken his own life. Then what had happened? The crowd that gathered soon decided the question. Obviously the old father had overcome his strong and vigorous son and murdered him because he would not become a Catholic!

This explanation was believed. In the torture chamber Calas was subjected to refined and exquisite mutilations. His body was stretched until every limb was drawn from its socket. From time to time he said he was innocent, but that counted for nothing. He was strangled and burned, and his family banished.

Won Restitution From King.

Voltaire heard of the story, but at first could not believe that a bench of Judges had caused an innocent man to be put to death. But presently he heard the true story from Donat Calas, the youngest son. His feelings were intensely roused. He could not get the case out of his mind. He collected evidence, wrote innumerable letters, interested influential people who could help him in getting another trial. For three years, so he said, a smile did not escape him for which he did not reproach himself as for a crime.

With rare journalistic ability, writing with that simplicity so easy to read and so hard to attain; turning out pamphlets that were translated and published in Germany and England; rousing the consciences of his countrymen (and yet never forgetting to season his arguments with the wit they expected), he so won public opinion to his side that after the three-year fight he triumphed. The dead Calas was vindicated, and some measure of restitution was made by the King to the family.

Christ Among the Defeated.

Benjamin Franklin, on his last visit to Paris in 1778, when the city went delirious in its greetings to him, took his grandson to see Voltaire. It was in Paris that Voltaire died, having left such a mark upon world history that it persists today and secures his election to "sainthood" by the votes of twentieth century French scribes.

A word about the unsuccessful candidates for this high honor. The idealists who voted for Christ were bound to be handicapped by the religious associations of the name, and could not hope to win in a contest of this kind. At the same time, all religious associations put on one side, there was good argument for naming Christ as the Head of journalists. "He never wrote a line," it was said. To which came the reply, "He preached a doctrine that has spread throughout the earth. His parables ar inimitable. His friends included people of every class, which is the aim of every journalist."

St. Paul's life was as exciting as any war correspondent's. "Thrice I suffered shipwreck," he wrote. "A night and a day I have been in the deep; in journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen; in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren; in weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Nancy picked up Inco, the china elephant, in her arms, and Nick picked up Flops, the toy clown.

Then they followed the Sandman out of Shut-Eye Town, and down the road to Drowsy Land to the tall blue gate.

Snoozlesnugglesnore, the queer little moon man, opened the gate with a large key and let them out. Then he shut it again and locked it.

Right outside of the blue gate a bright moonbeam slanted down toward the earth like a sliding board.

"Come on," called the Sandman, sitting down and straddling it, his bag of sleep sand slung over his shoulder. "Wrap your legs around it so you won't fall off—like I do."

So the Twins sat down, and scarcely had they touched it when whizz! Down they flew, and in about six seconds they had reached the earth.

Just in time too, for a big black cloud went over the moon at that minute and the moonbeam disappeared.

"Now you go that way and I'll go this," said the Sandman. "And here are two tickets, the Man-in-the-Moon told me to give you. You should be in bed, but as this is something very special, you may stay up tonight to attend to it. These tickets are for the circus. There is the big tent right there. The show is just beginning."

So the Twins went in and nobody thought it queer to see two children without a grown-up. I suppose, they thought—

But there! The chief thing now is to tell you exactly what happened.

Well, just as the Twins arrived, the elephants came in for their act, holding each others tails with their trunks.

"I couldn't do that," said Inco to Nancy in a low voice. "I haven't any tail."

"But you could come at the end of the line," said Nancy, "You wouldn't need a tail."

"That's so," said Inco.

After that the elephants did all sorts of things. They played ball and danced, and bowed, and stood on their hands, I mean their front feet, and beat drums with sticks tied to their tails, and played tambourines, and balanced on barrels, and see-sawed.

Everybody clapped so hard at this that Inco said, "I wish I could do that. I think I could if I was a really elephant."

Flops was saying to Nick, "I could do all these clown tricks if I was a really clown."

And then something happened.

There came from some place, nobody knew where, a lovely white coach that glittered like a million diamonds. White pigeons and doves sat all over it and it was pulled by eight white horses. In it sat a beautiful lady who bowed and smiled as she passed.

Everybody cheered, but they would have cheered more if they had known that she was the Fairy Queen.

Instantly a pure white elephant with garlands of real roses appeared. On his back was a clown in a white suit, who blew kisses to the Twins.

Inco and Flops had disappeared but the Twins knew that they had their wish at last.

THOUSANDS ATTEND CHURCH CEREMONY

Shrine is Erected To Memory of Jesuit Martyr at Midland.

MIDLAND, Ont., June 28.—Five thousand pilgrims on Saturday and ten thousand yesterday flocked to the new church shrine, two miles from Midland, on the brow of the hill overlooking old Fort Ste. Marie, erected to the Jesuit martyrs who perished at the hands of the Iroquois Indians in 1649. On Saturday the shrine was dedicated by Cardinal O'Connell of Boston. The two bronze statues of Jean de Brebeuf and Gabriel Lalemant, which occupy niches on each side of the main entrance to the church, were unveiled by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, representing the Ontario Government. On Sunday at noon Pontifical High Mass was sung by Archbishop Neil MacNeil of Toronto, with five bishops in attendance, and the ceremonies concluded with solemn benediction in the afternoon.

Never before in the history of Canada have similar scenes been enacted as at the dedication of this, the oldest shrine in America north of Mexico. People began to arrive in Midland on Friday night and during Saturday, despite unfavorable weather, 5,600 attended the ceremonies. Among these were five hundred Boston pilgrims returning from the Eucharistic Congress at Chicago. With Cardinal O'Connell they arrived on the S.S. South America at 9.30 and proceeded to the shrine, where the Cardinal, a picturesque figure in his bright red cloak and hat, blessed the church with holy water. Owing to the weather, Mass was celebrated within the shrine and not outside, as planned, and at the conclusion the Cardinal gave an eloquent address.

Evening Examiner "IDEAL Fashions" by Jean Beth Hamilton

The Importance of the Lace Trimmed Frock

Lace and plain crêpe combine delightfully in this frock, lace flouncing fashioning the all-around gathered skirt, which has the smart upward movement in front and is topped with a band of matching insertion. The lacy touch appears again in an allover design in the full gathered sleeve puffs, while the bodice boasts the flattering V neck-line and has gathers at each shoulder. Just now there is much enthusiasm for printed materials and this design would have all the season's smartness if a printed fabric were used in place of the lace, or the dress fashioned entirely of printed material. NO. 1378 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 1¾ yards 39-inch plain material, with 2½ yards lace flouncing 27 inches wide, and ⅛ yard allover lace for sleeves; or 3⅛ yards 39-inch if dress is made all of one material. Price 20 cents.

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the newest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

The Woman's Day

Written by a Woman for Women.

Touching brightly on woman's every major interest in life from books and babies to politics and psycho analysis.

(By Allene Sumner)

BIRDS AND GIRLS.

"Birds of a feather flock together. But they don't. A girl with a beautiful fair skin and red hair marries a man who looks like a reformed orang-outang. A clergyman makes a friend of an auctioneer and a banker would rather spend a day with an adirondack fishing guide than with a whole vaultful of bankers. Burglars during the daytime go and swim in the Y.M.C.A. pool. Forger in their time off sing in the choir, and choirmasters when they are not singing, shoot craps."
—Stephen Leacock.

WOMAN'S BEAUTY.

Millicent "just can't afford a manicure every week," and she asks me how to shine her own. Like this, Milly-for-short. Have a stiff nail brush, a thin file with round edge, emery board, sharp nail scissors, orange stick, two buffers, rose powder and paste, cuticle remover, soap, powdered pumice, and bleaching cream. Shape the nails with the file: if very long, cut with scissors before shaping, the shape fits the finger; oval nails for oval fingers, squarer ones for blunter digits. Never a sharp talon-like nail. While one hand iso soaking in warm soapy water for 10 minutes, cold cream is on the other. A bleaching cream is put under the nails. Loosen cuticle with remover. Remove stains with peroxide and pumice stone. Polish.

UNFIT MAMAS.

"A child born of a woman who has been to college should be taken from the mother as soon as weaned and placed in some institution where it would be properly cared for." This statement in an irate letter from a wealthy New York manufacturer to an eastern girls' college has excited the country. But who wants to argue?

TABLE MANNERS.

The hostess is served first at a formal dinner in order that the guests may "follow suit" her manner of handling the food, and in order that she may give any necessary directions to the servant about it. A teaspoon is never left in a cup and no beverage is sipped from the spoon. The spoon is merely for stirring and one first sip from the cup. Bread is broken into small pieces before buttering. Salad is cut only with the fork.

GARDEN NOTES.

A few little don'ts from "Garden Making and Keeping" by Hugh Findlay, professor of agriculture at Columbia University, may intrigue the busy lawnmowing gudeman. "Do not," says he, "work on the lawn when it is wet. Do not cut the grass too clos during the dry periods. Do not water the lawn too often, but when you do, saturate the soil well. Much damage is done by sprinkling the surface soil especially when the sun is high. Water in the late afternoon or evening. Grass may be cut shorter during the early spring than in mid-summer or early fall. Do not cut a new lawn too closely. When the grass is about three inches high, set the lawnmower blades high, and cut just before a rain."

LELA PRAISES BARRY.

"Judy," said Joan Meredith to me solemnly, "even at that time I saw something in Barry Cornwall I could not understand, something that I could not fathom. I wondered why I should be drawn to and repelled at the same time by him. I think, perhaps, that was one of the reasons why I was fascinated by him. I always want to get to the inside of things, you know."

"Tonight for the first time I think I got there. I know what it was that repelled me."

Joan could no keep back the tears that streamed down her face. She didn't even take the trouble to brush them off as she went back to her story of her first meeting with the gigolo.

"I can never tell you how I felt at that moment while Barry looked at me. At first his face expressed—shall I say—a modicum of pity combined with contempt, then surprise, and lastly interest. He had seen something in me as well as I had found something in him that strangely interested both of us.

"'Would you like to dance?' he asked.

"Yes."

"I was surprised to hear the word issuing from my lips. I had intended to say: 'No.'

"'Did Lela show you where to buy the tickets?'

"'No.'

"'You'll have to buy some,' he informed me, and as he did so a dark flush of red spread over his face.

"Seeing that I felt my face also grow hot, I could not reconcile myself to the position he was in by letting me pay for our dances

"I think, Judy, it was the first time in my life that ever a man had let me pay any bills connected with my entertainment, while he was my escort.

"'You go and buy them for me,' I commanded. 'I'll sit here.'

"For a moment he hesitated, and then when I handed him one of the bills I had in my bag, he seated me at a nearby table and hurried away.

"While he was gone, Lela, who was the girl I had met in the park, came up to me.

"'I saw you give Barry that yellow-back, and you had better let it go at that. Its against the rules for anyone of the entertainers to buy tickets, and he is going to get a call down from the boss. He'll probably have to divvy. Consequently there'll be nothing much in it for him in a money way.'"

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of seventeen and I am coming to you for some advice. I have brown eyes, black, bobbed, shingle-cut hair, and I have been been told that I was nice looking.

When you meet anyone you know, especially a boy, is it the girl's place to speak first?

Is it polite for either a boy or girl to take each other's handkerchiefs and bar pins? Is it impolite for a young man when out driving to put his arm around the young lady? Should you invite your fellow in when he brings you home? Which is correct—for the girl to start the conversation first, or the fellow? At what age should you start going with a fellow? Is seventeen too young?

A short time ago I met a nice young man and I fell in love with him at our first going out. He goes with me occasionally, and is it right for me to go out with another fellow, when he is on the scene?

Does it matter on which side of the sidewalk the girl walks on with her gentleman friend? If a young gentleman asks you to make a date with him and you don't wish for his company, what should you say?

As we have been taking The Examiner for a long time I will expect to see this in print this week.

Your living friend,
BROWN-EYES.

BROWN EYES: (1) Yes, the girl should speak first. (2) It isn't polite to take handkerchiefs and bar-pins, but it seems to occasion a good deal of happiness to young things to possess themselves of such objects. They make collections of them, it is said. (3) No, it isn't impolite for the young man to support his companion in this manner, if she doesn't object. It may have an effect on his driving, however. (4) It all depends. If he brings you home from a dance at three o'clock in the morning, it might be as well to let him go home at once, but if prayer meeting gets out at nine o'clock, he might come in for half an hour or so without breaking any conventions. (5) Either may start the conversation first, but the young lady should allow the young man to say a few words now and then, even if she does go to bat first. (6) Almost any age from twelve onwards seems to be the caper nowadays. At seventeen, one should be able to comport oneself properly in the company of a person of the opposite sex. (7) As you fell in love with this nice young man at first sight, it might be as well to confine your attentions to him when he is on the scene, as you say, that is, if he returns your affection. (8) A girl usually walks on the inner portion of the sidewalk, in accord with an antiquated theory that the female of the species needed to be protected at all times. (9) A plain "no" might answer the purpose, qualified, perhaps, by the explanation that your mother thinks you are too young to go out for a while yet, with young men, or you have a headache, or another engagement on the occasion in question, or almost any other excuse that might come to mind. Let him down easy, however. You might change your mind later.

Scallops Are One of the New Devious Routes to Distinction

The day of the bolster-case dress has passed, with its hole at one end for the head and an opening at the other for the feet. It speaks volumes for the skill of the great designers that they were able to make such bald simplicity attractive. Fashion to-day is more ornamental, more interesting. It varies the straight line with the circular cut. Its necks are never monotonous, its sleeves often supply the decoration of the dress. The long, untrimmed body is softened, broken or trimmed in some way that gives it the importance it has for so long entirely lacked. In the frock illustrated the skirt is circular and the new V neck and sleeve have the scalloped edge that is a sign of the season.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

WILDWOOD MOVIES

Football Nell

"Say, Daddy," asked a little chap of his father, "if deer lose their horns in the woods, as naturalists say they do, then how do they keep from being gobbled up by wolves and bears?"

"That is not in my line, Son," replied the Daddy, as he pushed his chair back from the supper table, "but I have seen an ad in the papers for a day or so, saying that there is a movie reel of wild life at one of the picture houses, and some of the pictures are about moose. Let's look it up in the paper."

"Sure! here she is, Dad, right on the last page in the corner; get Mother and come on."

And that was how Tommy, and Mommy and Daddy happened to be there in the dark, pretending that they were really in the wild woods, as nature was shown to them on the screen.

"What an awkward and stupid-looking thing that mother Moose is!" exclaimed Tommy, as mother Moose wallowed around in the shallow water of the lake.

"Well, she certainly is no dream of beauty," replied Tommy's mother "but I'll bet a hat that she knows all about how to care for that ungainly calf of hers."

And just as this comment was made, the cow moose in the picture looked up from the water and exhibited signs of being very uneasy. She began to flounder out of the water in great haste, and must have called her calf to come quickly, for the calf was at her side in a moment. They moved along the shore for a few yards, then the calf entered a bunch of low brush, and remained there in hiding.

No sooner was the calf well hidden than out from the woods and onto the stony edge of the lake came a hungry and mean looking bear. Mr. Bear was in no mood for bathing parties; he wanted meat. And he made a fake attack on the mother moose, drawing her away from her calf; then he rushed in between them, and it looked as though he would get there first and the story would be all over, but don't ever think a clumsy-looking moose is slow; you may get fooled, just as the Bear did, for he got a swift kick in the pants which lifted him into the springy bushes. He waved them down with his weight, was thrown back through the air and met moose hoofs half-way, and was left half dead on the shore.

In twenty-two States women now are eligible to serve on juries.

NEW CHANCE IN LIFE IS GIVEN AT BOWMANVILLE

Dr. E. Raymond Tells How Boys Are Taught To Form Good Habits.

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Not An Industrial School, He Is Emphatic in Declaring.

"We think we are moving in the right direction," declared Dr. E. Raymond, director of the Ontario Training School for Boys at Bowmanville, in addressing the Peterboro Rotary Club to-day on the work of that organization. Dr. Raymond, who is a member of the Bowmanville Rotary, Club, made a most favorable impression upon the local Rotarians in his lucid explanation of the objects aimed at by the Bowmanville Institution and the manner in which these objects, are being sought.

He was emphatic in explaining that the school was not an industrial school. Boys could not be committed to it by courts, they were, instead, admitted by the school on application. At the same time only boys who were normal mentally could be admitted.

Dr. Raymond explained in detail the system through which the school tried to supply a controlled environment for the boys and to teach them good habits. The four phases, home life, school life, play time and work time were taken care of. A simulation of home atmosphere was made possible by housing the boys in cottages under the control of a cottage father and mother. They did not delude themselves with the idea that this plan could supply the home life that the boys should have had, nor was the plan carried out on a senti sentimental basis, yet good results are expected.

As to the school phase, cognizance had to be taken of the fact that most of the boys who came to the institution had been truants, and the school work was laid out with an appreciation of the average boys' preference for doing things rather than reading about them. The speaker explained in detail the working out of this plan.

The object of the work system was to teach the boys the value of work from a compensation standpoint while the play hours were devoted to teaching the youngsters to play the game. Dr. Raymond gave a most interesting explanation of the methods used and declared that he was very hopeful of the results to be obtained.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker.

Past President Seels reminded Rotarians of their responsibilities in connection with the Rotary Carnival next week and announced that each Rotarian would be called on for service one night in the week.

Rotarian Jas. Anderson informed the club of an invitation from the Lindsay club to an inter-city meeting to be held at Omemee in July or August and this matter will be taken up.

Among the visitors to-day was Hal Burnham, famous football star of yesteryear, and Rotarian Earl Barrie, of Prince Rupert, B.C.

VETERANS DECK MANY GRAVES

Hold Impressive Memorial Service in Little Lake Cemetery

ON SUNDAY.

Peterboro's Great War Veterans yesterday decorated the graves of their comrades in Little Lake Cemetery, attended by many thousands of civilians, who also laid their tributes on the graves of friends. The cemetery blossomed forth as it probably never did before, a constant stream of citizens visiting the graves from early morning. The number of veterans in the parade outnumbered last year's record, and a pleasing addition was made in the presence in the ranks of a detachment from the fire department.

Following the ceremonies in connection with the decoration of the men's graves, a pleasing new ceremonial was inaugurated by the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A., who were also in attendance. The ladies decorated with flowers the graves of four of the deceased members of the Auxiliary: Mrs. S. Derrick, Mrs. E. Massey-Cooke, Mrs. Fred Stanley and Mrs. Lyntick. Ladies placing the flowers were Mesdames Budd, Patterson, Tamblin, Slaughter, while Mrs. R. Bugg read the short ritual of the Auxiliary over each grave.

The wreath was placed on the Cenotaph by Mrs. J. Mills, president of the Auxiliary.

Following the usual ceremonies at the Cenotaph, the veterans laid a wreath on the monument to Captain Brown, and marched to little Lake Cemetery. It had been arranged that the Oddfellows would join in rear of the veterans as they passed down George Street, but the plans were disarranged, and the I.O.O.F. led to the Cemetery.

Rev. Capt. A. G. Emmett.

The principal address of the day was delivered by Rev. Capt. A. G. Emmett of Port Hope, a former overseas padre, who told graphically of the importance of the day and the thoughts it engendered. "We are gathered," he said, "to render the homage of our hearts to the thousands who gave their lives for us and for the country and for the cause for which the Empire has ever stood. It would be like striving to paint the lily white to endeavor to launch a panegyric of those who fell. It is more seemly to strive to answer that question than has beaten in the hearts of all of us: 'Was it worth while?' Did our comrades — our boys—die in vain? It is a question that demands an answer, and we cannot rest until we find it, but to attempt to answer it along political and social lines would take many hours."

Drawing upon his experiences of life at the front, the speaker presented a word picture of the battle of Vimy Ridge, and afterward. It was a victory, he said, the memory of which shall never die so long as the word "Canada" is remembered in the world. "We of the First Division lived in hell during those days," the padre declared, "and I don't thing it possible to find on earth anything more typical of what we conceive is hell. Over the whole battlefield light and heavy artillery, massed as never before, had pounded the sprayed for weeks anid weeks until the ridge was churned up until nothing but the naked subsoil appeared on the lips of craters that touched rim to rim. There was nothing to be seen in no man's land but tangled wire and broken earthworks. Poison emanating from the shells turned God's soil to a nasty dirty yellow color. In every crater was slimy water; the stench was nauseating, and felt as if it were death-dealing. The whole scene was one of wreckage, the utmost man could do in hate and death-dealing.

The great war represented man at his worst, man bent on destruction and to destruction. The tempers and lusts and passions of men were let loose to destroy their fellows; nothing but death was to be seen. It was taken generally that generations would pass before life would grow out of that death."

One Month After.

"One month afterward we were sent back, and crossed that death-swept field, and there, on the lip of a crater, was a little green growing —just a bit of moss—but actually where you thought all life had been destroyed for a generation at least. There was life out of death. At Farbus Wood, shattered, was a violet.

"Surely one could not get a more wonderful parable—a demonstration, if you will—of the words uttered by Him Who was the Lord of Life: 'Except a grain of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit! Man had done his worst here, and immediately the great Life-Giver was at work, bringing life out of death.

"This spells to us a message pure and certain; that life is stronger than death, love is a more powerful force in the world than hate, and that no man can give himself away in sacrifice in a great cause and die! There is no death for those who give themselves in sacrifice! The message of Vimy Ridge, as it is the message of the Cross of Jesus Christ, is that just as no grain of seed can bring forth fruit except it die, so those boys, the majority of them our finest and best, have not given themselves in vain but their sacrifice shall bear fruit in our own day and generation. We shall see the result if we seek to honor these men by carrying on their work, to make Canada a purer, cleaner, sweeter place in which to live and bring up Canadian children."

Commander Abraham.

Captain James Abraham, Commander of the G.W.V.A., delivered an inspiring address calling for unity of effort and aim by veterans.

"To-day, standing in this hallowed spot, I desire to make a strong appeal to you all to embrace the opportunity to unite as a body into the ranks of the Canadian Legion," he said.

"This organization stands for all that is highest in patriotism and citizenship of the truest type. We want every man worth while in this organization, but let me advise you, don't join because of selfish reasons, don't join because you have some private axe to grind, don't join if you are of the opinion that your country has been ungrateful to you, only join if you are satisfied that you can measure up to the standard of citizenship, and if your aims are unselfish, and that you will work for the well-being of all your comrades. Remember that there are many cases that are suffering hardship and the betterment of the whole can only be obtained by showing a solid front and making a united effort.

"As returned men, let me remind you that you owe a special duty to those whom you honor to-day, who are not dead, but simply gone before; let me remind that you cannot break faith with them and retain your self-respect; let me ask you to respond to the call that is now sent out to you, that united in one vast army, you will march forth to battle once more, cut down the enemies that lurk in your midst, undermine those deadly forces of hatred, jealousy and intolerance, unmask those who use such cowardly weapons, so that you may push on and secure unity and good-will among all ex-service men.

"Let me warn you that there are many in league against you, the extremist, the fanatic, the anti-Christian. Why? Because they realize what a mighty voice the Canadian Legion would have, if it were welded into unity. So, standing here as we do to-day, paying a reverent tribute to those of our comrades who have gone before, let we ask you to consecrate their memories by pledging yourself to again take up the torch which fell from their hands, and keep it alight in the new organization, dedicating yourselves as men who have faith in their country's future, to uphold the principles of British justice, to do your duty as men, determined to leave this world a little better as a result of having passed through it, by joining in your hundreds, by taking an interest in the affairs of your city, of Canada, and the Empire, that British commonwealth of nations, the bulwark of civilization and the defender of Christianity.

"And my last and earnest appeal to you is that the comrades who have gone before, have left us a responsibility to preserve unity. I sometimes wonder if we have adopted the right way to preserve unity. Some of us are apt to forget the greatest of all things, charity. Charity should be practiced by every comrade one to another, by kind words and deeds, which is a God-like quality, and should be the strongest link in the chain of real unity."

Rev. P. Costello.

Rev. Captain Paul Costello, another overseas chaplain, congratulated the people interested in the cemetery upon the care bestowed on this "garden of flowers." "You have heard the roll call of the comrades who are buried here," Father Costello said, "and every name was answered to, 'Present.' The voices of long ago have been stilled, and a comrade answered for them, but I only hope the angelic scribe has written their names down upon the book of life in golden letters never to be erased. I hope when the trumpet sounds on the last day we shall be numbered with them on the roll of God's own in heaven.

"It is a solemn time to meet here to honor the men who died in the service of their country," the padre continued, recalling the struggle of the Second Battle of Ypres that placed the Canadian army in the forefront of the world's best. These men should not be forgotten, and the utmost should be done for their survivors."

E. A. Peck, M.P.

E. A. Peck, M.P., approved the advice of Captain Abraham to join in one united body. He followed the Canadian army from its inception to its final victory, when out of a population of nine million people, Canada had given over half a million men to the service of the Empire. Canadian soldiers did their duty to the fullest extent, Mr. Peck said, and Canada owes them a duty. "We can never do justice to the fifty thousand men who died; but we owe to those men's dependents support and assistance. The Government has done much, but are we, as individuals, reflecting on our duty in that respect? Then there are the men who came back broken in health and injured. Are we as individuals doing for them what we should?"

Mr. Peck commended the G. W. V. A. for bringing before the Government the needs of men in Peterborough, and for good work done in relieving distress among returned soldiers.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., said he esteemed it a great privilege to participate in honoring the soldiers buried in Little Lake Cemetery. They were men who were not afraid to throw up their jobs and fight for the Empire. "This generation is passing away," Mr. Bradburn said, "and it is our duty to teach the young so that when we have passed on they will come here and keep green the memory of the soldiers. If these men had not done their duty we would be slaves of Germany, and the children would not be free."

In Peterborough Churches

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Taking his text from St. Matthew 5:20-24, "Unless your justice abound more than that of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven," Rev. P. Butler preached a very eloquent sermon at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday.

Christ came to earth to expand the teachings of the Old Law, said Father Butler. The justice of the New Law was not that of the Old, but rather demanded that not only the letter, but also the spirit, of the law, should be grasped in order that a man might be justified in the sight of the Almighty.

It was not only by external practices that a man would be judged, but by the internal thoughts and desires of the his heart. The Pharisees were content to appear very holy in public, but upon them rested the awful condemnation of the Saviour, when he characterized them as "whited sepulchres," because of their hypocritical way of life. The reverend speaker challenged the sincerity of Catholics of to-day, who, although they might appear all that could be desired in public, would give examples of disobedience at home and would forget themselves so far as to utter in angry moments expressions undignified and unsuitable to their religious profession.

"You are prayerful in church, and come often to holy communion, but in the factory, are your words always of the type that should be heard from lips professing the doctrines of the Saviour?" Visits to the church, also, might be followed by visits to forbidden dance halls, with arrival home at all hours in the morning.

"The Scribes and Pharisees thought they were doing much when they fulfilled the letter of the law, but, to be pleasing the sight of God, the external actions must be matched by internal desires and feelings."

Rev. Father Butler also warned parents as to the dagers, both to soul and body, awaiting their children in many places, during the unguarded holiday season.

DISTRESS RELIEVED IN FLOODED AREAS

MEXICO CITY, June 28 (Canadian Press). — Despatches received from Leon, where the flood waters of the Gomez River inundated large sections of the town, indicate that distress has been somewhat relieved by the arrival of food trains and of clothing, medical supplies and tent hospitals.

Portions of the town are still flooded. Bodies of persons drowned continues to be found.

No estimate has been made of the number of fatalities. Houses weakened by the flood are falling in various parts of the town. One thousand houses have already been entirely washed away. The destruction of all crops throughout the extensive agricultural region surrounding Leon is reported as complete.

A WORK OF ART

Parties who are interested in seeing a beautiful piece of workmanship, a real masterpiece, are cordially invited to visit the Coughlin Monumental Works, where a white marble statute of Innocence is shown. It rests on a pedestal of Egyptian green marble. A lady who is leaving the city for California obtained the statue about forty years ago in New York, and recently sold it to the Coughlin Monumental Works. Being an exquisite piece of work many will wish to see it and it is now on display at the works.

Patterns of Progress

An American home—its bathtub, breakfast foods, furnace—set down in the heart of Europe would be unmistakably an American home. An American man—the cut of his coat, the tie of his tie, the comb of his hair—walking the streets of Europe is in all his obvious tastes an American.

Advertisements stamp American homes and owners of homes with a kind of national pattern. They create desire for the same kind of things; make particular people know and want the most advanced of things. Homes—what to put in homes. People—how to dress, nourish, entertain the people. Offices—how to equip and operate offices. They set America right about radios and talcums—tell businessmen, housewives, government officials how to brush their teeth!

We cut the pattern of our personal lives and surroundings from advertisements. We keep modern only with their intimate help. We go forward with them, as we would stand still without them. We form our tastes and discriminate values by using their truths. Advertisements offer us patterns of progress that mean quick steps to the fore.

MASSEYS WON PHELAN SOCCER CUP 4 CORNER KICKS BEAT QUAKERS

Masseys Scored Two Goals in Early Stages—Peculiar Quaker Goal.

EXTRA TIME PLAYED

After Ninety Minutes' Play Teams Still Even—Corner Kicks Gained Decision.

In spite of the heavy downpour of rain in the early morning of Saturday last, the Oval was in perfect condition for the Final of the Phelan Soccer Charity Cup between the Masseys and Quaker Oats in the afternoon, before a good attendance. After a hard fought ninety minutes, both teams were still on an even basis and they continued an extra fifteen minutes when the Masseys succeeded in putting four corner-kicks to their advantage. Each team scored in the extra time but Masseys FOUR CORNER KICKS won them the trophy.

First Half.

Masseys gained the choice of ends by winning the toss and made the Quakers face the sun, also the slight breeze that was blowing right down the pitch. Mitchell set the ball rolling to pay their opponents an early visit but the attack failed at the crucial moment.

James' Snappy Goal.

Each goal went under a seige but Masseys made their pressure felt when their right wing beat the defence on a clean tackle. James followed up his shot for goal, when Curtis failed to connect, thereby presenting the opportunity that James accepted with a rocket drive into the net. The Quakers replied with a spirited attack on the Masseys defence but never pushed themselves when close upon the goal. It was a real cup tie struggle for supremacy in mid-field tactics in which both half-back lines gave their best to offset the fast forwards when hard pressed. There was plenty of give-and-take when in possession of the ball.

Montgomery Increased Score.

A break-away by the Massey left wing terminated in disaster for the Quakers. Two Quaker players tackled Foster near the touch-line, who slipped past them with the ball at his foot. He swung it across to the other wing to James who drew the defence close upon him, then passed to the pivot who beat Curtis for the second time within five minutes.

A Disputed Goal.

With the aid of the wind, the Masseys held the well-planned attacks of the Quakers at a safe distance. In the last ten minutes of the first half Montgomery in goal was the artist between the sticks, in fact, he robbed opponents of probable success when they were all jammed into the goal. Eventually a goal was registered against him by the referee who adjudged that the ball was across the goal-line when Mitchell, at centre-forward, banged the sphere in through the crowd. The goal-keeper threw himself across the goal and claimed that there was no goal scored. Two minutes later the referee announced half-time and the teams stood, Masseys 2, Quakers 1.

Half-Time.

On resuming the Quakers, with the wind behind them, made the play interesting inside the goal area. No matter what kind of a shot was tried to beat Montgomery he never hesitated to show that he was in the unbeatable mood. After seven minutes play, Carmichael beat Masseys forwards on a tackle and dribbling his way down the field the little fellow noticed his left-wing man lying vacant. Quick as a flash, Burgess carried the attack close upon the defence to gain success. Twice he was tackled enroute for the goal but he lobbed the ball across to Logan, an inside-right, who evened up the account with a snappy header, out of the reach of Montgomery.

Quakers Dominated the Play.

Both sides now on an even basis again added pep to the play. With the Quakers gaining more confidence through their success, they laid down a barrage of shots upon Montgomery's citadel. Time and again he outgeneralled the forwards by fisting clear, or perhaps picking up a low ground drive with ease, when hard pressed. It was a gruelling second half, the Quakers doing their utmost to gain the verdict while the Massey defence never faltered at any time under the continuous pressure of the alert Quaker forwards, and held them to a two goal each tally. Quakers 2, Masseys 2.

Extra Time.

At the conclusion of the ninety-minute tussle both elevens were instructed to change ends and start afresh, but corner kicks to count. Massey forwards took up the attack immediately, to gain three corner-kicks in succession. Then the Quaker forwards raided the Massey territory to gain nothing tangible till a well taken goal by Mitchell put the Quakers ahead and Mann lay prostrate on the ground as the result of the close check. But this lead did not last long. On an individual effort Foster dribbled his way down on to the touch line and from a very peculiar angle beat Curtis for the equalizer as James run in to make sure, within the next minute. The second moiety was lacking in anything in note, except that the Massey's defence put up a barricade to cause Quaker's defeat by four clear corner kicks. Masseys 3 goals, 4 corners; Quakers 3, no corners.

SPORT MENTALITY OF BRITISH CONTRASTED WITH AMERICANS'

Old Country Press Suggest Britons Play for Enjoyment Rather Than Businesslike Determination to Win—Approve Idea That "the Game's the Thing."

U. S. PLAYERS COMMENTS IN INTERVIEWS

LONDON, June 28.—(Canadian Press).—The recent victorious invasion of American golfers and the fine showing of trans-Atalantic tennis players is gently rocking the cradle of sport with the press supporting the British idea that "the game's the thing' and the winning while to be desired is not of supreme importance.

The discussion received a fillip when Walter Hagen, the golfer, gave an interview to the Evening News in which he said that the reason the British golfers were beaten was because they were too "gosh darned lazy," and advised a "little pep and fight.

Miss Mary K. Browne, captain of the United States Wightman Cup team, has also commented on the matter, saying that the Briton thinks more of enjoying himself than of winning.

The Evening Standard gently suggests that the British may have the better of the argument. "Even if Miss Browne has made the right diagnosis," says the paper, "would it not be better to continue being wrong in our own way than right in America's way?"

Suggesting that it is ironic to speak of such grimly efficient persons as Suzanne Lenglen and Vincent Richards as 'players,' the Standard says: "Let a man play with his heart and soul, but not give up the whole of his life to what should be no more than part of it. England will never be done so long as we play games in the spirit which is native to us—playing them because we enjoy them."

The Star, commenting on Bobby Jones' triumph, says that Americans have shone on the putting green where the Englishman is weakest.

"The difference," it adds, "is perhaps one of mentality. The Englishman is out in the main for sports and exercise, a desire which is more gratified by spectacular play in long shots than in patent attention to the less strenuous business of holding the ball.

The Sunday Observer's expert, commenting on the Americans' unquestioned superiority on the putting green, remarks: "One reason is that they cultivate a much fiercer outlook on golf than we do here; to them it is a life and death business."

The debated question of applying science and sacrifice to games is also discussed in connection with tennis. The Weekly Dispatch has collected some prominent views on the subject. Mlle. Lenglen laughed at the idea that she was a 'martyr' to the game. Suzanne declared she had loved the game from a child, and that she followed the ordinary normal life, with no special diet, and enjoyed theatres, dancing and movies.

Miss Helen Wills, likewise, said there was no reason why a tennis player should live differently than other people. She had never found severe training necessary, and the only real hardship came from excessive demands on one's time.

Jean Borotra also complained of the great sacrifice of time, but asserted that he made no other sacrifices. Both Borotra and Henri Cochet admitted that they do not smoke, but otherwise deprived themselves of no pleasures in life.

On the other hand, Jacques Brugnon declared he kept fit by smoking heavily and doing everything he ought not to do.

The brilliant pitching of Lucas has been a notable feature of the early season record of the Cincinnati Reds.

BRINTONS vs. TRIPLE LINK

The second game was between the Triple Link and the Brintons. The score was large, 20—19, but the game was interesting throughout, the Brintons being the winners. The Brintons had one bad innings in which the Triple Link chalked up eight runs. Shaughnessy for the Brintons was the hitting wonder of the game, getting two home runs, one 2-base hit, and in the other three times to bat he was walked once and hit two infield flies. The winning runs were scored in the ninth, after two were out, by a 2-base hit of Stant, which allowed Bishop and Cripp to score. Munroe, for the Triple Link, knocked a home run in the sixth and also scored again when he was walked. Rose and Corbett also got home runs. Pacey and Munroe interchanged positions several times, each trying the pitching, but they were unable to stop the hard-hitting Brintons. The line-up:

FONTAINES vs K. of C.

The game at 6.30 was played between the Fontaines and the K. of C. The Fontaines winning, 7—3. This was the fastest game this season, the nine full innings only taking 45 minutes.

The result of the Fontaines" win puts four teams in the running for group honors. The Belmonts and Quakers are tied for first place and the C.G.E. and Fontaines are tied, being a close second for the next position in the group.

The Fontaines played a good game of ball and the team gave Dormer solid support, accepting every chance. Baird made a fine catch of Murphy's drive in the eighth, when he jumped three feet and caught the ball with one hand. Oxley also did some fine work in centre field. Sheehy for the losers, played in the outfield, and with his speed he was all over, making it practically impossible to get a safe hit in right or centre field. The box score of the same is as follows:

SIMPLE SUSIE SEES A BALL GAME

There was a bunch of girls playing ball out on a green field. At least, they said they were girls. They had on awfully loose bloomers that came to the knee and didn't seem to fit very well. They spent a lot of time hitching up the slack of them and fixing their stockings, which had lines running round the legs. Their hair was all cut off. They had tight woollen sweaters with short sleeves and some of them wore peaked caps. They all chewed gum. One looked exactly like a boy, but we saw her take out a powder puff and rub her face when she was sitting on the grass. Another one combed what was left of her hair. So we knew they were girls.

They were having a friendly little game of ball between themselves, but a lot of people sitting on what they call the grandstand started yelling things at them and getting them all excited, and presently they began to run around and around. The idea of the game seemed to be to get possession of some little sacks that were put on the ground at different places, but one player couldn't stay too long on one sack. If she saw another one start coming, she had to scoot to the next one as fast as she could. Sometimes they couldn't stand up, they were so weak, like, and they lay right down on the sacks, and rolled in the mud. Once a girl was so mad at another one for staying on the sack that she took the ball she had just happened to catch and hit her with it.

The main thing about the game was the ball, though. One girl standing out on a pile of sawdust in the middle of the ground was trying to throw the ball to a girl with a big glove on her left hand. This girl wanted the ball so bad that she would stretch out her arms to the other girl and say, "Put it there, Babe!" and all sorts of imploring things like that. It would have been a fine game, only another girl with a different colored sweater and bloomers would persist in trying to hit the ball away with a round piece of wood they called a bat. The girl who was throwing the ball would get tired after awhile and make a vicious swing at the bat and hit it square, and then the girl with the bat would get afraid and throw it away and run for her life to get on one of the little sacks. If she got to it in time, she was "safe," and if she didn't, she had to get "out." There was a man trying to decide between the two girls and he had a pretty hard time doing it, between the crowd yelling things at him and him being compelled to make signs to the girl throwing the ball. She must have been a dummy, because she never answered back a word, no matter what they yelled at her, and the man was holding up his fingers all the time to show her what number of mistakes she had made. At least, that's what we thought. He used funny language to the other players, though. He never seemed satisfied with what they did. If he wasn't yelling "foul" at them, which isn't a nice word to use in conversation with a lady, he was saying something that sounded like "baw," and that was almost as bad. And when the girl with the bat couldn't hit the ball, he would yell "strike" at her, as if that wasn't what the poor thing was trying to do, anyway, without him getting her all fussed up about it.

One girl must have been bothered with chapped hands. She kept spitting on them, and another one liked them dark, evidently. She would lean down and rub them in the dirt.

Part of the game seemed to be doing physical exercises and posing. When a girl got tired of taking a swing at the ball, she would throw away her bat all of a sudden and start running as hard as she could to get on a sack before she could get her feet wet. Then another girl would pick out another round piece of wood and take her place. Sometimes she wouldn't try to hit the ball for a long time, but just stand posed like, with the bat held out straight in front of her. Another pose of the girls who stood around out in the field was just like part of the Charleston, only they didn't wiggle their legs. They would stand for two or three minutes at a time with their hands on their knees, all hunched over, or else with their arms folded, like a statue, while all the other poor girls were running around like mad, trying to get hold of the little sacks. It seemed to be a sort of game that was "every girl for herself," and they were a temperamental lot. When they caught the ball, they threw it away immediately to someone else. When they got tired of a bat, they threw it away and walked off, without a word, or else started running around the field, for a change, and when they all got tired at once, they started for the fence together, and the other team had to take their places. And as soon as they got on a sack, after making such a fuss to get there, they got tired of it, too, and started looking for another one, something like the soldier and "the better 'ole."

It didn't seem like a fair game, anyway. If the girl who was trying so hard to play ball with her friend managed to hit the bat out of the way often enough, the crowd would yell things at her, and if the girl with the bat didn't swat the ball hard enough, they weren't satisfied either. When the ball went just a little way behind, they said it was "foul," and when the girl away out in the field caught it on the fly, they cheered wildly, as if it wasn't easier to catch it, anyway, when she had such a long time to see it coming. By the time most of the girls had a try at the little sacks and found they couldn't stay on them long enough to get a rest, they were pretty well tired out. And so were we. We felt sort of cross-eyed, trying to figure out why the crowd kept yelling "rotten" or "that a girl, Pete," when all the first girl had done was to drop the ball on the grass as soon as she caught it, instead of being greedy and trying to hold on to it, and all the last one had accomplished was to make a mad slide for a sack and get hold of it, while another girl, who had been standing perfectly quiet, like a lady, tried to keep her from grabbing it. We thought it was a silly game, and we went home and left the crowd yelling itself hoarse at someone called "Maggie," whom they were imploring to "bring her in," referring evidently to the capture of a young person who was trying to steal something that they called a "base," another of the funny terms of Queens, and nothing has any terms in this queer game.

LOSE RETURN GAME

Deloro Fall to Cordova in a Softball Contest.

MARMORA, June 28.— Deloro Sunnyside Club found Cordova too good for them in the return game of softball played on the Deloro arena on Friday evening.

The visitors piled up a mammoth score, including home runs by B. Hay, M. Bowen and M. Yeomans while Deloro's smaller total included a homer from the bat of North Foster. The same line up as last Saturday was played by both teams and the collapse of Deloro was hard to understand unless the larger crowd and more vigorous rooting proved too overcoming for the infant team. They took their defeat with good grace and hope that other chances will come along to make good in the future. Frank Leal and Rev. C. H. Ferguson umpired the game.

Dainty refreshments were served both teams and their close supporters in the Deloro Hall.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Waddell's Feat

Eighteen years ago, Rube Waddell struck out 16 batters in an American League game. That is the best modern day record for whiffing the opposition.

It was sweet revenge for Waddell, for he made the record against the Athletics, after being released by that club to the St. Louis Browns.

Back in 1884, Charley Sweeney of Providence, pitching against Boston, caused 19 batters to wend back to the bench via the strikeout route.

Walter Johnson and Dazzy Vance have several times threatened the modern record of 16 but always something happened to spoil the big chance.

I recall one game I umpired for Johnson in which he got 10 men in the first five innings. He was going great and it seemed a certainty that Waddell's strikeout mark would be shattered.

Up to the last half of the fifth neither team had scored, Johnson was being pressed to the limit. In that inning his club gave him a four-run lead and he immediately eased up. He struck out only two more batters during the remainder of the game.

Record in Danger

Of the present-day pitchers in the major leagues, I am inclined to think that "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics, has a better chance than any other pitcher to shatter Waddell's mark of long standing.

Twice this year, although the race is still in its infancy, Grove has struck out 11 of the opposition.

The first time was in a game with the New York Yankees, which he lost 3-0, Babe Ruth and Co., scoring all their runs in the last half of the eighth. So the 11 strikeouts were registered in only eight innings of play.

The second time the feat was performed, the Chicago White Sox was the team to suffer. In the first three innings Grove got six batters on strikes. I wondered if Mack's southpaw was in for a record performance.

During the remainder of the game I kept close track of his work. On an even dozen batters who finally either walked, hit safely or retired, Grove had two strikes. So that 12 other batters aside from the 11 who fanned were in imminent danger.

Similar Cases

Grove cost Mack more than $100,000. He was secured from the Baltimore club of the International League. Mack appears ready to cash in on him.

In many ways the career of Grove is not unlike that of Rube Marquard. Back some 18 years he cost John McGraw of the New York Giants the sum of $11,000.

In those days paying $11,000 for a minor league star, occcasioned more gossip than the amount Mack handed over for Grove.

Marquard simply couldn't win for the Giants and was commonly referred to as the "$11,000 lemon." His first year was far worse than the record made by Grove.

Marquard finally found himself and became one of the greatest southpaws in the history of the game. One of his biggest feats was winning 19 straight games in 1912, equalling a record made in 1888 by Tim Keefe and never bettered.

Key to Pennant

Prior to the start of the 1925 race, Manager Jack Dunn, who groomed Grove at Baltimore, said he would win 20 games for Mack, possibly 25. Connie predicted a pennant if Grove lived up to Dunn's prophecy.

Grove was a disappointment last year after all the press-agenting that had preceded him. He won only 10 games and lost two more. However, he led the league in strikeouts, showing he had the stuff. Incidentally, he gave the most bases on balls, proving he lacked control.

This year Grove is working much slower, has cut down the speed of his motion, almost coming to a stop at the halfway mark and is pitching overhand entirely. Inability to control his sidearm delivery made most of his trouble last year.

"Let Grove win 20 games this year and we will make plenty of trouble. If he cops 25 we will just about win the pennant," says Mack.

"One of the best motor car drivers in the world"—this is the remarkable claim made for a pretty 23-year-old English girl, Miss Violet Cordery, who recently broke thirty-three motoring records by driving a car 15,600 miles at an average speed of 60 miles an hour in eleven days. The feat was accomplished at Milan, Italy, and Miss Cordery's driving so impressed an Italian nobleman that he proposed to her three times within an hour.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

TUESDAY JUNE 29.

Although the general trend of affairs may be considered favorable, according to the predominant lunar transits, yet there is need of some conservation in the directing of them into fields of safety. There is a menace of fraud or duplicity off-setting a most propitious figure of Jupiter, who promises large ambitions and fortunate culminations, especially in the direction of public affairs and recognition from high places. There is a possible menace from a feminine force or domestic anxiety.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of great opportunity and the prospect of fulfilled ambitions or public recognition or preferment. Yet there is a sinister threat of fraud or subtle attack, and this may be from feminine sources. Safeguard the personal affiliations. A child born on this day may be ambitious, powerful, and have many excellent traits which may enable it to move in high circles. However, its life may be subject to subtle enmities or underhand attacks. It should be eternally vigilant.

SOFTBALL GAMES.

Important League Fixtures To Be Played This Week.

To-night at the Nicholls' Oval the C. G. E. will play Fontaine's. The Belmonts and C.G.E. are tied for first place and Quakers and Fontaines are tied for second place, being half a game behind the group leaders. This game is sure to be a battle royal as each time is in fine working condition, and the fans who attend are promised a real good exhibition of softball. The game starts at 6.30.

At Central Park to-night Baracas will play Post Office. The Baracas are fighting hard for second place, and a win to-night will give it to them. Now they are tied with Triple Links, who play the Firemen tomorrow night at Central Park.

Full announcements of these games will appear at a later date. Any cricketers interested in the good old game and not members, please turn out at these practices, get acquainted and join the club. The club is gradually getting stronger, and in the near future will be hard to beat by the best of teams.

Help Of Men Not Needed By Congress Of Women

BALBOA, Canal Zone., June 28 (United News).—The inter-American Women's Congress, in session here, does not want any help or advice from men.

When Mrs. Clara Gonzales, Panama delegate, offered a resolution on Sunday, expressing the idea that the United States should show an altruistic spirit in shaping its new treaty with Panama, the men in the galleries applauded.

Esther Neiro Calvo, president of the Congress, immediately halted the proceedings and, addressing herself to the men, said that she and her female colleagues desired no advice whatsoever from the opposite sex.

KINGSTON PONIES HERE ON HOLIDAY

Joe Daley's Crew To Meet Petes on Dominion Day Morning.

Sore at the dose of whitewash they sustained at Kingston last week and realizing that they need a victory over the Ponies to keep out of the cellar, the Petes are going into action at Riverside Park on Dominion Day morning determined to take Joe Daley and his leaders. The Ponies were victorious on their last appearance here, but the Petes played terrible ball on that occasion and expect to reverse the result on this occasion, especially as Max Swanston, who has been out of the game since he was spiked in the Belleville fixture, will be back in action. Al. Heckman will also be available and the Petes will be able to throw their full strength in action against the Ponies. The fact that the game is to be played in the morning gives the fans who want to go out of town in the afternoon a chance to see the old rivals clash.

THEATRE

A DRAMATIC SHOW.

"The Gilded Highway" is a dramatic story, told simply and powerfully. This J. Stuart Blackton production for Warner Bros. opened to-day at the Regent Theatre, and the screen version of W. B. Maxwell's novel, "A Little More," is as interesting entertainment in picture form as it was in book form, judging from the cordial response of the audiences.

The story tells of the Welby family, who unexpectedly come into a fortune, and whose heads are completely turned by unaccustomed wealth. How through suffering and tragedy they finally come to a realization of true values in life, is told in swift, vivid sequences in "The Gilded Highway."

There is an unusually brilliant cast in this picture, which marks the return of the Florence Turner, the first star of the movie world. Miss Turner gives a convincing and sympathetic performance in the role of the mother, the only member of the family who does not believe that wealth brings happiness.

Dorothy Devore and John Harron are the featured players, the supporting cast includes Macklyn Arbuckle, Sheldon Lewis, Myrna Loy, Andree Tourneur, Gardner James and Mathilde Comont, and all give such stirring performances in this homely little story, that "The Gilded Highway" takes its place among the worth-while pictures of the season.

Marian Constance adapted the novel to the screen.

SECRETS of STARS on INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to BILLY EVANS

DUGAN

BY JOE DUGAN.

The bluff bunt, a play much used when I broke into the American League, but now rather obsolete, tests not only the mechanical play of a third baseman but his thinking apparatus as well.

When Ty Cobb was in his prime he used to pull this play often, having the batter work with him in confusing the infielder.

The play is best worked, of course, when least expected. We will say Cobb is on second, or any other good baserunner, Max Carey for instance, and there is none or one out.

With the pitch, the runner on second starts for third. If the third baseman dashes in, figuring to get a bunt, the batsman merely bluffs, purposely missing the ball but going through all the motions to befuddle the catcher.

Properly pulled, the runner steals third practically unmolested, as it is physically impossible for the third baseman to retrace his steps to the bag and be in any position to put a throw on the runner.

In like manner, if the third baseman decides to cover, hoping to retire the runner trying to steal third, it is up to the batsman to shift from the bluff to an actual attempt to bunt.

If the batsman is fortunate enough to get the ball fair down the first base line, there is hardly a chance of retiring anybody on the play.

There is no chance for the custodian of the bag who is covering, to make a play on the ball and it is asking almost too much of the pitcher to get over and get the man at first.

Thus the play has double possibilities that are put up to the batsman's judgment. The third baseman is constantly in hot water trying to guess what is actually going to happen.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

JOHN G. ANDERSON—PROVIDING FOR DEFAULTS

We had a thought the other day, which has to do not only with local club affairs but also some of the bigger tourneys held all over the land each week during the season. A hundred or more golfers qualify for three or four sixteens and the disappointed 40 after the first day go back to their homes. But we have seen it happen time and again that defaults will be recorded in the lower sixteens, sometimes as many as a dozen being recorded on the chart on the first day. The committee is not to blame, but the defaulters are.

Why, therefore, would it not be a good idea to notify the players who finished in order just outside the qualifying sections, say a half dozen or more of them, that they would be drawn to take the place of any defaulting golfers if they cared to put in an appearance in the morning.

This would mean, of course, that a golfer in the second sixteen might be pitted against a golfer not in his class, but he would have the round of the links at least.

Diamond Disputes Decided by BILLY EVANS

How does the umpire determine when a player should be called out for running out of line?

This play is merely a matter of judgment upon the part of the official having jurisdiction over it.

What one umpire might regard as sufficient transgression of the rule to call the runner out, another might not so regard.

The rule is specific enough. It says If, in running to any base he run more than three feet from a direct line in order to avoid being touched, he should be called out.

It is up to the umpire to decide right away whether the runner has done so, then immediately call him out.

Nine times out of 10, if a fielder has the ball in his hands ready to make the touch and attempts to do so and is unable to reach the fielder because of the manner in which he has run, it is reasonably certain that he has run out of line.

SEND SOUTHPAW AT CRESCENTS

Raybestos To Use Maudsley in Second Contest of Intermediate Series.

KEENE HERE TO-NIGHT.

Scotty Maudsley for Raybestos, and Casey Masterson for Crescents, will start the hurling when the two teams meet at Exhibition Park tomorrow evening, in the second game of the city intermediate series. Maudsley did some splendid work for the Royals against Raybestos last season, and his southpaw slants will worry the Crescents. From Crescents' camp comes the word that the team has been strengthened and all hands are confident of a win. The game will start at six o'clock.

Keene and Curve Lake will provide the excitement at Exhibition Park this evening, in an East Peterborough League game. The Otonabee boys have lost only one game in six contests and are out in front for the county championship.

Texas and California produce more major league ball players than any other State.

Mona Lisa Stays Home France Won't Risk Loss

PARIS, June 28. — United News. — It is understood that Leonardo de Vinci's "Mona Lisa" will not be taken on tour to the United States, although the object of the suggested tour would be the building up of France's sorely depleted treasury.

Paul Leon, director of the fine arts department is said to have refused a novel proposal of a group of wealthy Americans that the valuable picture be taken to the United States and exhibited in the leading cities of that country with the understanding that a percentage of the receipts from admission charged would be given to France.

Leon is understood to have told the Americans that no amount of money would compensate France for the risks of fire, water, theft, substitution or damage involved in transporting of the picture.

Union Of Entire Slavic Race. With Himself Emperor Is Self Assumed Mission Of Russian, Now In States

NEW YORK, June 28.—A man with the calm assurance of authority has established headquarters in the old Barrett Manor at Arrochar, Staten Island, N.Y., for the execution of a plan on which he has labored for 35 years.

Starting with a consolidation of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo Slavia and Bulgaria, he expects to unite all the Slavic populations of Europe in one great state, taking in Russia at last, making a total population of 200,000,000 Slavs, of whom he is to be the emperor.

To-day he declared he had dispatched a "proclamation" throughout Europe. The name signed to the proclamation is Count Cherep-Shiridovich, major-general, president and conciliator, American Slav Union, Latino-Slav League of United States and Europe, and is almost legendary in European affairs

Since the 90's it has appeared periodically in foreign news starting with the announcement that a Count Cherep-Shiridovich resigned from the Czar's service at the age of about thirty to consecrate himself and his fortune to the self-imposed mission of uniting the Slavic races.

ST. ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS SUCCESSFUL EXCURSION

Annual Picnic To South Beach Is Very Pleasant Outing.

MANY SPORTS.

Swimming, Races, and Ball Games Occupy Happy Crowd.

(Contributed.)

On Saturday afternoon St. Andrew's Sunday School picnic was held at South Beach. The rains during the morning and at noon frightened many who would have attended otherwise but, in spite of the weather, a larger crowd than was anticipated gathered at this popular summer resort.

The afternoon was spent in traditional picnic style. Large numbers of the children took full advantage of the chances to have a swim when there was such a good opportunity. Of course, everybody had to play ball—men and women, youths and maidens, boys and girls—all must have a part. It was quite unique to see grandparents and grandchildren playing in the same game. Some were, as one person expressed it, the worst players he had ever seen, but there were not many like that; the great majority made a very creditable showing. One great advantage of the introduction of softball is that so many more enter into the games and some of the grandparents exhibit rare skill, the result of intensive training in years gone by. No picnic is complete without races and there were races for everyone.

The winners are as follows:

Boys, 6 and 7: George McLean, Ormie Weir, Ray McWilliams.

Girls, 6 and 7: Helen Morrow, Muriel Brooks, Joyce Forsythe.

Girls, 8 and 9: Ethel Brooks, Jean Weir, Margaret Cotton.

Boys, 10 and 11: Vincent McLean, Kenneth Weldon, Barclay McKone.

Girls, 10 and 11: May McWilliams, Virginia Deyell, Jean Frederick.

Boys, 12 and 13. Jack Richardson, Alfred Gardner.

Girls, 14 to 19: Helen Ballentine, Beulah Huffman, Eleanor Stacey.

Women, 20 and under 25: Mrs. Weir, 1; Mrs. McKone, 2; Mrs. White, 3; Miss Richardson, 4; Mrs. John, 5; Mrs. Morrow, 6.

After the sports of the afternoon everyone was ready for tea, and it was one of the great events of the afternoon. Some prominent persons had their tea with their own group and then passed around from one group to another sampling what others had. We wouldn't like to mention any names, but fears were held that some might have to go home in the ambulance. Fortunately, no person is ever sick after a picnic, so all were able to be in their usual places yesterday.

The picnic was a great success, and it was a very happy crowd that started for home during the evening.

PIANO RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Jennie Cathcart Gives Pleasing Programme.

A pleasing recital by piano pupils of Miss Jennie Cathcart, 123 Brock street, was held on Thursday evening last, at the Paragon Tea Rooms, with a very good attendance of appreciative hearers, who accorded much applause to the efforts of the pupils, the majority of whom played from memory and displayed careful attention to the tuition of their instructress. A vocal pupil of Miss Cathcart, Miss A. Young, sang very pleasingly, "Down the Vale," and banjo selections played in his usual expert fashion by Mr. Frank Clark, with accompaniment to the encore by Miss Frances Clarke, were very much enjoyed and also applauded enthusiastically.

The programme was as follows: "Lucrezia Borgia," played by Helen Delehaye; "Commune Waltz," by Betty Detcher; "Hours there Were," by Bob Kingdon; "Woodlake," by Frances Clarke; "Pink," by Eric Trussler; "Chasing the Butterflies," by Kathleen Prout; "Adonis Galop," by Marie Kearns; "Morning Prayer," by Marion Ballantyne; "Medley March," by Russell Brand; "Joyous Maytime," by Connie Legon; "Mignonette," by Robert Cathcart; "In Rank and File, by Ruby Swanger; "The Dixies Gavotte," by Muriel Warde; "Orange Blossoms," by Pearl Welch; "Minuet in G," by Winfred Norton and Winifred Wood, "Angels of Mons," by Loretta McDougall; "Danse Villageosis," by Bertha Lobban; "Rondo Villageoise," by Lloyd Parnell; "A Twilight Reverie," by Mary Cathcart; "Lucky Moon Mazurka," by Nellie Butler; "Song of the Harvesters," by Winifred Norton; "Les Sylphes," by Winifred Wood; "Cabaletta," by Beatrice Wallace; "Harmonious Blacksmith," by Daisy Adlam; "Shepherd Song," by Chrissy Milby and Miss Jennie Cathcart; Medley Valse," by Willie Austin; "Valse" by Chrissy Milby, "Sonatina in F," by Muriel Davies, and "Summer Ride," by Daisy Adlam and Miss Cathcart.

They are never alone who are accompanied by noble thoughts.—Sidney.

CHURCH ARMY COMING HERE

Happy Band of Workers to Visit City at End of July.

A GREAT WORK

(Contributed).

They will soon be here, these merrie men from old England. And with them will be a small number of ladies from the same country. The whole party are known as Church Army Crusaders; but if this title fails to convey the right impression, then they do not mind being called by any name, providing, of course, that you stick to the facts and attach some suitable appellation describing joy and happiness to them.

Yet if they are glad to be known as joy-bringers, and this, rest assured, they are, there is no need to imagine that they are imbued with that "sickly sentimentalism" which Joseph Conrad so rightly deplored. Theirs is a "high-hearted happiness," acquired after their discovery of natural religion, which is nothing more nor less than real religion.

Forty-five years ago there was a comparatively young man who had been very successful in business, and was accordingly prosperous and respected. This man had a vision. Like St. Paul, after his vision, he was a different man. He decided to be ordained. When he was ordained, he had a further vision. The outcome of this second vision was the Church Army. To use someone's expression, in those days the Church Army was "under one man's hat." To-day there are about 1,300 men and women in the Church Army.

What is the Church Army? You already have heard that they are happy folk. But they are more than that. The Church Army is part and parcel of the great Church of England. It is the Church's own recognized, incorporated mission society. What the Church teaches, that does the Church Army teach. Its members are men and women trained to go for the worst. They aim high, often having to seek low down in order to achieve their aim. In England the Church Army helps the destitute, feeds the foodless, houses the homeless, comforts the dying, tends the sick. This society has an employment bureau through which 10,000 people have been placed in work. Likewise are the disabled soldiers cared for, simple trades and industries being taught them, while they are paid at trade union rates of pay. Approximately $2,000,000 is spent in religious and charitable, or welfare, work annually. The work has won the warm appreciation of His Majesty the King, the Prime Minister and countless others. The Archbishops are its patrons, and 86 Bishops are its vice-presidents.

And now there are coming to this city 18 members of the Church Army. They have been in Canada since May 27th, and are on their way from Montreal to Hamilton, where they will join with a similar group from the United States, before returning to England in August.

The man who is responsible for all this modern crusading has but lately returned to England after a tour through the states of Eastern Canada. His name is Wilson Carlile, and it is a by-word in England. He is one of those rare and extraordinary characters, like Francis of Assisi, or John Wesley, who seem to appear from time to time among the average run of men. Toronto University gave him the degree of D.D., though he had long been an Oxford D.D. The King gave him that coveted and signal honor, which is the award of only 30 or 33 men at one time, the Companion of Honor. The King of Kings has surely a most loving "well done" for Prebendary Carlile later on. But he is only 80. Do you smile at that? Does it seem to be, perhaps, a slip of the pen? He is only 80! The Bishop of London, a dear friend of the Church Army and its beloved Chief, referred to him as "that boy Prebendary." Carlile carries his age as gracefully as a little child carries her flowers. And all his years are flowers. From him, possibly, his followers receive that note of positive gaiety which is the hall-mark of their religion.

And these men and women?

They come from all walks in life who constitute the Church Army. They believe in a live Christianity as opposed to the dormant and viscous type of religion so often to be seen. They are men of experience, who know what it is to value a brother's cheering word,—women who have travelled the stony and the bitter paths of life as well as the rosy lane. Eager with sympathy, equipped with a real message of hope to cheer the gloomiest soul. With song and with story, but devoid of any of the glamour and trappings of sensationalists, they will come and they will go. Here as everywhere else, maybe when they have gone there will be some of us, business men, housewives, young and old, rich and poor, who will be conscious of a new song on our lips, and a new throne in our hearts—the one set aside for the light of the world. Look forward to their coming. Above all, remember that they are as human and as natural as you are. They like football—some of them—cricket, fun. And they love God and serve Him.

The Trent Valley Waterway Development Association held its sixth annual meeting yesterday afternoon in the council room of the Chamber of Commerce F. D. Kerr, K.C., president, occupied the chair. Among those present were th following directors: G. K. Fraser, Burleigh Falls; Walter M. Foulds, Hastings, G. H. Coughlin, Hastings; J. B. Hanly, Midland; J. F. Lillicrap, Lakefield, and Ald. C. H. Ackerman, J. Wells Fraser and Frank G. Stinson of Peterborough.

Alderman Ackerman, in the absence through illness of Mayor Holloway, welcomed the members on behalf of the city, and spoke very fittingly of the work done by the Association, and said that the City Council realized the importance of this great inland waterway saystem, and he impressed upon those present the need of finances to carry on the work of the association, as it is instrumental in bringing here the vast majority of tourists who come to this district.

J. Wells Fraser, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce, in the absence of President G. A. Gillespie, also welcomed the members of the association. He said: "The Chamber of Commerce, as you know, is your servant, and it was the members to look upon it as a part of the Trent Waterways Development Association." He lauded the work done in the past year by the secretary, Frank G. Stinson, as it was largely through him that the association was able to be represented at the New York Motor Boat Show, and in conclusion, "I want the Association to realize that Mr. Stinson is its best friend, and is always working for the development of the waterway."

President's Address.

"During the last year the president has had the hearty, generous and enthusiastic support of the secretary, Mr. Stinson, and it is through his driving powers that the work has made such progress," said Mr. Kerr. The general public are beginning to realize that it takes time and finances to extend the work of the association, and that it is through the association that so great a number of tourists have come to the Trent system.

"The people will not credit the government with foresight but of being blind, if they do not develop the system. Many of the leaders of Canada and the States are coming as tourists every year. This work cannot be accomplished immediately but a little has to be done each year. Work cannot go on without finances, and in financing the association needs co-operation of all the municipalities from Midland to Trenton, and also all public minded citizens," said Mr. Kerr.

Grants from Councils.

During the past year interest was created in the Peterborough County Council, and as a result of this, a grant was made towards financing the work of the association. Victoria County has given grants for the past few years. It is hoped that the outlying counties will follow in this work, as the executive of the association will have money enough to advertise this wonderful waterway." To-day the most unobservant man cannot help but see that the tourist traffic means thousands of dollars to this district, as shown in the secretary's report. Help has been rendered the association by old Peterboro men. Pamphlets and guidances have been distributed, especially at the New York Show," said the speaker.

Mr. Kerr closed by saying that the association would not be doing its work if it did not impress upon the goverment of the day that it is not fair to the people of this district, or to the province of Ontario or the Dominion as a whole, if the canal is not completed from end to end. "I say this, not from a political standpoint, but as a citizen interested in the development of this waterway."

J. W. Fraser.

J. Wells Fraser, in a few well-chosen words, said very emphatically that he was opposed to the statement made in the House of Commons recently, when a member of the government said only such money would be spent as to make the system not a public menace. In answer to this 'raw statement,' as Mr. Fraser called it, he said he was told that the blue books showed the canal the second best paying canal in Canada in power rights.

J. F. Lillicrap took exception to the amount of money being spent in the south end of the canal, when it really was needed in the north west end.

Frank Stinson then read his report:

Tourists Attracted

During the twelve months just passed, the Association has rendered invaluable service to the thousands of tourists attracted to Central Ontario by our policy of judicious and consistent advertising. We, first of all, bring them into this area by direct contact. We take a friendly interest in their welfare while in the vicinity of the Waterway with the result that they go back home and enthusiastically broadcast their experiences and impressions to friends and acquaintances, thus building up good-will for the Association and enhancing greatly the reputation of the Trent Waterway as Canada's premier summer playground.

What the tourist traffic means to Central Ontario is shown by statistics compiled in collaboration with the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, showing the amount of American funds which passed through the chartered banks in the following cities and towns, during the summer months, 1925:

Peterborough City	$252,480.00
Lakefield	65,000.00
Bobcaygeon	90,000.00
Fenelon Falls	24,000.00
Total	$431,480.00

Infant Mortality Rate Much Too High In Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., June 9.—(Canadian Press.)—The maternity and infant mortality rate is much too high in Canada, Miss E. L. Shellie, chief superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, in an address here yesterday said. She outlined steps taken by the Order to remedy this, including education of prospective mothers. The work of the Order is most preventative, she pointed out. It seeks to elminate causes of sickness as well as relieve suffering.

TREND OF PROBE IS DISPLEASING TO EVANGELIST

Mrs. McPherson Says Investigation Has Been Centred on Her.

NOT ON CRIMINALS.

She Denies Story That Love Affair Caused Her Disappearance.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 29 (Canadian Press).—Aimee Semple McPherson, of Ingersoll, Ont., has expressed her displeasure with the trend which the investigation of her story that she was kidnapped and taken to Mexico has developed. As the District Attorney and police continued the inquiry to-day the evangelist denounced those who doubt her explanation of her five weeks' absence which started when she vanished at Ocean Park on May 8, and ended when she was found at Agua Prieta, Mexico, last Wednesday.

"Instead of being centered on the criminals, it (the investigation) has centered on me," she said.

The pastor scoffed at the possibility that she might have disappared because of a love affair.

"The man I marry has not appeared on the scene yet," she declared, and then proceeded to draw a word picture of her ideal. "He must be good looking. He must be six feet tall or more. He must be a preacher. He must have certain rigid standards. He must play the trombone and be a good singer, and he must be a good and holy man."

The description, she added, tallies with no one she now knows.

"Your Wife?—She's Mine;" Then the Battle Started

CHICAGO, June 29 (United News). — Albert Johnson was driving his taxi cab on the north side in search of passengers, when he noticed a strange man talking to his wife on a street.

"Who are you and why are you talking to my wife?" Johnson asked the stranger.

'Your wife?" the stranger replied. "This is my wife."

Police interfered with the argument that followed and took all three to headquarters, where Mrs. Johnson admitted she was married to both men, and was held on a charge of bigamy.

U. F. A. GOVERNMENT RETURNED IN ALBERTA GENERAL ELECTION, WINNING BY A LARGE MAJORITY

Captures Most Seats Decisively in Three-Cornered Contests.

STANDS ON RECORD.

Proportional Representation and Transferable Vote Are Used.

CALGARY, June 29 (Canadian Press).—Premier J. E. Brownlee, fighting his first campaign as leader of the United Farmers of Alberta, was returned to power with an increased majority as a result of the provincial elections yesterday. The returns had barely started coming in last night when it was plainly indicated that the electorate had endorsed the record of the U.F.A. during its first term of office and had given it a mandate for a second time. Throughout the night, the advantage of the Government increased and at midnight when compilation of unofficial returns virtually ceased the extent of Government victory was fairly well defined. The unknown quantity in the election was virtually narrowed down to the cities of Edmonton and Calgary, where the counting of the various choice indicated through the preferential balloting system was proceeding slowly, it is not expected that the results for the cities will be known until to-night. The same situation exists in a large number of rural polls.

Gordon Hails Election As Way To Clear the Air

The Honorable G. N. Gordon was asked today what he thought of the political crisis in Federal affairs which developed yesterday, and he said he thought the only thing to clear the political atmosphere was a general election and let one party or the other have a clear working majority.

The former Minister went on to say that each of the old parties was in a minority if either united with the independent members of the House of Commons and a condition such as that left any Government always in a position of uncertainty.

As to local matters, Mr. Gordon said that he did not wish to make any comment, as no doubt a convention will be called at an early date to decide upon the candidate to carry the Liberal colours.

Induction To-night.

The unique and impressive and stately ceremony will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Gordon, of St. Andrew's Church.

The induction sermon will be preached by Rev. T. E. Holling, of Lindsay. Rev. Mr. McConnachie will deliver the charge to the minister, and Rev. J. A. McKenzie, a former pastor of Knox Church, will address the congregation.

RIGHT OF DISSOLUTION RETURNS TO LIBERALS IF MEIGHEN LOSES

John S. Ewart, K.C., Constitutional Authority, Says Precedent and Law Gives Right To King If Want Of Confidence Is Voted.

TORONTO, June 29 (Canadian Press).—A special despatch from Ottawa says:

"According to constitutional law and precedent, dissolution comes back to the Liberals if the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen fails to carry on in the House of Commons." This most important opinion was given last night by John S. Ewart, K.C., eminent constitutional authority.

Ever since this memorable political battle commenced on the floor of the House six months ago it was admitted that the immediate objective of the Conservatives was to upset the Government, meet the House, and then go to the country with the election machinery in their hands. According to Mr. Ewart, if the Liberals upset the Meighen Government on their threatened want-of-confidence motion, the Government comes back into Mr. King's hands, and with it the right of dissolution.

Drayton Takes Lead Of Party As Meighen Forms Government To Avoid General Election

Will Seek To Complete Work of the Present Session and Then Hold By-Elections For Return of Cabinet—Members Are Now Only Acting.

MISS McPHAIL WANTS CUSTOMS CLEAN-UP AS RETURN FOR HELPING CONSERVATIVES

Debate on Customs Amendments Re-opens With Liberal Criticizing New Government Party—Routine Business Is Proceeding—Avoid Delay and Hardship Says Drayton.

OTTAWA, June 29 (Canadian Press)—Proceedings opened in the House of Commons today with the Conservative party occupying the Government benches while the Liberals were across the floor occupying the seats held by the Opposition yesterday. Ex-Premier Mr. King had Mr. Meighen's former seat while Sir Henry Drayton occupied that vacated by W. L. Mackenzie King. The first business was the reading of a statement by Sir Henry Drayton which was as follows.

"Immediately following the resolution of the late Government and the adjournment of the House yesterday, His Excellency the Governor General, sent for the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative party, and requested him to form a new administration. Mr. Meighen advised His Excellency last evening that he would undertake this task and was sworn in this morning as Prime Minister, Secretary of State for External Affairs and President of the Privy Council.

"Having in mind the fact that the present session has now continued for almost six months, and is very near its close, Mr. Meighen believed it to be the first duty of any government he might form to conclude with all convenient dispatch the work of the present session. Such a course in preference to a somewhat prolonged adjournment was demanded also by just regard for the convenience of honorable members, especially those who come from a great distance.

"It was manifestly impossible to effect this result if the government was to be formed in the usual way and if ministers were to be assigned portfolios necessi-

Alderman Of German City Talk Tax On Bobbed Hair

LANDAU, Bavaria, June 29. (United Press).—Alderman Siebesberger to-day sought to levy a fifty mark tax on every newly bobbed head. This, explained the alderman, would discourage the practice of bobbing and protect the ideal of German womanly beauty against the mutilation of modern fashions.

There was angry debate in the town council, and finally the tax, which would amount to about $10, was rejected as unconstitutional.

THOMAS BARRIE TELLS OF WEST

Peterborough Business Man Finds Trade Active and Crops Good.

TO REFLECT HERE.

Conditions are very favorable in the West, said Thomas Barrie of Barries Limited, who has just returned from an extended business tour of the provinces of Saskatchewan, Northern Alberta and Manitoba. The season opened up fully three weeks ahead of the east, and due to the crops getting lots of moisture, the wheat is showing great signs of growth. In some places the crop is standing eighteen inches high, he said, but the bulk would average from six to ten inches. During his travels he did not come upon a single district where the crops were not looking healthy. The only question this year will be as to the quantity, but this will, of course, depend upon future conditions.

Mr. Barrie declared that he found business to be considerably more active than in the East, with more building in progress than at any time during the last five years. In Regina alone, he said, building permits for over two million dollars have been issued, and this amount does not include the permit for the erection of the new C. P. R. hotel, which it is expected will amount to from one to one million and a half dollars.

While the automobile and agricultural implement business seem to be more active than some other lines; a great many dealers complaining that they cannot get enough new cars to fill their requirements, cash payments are a great deal more in evidence than formerly.

Summing up the situation, Mr. Barrie stated that there was every reason to be optimistic and ventured the opinion that the prosperous conditions existing there would gradually benefit the conditions of the manufacturers in the East.

LITTLE ONE DIES FROM INJURIES

Boy Knocked Down By Car Succumbs—Three in Hospital.

ALL BADLY HURT.

TORONTO, June 29 (Canadian Press).—Christopher Thaw, aged nine years, died in a hospital this morning from injuries received when struck by an automobile opposite his home last night. Three other children, Evelyn Hopkins, aged six; Bobbie Walters, aged eight, and Jack Hand, aged six, lie in hospital in a critical condition as the result of similar accidents.

TOTAL FATALITIES WILL BE OVER 1,000

MEXICO CITY, June 29 (Canadian Press).—An estimate that the total fatalities in floods at Leon will exceed 1000 is given by a special corespondent of El Universal, who has just returned from the devastated regions. He claims that the exact number of victims never will be known because the flood waters carried away with them bodies both from Leon and the densely populated neighboring farming sections.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor, Examiner.

Had "independence" not been there, and had those who turned the scale not had something better than party in them there would have been no censure of and no upset of the government. Government's must stand or fall by the acts of their members and the innocent must fall along with the guilty. That is the rule and it is a good one, otherwise governments could always dodge responsibility by sacrificing one or two of their number.

But while that is all true enough I want to tax the patience of your readers with another proposition. Is it wise to mix religion, morals, education and business all together in our national affairs? Is not religion a private matter? To drag in religious prejudices into business affairs only spoils the business. We cannot and will not set our mind to it. It is made the football of religious hatreds and business quite improperly suffers as a consequence. So is it with morals. If we make "morals" a policy those who differ on it will neglect both business and education. Morals like religion is a private matter. No one ever heard of a public soul or a public's prayer. The public as a whole has neither religion nor morals and most of its people also have neither. We might as well talk of the town pump's having a conscience as of the public conscience. It is or rather was the pride and glory of British civilization that a man's religion and his morals were his own business and between him and his Maker so long as he did not interfere with other people. But it is different now and it is a mighty bad thing that we have thrown all our religious and moral liberties and prejudices into the public pot together just as if they were public "business." No country can advance where one section is determined to run the religion, the morals, the business and every other private concern of every other section. It is senseless and useless. Let us lay it down as a final and fundamental fact that no section shall be allowed to interfere with the religion and the morals of another provided that other is normal and decent. Then we can attend to the public business and then and there only will it be properly attended to and not sacrificed to the desires of others who wish to boss everybody else. Only by the cultivation of tolerance can we secure liberty and a spirit of national solidarity and mutual help. Are we forever to ignore the good that is in other people, forgetting our own faults at the same time? It is not working well. Our country is at sixes and sevens and at a great loss. Liberty is life itself and more precious than life not for ourselves only but for everybody. The old days of persecution and torment ought to be left where they are and not dragged out to the hurt of our friends when our real enemies are snarling at our gates. It will be too late to talk tolerance and friendship when the flood has come.

Amundsen and Nobile Again On Friendly Terms

SEATTLE, June 29 Canadian Press)—Capt. Roald Amundsen and Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader and chief pilot, respectively, of the dirigible Norge on its flight over the North Pole, are again on friendly terms after maintaining a frigid atmosphere in their personal relations for more than six weeks.

The explorers "thawed out" at a banquet here yesterday, when they clasped hands and then retired for a friendly chat in private. The differences arose, it is understood, when both the Italian and the Norwegian components of the Norge's crew expressed the view they were entitled to the first honors.

BRIAND POLICY READ IN HOUSES

INTERNATIONAL AID.

PARIS, June 29. — (Canadian Press.)—The settlement of the allied war debts is one of the factors of the position on which the proposed stabilization of the franc depends, says the declaration of the policy of the new Briand cabinet which was read before both houses this afternoon.

Parliament will soon be called upon to take the responsibility either of ratifying or rejecting the Washington debt funding agreement.

"The government knows that in order practically to accomplish the stabilization of the franc, International aid will not be useless," the declaration says. "But in no case will it consent to the slightest infraction upon the full sovereignty of the country."

The Cabinet when it had presented its programme, won a vote of confidence from the Chamber of Deputies.

CHILDREN ARE CURED THROUGH ROTARY'S WORK

Dr. A. W. McPherson Reports on What Has Been Accomplished.

SPLENDID RESULTS.

Cases Are Reviewed To Show Success of Fine Effort.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee of the Rotary Club, has furnished the Examiner with a review of the club's activities along this line that should be full of interest to everybody.

The work was commenced by taking a census of the city and suburbs with a view to obtaining a list of crippled children. The canvas was conducted by the Rotaryannes and 70 names were obtained.

The 70 cases were reviewed and those needing treatment were examined by the committee and later seen by Dr. Robertson of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

As a result 9 were sent to the Hospital for Sick Children, while 7 received treatment locally.

Of the cases sent to Toronto, the report is as follows:

Case No. 1—Infantile paralysis in a child twelve years of age, who could not put her heel to the ground on account of the shortening of the big tendon to the heel. The tendon was lengthened and the child walks well. Treatment complete. Result—Cured.

Case No. 2—Infantile paralysis in a child twelve years of age, affecting the legs and ankles so that the child could walk only with great difficulty on account of lack of support in the ankles. An operation was performed. Treatment complete. Result—Much improved.

Case No. 3—Club foot. Child, 10 years old. Operation. Treatment complete. Cured.

Case No. 4—Stiff joints, especially the knees. Unable to walk. This child, ten years old, spent 4 months at the Hospital for Sick Children. Knees straightened, and considerable movement obtained. Treatment completed. Much improved.

Cases Nos. 5 and 6—Spinal curvature, two cases, in children 5 and 15 years old respectively. Have been under care at the Hospital for Sick Children for the past one and a half years, and are still receiving treatment at intervals. Improving.

Case No. 7—Webbed fingers in child 3 years old. Operation. Treatment completed. Cured.

Case No. 8—Bow-leg in a child, 4 years old. One operation. Much improved. A second operation was required to complete the cure but this was refused.

Case No. 9—Hare lip and cleft palate in child 3 months. Developed chicken pox after entering hospital before an operation could be performed, and died.

In the cases treated at home the results were:

Case No. 1 — Extra toe on one foot, making it very uncomfortable for this eight-year-old child to wear a boot. Toe removed. Complete cure.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION HELD

Murray Street Scholars Go By Boat To Wallace's Point.

PLEASANT OUTING.

The annual picnic of the Murray Street Sunday School was held on Saturday afternoon, June 26. The weather was decidedly unpromising and the crowd that went was, therefore, smaller than usual. The steamer Stoney Lake was however comfortably filled with a happy crowd of youngsters with a sprinkling of adults to keep them in order. The trip down the river to the second bridge was all that could be wished for. The weather was bright and cool, and the lovely scenery through which the river winds was at its best, with everything fresh and green as only Nature with its copious showers can make it. Sports, games and supper were indulged in at Wallace's Point, the last named being a very important part of the programme to the younger members of the party also to some of the older ones. The races for the scholars were run off immediately on the arrival of the steamer, and the following are the prize winners:

Boys, 6 and under.—1, Arthur Lasenby; 2, Bobby Ingram.

Girls 15 and 16.—1, Helen Wilson; 2, Arlie Herron.

Boys 16 and under.—1, Eric Shiner; 2, George Budd.

Soft ball games were played after supper.

The boat left Wallace's Point at 7 p.m., arriving at the City wharf at 8.30, with all satisfied that they would have missed a good time if they had stayed home.

WHY SUPPORT IS INDICATED.

The attention of Examiner readers is directed to the very fine report of Dr. McPherson, chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee of the Peterborough Rotary Club, which is published elsewhere today.

Th report is a document full of human interest inasmuch as it reveals the extent of the splendid effort made by Rotary to give a better chance for happiness to a number of Peterborough children.

Dr. McPherson gives a brief history of each case so that the thoroughness with which this fine plan to help unfortunate youngsters has been carried out can be fully appreciated.

Activities on behalf of crippled children are undertaken by Rotary Clubs everywhere, but few of the branches have taken hold of the work with so fine spirit, or with such encouraging results, as has the Peterborough Club.

On the eve of Rotary's annual carnival this interesting report of what is being done for crippled children, and the successful opening of Camp Rotary, with its happy colony of 40 boys should do much to stimulate popular interest both in the Club and in the carnival and thus by providing liberal patronage to the latter will afford the former a chance to continue these fine movements.

None of the Rotary proceeds of the carnival are to used for any purpose than to be invested in the various social service activities promoted by the Peterborough Rotary Club and that point too should be remembered in connection with next week's gala affair.

THE INEVITABLE WAY OUT.

Whatever the immediate developments in the Federal political arena may be, the feeling is general that the electors will be called on in the course of a few months to clarify the situation by their votes.

A general election will be wecomed for the chance it will offer of escaping from a deadlock in which the balance of power is held by a handful of Progressive members.

The Examiner, soon after the last appeal to the country had resulted in a situation in which no party had a clear majority in the House, pointed out that it would be impossible for any combination of forces in Parliament to carry on, and suggested that the only hope of relief lay in another general election.

We believe that we were on sound ground in making that contention and that the proceedings of the present session, culminating in the resignation of the King administration offer substantial proof of the correctness of our opinion.

It is argued that another appeal to the people might leave that situation unchanged, that no one party could come back from the polls with that majority over all that is essential to the smooth functioning of a government.

That argument has some weight, it cannot be denied, yet it must be admitted that an election offers a chance for re-alignment of forces for a clearing up of the situation and is therefore to be preferred to a veritable deadlock in which whatever government may be attempting to carry on the business of the country would be at the mercy of a few Progressives.

A certain amount of business demoralization is inevitable in the holding of an election, yet that will be accepted cheerfully, in the assurance that the electors may be able to point a way out of the maze.

IN A BETTER POSITION.

At the present moment the position of the Canadian farmer is much more fortunate than that of the farmer in the United States, since the price of Canadian farm products is above the general price level, while the average price of United States farm products is below the level, says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada. For some months the whole trend of basic commodity prices has been downward in both the United States and Canada, and as usual, raw materials have suffered more than finished goods. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics Index for 236 commodities in April was 160.6 against 163.8 for January, while the April Index number for Canadian farm products stands at 172.9. On the other hand the United States Department of Agriculture Index shows that farm proudcts in the United States stand at 146, as against a general price level of approximately 154. In both cases these index numbers are weighted in relation to the economic importance of the various prices going into the index. The prevailing low prices for corn and cotton go far to explain the low prices in the United States, while the high price of wheat, which is proportionately a much more important product in Canada, is a large factor in the prosperity of the Canadian farmer. The following table shows the index numbers of various Canadian products as compared with 1913 prices. 100 is taken to represent the average 1913 prices. From this table and from the facts mentioned above the conclusion may be drawn that the balance between purchasing power and consumption is being maintained in better proportion in Canada than in the United States.

	January	February	March	April
Farm products	173.0	167.5	163.2	172.9
Animal	149.3	147.2	146.1	138.0
Foods	173.2	170.8	169.0	169.3
Textiles and their products	187.9	185.9	182.8	175.9
Wood products and paper	159.7	159.8	157.3	156.9
Iron and its products	147.5	147.2	145.7	145.0
Non-ferrous metals and their products	105.9	105.0	105.7	104.4
Non-metallic minerals and their products	177.2	177.8	178.6	177.0
Building and construction materials	152.6	152.7	152.2	150.4

For the first time in two years the monthly total of imports has exceeded exports, but Canadian export trade is running at high levels, the total for the month of April, $60,166,868, being the largest for that particular month since 1919. The actual volume of goods moving at the present time is greater than these figures indicate, because commodity prices were then highly inflated. There is nothing that need give us any concern in the fact that imports are exceeding exports. We have had a long series of largely favourable merchandise balances, and the currency and credit structure of the country is eminently sound. Canadian funds have been at a premium in the world's markets for some time past, and there is no doubt that in the later months of the year, when the seasonal movement of agricultural produce gets under way, the trade balance will swing back to a surplus of exports. In the meantime we can interpret the present import surplus as a good indication of the purchasing power in the hands of Canadian consumers. High prices for Canadian farm products, and this evidence of substantial purchasing power in the hands of Canadian purchasers, indicate a condition of fundamental prosperity in the country.

MOTORING IN CANADA.

Fully up to the standard of its companion volumes in its literary excellence and the attractiveness of its printing and illustrations is the publication, "Motoring In Canada", issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

The Examiner has referred to the other volumes in the same series, "Canoeing in Canada" and "Fishing in Canada", as likely to prove a valuable service in appealing to thousands of citizens of the United States to come to Canada in vacation time, and the latest publication should be of equal effectiveness, serving as it does to remind the reader of the revolutionizing influence exerted by the automobile upon travel.

A quotation will serve to show the appeal of "Motoring in Canada."

'Among the many changes in modern life, perhaps the greatest are those resulting from the development of the automobile as a means of transportation. From the chaise and the stage-coach to the railway was a great advance, but greater was the advance from the railway to the automobile with its freedom of action and radius of travel limited only by the existence of roads. Hence it results that regions of North America, formerly visited only by the adventurer and explorer are now accessible to the private citizen.

"Innumerable views and beautiful country, hitherto known to the average citizen only by repute, are now within reach of the motorist. By means of the automobile he discovers sources of enjoyment never experienced by the rialroad tourist. He may visit curious, old-time hamlets, historic sites, and forgotten places aside from the main trail. In fact, it is practically impossible to obtain this intimate knowledge of the country except by means of the automobile. Emerging from the forest road, one sees the beautiful valley, extnding for miles with its fields of various colors and groups of farms; or mounting a hill there flashes upon one the wide open sea with snowy sails or, if among the mountains, one passes through a narrow defile and there opens a boundless scene of mountain valley flanked by ranges of serrated heights and, beyond, still loftier snow-capped heights and glean of distant glacier."

WHEN WILD RUMORS SPREAD.

(Manitoba Free Press)

An instant effect of suppressing the newspapers in Great Britain during the general strike was to give wings to every kind of foolish rumor. These razed the country as a grass fire blackens the prairie. Their amazing absurdity did not prevent them from endangering the public peace. None seemed too idiotic to be incapable of throwing people into a state of hysteria.

Not a new day passed without its fresh crop of these feverish fables. Some are now being published by the newspapers, presumably to show the kind of thing that can gain currency when the news of the day be supressed. The things people then will believe appear in the chill light of aftermath to be unbelievably fantastic. Their authenticity as rumors well might be subject to suspicion; to think of ever having believed them is to admit gullibility.

Large retail establisments in London were advised to close their premises as soon as possible to avoid being sacked by 5000 Welsh miners the police were expecting to march on the city. The police were expecting nothing of the kind.

Householders on some of the city's busiest streets were confined to the back apartment of their homes to allow troops to shoot through the front windows at the strikers. The memorable feature of the strike is that not a shot was fired.

Of course, Germany was rumored to be the hidden hand that has dislocated the life of the nation. The baneful news went whispering from county to county, with ever amazing added details, how Germany had organized and financed the whole upheaval, to the end that her troops loaded transports waiting in the Channel could invade England. The entire country was aflutter when word came through the underground that the strike leaders had flown to France, having found themselves short in strike funds. All London got to hear that the "Reds" were being issued revolvers and side arms from a small shop at Tooting Junction, owned by the Krupps, of Germany.

People deprived of the daily newspapers from which they habitually learned what was going on around them and in the world, hungrily accepted anything that would appease their craving for news. They did not stop to think what was the source or upon whose authority it was related. One story they gobbled was so thrilling it deserved almost to be true. It told how northern miners had massacred a number of members of the House of Lords. Before the gruesome tale had run its dismal length it had been embellished into a bloodthirtsy yarn. It supplied the lacking touch of horror.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ottawa has at last succeeded in attracting the whole-hearted attention of he people. Most of them now look to see what is happening down there as soon as they have read the ball scores.

Perhaps Mr. King believes that it is better to have tried and lost than never to have tried at all.

To quote the sporting page, it was a technical knockout. The Government tossed in the towel before the final punch landed.

The scramble for Cabinet positions no doubt is under way. The line forms on the right, gentlemen.

And now Mr. Ferguson will have a chance perhaps to say that it will be impossible to hold those by-elections because of the likelihood of a Dominin election.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 29.—(Canadian Press).—There was little business worked with foreign buyers on the Montreal grain market yesterday. Some sales of oats were made to the United Kingdom.

The only demand of importance in the domestic market was from exporters for Canadian Western oats and sales of several loads of No. 2 Canadian Western were made at eleven cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 2 fed grades at 11 1-4 cents per bushel over, C.I.F. Montreal. The market for car lots of oats was weaker and prices reduced 2 to 2 1-2 cents per bushel.

Prices for all grades of flour were well maintained under a limited demand.

The feature of the millfeed trade was the improved demand from United States buyers and a moderate amount of business was transacted. The domestic trade continued fair and prices were firm. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was slow and prices were unchanged.

Owing to a better demand and light receipts, a firmer feeling developed in the potato market but prices were unchanged.

A fair trade was done in eggs and prices were steady. The receipts were 1,611 cases.

The butter market was without any feature to note, business being quiet and prices unchanged. The receipts were 3,704 packages.

The export and local cheese trade was inactive but the feeling was steady. The receipts were 9,209 boxes.

The trade in beans was quiet but the tone of the market was firm on account of the continued small offerings. Car lots of choice white handpicked were quoted at $2.25 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $2.35 to $2.45 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 29.—(Canadian Press).—With receipts of new wheat southwest rapidly increasing and with prospects of heavy marketing, wheat values underwent a material fresh setback yesterday. For the first time July delivery of wheat went to a discount under September. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-4 to 2 1-8 cents net lower; corn showing 1-8 to 7-8 gain; oats 3-8 to 7-8 off and provisions unchanged to 40 cents down.

Arrivals of wheat in the southwest from the harvest fields in Kansas and Oklahoma ran up into millions of bushels, the day's receipts at four points totalling alone 2,272 cars. Resulting pressure to sell soon forced July wheat quotations here well below September, notwithstanding that July commanded as much as four cents a bushel premium last week. This weakness of the July delivery was partly due to the fact that auspicious weather is favoring the harvest southwest and partly due also to knowledge that the influx of wheat in that section has broken all previous records for June arrivals.

So plentiful were the available supplies of wheat in the southwest today that liberal quantities were being offered and sold to be shipped to Chicago before July 31 at the current price here for July delivery. Meanwhile cutting of wheat was reported to be spreading northward in Nebraska, while Illinois crop prospects were estimated to have improved to the extent of 3,500,000 bushels in excess of government June 1 returns. On the other hand, news of rust developing in Minnesota was virtually ignored and so likewise were advices of 100 degree temperatures both sides of the Canadian boundary. About 500,000 bushels of new crop wheat was announced as having been taken today for export.

Corn advanced owing largely to less favorable reports concerning the crop outlook. Demand for oats was lacking and prices dropped to a new low price record for the season.

Provisions were affected by forecasts of an increased supply of pigs in the corn belt.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Look well to this day, for it is life,
the very life of life—
In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of your life;
The bliss of growth, the glory of action, the splendor of beauty—
For yesterday is but a dream and tomorrow is only a vision;
But today, well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness, and every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well to this day! Such is the exhortation of the dawn.

CAMPBELLFORD PAYS RESPECT TO VICTIM OF MOTOR FATALITY

Funeral of Mrs. W. I. Stillman Very Largely Attended Monday.

STORES CLOSED.

Services Conducted By Rev. W. L. Elliott.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29—Blinds were drawn and doors bolted in most of the stores during the funeral here Monday afternoon of Mrs. W. I. Stillman, victim of the motor crash on the Keene road near Peterboro Friday. This was the merchants' silent tribute to the wife of one of their fraternity, himself a grocer, who was seriously injured in the same fatal accident. It was a spontaneous expression of sympathy, this withdrawing from business for the greater part of the afternoon, that revealed the warm heart of the business section.

The funeral was one of the most largely attended here in years. A long line of automobiles followed the hearse to the cemetery, and many other citizens, women and men, assisted at the services in the home while more than a hundred clustered about the verandah and lawns. This hushed assembly of friends strikingly illustrated the eulogy of Rev. W. L. Elliott, pastor of the United Church, who conducted the services assisted by Rev. C. D. Daniels of town and Rev. M. L. Hinton of Hastings. And the presence of the people and the words of the pastor were charged with the emotions that have stirred the town since the numbing news of the crash was telephoned from Peterboro barely an hour after the Diamond-Stillman party had left Campbellford. Pity was welling in the hearts of those neighbors who crowded the broken home yesterday. And this feeling was intensified by their visualization of the whole tragedy, the husband and wife parted by death in a twinkling, the husband stricken and suffering in the Peterboro hospital while his wife, whom presumably he had not seen since the mishap, was passing to the grave, the broken home, the friendships severed without a farewell. Hence the tears in the eyes of so

FARM FAMILIES COME TO FRONT

President of New Brunswick Teachers Discusses Rural Problem.

EXODUS TO U.S.

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 29 (Canadian Press)—"Many countries have tried and are trying by means of their schools to keep farmers' children on the farm, and the net result is that the number of farmers is decreasing; the farmers complain that there are too many farmers to secure paying prices for farm crops," said Dr. W. S. Carter, chief superintendent of education, during his annual address as president of the New Brunswick Teachers' Institute yesterday afternoon.

"It is a good thing for the world," continued the speaker, "that all farmers' boys and girls have not remained on the farm. From that class, more than any other, leaders have come in all walks of life, and because of their better environment and consequent better bringing-up, they will continue to come, for they refuse by any system of education to be tied down to a selected vocation.

"It is not surprising that there should be an exodus of Canadians to a highly industrially organized country of kindred race and language, comparatively untouched by the war, paying high wages, with lower costs of living and taxation and which imposes no restrictions upon us going there, as it does upon nearly all other countries. We in Canada have always suffered in this respect because of our proximity to the United States, and will continue to suffer, until we become more industrial.

"It will be of little avail to educate boys to be farmers, if they will not stay on the farms, or to train boys industrially if there are no industries to employ them. The training will not produce the industry, but the industry will demand and justify the training.

"Our boys who have a bent for farming are often rendered restless and discontented by well-intentioned advertising of various kinds, showing more favorable conditions elsewhere than at home — always the best conditions are put forward and never the worst. Hence the exodus of our boys in such large numbers to the west on harvest excursions, many of whom do not return."

Supply of Teachers.

The supply of teachers for the first time in many years exceeds the demand, said Doctor Carter, discussing the question of salaries and pensions. No teacher in the province received a salary of less than $500 from all sources, and on the maintenance of these salaries the future of the teacher supply depends.

Doctor Carter said that he hoped to be in a position to have the textbook changes now under review made at the beginning of July, 1927. In this connection the New Brunswick Board of Education is strongly in favor of the policy of harmonizing the texts of the Maritime Provinces as far as possible.

He gets his wisdom cheaply who gets it at another's expense.

LABOR RESENTS GOVERNMENT'S EIGHT HOUR BILL

British Commons Debated Measure During Entire Session Yesterday.

"INDUSTRY IN PERIL."

Opposition Argues That Longer Hors Means More Unemployment.

LONDON, June 29 (Canadian Press).—The entire session of the House of Commons yesterday was devoted to a debate on the Government's eight-hour bill for miners. Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, who sponsored the measure, repudiated in behalf of the Government any desire to attack either the miners' hours or wages, and he emphasized the parlous condition of the coal export industry, which had only been able to fight increasing German competition through subsidy.

He insisted that the position would become still worse when the Ruhr was completely evacuated.

Stephen Walsh, Laborite, and a former miner, in moving rejection of the bill, argued that longer hours meant disemploying many thousands of miners and increasing the output, which was already excessive.

The discussion was mainly confined to the Labor members, all of whom hotly opposed the bill. The debate will be continued to-day.

FASCIST HEADS IN BANK SCANDAL

Twelve Prominent Men Arrested—Warrants Issued For Ten Others.

UGLY RUMORS.

ROME, June 29 (A.P.)—The efforts of Secretary-General Turati of the Fascist Party, personally backed up by Premier Mussolini, to drive out financial corruption, and raise the standards of the political morale of the party, have borne surprising fruit in the discovery of a huge banking scandal involving a score of persons high in the party councils under the regime of Roberto Farinacci, whom Turati succeeded as Secretary-General.

In the last few days twelve men, all prominent in political, financial and business life, have been arrested in Parma, Florence, Genoa, Piacenza and Cremona, while warrants for the arrest of ten others have been issued.

The extent of the scandal, which concerns primarily the alleged corrupt handling of the affairs of the recently defunct agricultural bank of Parma, is indicated by the fact that one of those arrested is Giambattista Biaggi, Swiss Consul General at Genoa. Others held are Count Lugi Lusignani, former President of the bank, who the police assert, attempted to commit suicide when taken into custody; Professor Alessandro Groppali of the University of Parma and Professors Calvi and Ghibellini.

Ugly rumors concerning the bank, which had deposits of $5,000,000 and twenty flourishing branches, culminated in the closing of its doors on June 8, after which Signor Turati began an investigation. On the submission of his findings to Mussolini, the Premier ordered immediate action.

Hungarian Milling Company Heads Arrested After Losing $7,000,000 In Chicago Wheat

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 29 (A.P.).—Charged with responsibility for the loss in speculative adventures in the Chicago wheat market of more than $7,000,000 belonging to the stockholders of the Victoria Milling Company and the Concordia Milling Company, Emil Bacher and Oscar Fabry, president and manager respectively, of those corporations, were arrested last night by the State Police.

Bacher, it is alleged, bought and sold huge quantities of wheat last winter on the Chicago market without authorization of the stockholders, which brought about the bankruptcy of the company. To save Hungary's commercial credit abroad the Government went to the rescue of the insolvent concern, advancing $3,500,000, but this measure succeeded merely in staving off ultimate total collapse.

After the failure, Bacher, who is 72 years old, said he could have saved the concerns by obtaining credits from British and other bankers, but the sudden development of the thirty million franc forgery case so impaired Hungary's credit abroad that this was impossible.

The failure of the Victoria Milling Company was the most sensational crash in Hungary's history. Barely had its echoes died when the Concardio Company also went to the wall.

Like Bacher, the Concordia's manager, Fabry, is charged with the misuse of large sums for speculation on the Chicago exchange.

There are tens of thousands of small stockholders in both companies, and they are demanding that Bacher and Fabry be punished to the full extent of the law. There is particular bitterness against Bacher, who, it is asserted, lived on the most lavish scale even after the collapse of the company.

RACIAL WARFARE IN CITY STREET

Whites and Negroes Clash—Police Reserves Quell Riot.

RAZORS WERE USED.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Prospect Place, Brooklyn, between Howard and Saratoga Avenues, was the scene of two outbreaks between white and negro residents which approached the proportions of riots and were quelled by police reserves who wielded clubs.

Stones were hurled from roofs, razors flashed, and fists were used. Men, women and children participated. Two white men were injured and one was sent to a hospital. Four negroes were arrested.

The trouble was said to have been brewing for some time. The white residents of the block, it was said, objected to the presence of the negro residents and the negroes were said to have taken offence at the resentment of the whites. Minor fights occurred frequently.

FREIGHT ROBBERY LOSSES REDUCED

Representative of Railway Protective Section Reads Paper at Convention.

MONTREAL, Que., June 29. — (Canadian Press). — "In striking contrast to the increase in crime, the protective section has maintained its unbroken record of the last five years with a big reduction in freight robberies," declared A. L. Green, special representative, committee on freight claim prevention, in a paper delivered at yesterday's session of the convention of the protective section, American Railway Association.

Mr. Green proceeded:

"In 1925, the number of carloadings of merchandise and manufactured products exceeded the annual average for the previous five years by 20 per cent., and wholesale prices increased about 6 per cent. compared with 1924. Moreover, there has been a steady increase, in recent years, in crimes of violence, such as burglaries, stick-ups, hijacking, etc., the exact extent of which no one knows. But if conditions as reported by various investigating bodies prevailed in the country at large it would appear that thefts and robberies have more than doubled during the last five years.

"Notwithstanding all these handicaps, the protective section reduced freight robbery losses 88 per cent. in the last five years and 36 per cent. in 1925 under 1924, and the improvement has not stopped.

CHILD LOSES FIVE FINGERS

Bobcaygeon Butcher's Son Put Hand in Sausage Machine.

IS IN HOSPITAL.

LINDSAY, June 29.—A sad accident occurred in the village of Bobcaygeon on Saturday, when the four-year-old son of Roy Purdy, butcher, of that village, lost all the fingers on his left hand.

It appears that Mrs. Purdy was in the rear of the shop operating the sausage machine, when the child, unknown to his mother, put his hand in the feeder, and before the machine could be stopped, the fingers were completely severed. Dr. Kelly bound and dressed the hand, and the unfortunate child was taken to the Ross Hospital, Lindsay.

FEW CASUALTIES IN EARTHQUAKE

Area Was Much Wider Than Was at First Reported.

MUSEUM DAMAGED.

LONDON, June 29 (Canadian Press).—The great earthquake on Saturday night which embraced Italy and most of the countries bordering on the Eastern Mediterranean was much more widespread than first reports indicated. It extended as far as the East Indies, heavy shocks being experienced at Singapore and Central Sumatra.

Thus far the reports do not indicate any serious casualties. Vague and conflicting rumors were current in Athens, but as the day advanced reassuring reports arrived, showing that in Crete, which appears to have been the centre of the disturbances, nobody was killed and only a few were injured.

Advices received from Rome indicate that the Island of Rhodes, which is under Italian sovereignty, suffered very heavy shocks, numerous villages being partially wrecked, and thousands of small houses razed. But even there the loss of life or injury to the inhabitants seems to have been slight.

The earthquake affected the whole district around Cyprus, as far as the Ionian Sea, with its centre between the Island of Crete and the Cyclades. The Greek Government is making every effort to help the sufferers and protect the antiquities in Crete.

Latest advices from Crete confirm that the damage to archaelogical museum at Candia was extremely serious, among the many antiquities destroyed being a mural painting representing a bull fight at the Minoan court.

Sir Arthur Evans, noted archaeologist, a fortnight ago, expressed fear lest an earthquake should damage the museum. The Greek Government has decided to send an engineer immediately to repair the museum, which is one of the most important in Greece.

The Consul at Rhodes reports that the shock was felt by a British steamer some distance off the island. The American Near East Relief will remove its office and orphanage, which have been in the old palace and the Zappeion to a building in the Kephisia Road.

If Teeth Lack Gleam Do This

Gives sparkling whiteness quickly

Accept full 10-day tube of this new method leading dental authorities urge . . . note the difference in teeth and gums as dingy film coat goes

UNATTRACTIVE teeth; dull teeth, toneless gums—don't let them handicap you any longer.

It's been learned teeth are seldom naturally "off color." You can quickly restore them to gleaming, clear whiteness.

Why dull-looking teeth Due simply to a film coat

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film on teeth.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it—a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color."

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

Old ways won't clear it off

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method. It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes film, then firms the gums.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt. Send the coupon. Clip it now.

TRENT WATERWAY'S VALUE STRESSED, ETC.

If figures were available from all the municipalities along the Waterway the total would ,of course, be much greater. To Mr. J. Wells Fraser, Manager, Bank of Nova Scotia, and Past President, Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough, is due the full credit for having the foregoing figures placed before the public, which has resulted in much valuable publicity.

New Lock

Whilst we have striven mightily to develop the tourist traffic to this area, our other objective, the completion and improvement of the Trent Canal has not been lost sight of. Due largely to the influence of our Honorary President, the Honorable G. N. Gordon, K.C., a commodious new lock has just been completed at Youngs' Point. This is a decided improvement as that point having the smallest lock formerly governed navigation in the southern part of the Trent. Our thanks are due the Construction Department of the Department of Railways and Canals for completing the work in plenty of time for the yearly passage of pleasure craft from the United States of America and elsewhere. In view of the unsettled conditions prevailing throughout the Province, it may not be advisable to at once press for the completion of the northern section, but it is a problem to keep before us for consideration and action at the proper time.

General Activities

Your officers in Peterborough and elsewhere took part in the entertainment of Messrs. J. Edwin Hoag and Frank S. Wilton, transcontinental boatsmen, resulting in considerable publicity being given the Trent. Their boat was subsequently exhibited at the National Motor Boat Show, New York, in a booth adjacent to the one occupied by the Association exhibit, last January. Smith, the Canadian canoeist who completed such a spectacular canoe trip over Western Europe last summer, also occupied a booth close by, exhibiting his boat, a "Peterborough" canoe.

Your President and Secretary, when it became apparent that the Department of Railways and Canals could not send a representative to the New York Motor Boat Show, last January, in collaboration with Mr. J. Wells Fraser, the then President of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce endeavored to raise the necessary funds from the municipalities.

The appeal met with very gratifying response, resulting in our being once more centrally located on the Mezzanine Floor of the Grand Central Palace, New York City, where the Twenty-first Annual Motor Boat Show, January 22nd to 30th, was held.

Several thousand of our pamphlets were distributed along with a plentiful supply which we had been able to secure from the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways. About one hundred and twenty-five yachtsmen signified their intention of visiting the Trent Waterway during the coming summer. Many thought they would arrange for parties of from two to five boats from the various Yacht Clubs to which they belonged.

At this point, I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the support given me by the Officers and Directors of the Association when it became necessary for us to shoulder the entire burden of our yearly exhibit at the Motor Boat Show. I assure you, it was most gratifying to me, as the incoming Secretary to have this valuable activity carried out, especially when I met the prospective tourists in New York and found them so deeply appreciative of the service rendered at our booth. I met quite a number of people who were in the habit, yearly of looking up my predecessors, which, by the way, speaks well for their work.

During the course of the show, I was delighted to welcome two of the Directors, who visited the booth, in the persons of Mayor Fraser of Trenton, and Mr. J. B. Hanly of Midland.

To Employ Motion Films

There is every reason to believe that a motion picture of the entire Trent Waterway system will be filmed this season. I need not enumerate the obvious superiority of the films as compared with our present method of placing a cumbersome and expensive yearly exhibit in New York for a short period. With a few reels of good film and a small portable projector we will be enabled to reach more cities and give better publicity to the Trent than ever before Mayor Fraser of Trenton, has been successful in interesting the Provincial Government in the project and they have definitely promised to undertake the work this summer.

Your President, F. D. Kerr, K.C., has secured the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway in advertising the Waterway, Provincially, and across the border. It should not be overlooked that we have quite a large home field to draw from in the matter of tourist development. The central part of the Trent, for instance is more easy of access and even more charming than the Muskoka area, over developed as it now is.

Publicity Activities

In the matter of publicity your Secretary has seized every opportunity of utilization space offered in various boating and outing magazines, house organs, etc. Co-operation with the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways in supplying reliable information on the Trent for publication in their pamphlets has resulted in our being able to draw upon them frequently for supplies of advertising matter, descriptive of the Trent.

From the foregoing it will be seen that we have had an active, useful and progressive year. The record of our activities should tend to dispel the feeling prevalent some time ago when it was felt, by some, that we might profitably disband in favor of Provincial activity and leadership. In my estimation, this step would be a mistake. As a live, aggressive organization, we have been instrumental in increasng the wealth and prosperity of Central Ontario. We are the medium through which thousands of our American cousins are enabled to plan and realize their vacation in Canada. We have, by attracting visitors of wealth and affluence, played no insignificant part in the development of our natural resources. Responsibilities such as I have enumerated cannot be disposed of lightly.

As I said before, I am deeply appreciative of the support given me by the Officers of this Association, and the Directors with whom I have been in contact during the past year. I am encouraged in believing in the Trent Waterway Development Association, its aims and objects, by the fact that busy, representative and successful men have identified themselves with the organization.

Examiner Thanked

No report of the activities of the Association would be complete without reference to our doughty supporters "The Press." The "Examiner" particularly has consistently boosted our organization and work and their editorial space has played no small part in the furtherance of our aims and objects.

General Business

Messrs. Kerr, Stinson and J. Wells Fraser were appointed a committee to draft a letter to the Premier, Minister of Railways and Canals, Leader of the Opposition and local members, setting out the value of the canal to tourists and for power, and the great need of it being completed.

It was left in the hands of the secretary and president to see to getting out a new pamphlet to advertise the waterway system.

A resolution was passed to impress upon the Provincial Government the necessity of putting fish fry in the waterway.

The secretary was instructed to write Mayor Fraser of Trenton, expressing gratitude for the services rendered by him and regret at his inability to be present at the meeting.

A vote of appreciation was passed thanking the press for the splendid way the waterway had been advertised through the editorial page.

A hearty vote of thanks was also tendered to the retiring president, Mr. Kerr, for all his services rendered in the past year, and for the fine luncheon in the Empress Hotel before the meeting. Mr. Kerr thanked the members and said it was a pleasure to work with men who were anxious to co-operate.

CONVENTION HELD AT CENTREVILLE

South Monaghan and Cavan S. S. Workers Hold Meeting.

MILLBROOK, June 29.—Rev. John Riddle, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Centreville, conducted the opening worship service, 'World Brotherhood", at the semi-annual convention of Sunday school workers for the townships of South Monaghan and Cavan held in the Centreville church on Friday afternoon and evening.

The president, R. S. Staples, was in the chair, and Rev. J. O. Totten, of Cavanville, was appointed secretary protem, the regular appointee to the office, Hubert Gardiner of Mount Pleasant, being unavoidably absent.

The roll-call of Sunday schools brought a fair response from delegates, though a number were not represented, the unexpected call for the convention and the brief time for advertising being responsible for the smallness of the attendance.

Rev. J. E. Griffith, of Blackstock, gave the first address, speaking on the home, the public school, and the community in their relation to child life.

"One mark of progress," the speaker said, "lies in the fact that we are stressing more than we ever did the necessity of purity in the home life, and of religiou training for the developing lives. We often wonder just what the little animal is that we have in the home; psychologists tell us that the first year is the most important in all its history for its mind and character can be permanently impressed then as at no other time."

"There are three sets of cells, the sensory, the motor, or active, and in between the associating cells; in the child the latter are not operating and it acts upon emotion, or the immediate impression. Let nothing touch the senses that you do not want to go permanently into its character. Back in infancy the eye and ear received impressions from the home life that grew into impulsive and unpremeditated actions in later years Therefore atmosphere is a very important factor."

Discussing the question "How are we building up atmosphere?" the speaker stated that irritation, grouchiness, and slovenly housekeeping all affect the developing child causing it to be fretful in disposition, slovenly morally and physically, possibly morose, as a result. Order and direction in the household, the music, the conversation, the pictures on the wall, the religious atmosphere, are all built into the character of the child in later years.

"More people are thinking keenly on these things than there were ten years ago. Concrete instruction must be added to atmosphere but it must be instruction without intrusion. When shall you do it? Give the child a real part in family worship, but let the parent have a definite plan to create a religious impression that will help to meet the problems of that day as the boys and girls are going to meet them. Direct conversation at the noon hour into a channel giving the feeling that you are thinking in terms of God. Then the evening hour—the opportunity that comes at the sleepy time—breathe a story of God's protection, or of the love of Jesus for little children. Impressions at this time are asting and vital."

Speaking of the question period that comes in the life of every boy and girl Mrs. Griffith advised that they be not turned aside but answered in a right way; if the parent misses this opportunity then it falls to the Sunday school teacher, and then the miniser; this is the natural channel.

"But suppose they all miss? Therein lies tragedy; the thing for which we exist as a Sunday school is to present to each pupil, personally, the claims of Jesus, and every teacher should question his or her ability to teach if, during the year, they do not present an appeal for a definite stand for Christ to each scholar."

Referring to the child's impressions gained from little playmates at less some set of trustees is going to school brought the statement, "Unstep in and clean up the moral conditions in the public schools and make them better, parents may often have grave concern for their children. The home must be the purifying circle always, for the home circle never ceases to operate so long as it exists."

"The Bible is the instrument, the church is the place, but the boy is what you are teaching. I believe the minister should accept every opportunity to speak in the public and high schools giving concrete knowledge along religious lines.

"By your example, standing up foursquare for the things you believe have kept you in the way of life, you will keep the standard of community life where the boys and girls should follow."

Rev. C. W. DeMille, of Oshawa, Past General Secretary of the Ontario Religious Education Council, conducted a round table conference, when many problems were discussed in a most practical way. The importance of the teacher training course, the need of a parents' training class, the necessity of the Sunday school co-operating with the home, and the vital nature of a properly conducted worship period in each Sunday school session were among the things about which questions were asked and answered during the hour the conference lasted.

Tea was served in the Sunday school hall to all delegates between the afternoon and evening sessions, and a pleasant social time was spent. Among those assisting with the tea were: Mrs. S. Hall, Mrs. J. Isbister, Mrs. James Hutchison, Mrs. R. O. Larmer, Misses Gwen Hutchison, M. Bradshaw, Dorothy Hall; Messrs. R. Tate, R. O. Larmer, and others.

The nominating committee met between the sessions with Rev. J. Riddle as chairman, and transacted necessary business.

Rev. J. O. Totten took charge of the opening song service at 8 p.m. Miss E. Tate presiding at the organ.

The report of the nominating committee was the first item called for by the president, the officers being re-elected for another year since the last convention was held only six months previously and their regular term was but half expired. The list is: President, R. S. Staples; vice-president, W. Fred Fallis; secretary-treasurer, H. Gardiner; superintendent children's division, Mrs. J. Douglas; of temperance division, Bruce Elliott; of missionary work, Miss E. McIndoo; of girls' work, Miss B. P. Burnham; of teacher training, Rev. J. O. Totten; of home department, Mr. R. Hootan; of adult division, George McBain; of Young People's work, Miss S. Hetherington.

In addition the president appointed five members as an executive committee, Messrs. D. M. Dodds, Thos. Graham, G. E. Burnham, William Finney, and Rev. J. O. Totten.

The resolution recommending the appointment of Rev. J. E. Griffith as county secretary, and of holding the annual convention in June, in co-operation with the other townships in choosing date, were both adopted. The resolution to hold one or more standardized teacher training classes, the time and place to be arranged by the committee, Mrs. W. Seymour Rev. W. H. Foley and eRv. F. H. Howard, in conjunction with the superintendent, Rev. Mr. Totten, was also adopted.

A duet, "Nothing satisfies but Jesus," was sung by Miss Bradshaw and Rev. Mr. Totten, and much appreciated.

Rev. Mr. DeMille was the speaker at night, confining his remarks to pointing out the need of definite results as the outcome of the Sunday school teacher's work.

Reference was made to the adequate development of the individual by means of a controlled environment, suitable, ample instruction, direction in worship, and in recreational activity, that souls may be brought into a definite and right relationship with their Maker.

Some of the requisites are: "We must know what we are expected to do; we must know God; we must know folk; know our strength and know our objectve. If we set a sane standard, and go after it, we are likely to exceed our mark."

Regular meetings of the board of management, with a prepared plan in the leader's mind, "and with two ends—an end to begin and an end to stop", "help given the pupils in choosing a life work, a mission for the school, and a regular evangelistic programme; the retention of the family pew, the giving of serious consideration to the relationship of the child to the church; a democractic participation of the scholars in outlining and carrying out the worship service and expressional activities, were among the many points helpfully discussed in Mr. DeMille's address.

The closing question, "What are you going to do when you get home in relation to the problem of religious education?" left the workers with a serious responsibility to put into practice the things learned throughout the sessions of what was generally conceded to be possibly the most helpful and inspiring convention ever held under O.R.E.C. auspices in the township.

The usual votes of thanks were passed immediately after the report of the nominating committee so that nothing should disturb the impression of the speaker's concluding address, a quiet prayer bringing the gathering to a fitting close.

NO DECISION GIVEN IN SURROGATE CASE

Judge Huycke Reserves Judgment in Neilson Will Case.

Judgment was reserved until July 6 in a will case that came before His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke in the Surrogate Court of the County of Peterborough yesterday. The case arose out of a will made by the late Mrs. M. Neilson, who died on July 26, 1925, and which by some means had been lost while in the hands of the lawyer.

J. F. Strickland appeared for the applicant, H. S. Neilson; V. J. McElderry for the next of kin, Hector and Allen Neilson; and W. F. Huycke for Frederick Neilson, an adopted son.

Mr. Strickland stated that as a statement of facts had been filed he would call evidence to prove the statement.

H. S. Neilson, the first witness called, stated that he was the eldest son of Hugh and Maggie Neilson. W. F. Johnston, he said, transacted all his mother's legal business. Sometime during 1925 his mother informed him that she had made a will and that it was at Mr. Johnston's office. The day after his mother's death he saw Mr. Johnston and was informed by him that they would have to get the will proved. On seeking the will, however, it could not be found.

Mr. Johnston was the next witness examined. Mr. Johnston said that Mrs. Neilson had called him in on legal matters a long time ago. He prepared two wills, the first a number of years ago. This one was destroyed by him on Mrs. Neilson's instructions.

He prepared the second will on Mrs. Neilson's instructions and from her directions. Just before Mrs. Neilson signed the will the witness said, "I realized that the way the will was drawn up that the two sons who owed her money would be liable to the Estate for such monies." With Mrs. Neilson's approval this was corrected. The will was witnessed by Mrs. Francis and himself. He then took the will back to his office and placed it among Mrs. Neilson's papers. He was satisfied that this will had never been delivered to anyone, nor was it destroyed, he said.

He felt sure, he said, that the copy of the will before him was substantially correct.

Mrs. E. F. Francis was next examined. The witness stated that she had called Mr. Johnston in connection with the will. Mr. Johnston was at the house twice in connection with it. Mrs. Neilson signed the document in the presence of Mr. Johnston and herself.

In reply to a question from Mr. McElderry the witness replied "I don't know if it was a new will or an old will but I knew it had something to do with the changing of a will."

This concluded the evidence in the case.

His Honor stated that it was a very important case he would reserve judgment until July 6.

TRINITY CHOIR PICNIC.

Members Spend Enjoyable Afternoon and Evening at South Beach.

(Contributed.)

Another enjoyable event was added to the list of social activities of Trinity church choir when the annual picnic was held on Thursday last.

The entire choir and their friends, numbering fifty (50) in all, motored to South Beach, one of those places so richly endowed by nature, where scenic beauty coupled with an ideal June day, made a perfect setting for a gay and happy party.

The afternoon sped all too quickly, the usual ball game providing quite sufficient exercise for even the most athletically inclined and incidently for the spectators; much amusement and no less thrills than often witnessed at the big league games.

Out of consideration for those whose business duties detained them in town until regulation closing time, the programme of sports was held over until after dinner, this being of two-fold effect, in that it gave every member a chance to participate and also to help settle the ample chicken dinner so splendidly served by the hotel.

When only the spoils of battle were left to show the conflict of food against appetite, a jolly marching song led the party out to the terrace again, where R. J. Kidd and Dr. Morrison, acting as masters of ceremonies, ably conducted the field events, interrupted as you may suspect, by the roars of laughter aroused by the ladies' hoop race, three-legged raced, nail driving contest, etc. The prize for the latter event to Miss Clarry, the organist, who proved her prowess in wielding a hammer as well as her music baton. Ohere prizes were won by Alma Blanchard, Jean Paget and Doris Donnelly.

The hearty singing of "Auld Lang Syne" marked the closing of a most enjoyable day.

YOU WILL MISS A PLEASANT HOLIDAY

If You Do Not Take in the Holiday Boat Trip To Stoney Lake.

Since the advent of the motor cars in such large numbers, and the discontinuance of regular daily boat trips up and down the river, there must be hundreds of people in the city who have not enjoyed the sail over the Lift Lock, up the river, and through the Kawartha Lakes.

On Dominion Day, Thursday, July 1st, the Steamer Stoney Lake is running a holiday trip, leaving the George street wharf at eight o'clock and to those who have never taken the trip, and to others who have already been over it, and enjoyed the peace and comfort of such a holiday, it is suggested that a change of holiday entertainment be made to take in this trip.

A person can motor about almost any time, but a trip up the Kawartha lakes is something that can only occasionally be had.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20.

A lively and in many respects an auspicious day is foretold by the happy places in which we find leading planets posited. The luminaries in planets posited. The luminaries iy trine aspect is always a propitious figure for a general advancement of current affairs, but particularly stresses benefits to those in the employment of others, who should strive hard for promotion or recognition from their superiors. It may be a time for initiative and enterprise, yet all papers and agreements should be handled with a safeguard against misrepresentation. Love letters are favored.

Those whose birthday it is are under the forecast of a good year for promotion or preferment from those in authority. New projects are encouraged and initiative is under fine stimulus. Sign all business writings with care, safeguarding against fraud. A child born on this day may be talented and clever as well as resourceful and adventurous. It should make its greatest success in the employment of others, however.

HER OWN WAY
by
A GIRL of TODAY

THE GREATEST THRILL.

"'Of course, you know, Miss Mere, dith,' said Lela, for I had foolishly given her my name, 'that Barry Cornwall is the best dancing fool of all the lot that are here. All the old hen peacocks are crazy about him. They bid against each other for him every night. They won't like you a bit, but he'll play fair with you. He'll take care of you. He's the best guy here, and I'd like to see you get the best, girlie, for I have taken a fancy to you. You're so kind of innocent, you know, a regular babe in the woods. I didn't know they made them like that any more. I put them out of my life when I stopped believing in fairies. You'll get your thrill, girlie, when you dance with Barry, and I know you'll say I steered you right.'

"Just then a corpulent red-faced man came up and she danced off with him, making a face and putting her finger to her nose behind his back to show me what she thought of him.

"When Barry returned he said: 'I wish I had told you at the beginning, Miss Meredith that it was against the rules for me to buy tickets for you. As it was, I had to square it by paying ten dollars for five dollars worth.' He held a ten-dollar bill to me, but I pushed it back saying: 'Keep it. We may want to dance another ten dollars worth.'

"'We'll dance some more if you wish miss, but the next tickets you must buy yourself.'

"He stuffed the bill in his pocket, and then we began to dance.

"That was the beginning.

"And if I live to be a hundred years old I shall never forget that dance. I cannot describe it. No other man's dancing had ever been quite like that.

"The music stopped and under the cover of applause which asked for more. Barry questioned:

"'Don't you know that this is no place for you? Why did you come again.'

"'Why not? I have made up my mind that I'll come every day.'

"'It is not always safe for a girl like you to come here alone.'

"'But you'll be here, will you not?' I asked. 'You'll take care of me.' You'll protect me from everyone else.

"'Yes. I'll protect you from everyone else.'

"I was content. The music started, up and we commenced to dance again! I did not know at that time that a man will protect a woman from every man but himself."

Still Enjoying Life at 84

Thanks To That Wonderful Remedy

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. F. H. Miller, 1843-11th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Five years ago my husband suffered terribly with severe attacks of palpitation of the heart and smothering spells, and two doctors stated that he could not possibly live six months.

A friend recommended Milburn's H. and N. Pills, with the result that my husband is still enjoying life at the age of 84 years.

He has improved so wonderfully that he can now climb the stairs without having those awful pains in his heart."

CHINA PAINTING
Mrs. Langley McCarthy Teaches Biscoffs' New and Beautiful Work in CHINA PAINTING

What a pity it is that we cannot take movies of things that happen in the middle of the night. Some of the funniest wild life is out only at night, as a rule. Camp mice belong to this clan.

Now listen! If you have ever camped, you will probably know what a terrible trouble the camp mice can be. Did you ever think of what a wonderful entertainment they might be? No? Well I will let you in on this nature secret.

Camp mice, as a rule, belong to wild life only; they are what are known as The White-footed Mouse. They have big ears, white bellies and feet, big soft and friendly eyes (haw, haw, haw, that makes me laugh, for I can just see the ladies wiggle, but after a bit of real truth, the wiggling is exchanged fod common sense) and long tails which they use as a balance.

Well, these mice are always in the woods, but when cottages or camps are started, they naturally come around and steal the food. I remember a friend of mine, a man of keen nature sense, coming up to camp in the days when we worried about these little wild white-footed fellows.

This kind man noticed how unafraid these mice were, and that they were bigger than house mice, so he cornered one and captured it without difficulty. He put it in a box, thinking to catch a few and tame them. Well, before many hours he had another, which he placed in the box. Presently he decided he had caught about ten, and thinking these more than plenty, he went to his box to inspect them. He cautiously moved the lid, just as he had done in slipping each one in, but the box was empty. He had been catching othe same chap each time, and only then did he notice that the box had a hole in it. His little friend was already tame.

Another time, in the early morning light, we saw a row of them crossing a narrow ledge to the rice bag. They went over thin, but returned with pouches bulging, each swinging his tail to keep his balance. It was a comical procession to be sure.

Now, instead of being worried with these wild fellows, why not keep everything in camp in tins and jars, and select some place not far away, where food may attract them and where they will become tame, a real pleasure? A friend is better than an enemy.

When a good man lends money to the wicked, he gets sorrow for interest. —Axionicus.

GOOD SHOWING IN TEST MATCH WITH AUSTRALIA

England Returns To Form in Second Day of Second Game.

HOBBS BRILLIANT.

Score Yesterday 297 For Two Wickets—Aussies 383 All Out.

LONDON, June 29 (Canadian Press).—England, who, according to Sir James Barrie, "invented both cricket and the Australians," returned to her own yesterday in the second day's play of the second Test match against the touring Australians at Lord's. The enthusiastic throng which packed the famous ground, and numbering between thirty and forty thousand, were treated to an exhibition of batsmanship by the incomparable Jack Hobbs that sent them into transports of delight. England's premier batsman was magnificently supported by Sutcliffe, the strong-driving wielder of the White Rose willow, and when the Yorkshireman's citadel fell at 82, the task was nobly taken up by Fred E. Woolley of Kent. When Hobbs was retired after making his tenth century in Test match cricket, the fourth man up was Hendren, the most powerful batsman of the Middlesex team, who was comfortably at home on his own ground. The total accumulated by these stalwarts at the end of the day was only three short of the three century mark, 297, with two wickets down. This compares with 383 acquired by the Australians, who were all dismissed before lunch yesterday.

When the game was resumed yesterday forenoon, the Antipodean score stood at 338 for eight wickets, with Warren Bardsley's figure at 173 not out. After a brief delay consequent upon an oversight on the part of a groundsman who had left a hose running overnight, thus necessitating a drying of the pitch, Mr. Bardsley continued in company with W. A. Oldfield. The runs came slowly, but steadily. The Australian vice-captain was injured but returned to the game. Some cautious play ensued, until Oldfield was caught by Sutcliffe off Kilner at 19. A. A. Mailey was eleventh man, and he had just broken his duck-egg when he fell to Kilner leg-before-wicket. Bardsley carried his bat right from the opening of the game when he went into partnership with H. L. Collins, compiling the magnificent total of 193 not out.

A. W. Carr, England's captain, began hostilities on the part of the Old Country by opening up with his heaviest artillery—Hobbs and Sutcliffe. Their partnership furnished one of the romances of Test match cricket. Sutcliffe was aggressively confident, while Hobbs played with all the science at his command. Against this pair, Mailey was ineffective, while Ryder and Richardson were treated with caution, although their deliveries were mastered decisively.

The score did not do justice to the splendid fielding of the Australians, who were well placed and smart, but both Hobbs and Sutcliffe were "on" and would not be denied. The runs came quickly, until Hobbs came near the century mark, and then he played defensively, adding slowly to his score only when there was no uncertainty about it. He had just reached that figure when Sutcliffe's stumps were crashed by Richardson, the Yorkshireman having accumulated 82. The score was then 183, only one extra having been conceded by Oldfield, the peerless custodian of the Australian wickets.

F. E. Woolley of Kent was third man, and after some preliminary caution, he also launched out, and once more the runs came rapidly. The partnership was broken when Jack Hobbs succumbed to a catch by Richardson off McCartney, and his place was taken by Hendren. Hobbs had then attained the figure of 119.

Hendren played vigorously and with the utmost ease. He and Woolley played out time, and they resume for England to-day.

BROKEN RIGHT ARM.

NEW YORK, June 29 (Canadian Press).—The New York Giants yesterday announced that Outfielder Al Tyson will be out of the game indefinitely with a broken right arm. Tyson was hit in the arm early last week and was taken from the line-up. He was used as a pinch hitter in Brooklyn last Friday and was hit in the same arm by Pitcher Jess Barnes. Manager McGraw ordered an X-ray examination yesterday, which revealed a broken bone above the wrist.

TORONTO DROPS SECOND GAME

Carrol Holds Buffalo Till the Fifth, When He is Hard Hit.

HOME RUNS.

BUFFALO, June 29 (Canadian Press). — Buffalo took the second game of the Toronto series, yesterday's score being 8 to 4. Carroll held the Herd well in hand until the fifth, when heavy blows were registered against his pitching. It was the reverse with Kamp. He was off to a poor start but finished strong, the Leafs failing to get hit after their third inning. Carroll and Miller drove in the four runs between them with a home run each. Anderson also hit for the circuit with Kelly on first. The score:

C.G.E. REACH HEAD GROUP A IN LEAGUE

Victory Last Night Over Fontaine's Hoists Them Into Proud Position.

Last night the C.G.E. defeated the Fontaines and thus took the leadership of Group A in the Men's Softball league.

The final score was 10 to 9, showing a very close game. J. Baird, the Fontaines' star player had to be taken out in the fifth as he twisted his knee. No passes were allowed, but hitting was general on both sides. The Fontaines started the fireworks by scoring two in the first and one in the second, but the C.G.E. came back with three in the third. Fontaines gave their pitcher better support in the field. Each team got the same number of hits, but Nichols for the C.G.E. had two strike-outs. Nichols was there in the pinches, as he left 11 Fontaine men stranded on bases. No walks were given by either pitcher. The box score is as follows:

SUZANNE LENGLEN WITHDRAWS FROM WIMBLEDON TOURNAMENT

Erratic French Star Decides That She is Not Physically Fit To Continue Further in the Competition.

SINGLES SEMI-FINALS SOON.

WIMBLEDON, June 29 (Canadian Press).—Suzanne Lenglen, incomparable on the tennis court and six times Wimbledon champion, has withdrawn from the women's singles in the golden jubilee tournament, which might have given her a seventh crown.

Beset by ills which, in the opinion of her medical attendants, make it inadvisable for her to play, she announced early yesterday that she would not appear on the singles court, and she is probably out of the tournament altogether.

"I have done my best to carry on," said Suzanne, in telephoning to the club-house her decision to retire, "but I cannot go further because of the pain I am suffering."

Mlle. Lenglen started for Wimbledon to keep her engagement after consultation with her doctors and receiving treatment for neuritis. She decided before proceeding far on the motor trip, however, that the effort to play would be too much for her, and returned to her hotel, where other medical consultations over her condition were held.

She was to have played Miss Claire Beckenham, of England, for the right to enter the semi-finals, and Senorita De Alvarez, the Spanish champion, took her place and eliminated Miss Beckenham neatly, 6-2, 6-2.

Suzanne is privileged to continue in the tournament as Borotra's partner in the mixed doubles, but her French team mates last night were reported as urging her withdrawal altogether.

There was no particular demonstration at the side court where Mlle. Lenglen was booked to play when the announcement of her scratching was first made, but when the decision was repeated to the big crowd in the centre of the stadium it was greeted by a burst of applause.

There had been many comments the last few days that Suzanne should make up her mind either to play or withdraw. It appeared as if a considerable proportion of the crowd was relieved that she had finally come to a definite decision.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan's defeat, 1-6, 6-4, 6-0, by Mrs. Godfree, the former Kitty McKane, British star, was an upset yesterday, but was not altogether unexpected because Miss Ryan went into the match still weak from her recent illness.

The day was a hard one for the French contingent, but with the exception of Mlle. Lenglen's withdrawal, a comparatively successful one, Jacques Brugnon had a narrow escape from being eliminated in the fifth round by the Englishman, Kingsley, in a match which was anyone's un to the last point of the fifth set. Borotra had a hard fight in the same round with the Czecho-Slovakian Kozeluh, but beat him in a four-set match. Cochet, the hard courts champion, defeated Gregory in another hard fought contest in the same round, but not until the Englishman had forced the encounter to the limit by taking two sets.

MARMORA, June 29.—Rain caused another postponement of the Point Anne-Deloro game on Saturday. Heavy hailstones fell in the early afternoon at Deloro, Crowe Lake and to the north of Marmora village, while the village itself escaped the storm.

DELORO WINS IN CLOSE GAME

Beat Belleville Alemites 6-5 in Quinte League Game.

GALLAGHER PITCHES.

MARMORA, June 29. (Special.)—A battle royal between the Alemite team of Belleville and Delora, on the latter's ground yesterday afternoon saw the homesters just scrape home by the odd run in 11.

The benign influence of Old Sol was most appreciably felt. About 300 spectators viewed the game. Leal opened the pitching for Manager Elliott's boys with J. Quinn receiving. In the ninth innings Shea was put into the box when the score was tied and the honor of winning the game for his side was his, for he not only held the visitors scoreless but with a hefty clout got a two bagger and amidst deafening cheers romped home on a splendid hit by Jack.

Teddy Gallagher, formerly of Kingston, was allottted the hurling role for the Alemites, and though starting somewhat weakly pitched a nice game for his new team.

The Alemites went the whole of the seven innings without registering, due to the excellent pitching by Leal and air tight support by his mates. Deloro drew blood in their first venture. Shultz walked. Jack reached first on a passed ball. Art Quinn fanned, Boudreau fouled out. Bond walked; Shultz came in on a passed ball, Jack out on stealing home, retiring the side. In the next two innings Deloro failed to increase their lead. Ross in the third brought off a neat catch in centre field of a fly from Jack; in fourth A. Quinn singled, Boudreau doubled, Quinn getting caught at third. With a fine triple hit Bond brought in Boudreau; J. Quinn fanned. Hughes was out on a fly. Another run came to the black caps in the fifth; Regan scoring on an overthrow to third. Goose eggs figured in the 6th and 7th frames.

The eighth innings was most exciting; Ross reached first on a muffed ball; G. Casey flied out. J. Casey grounded and made first; Post hit and brought in Ross. Gallagher brought in Casey and Post scored on Regby's hit.

In Deloro's half, Jack hit a single and scored second, scoring on A. Quinn's hit. Boudreau with a sacrifice advanced Quinn to the look-in corner. Bond with a Texas leaguer, brought in Quinn. The side was retired when Leal was replaced so to Shea fell the honor of steering his team from a possible defeat into a rousing victory.

CAMPBELLFORD PAYS RESPECT

many, especially the women who had known Mrs. Stillman in church and social afairs.

And sensing this emotion Rev. Mr. Elliott soothingly directed his discourse to the assurance in the text Revelations 14:13 "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

In their every day thoughts men say blessed are the living, the prosperous, the rich, the healthy, the young. This may be rtue, Mr. Elliott said, but God can make blessed for two worlds, in life and also in death. How little we would know of the future if it were not for the Scriptures. Death is all around us, and man himself fades as the leaf. But heaven exclaims "blessed are the dead that died in the Lord." This is the light in the darkness, this is the comofrt in our sorrow, to know our dead are blessed.

Why, then, should we mourn if they are blessed? Mr. Elliott asked. We do not need to pity those who have died in the Lord We sorrow because of the loss we realize, not because of the condition of our dead.

"Mrs. Stillman was a faithful, true, Christian woman. She was with us in church a week ago Sunday. In the town she was beloved for her fidelity and constancy. She will be greatly missed in our church and in the whole community. We regret her sudden death, but we have no fears for the future. Our deepest sympathy goes out to those upon whom this great sorrow rests."

Mr. Elliott's concluding message was for the relatives and friends of Mrs. Stillman that they might find hope and comfort to assuage their loss.

The pall-bearers were Reeve C. H. Davidson, W. Ashton, J. L. Hoover, A. L. Riendeau, Edward Plummer, George Hammond. The floral tokens were numerous and beautiful.

News from Ottawa

The first report to be received in Campbellford of the resignation of Premier King was received by Robert Lowery, vice-president of the Northumberland Conservative Association, in communication with M. E. Maybee, M.P. It quickly circulated, leaving a trail of conjecture as to the next step in the political drama on the Ottawa stage during the last week.

"I'm going to look up some of my Grit friends and see how they feel about it," said one Conservative after the first thrill had subsided. A Federal election in the autumn is the local expectation.

Removing Billboard

Walter Stocker of Peterborough began yesterday afternoon the removal of the bill board at the corner of Bridge and Rear Streets on the property of R. S. Southworth, who announced to the Council a few weeks ago his intention of building a smart automobile service station. Mr. Stocker will be engaged here for the most of the week.

Three former Campbellford boys, now Catholic priests, were here at the week-end. They were: Rev John McGuire, son of Mrs. Michael McGuire, of Toronto, who was ordained a few days ago, and who was the celebrant of the last mass Sunday; Rev. Daniel Forrestell, rector of St. Basil's Church, Toronto, who represented Rev. Father Ferguson at Warkworth on Sunday, and Rev. James Shannon, of St. Louis, Mo., who has assumed the duties of Rev. Father Phelan at St. Mary's Church during his absence in Chicago.

Rev. W. L. Elliott left to-day for a two months' vacation and rest. Rev. Dr. Brown of Peterboro will occupy the United Church pulpit next Sunday.

Married To-Day.

The marriage of Miss Catharine Shannon, daughter of the late James Shannon, and Mrs. Mary Shannon, to Mr. Elie M. Brunnelle, both of Campbellford, was solemnized at St. Mary's Church by Rev. James Shannon of St. Louis, Mo., brother of the bride, at 8 a.m. to-day. Mr. Brunnelle is well-known here as manager of the Hydro pulp paper mill.

The friends of Mr. Mi[illegible] J. Welsh, formerly boss spi[illegible]er with the Campbellford Cloth Company, will be interested to know that he has been engaged in the same position with the Renfrew Woollen Mills under Mr. S. J. Moore, formerly of Campbellford. Mr. Welsh has the superintendence of the spinning departments in two mills.

Mrs. C. A. Wallace has returned to town from Morganston and Warkworth, where she has been nursing for Dr. Armstrong.

SEVENTH FATAL TO CURVE LAKE

Keene Given Six Frames of Fright and Then Win By 7 To 0.

BIG GAME TO-NIGHT.

After treating the fans to six frames of errorless defensive ball, at Exhibition park last evening, Curve Lake "blew up' in the seventh, and Manager McCarthy's East Peterboro League leaders won by a shut out, scoring seven runs in their half of the seventh. Max Robertson, pitching another fine game for Keene, nailed down the lid by striking out the Indians in their seventh. Infield taps and clouts to the garden all looked alike to Curve Lake for six innings. The infield handled several force plays in great style, and with Beaver, a volunteer heaver, going along smoothly, the Indians had an edge on the play until the fatal seventh, when "Mike" McCarthy, first man up, was deadheaded to first. Then followed a succession of clouts under which the Indians collapsed.

GOOD CRICKET FOR HOLIDAY

Birchcliffe C. C. Will Play Local Club Here on Thursday.

VISITORS STRONG.

The Peterborough C. C. will meet the Birchcliffe Cricket Club at the Exhibition grounds on July 1st. There should be a good attendance to see this game as the Birchcliffe team is one of the strongest teams in the Toronto League. This team was promoted to the senior league after winning the Junior League last season and up to the present has won all its games this season. The Peterborough Club is stronger than it was last season and expects to give a good exhibition. There is no admission fee to the grounds. The time of the match will be announced later.

PETES ANXIOUS TO BEAT PONIES

Will Give Joe Daley's Men Hot Argument on Thursday Morning.

The holiday Central Ontario League game with Kingston at Riverside Park is called for 10.30 o'clock, an hour that should suit the majority of the fans. The game should be a bitter fight. The two teams are on about as friendly terms as the two old political parties at Ottawa, and every point will be fought out to the end. The Petes need a win in the worst way to get up on even terms with Belleville, but in any case they would battle their utmost to beat the Ponies. Joe Daley and his crew will arrive in town to-morrow night so that they will be in good shape for the Dominion Day struggle. Young or Cairns will do the twirling for the Ponies, while the Petes will likely use either Heckman or Hardill. It should be a holiday attraction well worth seeing, and the biggest crowd of the year will be in attendance.

This step has been taken and the following members have acepted office as ministers without portfolio:

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Customs department, department of Indian Affairs and Mines, Interior department, Agriculture department and Trade and Commerce department.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, department of Justice and department of National Defence.

Hon. W. A. Black, department of Marine and Fisheries.

Drayton is Leader.

"Mr. Meighen having accepted an office of emolument under the Crown—namely that of Prime Minister—has therefore vacated his seat and has asked me to assume temporarily the duty of leading the government in the house.

"As already stated, the Government deems it its first duty to give Parliament an opportunity of dealing with all such matters as should be disposed of prior to the close of the session. Among these is the resolution of the member for St. Henri for the adoption of the report of the special committee which investigated the department of customs and excise and the amendment thereto of Mr. Stevens, as amended by the office the present Prime Minister answer. The Government feels that under all circumstances it has no other course than to ask the House to take up and dispose of this subject in the same way as others which appear on this order paper. While in office the present Prime Minister announced to Parliament the acceptance by his party of the amendment moved by Hon. Mr. Stevens as amended by the amendment of Mr. ansher. This position the same party takes now when in office and the adoption of such an amendment represents the view of the government and the advice of the Government to the House.

"So soon as prorogation takes effect Mr. Meighen will immediately address himself to the task of constituting a government in the method established by custom. The present plan is merely to meet an unusual, if not unprecedented situation."

Liberals Interrupt.

The reading of the statement by Sir Henry Drayton in the House today was interrupted by derisive Liberal cheering.

When he announced that seven Ministers had been sworn in without portfolios, there was a Liberal shout of "Why didn't you come in by the front door?"

When Sir Henry had concluded, Mr. Mackenzie King on a question of privilege, emphatically denied that the Governor General had declined to sanction certain appointments recommended by the government.

Customs Report.

The House then proceeded with routine business.

The House took up the customs report with amendments.

Fernand Rinfret, (Liberal, St. James) spoke of the "supposed and pretended Prime Minister" of today. Conservatives had declared at the opening of the session that a Government could not function without a Prime Minister in the House. Yet the present Prime Minister was not in the House. "I am surprised to see Sir Henry Drayton occupying a position in complete contradiction to the stand he took at the opening of the session," Mr. Rinfret went on.

Mr. Rinfret charged the Conservatives with "smuggling" themselves into power.

Demand Customs Clean-Up

"The farm party stands for a complete clean up of the customs from coast to coast," said Miss Agnes MacPhail to the Canadian Press after this morning's caucus. "The present enquiry has been confined to only two ports and has but scratched the surface. It must be extended from coast to coast and be complete. There should be a judicial enquiry immediately after the adjournment of Parliament and Parliament should not meet again until the report is complete. Then Parliament will be in a position to consider the whole question on its merits.

"On condition that such a Dominion wide judicial enquiry is undertaken, the farm group to which I belong will be willing, of course to facilitate the winding up of the business of the session, the granting of necessary supply and putting through what legislation remains to be dealt with."

Liberals Are Waiting.

OTTAWA, June 29.—(Canadian Press.)— After a two hour caucus this morning, the Liberal members of Parliament maintained a "wait and see" attitude in regard to the relationship of the party to the new government. It was an enthusiastic caucus which was interspersed with applause and cheers echoing up and down the corridors.

When the former ministers emerged from the meeting they went directly to Mr. King's office, where they continued to meet. It is apparent that the Liberals are delaying any possible action until some statement is forthcoming from the Conservative government this afternoon.

THE STOCK MARKET

The buying which made its appearance on the market in the last hours on Monday, showed that the right people are on the market on the constructive side. In certain quarters in the financial district there has been a disposition to look with suspicion on the market but this attitude will soon be dispelled. Strength will be manifest again to-day. Lambert which we have called your attention to several times, continues to climb to new high ground; this can be bought and held. Increased dividends are considered certain while extras in cash will be paid from time to time. Another move in Cuba Co. is scheduled for this week. People who have been amazed at the popularity of the new Overland "Whippet" have been buying the stock. One dealer on Long Island sold 220 of the little cars in one day. Cast Iron Pipe preferred is well taken when offered for sale. The company wants to get rid of the senior issue and some deal is likely to be made with the minority holders. The latest story in Steel common is that a seven per cent. dividend will likely be declared; that the shares will be split two for one, and the new shares placed on a $4 basis; only 7 per cent. of the stock remains in the treasury.

Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers for the week ending June 23rd totalled $2,532,898 against $2,517,410 for the previous week. The Allied Chemical directors meet at 11 a.m., for common dividend. The Atchison directory meet at noon for dividend action. The Motor wheel co-operation resumes operations in Ford wheel unit following receipt of large Ford order for immediate delivery. The Canadian Pacific may net after taxes are paid, $2,411,826 for May against $908,914 for May, 1925. For the five months this year $11,129,583 against $6,213,194 of last year.

JUBILEE FETE AT ST. LUKE'S

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The Garden Fete held on the lawn at the rear of St. Luke's Church last evening was one of the most successful events of its kind in the history of the parish, and was a pleasing feature of the celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the Church. There was a splendid crowd in attendance, both for supper and for the evening's programme later, when the grounds were jammed with people. An atmosphere of real friendly cordiality that added much to the enjoyment o those atetnding the garden party, was apparent in the manner in which the men and women met and chatted with each other, during the progress of the evening.

The supper, served on white-covered tables, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the church, of which Mrs. J. J. Turner is president, was exceptionally good. The home-made viands and the excellent service by a corps of willing helpers made it a very attractive part of the entertainment. The tables were crossed with the Jubilee golden colors in crinkly paper and centered with vases of lemon lilies, yellow iris and daisies.

A small centre table held the four-tiered birthday cake, with its fancy pink icing. This was swathed with green tulle and maidenhair fern, and flanked by the tall golden candles in silver holders that also decorated the long tables. Fifty miniature yellow candles appeared on the big cake in the centre.

In the centre of the grounds was the high flag pole, and lines of gay pennants and electric lights were strung overhead. At the entrance to the garden were large "welcome" signs and Boy Scouts distributed programmes of the Jubilee festivities.

A very dainty candy booth, with the candy in yellow baskets and a central huge bowl of lemon lilies and bridal wreath, was in charge of Miss Bertha Curtis assisted by Miss Lillian Rogers and Miss Audrey Heap.

Lovely flowers, fresh and of great variety, were sold by Lanring Parsons, Nan Parsons, Norah Gemmell, Margaret Borbridge, Mary Denne, Helen Caddy and Jean Fairweather.

The sports committee, in charge of a "kill the cat" corner and a couple of well-patronized dart games was headed by Messrs. Reg. H. Turner, Hugh McWha and William Hepburn.

A very popular centre was a big brown tent, decorated with black bats and furnished with rug-draped alcoves, with "The Future" over the entrance. Here ladies in brilliant gypsy costumes, bead-decked and adorned with bright scarfs, told the fortunes of all who entered. In charge were Mrs. Reg. H. Turner and Mrs. D. Drummond, assisted by Mrs. MacAfee, Mrs. F. Rathbone, Mrs. F. Sedgewick, Mrs. R. Bugg, Mrs. Gerald McClelland, Miss Flossie Mitchell and Miss Forester Parsons.

Ladies in charge of a fish-pond that delighted the children were Mrs. John Scott and Mrs. T. Moore. During the evening, a guessing contest was held at the fish-pond, a prize, a handsome centerpiece donated by Mrs. D. Sloane, being won by Miss Effie Peck.

Music was supplied by the band of the Salvation Army, trig and smart in their dark uniforms, and three interpretive dances, in costume, were also given on the lawn by pupils of Miss C. Littlefield's dancing classes at the Y.W.C.A. Those taking part in the rose dance were the Misses Myrtle Bradley, Irene Chambers, Lily Gregory, Greta Welbourn, Rose Puttick. In the Diana dance, the Misses Mary Dunlop (Diana), Victoria Goodson, Dorothy Goheen and Connie Downes. In the Vintage dance, the Misses Arleigh Comstock, Muriel Wilson, Jeanette Allen and Bertha Lobban.

STREET PARADE.

Carnival Will Get Off To a Flying Start on Monday.

The Rotary Carnival, featuring the Harry Lottidge Shows, will hold the boards at the Exhibition grounds all next week, and six nights of solid fun are assured. The carnival begins with a street parade on Monday night and all the carnival attractions will be in full swing that evening, including the dancing platform, which will be operated by the Rotary-Annes during the week. The Carnival promises to be a riot of fun and entertainment for young and old. The Lottidge Shows include a Ferris wheel, whip, merry-go-round and other rides and shows, while a large number of concessionaires will be operating. The Rotary Club's proceeds will be devoted to the crippled children's work, boys' work and other Rotary activities and the merit of the cause and the quality of the carnival should attract a liberal patronage all week.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM WALLACE MOORE SPAFFORD.

The death occurred in the township of Harvey of William Wallace Moore Spafford in his 65th year. Mr. Spafford leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing widow and four sons.

The funeral will be held from his late residence in Harvey on Wednesday at 1 o'clock p.m., the Presbyterian clergyman from Buckhorn officiating.

MRS. LETITIA MARTIN.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Letitia Martin was held from the family residence, 344 King Street, on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and was very largely attended by relatives and friends.

Services at the residence and cemetery were conducted by the Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church, of which the late Mrs. Martin was a member since its erection. Mr. Paterson spoke feelingly of the many estimable qualities of the deceased.

Two sons, T. H. Martin, Ottawa, and W. J. Martin, city, and four daughters: Mrs. T. H. Benton, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Mrs. F. C. Dobbin, Toronto; Mrs. J. S. Thompson, Ottawa, and Mrs. Harry Milburn, Chemong Road, are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother.

The high esteem in which the deceased was held was shown by the many beautiful floral offerings received.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. R. Martin, H. Martin, W. Comstock, A. Martin, William Mellis and Charles Banks.

The late Mrs. Martin was one of the old school type of ladies who are rapidly passing from the midst of the generation they lived to see take the place of themselves and their confreres. She was large-hearted and kindly, a woman whose eighty-six years of life had been lived well and in accordance with the best Christian traditions. Born in Port Hope, she had lived most of her life in this district, and her passing will be regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends.

GEORGE COOKE

The funeral of the late George Cooke, was held on Wednesday, June 23, from the family residence, 472 Rogers Street, and was largely attended. Services were conducted by Rev. G. J. Bousfield, rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church. Interment was held at the Little Lake Cemetery. Pall-bearers for the funeral were Michael O'Brien, James Corkery, R. D. Fuller, William McCartney, Emmett McDonald and Eddie Garvey, all boyhood chums of the deceased. The many floral offerings showed the esteem in which the deceased was held by all who knew him.

THOMAS EAKINS.

The death occurred in this city yesterday, after a lingering illness, of Thomas Eakins, in his 77th year. Mr. Eakins was born in South Monaghan, where he farmed for a number of years before going to Toronto, where he was engaged in the live stock business. Twelve years ago he retired and came to this city to live. His wife predeceased him 31 years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. R. P. Watt, of Renfrew, and one son, Bruce, of Peterborough. The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning to 7.35 C.P.R. train for Toronto, where interment will take place in Mount Pleasant cemetery. A funeral service will be held to-night at D. Belleghem and Sons' funeral chapel at 9.00 o'clock. The Rev. William Allan, of St. Paul's church officiating.

SOFTBALL DANCE.

Sporting Girls' Team Holds Successful Dance at Rye's Pavilion.

The Sporting Ladies' Softball team held a most successful dance last night at Rye's pavilion. There was a large crowd present and both floor and music were all that could be desired and a large sum was realized for the purpose of outfitting the team.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature rose to 83 degrees this forenoon. This is only a very moderate figure, but it constitutes the high spot for this year, surpassing the first Sunday in May as the previous warmest day. Last night was also the warmest night to date. It is possible we may have some real Canadian summer weather after all. —W. P.

Corns
Removed this easy way

No one need suffer from corns. They are easy to remove if you go about it in the right way. To get rid of corns bodily take a Radox foot bath. After one bath the corn will probably come right out. When you dip your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts, the dead skin of the corn combines with the Radox Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in the water, and so softens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily. Radox does not affect the living skin. It is only the dead skin—the corn—which it dissolves. Your druggist stocks Radox Bath Salts. Half-pound pink package 60 cents.

Wheat Values Turn Upward On Adverse Crop Reports

CHICAGO, June 29 (Canadian Press).—Owing largely to the adverse crop reports concerning the South Dakota spring wheat outlook, wheat values quickly turned upward to-day after initial declines. Lower quotations at Liverpool had much to do with depressing wheat prices at the start. Opening unchanged to 7-8 cents off, wheat underwent a material set-back all around, but then scored sharp rallies. Corn and oats followed wheat, corn starting 1-8 cent to ¼ cent off, receding further before a re-action that ensued. Provisions were weak.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE BAT."

The shadow of the mystery play evidently never grows less. It is related of Mary Roberts Rinehart, that when she decided to turn a gift of narrative into bookform, she sat down and thought carefully as to the most popular line of fiction, finally deciding that mystery stuff was the most intriguing from a reading public's viewpoint. So she went ahead and wrote stories that had mysteries in them, and her phenomenal success is a proof of her sound judgment in this regard.

"The Bat," in its picturized form, is almost as interesting as the stage play, if not quite as credible. In the spoken form, the audience realizes quite fully just why the actors can't possibly stop investigating odd situations, but in the movie, it appears rather odd that the principals couldn't have waited for daylight, to explore the hidden recesses of the old house which forms the stage for the drama. However the various ramifications of the plot provide plenty of thrills and exciting moments for the watchers, and the atmosphere of tragic reality is lightened splendidly by the inclusion of a couple of comical characters, notably the maid, Lizzie Allen, an addle headed lady, who is able, nevertheless to observe small important happenings at the right moment.

It is seldom that an audience allows itself to enter absolutly into the spirit of a moving picture. They often laugh and sometimes become silently absorbed in the unfolding of a plot, but last night there was a real appreciation manifested in the story, that demonstrated itself in spoken comments. A group of small boys at the rear of the balcony forgot themselves absolutely, and commenced shouting instructions to the silent actors at tense moments. Their irritation at the players' inability to see a shadowy hand found vent in hasty words addressed to the cast.

One of the most interesting characters is the stern faced lady who was chief of the clattering tongued gossips in "'Way Down East." As Miss Van Gorder, imperturbably knitting through tense moments, she is quite an outstanding figure. "The Bat," however, is quite an unusual example or screen work by reason of the fact that its action subordinates every other element, characterization, plot and theme occupying a place in the background while the story unfolds itself.—Jeanette.

Forke Resigns - Conservative Confidence Restored

Progressive Leader Gives Up His Office After Party Splits

Even Division of Party on Last Night's Votes in House Causes This Action—Rumored That Liberals Plan a New Test of Strength.

ACTING MINISTER OF CUSTOMS REPORTS ACTION BEING TAKEN ON PROBE REPORT

OTTAWA, June 30 (Canadian Press)—An even split in the Progressive ranks in the House divisions of this morning was followed today by the resignation of Robert Forke as leader of the Progressve Party. His resignation was formally placed in the hands of the executive. During the last parliament, when following a similar Progressive split, Mr. Forke threatened to resign unless certain changes were made in the Progressive executive. The changes were made and Mr. Forke retained the leadership.

Rumors in parliamentary corridors today are that the Liberals plan another test of strength in the House, but the general feeling is that prorogation is not far distant. Premier Meighen will now go ahead with the construction of a cabinet which will replace the "shadow" cabinet now in office. The cabinet, however, will not actually be constituted till after prorogation. Then, unless there are unforeseen developments, the Government will proceed with the issue of writs for the necessary bye elections instead of calling for dissolution of parliament.

Action On Report

Action to give effect to the report of the Customs probe adopted in the House early his morning has already been taken.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, acting Minister of Customs, announced at noon today that as an immediate step towards carrying out the recommendations of the report the members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were being stationed at all vulnerable points on the Canadian border from the Atlantic to Pacific.

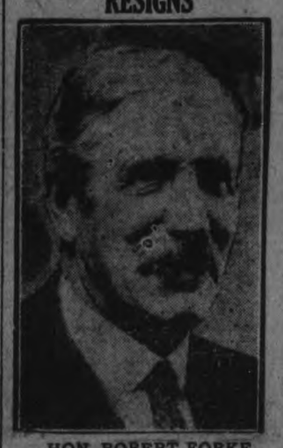
The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are being given definite instructions to co-operate with all customs and preventive officers with a view to the prevention of smuggling and other frauds to avoid payment of customs duties.

Mr. Stevens declared that the action now being taken will be followed later by a complete reorganization and strengthening of the preventive service.

Forke's Stand

"I am calling a meeting of the executive of the party this morning and handing in my resignation as party leader," said Robert Forke, Progressive leader, this morning. Mr. Forke, when asked if he would stand for election for parliament again said he would give the matter a great deal of thought before making any decision. Beyond that Mr. Forke declined to make any comment at the present time. The executive of the party met with Mr. Forke late this morning. No further announcement has been made.

RESIGNS



HON. ROBERT FORKE

RECEIVER FOR STEEL COMPANY

President of B. E. S. Co. Suggests This Course For Subsidiary.

INTEREST IS HELD.

MONTREAL, June 30 (Canadian Press). — The appointment of a receiver for the Dominion Iron and Steel Company was suggested by Roy M. Wolvin, the president, in the course of his statement at the annual meeting of the British Empire Steel Corporation shareholders there this morning. The Iron and Steel Company is a subsidiary of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

The company's plants are at Sydney, N.S. It was badly affected by the strike of the miners last year.

Discussing the affairs of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, another subsidiary, Mr. Wolvin said that the bond and debenture interest due July 1 would be postponed.

MINERS CONSIDER WITHDRAWING MEN

Safety Workers May Be Taken Out—Condition Seems Hopeless.

LONDON, June 30 (Canadian Press).—A "continuance of the state of emergency" is proclaimed in the official gazette owing to the non-settlement of the coal miners' strike.

A meeting of the executive of the Miners' Federation yesterday strongly re-affirmed its previous policy of opposition to any change of hours or reduction in wages.

A. J. Cook, secretary of the federation, announced that the executive will to-day consider the question of the withdrawal of the safety men from the mines. Thus the position seems as hopeless as it was weeks ago.

Baldwin and Churchill Worst Dressed Men in England

Sartorical Sins Of British Public Men Are Discussed

LONDON, June 29 (United News). — King George and the the Prince of Wales are England's snappiest dressers and Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and Winston Churchill are among the worst, the editor of a tailoring magazine declared in a sartorical summary of England's public men.

Here are some of his pronouncements:

King George—His clothes are moderate, suave, and beautifully tailored. Wales—Irreproachable in formal dress, his clothes convey his personality. Baldwin.—Appears at his best in rough tweeds and leggings prodding a fat pig. Churchill—A sartorical sinner. His freak hats are legendary and his astrakhan overcoats suggest the theatrical manager rather than the statesman. Ramsay Macdonald—A Dr. Jeykll and Dr. Hyde. He can wear excellent clothes when he wants to and appear at a Labor meeting next day dressed down to the Reds of his party. J. H. Thomas (former Laborite Colonial minister) sometimes wears a smart morning coat and glossy silk hat; at other times might just have come from the engine room.

LABOR MEMBERS ATTACK PREMIER AS MINE OWNER

Because He Holds Many Shares of Stock in Baldwins Limited.

GETS NO DIVIDENDS.

Coldu Have Sold Shares During War, But Can't Now, He Replies.

LONDON, June 30 (Canadian Press)— Premier Stan Baldwin faced the House of Co is in a new role last night, w he defended himself against nations that because he was the older of many shares of stock in Baldwin's Limited (a big iron firm), he was personally interested on the side of the mine owners in the coal controversy.

There was a renewal of the uproar which marked the earlier proceedings in the House on the Government's eight hours miners' bill, which received second reading. Labor members shouted for Baldwin —"we want the Prime Minister."

The Speaker tried to calm the storm which broke over the head of W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, who rose to reply on the debate for the Government. The Speaker appealed for fair play, but the voice of the Glasgow Laborite, G. Buchanan ,rose above the din —"the miners are not getting fair play; the miners are getting hell."

Then a Labor member challenged the right of Stanley Baldwin to have a vote in a matter of this kind because he was holder of 200,000 shares in Baldwins Limited Cries of "shame" came from the Conservative and Liberal benches.

The Prime Minister sprang to his feet, "The order of this debate," he declared, "has been arranged with full knowledge of the Opposition parties, and that order has not been departed from"

Taking up the charge made against him, that he had dictated to the members of the Royal Commission what should be put in their report, he characterized it as an unqualified misrepresentation. Admitting that he held possession of the shares in question, he exclaimed: "It is absolutely true, and represents the bulk of what I have."

Then, alluding to the fact that the statement had been first made in a newspaper by George Lansbury Labor member for Poplar, the Premier continued: "What the statement failed to tell was that I had not taken advantage of the war here."

Mr. Baldwin went on: "Had I taken advantage of the war I might to-day have been a wealthy man, with my money in Government securities, or abroad, and Mr. Lansbury would never have known about it. All my life I have consistently refused to invest abroad. I have always been, for good or evil, in British industry. It is for that that I am being attacked to-night.

"That large block of shares, on which I could have realized a fortune during the war—I don't think anyone now would take them off my hands. And Mr. Lansbury forgot to mention that for five years I have received nothing from them, nor do I expect to receive anything from them for years to come."

Mr. Bridgeman made several vain attempts to speak after the Prime Minister, but was always shouted down. Many points of order were raised, and the Speaker declared that as the Opposition would not listen he would proceed to division. Still the storm swayed; the Clydeside Laborites tried to sing "the Red Flag," but the Speaker promptly stopped them.

The bill passed its second reading by a large majority, and the declaration of the division figures was greeted with renewed cries of "murderers — Pentonville — hasn't criminals like we have here," and similar jibes. There were also some jee Lloyd George, who had hoo the debate and who had inst the bill.

'Perfect Love' Culminates In Attempt At Suicide

NAPLES, Italy, June 30. — (Canadian Press). Marchioness Giavonni Carignano, aged 32, and Benedittо Pelli, a 17-year-old student, are lying in hospital at the point of death after their second mutual attempt at suicide within a fortnight. The Marchioness, who was formerly an actress, left her husband when she became enamoured of Pelli, according to friends. The pair decided that death was the only possible culmination of their "perfect love."

POLICE BLAMED FOR AUTO CRASH

Report Says Quebec Officer Fired Into Tire of Car.

TWO PEOPLE DIE.

HULL, June 30. Canadian Press.—A report that the automobile crash near Wakefield, early last Sunday day morning in which two young Ottawa people lost their lives, as a result from the shattering of a rear tire on the car by a bullet fired from the gun of a provincial government official, is to be drawn to the attention of the Attorney General.

An anonymous letter has been received by Chief Revenue Officer Purcil, declaring that Donald Mye, a liquor commissioner, fired into the tire of the automobile just before it swerved off the highway and piled into a tree.

FASCIST DECREES TO IMPROVE TRADE

Nearly Every Phase of Business Touched By Drastic Orders.

ROME, June 30 (Canadian Press) —The long-heralded Fascist campaign for improvement of the financial situation and balancing of the international trade standing of Italy opened last night with the issuance of an unusually drastic series of decrees.

Virtually every phase of commercial activity is touched by the orders which are designed to strengthen the lire and to cut down on the trade balance which last year showed a deficit of eight billion lire. Authorization is granted for the increase in the length of the laborer's working day by one hour, luxuries of various kinds are restricted, efforts to aid the laboring class are suggested, and the utilization of Italy's natural products is encouraged.

Two Decisive Victories for Government; Rinfret Amendment Defeated By 12; Stevens Censure Resolution Is Passed

After Admission By House On Vote Upholding Speaker's Ruling, Rinfret Amendment Is Voted Down—Ten Progressives Vote With Ministry, Including Miss MacPhail and G. G. Coote—Bourassa Censures Cabinet.

STEVENS' RESOLUTION CENSURING BOIVIN IS ADOPTED BOURASSA'S VOTE ONLY ONE CHANGED ON SECOND DIVISION

Garland Amendment Proposing To Refer Customs Inquiry To a Commission of One Judge Is Accepted By House Unanimously—Prorogation of House Is Expected Within Few Days—Government Supporters Confident.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30—Two decisive victories the first day of the new Government have given great confidence and enthusiasm to its supporters. The famous Customs report was adopted on the same division that adopted the Stevens resolution of censure on Hon. George H. Boivin and the King Government. On this the Government won by 119 to 109. The previous vote when the Government defeated the Rinfret amendment, which sought to remove censure from Hon. George H. Boivin, was 119 to 107.

When the Rinfret amendment had been defeated, E. J. Garland, Bow River, proposed an amendment which would refer the Customs inquiry to a commission of one judge, named by the two judges of the Exchequer Court. This was accepted by the Government and adopted unanimously. The result of the two votes seemed to completely dishearten the Liberals and prorogation is expected within a few days.

During the evening the anxiety was quite apparent, but when Miss Agnes MacPhail, and G. G. Coote, Progressives, declared for the Government the anxiety was past, then Henri Bourassa came through with a condemnation of Liberal administration. Among the Progressives who voted with the Conservatives were: Miss MacPhail, Messrs. Coote, Lucas, Boutillier, Campbell, Fansher, Gardiner, Spencer, Garland and Kennedy.

It was a day of reverses and surprises. When the Liberals won in the afternoon on the Speaker's ruling they believed they were again within reach of power. Conservatives were very much depressed and were critical of party strategy in challenging the Speaker's ruling. It was felt by many that to-morrow would see the dissolution of Parliament and in August they would be facing their constituents. The victory at night restored confidence and enthusiasm among the Government forces.

Inauspicious Start.

The vote on the Speaker's ruling was an inauspicious beginning for the new Government. After the discussion opened on the Customs report, Fernand Rinfret, St. James, Montreal, offered a sub-amendment which removed the censure from Hon. H. G. Boivin and referred the whole Customs matter to a judicial committee of three judges, of which the three leaders, Messrs. Meighen, King and Forke, were each to nominate one. Conservatives claimed this was out of order, while the Speaker thought otherwise.

They challenged his ruling and the Speaker was sustained by 115 to 114. Of the independent Progressives, Messrs. Lucas, Boutillier, Campbell, Fansher and Coote voted with the Conservatives and D. M. Kennedy with the Liberals. Miss MacPhail also voted with the Liberals.

Liberals wildly cheered and tauntingly flung their demands across the floor for the resignation of the Government. It was not a want of confidence motion but, even if not so, a rebuff for the new Government. It illustrated the impossibility of any Government carrying on, when dependent daily for existence on a group with little or no party or personal responsibility.

Two days of hectic politics in the unmaking and making of Governments has kept the capital at fever heat and to increase the intensity there came to-day the first real summer weather. Politicians sweltered while they sought to defeat or avert defeat. So intense was the ex-

COUNCIL COMMITTEE CONSIDERS PURCHASE OF MOTOR APPARATUS TO CARRY FIREMEN'S LADDERS

Alderman E. M. Turner Appointed To Secure Necessary Information.

DITCH INSPECTED.

City Engineer To Prepare Report Estimating Cost of Filling In.

Several hundred people, mostly children, about a hundred of them with bicycles and many of the others coming in cars, made the corner of Princess and Park Streets look like the scene of a dog fight or an accident last night just before eight o'clock. The cause of all this excitement, however, was a test made by the members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council, and the large crowds had been attracted by the fire apparatus, much disappointment being shown when it was found to be a false alarm.

A good showing was made by the firemen. The two motor trucks arrived on the scene together in two minutes and forty-five seconds, the men jumping off with hose and tools all ready for use. The chief, who had not been at the hall when the alarm was turned in, arrived a few moments later, while the horse-drawn hook and ladder truck reached the scene six minutes after the motor trucks.

Consider Motor Truck

While it served to test the efficiency of the firemen, the main purpose of the call was to find out how long a time would elapse between the arrival of the hose truck and the ladder wagon. When the committe had returned to the city hall, the chairman, Alderman E. M. Turner, was given authority to secure data concerning a motor apparatus. He will find out prices and other information regarding the erection of the present racks and ladders on a chassis with a 240-inch wheel base and also prices on such equipment from a fire department supply firm.

INSPIRING MESSAGES GIVEN AT INDUCTION OF KNOX PASTOR

Functions of the Church and Congregation Are Explained By Local Ministers.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Rev. J. A. MacKenzie Declares Greater Days Lie Ahead For His Old Charges.

That Knox United Church will move to even greater heights than ever before, was the dominant note struck last night on the occasion of the induction of the Rev. William MacDonald, their new pastor, as minister of the church.

Throughout the whole of the solemn proceedings there was a spirit of earnestness in evidence and a quiet confidence expressed that Knox stood on the brink of a new era.

The remarks of the various speakers were in the nature of a challenge that could not help but inspire the congregation to further effort in the great cause of the church.

The Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, a former pastor of the church, was present, and brought with him a letter expressing regret, from Dr. H. J. Keith, the first minister of the charge, stating that he was unable to attend, but assuring the members that he always had their welfare at heart.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. T. E. Holling of Lindsay; the charge to the newly inducted minister was delivered by the Rev. A. H. McConnachie, of Springville, the charge to the congregation being delivered by the Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, of Guelph.

The Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's United Church, acted as chairman for the occasion.

Other ministers present for the occasion were: the Rev. F. H. McIntosh, the Rev. J. D. Richardson, and the Rev. J. D. Paterson.

At the outset, the chairman, the Rev. Mr. Gordon, explained the nature of the induction service to the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Holling.

A little child, said the speaker, was once asked the meaning of the word reconciliation, and replied it meant a second friendship. The Gospel of Jesus Christ, he said, was pre-eminently a Gospel of reconciliation. God knows that there were many forces in the world that cause trouble and the dark spot in it is the quarrel of the human soul with its God.

The very genius of the Gospel is that God is constantly seeking to bring man to Himself. Because of Gods grace, His great love for mankind, he has been seeking to restore the broken relationships, and bring men back to Him. The alienation of men from God is both mental and moral. God, he said, provided reconciliation, Christ effected it. God

Hundred Per Cent Improved Says Well-Known Young Man

"Since I have taken your HERB JUICE medicine my health has improved 100 per cent. I do not hesitate to recommend Herb Juice to everyone", said Bobby Walker, nationally known and popular comedian.

"I had suffered for several years with indigestion and chronic constipation. I was in a general weakened condition and never felt like doing anything. All these conditions have changed since I have taken HERB JUICE so that now I have a good appetite, enjoy my meals and can eat most anything without suffering afterwards from gas or bloating. I now feel well and feel better in every way. For sale by McDermid & Jury and leading druggists everywhere. Price $1.00.

PRESENTATIONS TO LAKEFIELD PEOPLE

Members Leaving Mission Band Are Given Fountain Pens.

LAKEFIELD, June 30. — On Friday evening, at a meeting of the Mission Band of the United (Presbyterian) Church, Miss Reta Preston read an address and Miss Bettie Montgomery presented Miss Ruth Jull and Masters Kenneth and Gordon Jull each with a fountain pen as remembrances of affection from their friends and comrades in the Band.

The young people spent a pleasant time together before the meeting adjourned.

Decoration Day.

The annual decoration day of the Oddfellows' Lodge will be held on Sunday next, and will be observed as usual as a community event.

On a beautiful afternoon such as the Lodge is usually favored with, it is an inspiring spectacle to see the parade pass along the tree-shaded thoroughfares with the sweet strains of hymns universally known and loved played by the band. Hundreds of people in motor cars and on foot are in attendance, and the watchword of this day is simply "Remembrance." It is an event much looked forward to in the village and the entire community, and in spite of the crowds of people, the atmosphere is reverent and in keeping with the character of the day.

Clean-Up Campaign.

The past fortnight has seen a great change in the aspect of the water front from Bridge Street to Nicholls Street. All the accumulation of rubbish about the old mills and power house has been burned and a large gang of men is being set to work by the Canada Cement Co., who purchased the power from the Dickson Co. of Peterboro in August, 1924.

The Weather Did It.

The ball game advertised for 4.30 p.m. Saturday between the Examiner and the Lakefield softball team proved a "dud" to the fans who journeyed to the Exhibition Grounds and were met by no teams and no game. The interest in the local games is not husky by any means, and a few more experiences like Saturday's and it will be nil.

High School Board.

A special meeting of the Lakefield High School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Monday, June 21, at 8.20 p.m.

There were present: J. W. Ridpath, in the chair, and Trustees Rev. W. Cox, Dr. S. J. Gibson, E. H. Northey, C. S. Tanner and H. R. Wagar.

The Finance Committee presented a report recommending payment of the following accounts:

R. Lees, examination lists, $5; L.P.S. Board, $10.62; Tanner Drug Co., chemicals, $23.10; Lakefield News, stationery, $7.39.

On motion of Trustees Northey and Cox, the report was received and adopted.

The report of the Principal for the month of June was read and received.

The treasurer's abstract of accounts for the first six months of the year was tabled.

Estimates for the year were discussed.

Moved by Trustees Wagar and Northey: That the Board require from the village the sum of $3,300 the estimated expenditure of the High School Board for the current calendar year. Carried.

Moved by Trustees Cox and Northey: That the services of the Misses Curtis and Connall be retained at the present salary.

The meeting adjourned, to meet at the call of the chairman.

Public School Board.

A special meeting of the Lakefield School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Monday, June 21, 1926, at 7.40 p.m.

There were present J. W. Ridpath in the chair and Trustees Brown, Smith, Spence and Wagar.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read anid confirmed.

Applications for positions on the staff were received from Miss Edith M. Armstrong, Markdale, Ontario, anti Miss Vera McIlmoyl.

A letter was received from the O. S. T and R. A. re School Board Journal.

Moved by Trustees Smith and Wagar: That the various communications read by the secretary be received. That the applications of the Misses McIlmoyl and Armstrong for positions on the staff be filed for future consideration. That seven subscriptions for the School Board Journal for balance of the year be ordered for the members of the Board and the secretary, and that the Principal's report for the month of June be received. Carried.

The Finance Committee presented a report recommending the payment of the following accounts:

W. W. Leonard, glass and oil, $4.00; Lakefield News, paper $5.25; Secretary, stamps, etc., $1.85—total $12.10.

On motion of Trustees Wagar and Brown, the report was received and adopted.

The Treasurer's abstract account for the first six months of the current year was tabled.

The meeting adjourned till Monday, June 28th, at 3.30 p.m., at the school.

LIFE GUARD SAVES TWO FROM DEATH

Plunges Into Water To Rescue Lad and Plucky Girl Swimmer.

TORONTO, June 30.—The courage of 15-year-old Agnes Stewart, in attempting to save Allan Weller, aged eight, when Weller got out of his depth in the turning basin, foot of Carlaw Avenue, last evening, would have been for naught, had it not been for the prompt action of Lifeguard McKenzie, who seeing the children in difficulty, pluckily dived into the water and brought the two to safety. Both the lad and girl soon recovered.

Dome suffered a sensational loss of 80 cents per share, one hundred shares changing hands at 13.00. Hollinger was also off ten cents at 19.60.

Confidence In Outlook Adds Strength To Market

NEW YORK, June 30. Canadian Press. — Returning confidence in the financial and industrial outlook, contributed to sustained strength of to-day's stock market, which forged ahead under impressive leadership of United States Steel and General Motors. Public participation broadened as premier industrial issue soared to record high for all time at 142½ and leading motor stock sold within a fraction of its 1925 top of 149 3-4.

While prospects of more liberal dividends supplied incentive for accumulation of these issues no less factor was the announcement that steel production in first half of year had set new record, with prospects that 1926 output would exceed that of 1925.

Mr. Pond, it is said, was nothing the worse for his unexpected ducking as he immediately went home in a taxi cab.

Defeat Of Farm Bills Sends Grain Prices Down

CHICAGO, June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—The defeat of farm legislation at Washington was followed by lower prices for all grain in early dealings to-day. Corn and oats touched the bottom most levels for this season. Favorable weather for the harvest in the southwest tended also to weaken values. After an irregular start, ranging from a 1-4 cent decline to 1-2 cent advance, wheat underwent a material setback, all around. Corn showed more depression than other grain, opening 1-4 to 1 1-2 cents off and later sagging a little more. Provisions were firm.

REPORT URGES USE OF POWER OF ST. LAWRENCE

New York State Engineer Favors Single Tax Development.

CHOICE NOT VITAL.

Cost of Either Plan Over $200,000,000—Must Protect State.

ALBANY, N.Y., June 30 (Canadian Press). — "Practical development," of the St. Lawrence River waterpower is urged in the report submitted by State Engineer Roy G. Finch at the request of the New York State Waterpower Commission on the applications of the St. Lawrence Valley Power Corporation (the Frontier Corporation) and the American Super-Power Corporation to develop and distribute the power.

Mr. Finch finds that single stage development would be more desirable. The cost would be from $207,000,000 to $237,000,000 for either development and would be about the same for either type. "The choice, however, is not vital, so long as the State is protected," he said.

TORONTO, June 30 (Canadian Press). — Digby Horrell, Midland, Ont., has been appointed secretary and purchasing agent of the Department of Public Works for the Ontario Government, it was announced yesterday. Contempt For Royalty Expressed By Laborite

LONDON, June 30 (Canadian Press).—A sensation was caused in the House of Commons this afternoon, when George Buchanan, Laborite, who professes Republicanism, declared he had "no respect and nothing but contempt for Royalty."

It was a tense moment, and there were loud protests from the Conservatives, but the thrust at the King was quickly passed over, partly because there are probably few in the Commons who care to have such a subject discussed, and partly because, under the House rules, the King's name must not be brought into debate.

Shaw Declines To Support Women's Campaign For Vo

LONDON, June 30 (Canadian Press).—George Bernard Shaw has again declined to support political movements by women. Through his secretary he has replied to another application for his countenance for the big political rights demonstration, to be held by forty women's societies, July 7.

At present women are prevented by law from voting until they are thirty years old, and Mr. Shaw has suggested that the women agitate for raising the voting age of males to 30 years.

CLOSE MATCHES IN GOLF TOURNE

All Pairs Are Still Close At Eighteenth Hole.

TORONTO, June 30 (Canadian Press)—The first eighteen holes of the second round matches in the championship flight in the annual Canadian Amateur Tournament held this morning produced close struggles, one of the matches being all square at the eighteenth while three others found the two players only one hole apart. Two of the remaining four found the leader with a margin of two holes and the remaining two leaders were three holes in front.

The match that was on even terms was that in which Nicol Thompson, Jr. of Hamilton, is paired with Jack Cameron, of Toronto, who yesterday eliminated Bill McCluckie, the 1920 champion.

The meeting of last year's finalists, Don Carrick of Toronto and Sandy Somerville of London, attracted the largest gallery of the morning and at the end of eighteen holes the defending champion was one down.

Our Faith in Canada

Canada's future is resplendent with promise. So vast a land, possessing resources whose potentialities defy calculation—food, minerals, cheap water power, the primary necessities of the world—can not be denied her place in the international economic and political structure.

Even now the national wealth of Canada is exceeded by but two countries. According to a survey recently published by A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, of Toronto, this amounts to $2,406.00 per capita; the United States being first with $2,918.00 and Great Britain second with $2,459.00. All other countries show considerably less.

It is a great future, charged with opportunity for those who believe in Canada's destiny and work diligently and hopefully for its realization.

THE COCA-COLA COMPANY OF CANADA, LTD.

Canada and Coca-Cola

The Coca-Cola Company of Canada, Limited, has been closely identified with the industrial and commercial life of the Dominion for twenty-five years. In good times and bad, it has pressed forward in the conviction that its future was bound up with that of this country and striven to prove itself worthy to share in the great promise revealed.

The first investment made by Coca-Cola in Canada consisted of a syrup factory and bottling plant at Toronto. This was our initial pledge of the faith that was in us as to our product and the service it represented.

So well were they received that the necessity of increasing our facilities soon became apparent, which led to the opening of three other factories and plants at Montreal, Winnipeg, and Vancouver. Before long these plants, in turn, proved inadequate to supply the growing popular demand for Coca-Cola and to insure regular and efficient service throughout the country, bottling plants were opened in fifteen other cities. And this Dominion-wide distribution was later further augmented by the addition of licensed bottling plants in fifty more cities and towns.

Thus as each need for intensified service came forward, we planned and invested to meet it until now the Company's manufacturing and distributing organization stretches from Halifax to Vancouver. Under one management and control, operated throughout according to one single standard of excellence in its products, the Coca-Cola Company of Canada, Ltd. stands to-day individual and supreme in its facilities for supplying the people of the Dominion with the most wholesome, delicious and refreshing answer to healthy, natural thirst.

Such is our faith in Canada.

* * * * * * * *

Coca-Cola is not just something sweet and colored, made in a haphazard way. But an outstanding beverage in whose production science and sanitary methods combine to make it uniformly pure and good, for old and young alike.

The Company has invested millions of dollars in plants, equipment and methods to safeguard the essential purity, flavor and wholesomeness of Coca-Cola. At each of the syrup factories every ingredient is tested by qualified experts for purity and strength before being used.

Tests are made at every step in the process of manufacture and distribution so that you may get Coca-Cola at its best—everywhere and always the same.

* * * * * * * * *

Of all the hundreds of beverages offered to the public which the palate remembers, Coca-Cola is the one which has most definitely registered its taste with the public. And if one great reason, above its purity and wholesomeness, can be given for its appeal it is, we believe, the natural appeal of its natural qualities.

It's natural for everybody to like Coca-Cola because of its delicious and refreshing qualities.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1926.

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH THE SITUATION.

History is being made so quickly at Ottawa these days that the duty of every Canadian who views his responsibility as a citizen of this country seriously is to keep closely in touch with the development in the political situation.

If there ever was a time when the people should follow closely the conduct and actions of their representatives in Parliament, surely it is now.

The present crisis is so unusual, the condition in which Parliament finds itself is so abnormal, that Canadians generally should resolve not to miss a move in the game as it is being played out at Ottawa.

Fortunately, the press of Canada was never in a better position to supply the people with the required information in regard to the political situation.

The Examiner's telegraphic service, for instance, keeps its readers alive to every phase of the developments in Ottawa, and it is to be hoped that full advantage of this excellent service is being taken.

If newspaper readers in general throughout Canada could be persuaded to read political news with the same avidity as some of them devour the sporting news, and eventually become as well posted about the performances of the political parties as they are in regard to the batting averages of the big leagues, the prospects of an intelligent answer to an appeal to the electorate would be very materially increased.

A TEMPORARY MINISTRY.

The swearing-in of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as Prime Minister and the announcement in the House yesterday by Sir Henry Drayton, acting leader of the new Government, mean that Mr. Meighen is seeking to bridge over the present political crisis by a Cabinet of pinch-hitting Ministers—if the sporting term can be allowed.

The situation is almost unprecedented, and that, it seems, is the only justification that Premier Meighen could offer for his expedient of appointing seven acting Ministers who because they will serve without salary will not vacate their seats.

The new Premier's plan is a makeshift, designed to facilitate the voting of supply, the passing of whatever legislation is considered necessary and the rapid prorogation of Parliament, and apparently Mr. Meighen expects the support of enough Progressives to enable him to carry out this programme.

The next step obviously will be to appoint his Cabinet, hold the necessary by-elections, avoid a general election and attempt to weather the next session of the House.

Much depends, of course, upon the developments of the next few days.

Throughout the country there seems to be a general feeling that only an election can clear the air, and it may be that the new administration will before long come to the same conclusion.

NOT PLAYING THE GAME.

If a detour becomes necessary in connection with the construction work on the Peterboro-Port Hope highway motorists are warned that their conduct will be responsible.

When the work commenced the contractors announced their intention of keeping the road open for traffic, provided automobilists would co-operate with them by driving carefully through working parties and over the section of the highway under construction.

Many drivers, realizing the desirability of avoiding a detour, have met this fair offer in the right spirit and have driven with care at the points indicated.

Unfortunately, however, there are other motorists of a different calibre who have ignored the request and their conduct has caused so much trouble that contractors are threatening to close the road altogether and detour traffic.

Surely no one can blame them for this attitude.

Most drivers have shown their desire to accommodate the road building fraternity, and it seems a pity that some of the latter haven't had enough common sense to play the game.

Offenders should realize the situation before it is too late, for unless an improvement is speedily shown a detour is inevitable.

DOMINION DAY.

Tomorrow Canada celebrates the 59th anniversary of Confederation.

Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that Canada should celebrate the occasion, for, unfortunately, the country has drifted into a general neglect of the significance of this anniversary.

In Peterboro, for instance, there will be nothing—except the flags we hope will be flying—to stress the fact that the birth of this confederation of Provinces that we call the Dominion of Canada took place fifty-nine years ago.

Is that a healthy condition?

Here are our politicians falling over each other to see which can be the most emphatic in describing Canada's status as a free nation.

Hansard is filled with brave words about Canadian autonomy, talk about our own ambassador at Washington, eloquent references to our rights in regard to foreign treaties.

And yet the Canadian people take so little interest in their own history, show so little pride in the achievements of their earlier leaders and display such scant enthusiasm over the growth and progress of the Dominion that they won't even fittingly celebrate the obvious Confederation.

tion and should look back over the ve elapsed since Confedera-

a glow of pride the fact that there has been an astounding development in this Canada of ours.

Surely Dominion Day is a fitting time to realize that as Canada's sons put her on the map of the world by their bravery in the Great War, this country is also taking a prominent place in the world in the development of her trade and commerce.

Let us do some thinking along that line tomorrow.

WEAPONS AND THE LAW.

It is to be hoped that the bill now before Parliament providing for strict regulations governing the sale, importation and possession of weapons and ammunition, will not be overlooked in the strenuous and hectic scenes marking the closing days of the session. The police forces of this country, including the Royal Canadian Mounted, and the Provincial and municipal forces, are convinced that there should not only be a tightening up of restrictions in this respect, but that they should be more rigidly enforced. The frequency with which firearms are being used in Canada by those participating in crimes of violence is a menace to the community and the police alike. Proportionately it is approaching a level of comparison with the United States, "the home of the pistol," where police forces and other public safety organizations are clamoring for laws that will put a stop to the sale of revolvers except where permits are issued by law enforcement authorities for good cause.

There is little danger in Canada that the sporting goods trade will be injured by the proposed restrictions. Indeed the bill meets most of the objections advanced on that score, according to dispatches from Ottawa. No legitimate sportsman or hunter should object to the desire to keep a record of sales of weapons and ammunition to him and to fill all requirements as to license to carry firearms. Only crooks and the potential murderers oppose measures designed to protect the law-abiding masses of the community and their protectors, the police. The carrying of firearms in the settled portions of a community is a practise that is likely to encourage their use on human beings at slight provocation, and should not be made easy in Canada.—Brantford Expositor.

A LEGEND OF GOLF.

Questioned on one occasion by a clergyman as to whether one of "the cloth" might safely take to golf, Andrew Kirkcaldy, the noted Scots professional of a former generation, and a "character" known to every visitor to St. Andrews, replied with emphasis that it was "nae game for a man wha canna swear." Himself an adept at relieving his feelings on the course by the use of what Shakespeare termed a "good mouth-filling oath," Andrew had reference, of course, to the temptations which lie in the path of the golfer who is "off his game," and who realizes the inadequacy of the English language to express what he feels when he duffs his drive, finds himself trapped in a bunker, or misses a vital putt.

The morality of golf is, indeed, a theme for the philosophers, for, as every golfer knows, in no other game is there the same provocation to the free utterance of "words not harmless" which, in the language of the old Latin poet, mingle with the flying turf. Why, it should be so is a question that has puzzled not only those who don't play golf but, still more, those who do.

The secret, however, is out at last. A London newspaper has made the discovery that golf is really the "devil's own" game, an invention by the Prince of Darkness about the time of the Reformation in Scotland cunningly designed to counteract the influence of John Knox, and preserve "original sin" in the land that had, in its religious enthusiasm, purged itself of gaming, cock-fighting, swearing and other vices.

His Satanic Majesty, it seems, "discovered that the professors and undergraduates of St. Andrews, who had once been his boon companions, now walked straitly and sedately along the links by the seashore, where they supposed themselves to be beyond the reach of temptation." Here was an opportunity for the Evil One to "find some mischief still" for those God-fearing men to do; and so, we are gravely told, "he cunningly insinuated into their minds a new use for their walking sticks, which was something so diabolically calculated between chance and skill, so alluring and so baffling, so tempting and so disappointing, so exalting and yet so shattering to human pride, so vexatious and so provocative that within a week it had drawn an oath from a Professor of Divinity. Thus the devil squared the match against John Knox on the Old Course at St. Andrews—and he has never, they say, been quite out of business since."

It is a pretty legend, which many golfers will, doubtless, be prepared to accept as a plausible explanation of the mystery that surrounds a game so fascinating and yet so tantalizing, so harmless, yet so provocative of language more expressive than polite. It is easier to blame the devil and "original sin" than to acknowledge that swinging a club has a demoralizing influence, or that a bunker is a source of depravity.

But the less credulous devotees of the royal and ancient game would be well advised to take the discovery of the London newspaper scribe with more than a grain of salt. In the first place, walking sticks were not in vogue in Scotland at the time of the Reformation, and if the students of St. Andrews carried staves, they were probably used for the purpose of cracking the skulls of heretics rather than for hitting a ball on the seashore. Secondly, there is evidence that golf was played in Scotland before John Knox's day, so that if "the devil squared the match" with the Reformer of the Old Course of St. Andrews, it was in the capacity of a follower and not of a founder of the game he is alleged to have made his own.

Finally, it is difficult to believe that the zealous and outspoken Knox would have missed an opportunity to "blast" such a diabolical device as that said to have been practised upon his professors and students by his arch-enemy, unless it be assumed that he himself occasionally fell from grace and indulged in a round of St. Andrew's links. And, come to think of it, that may explain, in some measure, the source of the Reformer's amazing command of language, which has puzzled his biographers.

On the whole, the London legend of the origin of golf suggests an ingenious attempt to find an excuse for the triumphs of the Americans on British soil, in that only the evil workings of the devil himself can account for the supremacy of descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers.—Ottawa Journal.

AN OMISSION.

To Editor of Examiner:
Dear sir:

In the recent account of the 50th Jubilee services at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, we note that while the sermons were fully reported the name of the organist, Mr. William C. Thomson, who was responsible for the magnificient musical services was not ever mentioned. We know Mr. Thomson in the past and the competent manner in which he has filled many larger and more important positions, and would also call attention to the fact that the music from Maunder's Thanksgiving Cantatta from which the solos and choruses are taken is by no means simple. St. Luke's has an organist of great experience and ability and should be proud of the fact. Your kind insertion of this will much oblige.

Yours truly,
APPRECIATIVE VISITOR.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WOOD-HOUSE WHITE-WASHER.

An artist was asked, "Which picture do you think is your best one?" The artist glanced reflectively down the enchanted road of enthusiasm and replied, "My next."

When a man feels that he has reached his highest plane of attainment, when he feels he has come to an ideal stopping place and is perfectly satisfied, he is, alack, no longer the artist—he is a wood-house whitewasher.

S.S. No. 17, Otonabee.

Dear Miss Dobbin:

On behalf of the children and parents of the school, we are gathered here this afternoon for two purposes, one of pleasure and one of regret. We are here to enjoy our annual picnic which we all look forward to with pleasure, and one of regret to think you are leaving us. You have been an efficient teacher, ever ready to help the children by your kindness, and we are sure the parents have appreciated your kindness fully as much as the children themselves, so on behalf of the children and their parents we ask you to accept this slight token of esteem for you, and while we are sorry you are leaving us we wish you every success in your new school.

Signed on behalf of the school—Mrs. F. Carpenter, Mrs. E. Butler.

Miss Dobbin, although taken completely by surprise, made a very suitable reply thanking the children and parents.

During the afternoon Miss Dobbin was also presented with a china tea pot and sugar bowl from Helen, Tommy and Billy Rogers, and a silver eversharp pencil from Reginald and Gerald Perks.

Refreshments were then served and the enjoyable afternoon brought to a close.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, June 30 (Canadian Press).—While there was a fairly good enquiry from foreign buyers for grain on the Montreal market yesterday the prices bid were below local exporters' views and the volume of business was curtailed.

The only business reported on the domestic market was the sale of a round lot of No. 3 Canadian Western barley at 11 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal. In sympathy with the stronger feeling in oats at Winnipeg, local prices for car lots were advanced 1-2 cent per bushel.

The volume of business transacted in spring and winter wheat flour was small, but prices were well maintained.

The demand from United States sources for millfeed continued good, but the local and the country trade was quiet and prices were unchanged. The market for standard grades of rolled oats continued quiet and steady.

Only a small trade was done in potatoes but prices were well maintained.

Owing to the warmer weather prevailing. The enquiry for eggs decreased but the feeling was steady. The receipts were 1,525 cases.

The demand for beans was quiet but the undertone to the market was firm. Car lots of choice white handpicked were quoted at $2.25 per bushel, and broken lots at $2.35 to $2.45 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 30 (Canadian Press). — Surprising strength developed in wheat values yesterday, but active selling to realize profits brought about a late reaction. Drought and excessive heat northwest, together with pessimistic reports as to the crop outlook for spring wheat had much to do with the upward swing of the market. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Monday's finish to 5-8c higher; with corn unchanged to 7-8c off; oats unchanged to 1-4c lower, and provisions unchanged to 30 cents down.

Advices were at hand that most of the acreage in one of the best wheat sections of South Dakota would not be worth while to harvest, the crop being almost a complete failure except in a few streaks. Other reports from North Dakota and Montana reported the crop prospect as bad.

Estimates that 1,500,000 bushels of North American wheat had been taken Monday for export and that the total had been augmented yesterday although to a much lesser extent, was an additional factor in lifting values. Besides, receipts of new wheat in southwestern markets yesterday taken as a whole were a good deal below Monday's big record, notwithstanding that Kansas City arrivals of 401 carloads were more than twice the total a year ago. Chicago receipts, largely from the southwest, went at once to millers.

Better weather for corn tended to ease the market for corn and oats, despite some buying of corn in connection with the status of farm relief measures at Washington.

Provisions declined, affected by the course of hog values.

tained between 50,000 and 60,000 feet of lumber.

The other cribs are up stream, at Hiawatha, Keene, Dunnett's Landing or other points where they were assembled after the winter's cutting and prepared for the water. In the old days of the lumber barons who stripped this section of Ontario of its proudest trees and "boomed" them down the Otonabee and Trent for the big saw mills and sometimes for exportation to the Old Country, when great rafts and drives of timber were manned by numerous "lumber Jacks," in those days cribs of 150 logs would have been scorned as diminutive floats and "runs" by the two-fisted, roistering crews that have disappeared in manners and numbers with the changing times and depletion of forest resources without plans for their replacement.

Fishing Good.

R. J. Carson of Peterboro, fish and game inspector, went through here by motor boat Tuesday for Healey Falls. From calls at nearly a dozen resorts on the river and Rice Lake, he found fish plentiful, hungry and pugnacious. Nearly all the resorts are filling up fast with guests, the majority of them from the United States, and the early tourists are delighted with a great run of luck. Mr. Carson says there is no scarcity of fish this summer in the Trent and Rice Lake waters, with pickerel the most numerous.

From another source it was learned that a party of Americans at Joe Menette's lodge, a mile below Birdsall's, brought in 17 'lunge on Tuesday morning, the smallest of which would weigh not less than seven pounds.

This week saw a marked increase in the number of visitors from the United States.

Local Crop Report.

J. J. Collins reports that fall wheat in this district appears to be a thin crop, but the spring crops are good, including the new seeding of alfalfa, the older meadows having nearly all died during the winter. Hay is generally promising, but corn is lagging. Yesterday brought the first corn weather of the season.

PRESENTATION WESLEY CHURCH

Pastor and Teacher Receive Gifts From Members of League.

LEAVING CHURCH

A social evening spent on Wednesday evening, June 23rd, by the Wesley United Church League, was the occasion of farewell presentations made to Rev. Ralph E. Spencer and Mr. George E. Munro. A social time was spent for the first hour in which all the participants thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and afterwards the following address was read by Mr. G. Nicholas, and two beautiful presents given by Miss Gretta Trude, on behalf of the league. Each of the recipients respo ded to the occasion by an address, in which each expressed sympathy and heartfelt regret in leaving friends whose fellowship was dear and near to them. In closing both wished prosperity and happiness to the members of the league and community.

Address by league:

Dear Mr. Spencer and Mr. Munro: The days which you have been spending with us here at Wesley are drawing to a close and only a short time remains in which you can be with us.

Quite often we people of Wesley are called upon to part with our pastor and teacher, just as we get to understand one another, but seldom do we say good-bye with such widespread and deep-felt regret.

In leaving Wesley you both are leaving many friends whose good wishes will follow all through life. We know that God will go with you in your future life, and we trust in the days to come you will enjoy many blessings from Him—from Whom all blessings flow.

We have met to-night and we felt we could not let it pass without showing you in some way that we deeply appreciate your labor of love amongst us in our league.

And so, we ask you to accept this little gift, not for its monetary value, but as a token of the good fellowship and friendship of the young people of the "Old Sixteenth."

Signed on behalf of the Members of the League.

"Mystery Skulls" Unearthed In Mizpeh May Shed New Light On Biblical Days

CAIRO, June 30.—Three mysterious skulls are en route to America. They were excavated from the ruins of the ancient Israelite City of Mizpeh by Dr. William F. Bade of San Francisco, head of the Mizpeh expedition of the Pacific school of religion.

Dr. Bade hopes to have them inspected by competent anthropologists.

"One might be the skull of Goliath. Who can tell?" said Dr. Bade jocularly.

The work of Dr. Bade at Mizpeh in the last six months is considered of immense importance archaeologically. While working near the present town of Tel En Nasbeh, he stumbled across some square stones in curious alignment. He found that they led to ruins so big that it took him five days to make a preliminary survey.

Excavation revealed an enormous series of walls, sixteen feet at some places—wide enough at the top for chariot races. The walls converged on a citadel in excellent state of preservation and bearing inscriptions which proved that the old city of Mizpeh has finally been found.

German Doctors and Drys Oppose Prohibition Laws

EISENACH, Germany, June 30 (A.P.) — The conference of German physicians meeting here, which included, as well, prominent temperance advocates, adopted a resolution against all forms of prohibition laws, declaring that legal restrictions on personal freedom would lead to race demoralization.

The conference almost unanimously voted in favor of an education campaign against intemperance by propaganda in the schools, the promotion of sports and the curbing of the treating habit

The physicians expressed the belief that the Swedish system of governmental control of the sale of liquors was the most noteworthy in the world, but asserted that even it was wrong in principle.

FARMER GOVERNMENT MAJORITY IS UNDIMINISHED IN ALBERTA

Proportional Representation System of Election Will Delay Final Returns.

3 CONSERVATIVES.

Party Was Not Represented in Last House—Leader's Triumph.

CALGARY, June 30 (Canadian Press)—Additional returns from the Alberta Provincial elections have failed to materially alter the indicated standing of the parties

Premier J. E. Brownlee has been returned to power at the head of the United Farmers of Alberta. He will have an undiminished majority in the Legislature. Liberals will probably retain their numerical strength. The Conservative party made a gain of three seats. Two Labor members, and possibly a third, pledged to support the Government, were elected.

Additional returns came slowly yesterday and last night due to the arduous task of counting the preferences under the proportional representation system, in ridings where the vote was close. In quite a few cases several days will elapse before elections can be definitely declared.

Definite figures last night gave the Farmer Government 37 seats, Liberals 4, Conservatives 3, Labor 3, and Independent 1.

Liberals May Increase

The Liberal party seemed last night to have the best chance to add materially to its total, when second counts have been completed in rural ridings Six Liberals were leading in constituencies still in the doubtful column. U.F.A. candidates were leading in four seats and Labor in two.

The three Conservative members elected represent a clear gain for the party, which was without representation in the Legislature at dissolution. Perhaps the most spectacular feature of the voting was the tremendous popular vote accorded A. A. McGillivray, Conservative leader, who was elected to one of the five Calgary seats. Counting of his surplus swept another Conservative, John Irwin, to victory but failed by a very narrow margin to carry in the third Conservative candidate, M. C. Costello. C. Y. Weaver, the third Conservative, was elected in Edmonton.

U. S. Army Aids Students Through College Course

WASHINGTON, June 30 (A.P.)—College or university junior classmen financially unable to conclude their senior year studies may find their way cleared for them by the War Department, which announced its plan to finance 100 young men in such circumstances through their senior year beginning next September. As many more will be cared for at the beginning of each scholastic year.

Tuition costs will be paid by the Army with the understanding that the students enlist for short terms in the Army. It is planned that the enlistments shall be for 18-month periods, half time to be served while at college and the remainder in army camps to be opened after graduation for their particular instruction in army supply procurement problems. The students at the end of the nine months' camp work will be allowed to apply for reserve commissions or retire to civilian status without obligation

NORHAM WOMAN LIVED 100 YEARS

Miss Mary Boyce Was Born October 30, 1826, Died on Sunday.

GIRL INJURED.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

WARKWORTH, June 30.—Had she lived until October 30 next, Miss Mary Boyce of Norham would have rounded out a full century. She died on Sunday and was buried Tuesday afternoon at Norham, with Rev. W. W. Jones of Warkworth officiating at the funeral. Miss Boyce had resided at Norham for 35 years.

Girl Injured.

The four-year-old daughter of Oscar Laver, a councillor of Percy Township, was run over by a front wheel of her father's car as he was backing out of Armstrong's garage. It is believed she was leaning against the rear door of the car and that it suddenly flew open, throwing her to the ground and under the right front wheel, which passed over her body about the shoulders. Medical examination indicated that she was not seriously injured.

Three or four rinks of bowlers are going to Belleville on the holiday.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE

The installation of a hydrant on McFarlane Street at the top of the first hill was recommended to the council, while the placing of the hydrants on Driscoll Terrace will be altered.

While the aldermen were down beside the De Laval plant for the fire brigade test, they inspected the ditch in front of the plant and later, at the Board of Work meeting which followed the Fire, Water and Light meeting, they instructed City Engineer R. H. Parsons to prepare a report for Monday's council meeting on the cost of laying tile and filling up the ditch.

Chairman J. O. Fife received the commendations of his committeemen for his report concerning an option secured on a gravel pit desired by the city. He was also authorized to purchase coal for the road roller in carload lots instead of a ton at a time.

Sewer Problems

The question of people connecting to the city's outfall sewers in Monaghan was taken up, when a letter was read from a resident on King George Street asking for permission to connect to the sewer passing his residence and offering to pay for the privilege. It was considered by the alderman that no formal granting of his request should be made, as it would create a precedent, although it was the general opinion that a great many such connections had already been made without permission.

Alderman Denne asked why the sewage disposal plant had not yet been put in operation. It was explained by the city engineer, the chairman, and other aldermen that the installation of certain parts had been held up by ice and high water and that the finishing of the piping had been held up waiting for these parts to be installed While this is being done next week the change in the sewer connections will be made by the city engineer's department

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Sir Henry Drayton, House leader, stated just before adjournment that there appeared to be no reason why the House of Commons should not prorogue to-night.

Sir Henry was asked by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King what business would be taken up when the House meets this afternoon. He said that with the disposal of of the Customs report, contentious legislation had been cleared off the order paper.

Mr. King asked whether or not the Government proposed to go ahead with the resolution providing for the return of the natural resources to Alberta.

Sir Henry replied that the Government did not propose to take action, one way or the other, on this matter at present. The Government had not had time to look into the question.

"That will be pleasant news for the members of Alberta," remarked Mr. King.

Sir Henry replied that if the last Government had done nothing for the past six months it was not remarkable that the new Government should require a little more time to look into the question of the return of the natural resources than they had been afforded. He observed that the estimates which the Government would ask the House to pass were the estimates prepared by the Opposition. They should not be contentious.

BOY DROWNED IN SMALL POND

IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, June 30. — When a raft on which they were sailing went to pieces under them and precipitated them into the frog pond, near the old belt line station, Moore Avenue, Moore Park, last night, Kenneth Sheehan, aged seven, was drowned, and his brother, Jack, aged six, barely escaped with his life The lad Jack was rescued by Leslie Edwards, and Stanley King. The body of Kenneth Sheehan was removed to Meyer's undertaking parlors, Yonge Street.

The lads went to the spot between eight and nine o'clock last night, and having improvised a raft out of boards they picked up in the vicinity set sail in a spirit of adventure on the pond. Suddenly, when they were in the middle of the pond the boards parted and dropped them into the water. Both boys grabbed for the floating boards, and hung on for a time, meanwhile screaming in terror. Their cries were heard by Edwards and King, who were out walking in the vicinity.

The youths ran to the spot, and on seeing the imperilled boys, without troubling to take off their clothes dived into the water One caught Jackie as the lad was sinking, the other dived to the bottom of the pond, about 15 feet, and after some difficulty managed to extricate Kenneth from the deep mud which lies there.

Using Steam Rollers In War Against June Bugs

STOLP, Pomerania, Germany, June 30. (A.P.)—Steam rollers have been used to exterminate June bugs in Pomeranio and Mecklenburg The pests appeared by the billion and even the school children were mobilzed for the "June bug war." The children collected the bugs in sacks, being paid $1 a hundredweight. In the town of Delitsch alone twenty-five tons of the bugs were "bagged."

Immense damage has been caused by the bugs, and for miles all foliage is gone from the trees The farmers complain that the plague is getting worse every year, owing to the scarcity of artificial fertilizers. The insects breed in stable manure, which is used almost exclusively instead of nitrate fertilizers, the high cost of which makes their general use impossible.

RAFTS OF LOGS FLOAT FROM RIC LAKE AS IN OLD LUMBERING DAY

Elm and Basswood Towed in Cribs To Cooperage Plant at Trenton.

FISHING IS GOOD.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

HASTINGS, June 30.—Reminiscent of the heyday of the lumber industry throughout the watershed of the Trent and Otonabee Rivers fifty years ago or more is the floating of cribs of timber from Rice Lake to the Trenton Cooperage Company at Trenton, the mouth of the Trent Canal. Four of these cribs passed through the Canal locks here last Friday, and others are scattered around Rice Lake, some of them to be piloted down stream about the end of this week.

Each crib or boom is composed of about 150 logs of elm and ba wood which are bound and wi together, forming a big broad r to be towed to its destination Trenton. Men experienced in l ging and lumbering said that ba wood, and especially elm, were suitable for floating as individ pieces. Because of their dens and weight, their displacement water was insufficient to float the hence they had to be wired gether to secure as a raft the quired displacement. Heavy str of wood were laid across the en of the raft, and the logs separat bound to them. This work and quantity of wire used indicated care taken not only to make rafts navigable but also to hold the together firmly for their navigati of the Trent. It was estimated some who saw the four rafts flo through Hastings that they co

FARMS INSPECTED

omplete Circle of Lake Ontario is Made on Trip.

MILLBROOK, June 30. — The urham County Motor Bus trip rough part of Ontario and Munie County, New York State, arnged by F. C. Paterson, Agricultral representative, covered 700 iles, and was a pronounced success om the standpoint of both interest nd instruction.

The bus, supplied by S. Colicutt f Oshawa, is the largest of its kind Canada; it accommodated the 32 embers of the party without discomfort. The trip began from Oshwa at 5.30 a.m, on Tuesday, June 2, reaching Napanee by 10 a.m. here the Mills' Chick Hatchery was isited. Hatching is done for customers only, the incubators having a apacity of 22,500 eggs at one time; ne holds 12,000 eggs. The farmers ring in their eggs and come for the hicks when the latter are ready to e taken away; the charge is 5 ents per egg.

Owing to a bad detour the call isted for Little's orchard had to be ancelled, but a stop was made at Mr. Hatheway's orchard, east of Cobourg, en route to Napanee. In his orchard all spraying and cultivating is done by tractor; there is a heavy set of apples and the owner intends thinning them out in the immediate future.

The next stop was at Brockville where Senator A. C. Hardy's fine herd of pure-bred Holsteins was inspected.

Crossing on the ferry the next morning to Morristown, the party was joined by Charles A. Taylor, Assistant State Leader of County Agricultural Agents, New York State, who had planned the itinerary through that State, and who accompanied them as far as Lockport.

In New York State there are approximately 2,000,000 dairy cattle valued at about $195,000,00. The trip was through an intensive dairy section, and the first stop made at the farm of A. T. Blount, Sandy Creek, Oswego County. Fifty-nine pure-bred Holstein cattle are kept on this farm of 234 acres, of which 139 acres are in crop. The land is valued at $19,000. This herd has paid its own way.

The "Oswego Gardens" were next visited, cultivated on cleared muck; there are 35 acres in celery, and 110 acres in other vegetables; the principal crops, in the order named, are celery, onions, carrots, parsnips, potatoes The work is done hand machinery and gang labor. The were a large cold storage plant little crops are stored during the shipping season, and also during the winter months. In addition there are three large hot beds with artificial heating arrangements.

The territory where muck gardening is done has a reputation for the production of high quality head lettuce on the New York market; 600 cars were shipped out last season from Oswego City, and about 1,200 from Fulton City. On the average two crops of lettuce a season are taken off the land each year, with sometimes an early crop of spinach preceding the late lettuce crop Practically no trouble is experienced with diseases and insects, and from 1,200 to 3,000 pounds of fertilizer are used to the acre.

By fast freight, in iced cars, the produce is shipped to the New York market, particularly lettuce, onions, and celery; soup canning factories receive large shipments of carrots and onions. The muck growers have an organization known as 'The Oswego Vegetable Growers' Association,' which meets monthly; among other business it selects five commission houses in New York, at the beginning of each season, and to these the members are required to ship all produce directed to that city.

After leaving Oswego, the stop for lunch was on Pathfinder's Island, Oswego River, and from there are party went to the Decker Homestead (Then-dara Farms), at Three Rivers, near Liverpool (where they have the remains of the old salt in Onondaga County. Here herd of pure-bred Holsteins inspected, and after a stop over night at Seneca Falls a visit was paid to the New York Experimental stations at Geneva, the tour of the grounds being conducted by Vice-Director Hedrick.

The Charles Mills' fruit farm of 60 acres was the next objective, apples, peaches, and cherries being cultivated for commercial purposes. Mr. Mills is an extensive exhibitor. The Sudus fruit farm, of 650 acres, was given a brief visit; fruit of all kinds is grown, and there is a plant for handling cherries with six vats, about 20 feet long, 6 feet wide, and 2 1-2 feet deep, for cooling, after which they are put through a pitter, barrelled, frozen, and shipped to the canneries. Almost 100 tons daily may be handled; they are picked off the trees by High School girls and teachers from Rochester.

The trip continued through an intensive fruit section as far as Rochester, the green house operations, on a large scale, of James West and Sons at Irondequoit, being inspected following the lunch hour. The overnight stop was at Niagara Falls, N.Y., and crossing from there on Friday morning the party went to the Experimental Station at Vineland, saw the Martindale herd of Guernseys, and had dinner at Grimsby. Orchards and fruit farms at Beamsville, Clarkson, and other points were visited on the return trip, and before the party separated they presented Mr. Paterson with a pipe in appreciation of his efforts in making the trip so enjoyable and successful.

Fine weather, and a congenial spirit pervading the party, were among other factors which will always make the tour a pleasant memory.

INSPIRING MESSAGES

is in Christ, removing misconception, and Christ by His infinite sacrifice not only removed misconception, but he put away that which kept man from God. Christ captured the intellect of man but He also captured his affections. God is in Christ in a supreme way and reconciliation is possible because God is not only in Christ but in every man, he declared. The spirit helps the flesh but the flesh helps the spirit, and the true self can only be realized in service for others. To live for others is to realize one's relationship to his neighbors and to his God. "We are ambassadors for Christ," he said, "and you as a congregation have chosen a new minister. Your new minister," he said, "who is to be inducted, comes not only at your call, but also at the call of the Master. He comes with reconciliation in his heart. The theme of the message may come with a new accent," he said, "but it is the only message from the Christian pulpit—the gospel of reconciliation. Our message is: "Be ye reconciled to God—there is no greater message—God provides it—Christ effects it—you accept it."

At the conclusion of the sermon, Mr. Gordon asked Mr. MacDonald to stand. He then recounted the solemn questions pertaining to the induction, the newly inducted minister replying to each question as it was delivered.

Rev. A. H. McConnachie.

In his charge to the newly inducted minister, Mr. McConnachie declared that he would have preferred to address the congregation rather than a fellow minister, as he knew the congregation and he did not know the minister. "I do not know your minister," he said, "but I do know his reputation." Knox church has a good and a great reputation—one that should go well with that of Mr. MacDonald. The speaker declared the calling of the ministry to be the highest calling of all. "Every profession is a calling but to be an ambassador for Jesus Christ is not an ordinary vocation—there is none like it," he said. A man may well feel a real sense of solemnity when he thinks of the calling of a minister. There are some, he said, who instead of bringing dignity to the calling, endeavored to borrow dignity from it. "I feel sure that our brother who was inducted to-night, will bring the right spirit with him," he said. He felt sure that the minister would be diligent and visit his congregation but he exhorted the congregation not to expect him to pile up a record number of visits year after year. "Make him your confidant—there are times when a minister would be really helpful in the home life—in times of crisis and of trouble. He is trustworthy and wants to be of service to you in times of peculiar difficulty, he said. In conclusion Mr. McConnachie declared that the best place for a congregation to make the acquaintance of their minister, was in the church.

Rev. J. A. MacKenzie.

"It is with mingled feelings that I come before you to-night. Just before I left Montreal I received a message from Dr. H. J. Keith expressing his regret at not being able to attend but rejoicing in the fact that an old and valued friend of his, Mr. MacDonald, should be the next pastor for Knox," said Mr. MacKenzie. "Sitting in the pew my heart has been stirred up with remembrance of days that are gone—days of anxiety and of opportunity. Looking down at the congregation I miss certain people, some of whom have gone to the higher service, others whose places should be filled," he declared. He stated that he had no criticism to offer "but the love I bear to them will not allow me to forget them."

A congregation has a right to expect good sermons from its ministers he said. It may seem a hard thing to say but it is the vital thing about the Church's life. He should aspire to greater things. You expect great preaching from your minister, but think of the things he expects from you, he said. He expects that you will be great listeners. He has the right to expect that the members will come into the sanctuary with thankfulness in their hearts. The trouble with people is that when their hearts should be really praising God they are thinking about some anxiety that never will materialize. This congregation is looked to for religion and moral enthusiasm by many hearts, he declared. The minister expects the congregation to diffuse sunshine, to come to his service, he said. Jesus Christ taught the value of forgiveness, he declared, "I worship God—you worship God—Why? Because we look to him as a forgiving God," he said.

No congregation can be organized in the name of God unless it is a forgiving congregation. One reason we are established as a company was to bring about world neighborliness. It does not do to be sectarian. Every time we enter the house of God let us remember that we are to herald forth the message of world wide redemption. The church is the expression of that hope that is deepest in the heart of man, and when one thinks of the greatness of the church how can he be small. Knox still has a place in the city—people look to this place for inspiration. Declaring that a wonderful day lay ahead the speaker said, "Days that shall be will be greater than the days that have been."

At the conclusion of the service the new minister was introduced to every member of the congregation, the proceedings being in the nature of a double reception owing to the Rev. MacKenzie being besieged by a host of former parishioners and friends.

FARMER GOVERNMENT

Conservative vote in Calgary, returning but one member compared to two from the city in the last election Hon Alex. Ross, Minister of Public Works, Labor candidate was defeated, and the Labor vote generally was small.

Constituencies represented by the U.F.A. members in the fifth Legislature returned their representatives as a general rule. In Beaver River and Edmonton, the party gained members. In the two new seats, Empress and Cypress, added since the 1921 Provincial election, Farmer candidate were returned.

In Athabasca, Bow Valley, Wetaskiwin, Medicine Hat, Pincher Creek, and Stalbert, Liberal candidates were leading on first counts. If elected in the latter three seats the result would be Liberal gains from the U.F.A.

Farmer candidate were in the lead last night in Cypress, where Hon. Perrin Baker was virtually assured of election, and in MacLeol, Leduc and Stoney Plain Leduc went Liberal in 1921. In Edson, a Labor candidate was leading the poll and if elected would reverse the verdict of 1921, when a Liberal was returned.

Maiden Battle.

J. F. Lymburn, Attorney-General, appointed just previous to dissolution of the Legislature and fighting his maiden political battle, emerged at the top of the poll in Edmonton, where eleven candidates stood for the five seats. He was the only U.F.A. candidate to contest a city seat.

A close fight was decided yesterday in Lethbridge, when Andrew Sneaton, Labor, was returned on the second count, after being closely pressed by a Conservative.

In MacLeod, Shields, U.F.A., former member, is menaced by MacDonald, Liberal.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED

Cars Collide at Omemee and Damage Follows—Settlement Made.

OMEMEE, June 30.—A serious accident was narrowly averted on Monday afternoon, when two cars came together at the Foundry corner. D. H. Dick, who had the right-of-way, was entering King Street in his car when a car proceeding east struck him, doing damage to the running board and fender. Settlement was made between the two parties.

Masonic Service.

A very impressive service was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, when S. M. Scott of Lindsay, the regular speaker, delivered an inspiring address to the brethren of Lorne Lodge A. F. & A. M., No. 375, and many visiting brethren. Many bouquets of flowers adorned the church which was comfortably filled.

The speaker took for his text, the words found in 1st Cor., 3: 16: "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God and that the spirit of God dwelleth in you." From this passage, Mr. Scott made reference to the work of building the temple and referred to the particular elements necessary in building our lives for the temple of God. His discourse was very interesting and profitable.

The choir was composed of members of the local Masonic Lodge and the position of organist was capably filled by Bro. Stanley Magee. Special music consisted of a solo by Bro. Bruce Lowes, entitled "Just for To-day."

At the close of the service, the Masonic brethren, numbering about eighty, retired to the lodge rooms, where a hearty vote of thanks was extended to the speaker for his splendid sermon on such a suitable theme.

Among the visiting brothers were: Rt. Wor. Bro. Thorndyke, Wor. Bro. Russell of Millbrook, Rt. Wor. Bro. Hall, Bro. A. Fogue, Bro. F. Brimmell, Bro. B. Cresswell, Bro. Gilbert, Bro. F. MacFarlane, Bro. (Dr.) Wansborough and others, of Lindsay.

Entrance Examinations.

Entrance examinations are being tried in Omemee this week. There are 44 pupils writing at Omemee centre, which is being presided over by Miss G. M. Meredith and Mr. L. Curtis. The youngest pupil registered is only 10 years of age, and another is 10 years 7 months.

The Lindsay-Peterborough 'bus made an extra trip on Friday last, returning from Lindsay to Omemee about 7.15 p.m., where a load was in waiting to attend the circus in Peterborough. Many private cars also motored down, and all were well pleased with the entertainment provided.

Fuses Burned.

The storm which passed over on Friday evening was accompanied by one terrific crash of thunder and a fierce flash of lightning, which caused many citizens a few anxious moments. The only damage reported was the burning out of the fuses in the transformer on Sturgeon Street, thus cutting off all Hydro connections west of Sturgeon Street.

School Picnic.

The Omemee Public School scholars who had planned to hold their annual picnic at the closing of school, were not to be outdone by the weatherman when he sent the showers on Saturday morning, the day which had been fixed for the affair. The lemonade was almost ready, and the cakes and sandwiches were in waiting, as were also the boys and girls. Rather than cause a terrible disappointment after Old Sol had decided to shine in the afternoon, the event took place at the school, where a good time was provided for all in ball and other games.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., (Canadian Press)—Several walls, cracked by last year's earthquake here, reopened in a light earth tremor felt here about 3:20 p.m. yesterday. The central building and Masonic Temple, repaired with new plaster, reopened.

Several plate glass windows were broken. No buildings constructed since last year's quake were damaged yesterday.

GIRL CRUSHED BY BARRIE BUS

Eight Year Old Girl Runs in Front of Heavy Vehicle.

PLAYING IN STREET.

BARRIE, Ont., June 30. — Elma Strachan, eight-year-old daughter of J. J. and Mrs. Strachan, Victoria Street, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of one of the Barrie-Allandale buses on Monday night.

The fatality occurred on Bradford Street.

The little girl, playing with other children, went out on the roadway, and dodging two other autos, ran right in front of the jitney. Before the driver had a chance to do anything two wheels passed over the child, injuring her so that she died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Evidence at the inquest held in the afternoon showed that the bus was not running over ten or twelve miles an hour, and that the driver, Haughton Beelby, had no opportunity to avoid the accident. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Jordan in that capacity; the other officers include: Troop Leader and Secretary, R. Shaw; Patrol Leaders: Piercey Pitt, Burton Russell, Eddie Nattrass; Probationary Patrol Leaders: Edward Budd and Albert Doak.

The Troop committee has also enlarged its numbers, Messrs. J. Steele and J. R. Eakins being the new members; R. Stone, G. Fowler and N. Lamb are the three formerly connected with the organization.

The annual camp will be held in July, place and date to be definitely given later. Mr. Jordan being away during the holiday months, Scoutmasters Barnes and Riddle will be in charge.

The entrance examinations are taking place this week, Miss S. Muir, Principal of the Continuation School, presiding. Miss Hickey of Cobourg has been presiding at the Form III. examinations written on last week; these are not yet completed; pupils who have been attending the Port Hope High School, but whose homes are in Millbrook, write on their papers here.

The name of Flossie McMahon was inadvertently omitted from the list of pupils who were successful in passing in 7 out of 8 subjects in the recent examinations at the Continuation School in Form I. The results as published were all for Forms I. and II., the Form III. examinations not having yet been written on. The names in the list were in alphabetical order and not graded.

Dr. and Mrs. Lugsdin and Miss M. O'Brien, of Buffalo, are visiting Mrs. W. and Miss May O'Brien, of Buffalo, are visiting Mrs. W. and Miss May O'Brien and other friends in town, motoring over from the other side last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bateson and two children, Margaret and Bobby, of Campbellford, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Raper. Miss Margaret is remaining for a more extended stay with her grandparents and her aunt, Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Fallis Line.

Mrs. D. Kenyon and her mother, Mrs. R. Doxsee, left last week for a visit with the latter's eldest brother, Mr. David Kent, Wiarton. Mrs. Doxsee has not seen her brother for over forty years, the distance which separated their respective homes and other events, intervening to prevent a re-union in that time.

HASTINGS, June 30 — A lovely church wedding took place in the Church of Our Lady Mount Carmel on Saturday morning at eight o'clock when Marie, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walsh, Hastings, became the bride of John Condon, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Condon of Hastings.

Miss Mary Walsh attended the bride as bridesmaid and wore a mauve crepe gown and large white picture hat with mauve blossom trimmings.

The groom was supported by Mr. Redmond Walsh, a brother of the bride. Mr. D. J. O'Sullivan performed the duties of usher.

Watts, who will very soon be eighty years of age, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of carnations. Then the grandmothers present stood in a circle and a birthday cake, made by Mrs. Alex. Elder, was brought in and set on a table in their midst. After a few minutes they all joined hands and blew, extinguishing the candles. "God be With You" was sung.

Refreshments were served and a very happy social half hour was spent.

Garbutt-Taylor.

A very pretty wedding took place in Bethel Church on Wednesday afternoon when Vera, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Taylor, was united in marriage to Henry, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. George Garbutt. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. B. Pennington.

The bride entered the church escorted by her father and looked very beautiful in a simply made gown of honeydew Canton crepe. Her veil was the one her mother wore and she was the fourth bride to wear it. Her ornament was a rope of pearls with a diamond clasp, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

During the ceremony the bride and groom stood under an arch of hawthorne boughs in bloom. They were unattended, save by a pretty little ring-bearer, Miss Lois Graysdale, niece of the bride. During the signing of the register in which Mr. and Mrs. Warren, cousin of Lakefield took part, Mrs. R. Hamblin sang, "Until." Mrs. Garbutt Clysdale played Lohengrin's Wedding March as the bride entered the church, and also as the bridal party left.

The ushers were Messrs. Harold Jory and Hilliard Edwards.

The church was beautifully decorated with hawthorne boughs, growing plants, peonies and orchids. The central seats were finished with honeysuckle and those reserved for the invited guests were marked with white ribbon.

The rain, which had teemed down during the ceremony, cleared off as they left the church.

The bridal party, immediate relatives and guests, numbering about fifty, motored to Maple Hill farm, where the bride had lived before her marriage. The house was decorated with white bells and bridal wreath.

The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of black silk Canton crepe and the groom's mother one of printed silk Canton crepe, with corsage of roses.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Edwards, grandparents of the groom; Mr. W. Crawford of Medicine Hat, Alberta, an uncle of the groom, and his son, Mr. Hugh Crawford, now in attendance at the Toronto University; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hawthorne of Detroit, Mich., cousins of Mr. Garbutt, and Mrs. George Payne and Miss Payne, aunt and cousin of the bride from Lakefield. All the others were from near home.

The groom's gift to the ring-bearer was a signet ring; to Mrs. Clysdale, a gold watch bracelet; to Mrs. E. R. Hamblin, a gold bracelet, and to the ushers, kid gloves.

The gifts to the bride were numerous and beautiful, including several cheques, one of one hundred dollars, several pieces of silverware, chairs, two clocks, etc.

About five o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt left on their honeymoon. Mrs. Garbutt wore a gown of rosewood flat crepe, trimmed with sand, sand-colored gloves and stockings, with rosewood gabardine coat and hat to match.

As she came down the stairs to leave her girlhood home the bride divided her bouquet and gave one bunch to her husband's grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. S. Edwards of Lakefield, another to her husband's father and mother, and another to her own parents. The remainder she threw down among the girls.

The honeymoon trip is by motor and they will visit Uxbridge, Sarnia, Paisley and Toronto. After their return they will make their home on the farm lately owned by Mr. A. G. Dunford, which Mr. Garbutt has purchased.

Church Business Meeting.

The congregational meeting of the Warsaw United Church was held last evening. Reports of the business standing of the congregation were read. It was decided to raise the salary of the minister to the new minimum.

Acting under the regulations of the United Church the congregation voted for and elected two stewards, Messrs. James Hawthorne and Gordon Payne. They also voted for two members of session, electing Messrs. E. Hawthorne and David Taylor.

School Closes.

Warsaw School closed Thursday evening. The junior pupils, with Miss Quinn, teacher, held a little picnic in Mr. George Brown's woods. The senior pupils each gave a five-minute speech, an oral composition, and Mr. Currie was justly proud of the work done. "The Voyage of Life," "Farming," "The Silk Worm" and "Bravery" were among the subjects handled.

Miss Quinn, it is understood, is to remain a third year. Mr. Currie, who has been here, is leaving.

Personals.

Miss Helen Bowen has returned to Belleville Hospital. She had seventeen days for her holidays.

Miss Evelyn Gray is home for her seventeen-day holiday.

Mr. Bowen has started two more bread routes, semi-weekly.

CHURCH RE-OPENED.

Trinity Congregation Moved Into Newly Decorated Edifice.

NORHAM, June 29. — Sunday, June 27th, was a red letter day for Trinity United Church here. For eight weeks the congregation had worshipped in the League Hall because of decoration being done in the church, which was re-opened on the above date. Rev. C. E. Manning, D.D., of Toronto, General Secretary of Home Missions for the United Church of Canada, was the special speaker for the occasion and gave two very inspiring addresses to appreciative audiences. In the morning the church was comfortably seated and in the evening it was filled to overflowing. House plants in full bloom and bouquets beautified the pulpit and altar railing. Music in the morning was furnished by the local choir which excelled itself in the rendering "Witness for the King" and "Onward Moves a Mighty Army." Mrs. Harry Crosby, a graduate of Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, and recently of Stirling, sang, "Jesus My Shepherd." In the evening a male choir of twenty voices from Morganston United Church rendered three selections in fine style, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," "Songs That Mother Sang" and "Where the Gates Swing Outward Never."

The signal feature of decoration standing out above all else is a cross and crown done in Gold Leaf paint on the front wall directly behind the pulpit, underneath this and within the arch is a large fan of several tints and colors. Over each pair of windows is a cross and crown of lesser size in colors to match the walls which are beautifully panelled in red, light blue and grey. The platform has been changed so that the pulpit and minister are seven inches higher than before.

An envelope offering of $250.00 to cover expenses was asked for on Sunday, the total amount received being over $300.00.

U.F.O. SERVICE IS OBSERVED

Rev. Mr. Howard of Millbrook Preaches at Wallace's Point.

GOOD ATTENDANCE

BAILIEBORO, June 30.—The annual service following the U.F.O. picnic on Thursday last, of the Cavan, South Monaghan and Peterboro Clubs, was held on Sunday, June 27, at Wallace Point.

The service was largely attended, partly due to the splendid condition of the weather. The Millbrook Band provided several musical selections while the crowd gathered.

The Rev. Mr. Howard, pastor of Millbrook United church took charge of the service, which opened with the singing of "Joy to the world." Mr. Howard took his lesson from John, Chapter 12, starting at verse 24. This was followed by the singing of "I need Thee every Hour," led by the Millbrook band.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Howard stated that the men's picnic had been held last week and that the women of the W.M.S. societies were going to hold theirs on Tuesday of next week. Mr. Howard spoke for a few minutes of his own experiences in U.F.O. Clubs in Prince Edward county, where they also had organized ladies' clubs. He spoke of the interesting gatherings, which proved not only social but also profitable meetings.

"The most earnest convictions of all sound thinking people rest in the fact that the destiny of our lives is rapt up in the rural communities," he said. The question of life in the rural districts is a very serious one, for if the rural community makes good then the country is safe, otherwise it is not safe and will not be established more soundly. The cities, if left to themselves, would not prosper in moral growth. In the city of Boston, eigthy two percent of the men in positions of leadership come from the country, village or small town. The matter of present legislation was referred to by the speaker. There were more votes for temperance in a recent election in these communities than there were for either of the candidates striving for the place in parliament. This is not true in cities, but in rural districts. The welfare of boyhood and girlhood is the hope of this country and the hope of the land is in Jesus Christ. Even wealth and prosperity fail if the people are not properly established in righteousness.

The speaker stated the question which he was going to discuss was: "What a Christian is."

As time passes by denominationalism also passes by, but this is not true of Christianity. The statement, "Give us your Christ, but not your civilization," was quoted as a saying of some foreign people. Then, people followed Christ according to their national characteristics. What is a Christian? One might say he is a Christ man, a man whose leader is Jesus. The Chinese say that a Christian is one who follows the Jesus way. A Christian may also be referred to as one who faithfully follows a chosen leader. Reference might be made to Mr. Ferguson or Mr. King, who are the chosen leaders in the Government.

In the New Testament five names are given for a Christian. In each there is a suggestion of a question and an invitation implied. The question is, 'We may adopt this as our standard of living.'

The disciples were first called Christians at Antioch. Before the name 'Christian' was applied to them they were called 'disciples', who are learners and receive a teacher's instruction. In one sense they are students. The things which Jesus taught were never known before.

In the Old Testament He is known as being holy and just, but Jesus laid stress on the fact that God was love and delivered man from suffering, that he was a father to all mankind, one who loved them. Reference was made to the fatherhood as portrayed in the story of the Prodigal Son. Jesus taught that Man's possibilities could be realized in God. One's attitude toward Him is represented by the life he lives. The cross is the only way of self-realization and self-expression—that is the Jesus way of living. People no longer hold contempt for man, no matter what profession he choses. The cross stands for ministry.

Christians are called disciples and disciples called Christians. In Acts, it is told that 'believers were added unto the Lord.' One who believes in the Lord Jesus Christ as the ruler of the world, is a Christian.' 'Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for He will save people from sin.' The power of sin is broken if we are submitted to the uplifting of Jesus Christ. Each one of us knows the power of sin. Christ, set apart by God to save men from sin, also is set aside to save the world. The duty has dedicated the ruling and saving of sinners to Jesus Christ.

"The real test of an individual's faith comes to light when he becomes ill. There is one whom he will stake his life upon before any other doctor. The world is thus aware of Jesus being. Through faith man's wrongs are righted, we become Christians when we realize our belief in Jesus Christ."

Attention was drawn to the process of Christianity—disciples, believers, followers, brother, Christians become brothers to Christians and to Jesus Christ. The term 'brother' suggests mediation as a man serves and as he endeavors to be a means of bringing souls to Jesus. Philip Brooks states, 'Disciples are those who sit at Jesus' feet to learn, Apostles are those who go out into the world to work and teach.

When Jesus fed the five thousand the loaves and the fishes, he blessed, broke, and gave to his disciples. Not one showed any inclination to satisfy his own wants before feeding the multitudes. This they learned from Jesus as disciples. They saw the privilege as doing as Jesus would do in ministering to the needs of others.

"What is a saint? Not a sanctimonious creature—one matured in following, trusting and believing in God. Sainthood is the result of the process of learning of Jesus and being brothers of and in Christ and recognizng the privileges of Christ in the attitude shown towards others.

"There are no people who may count for more in the upward step toward God than the people in the rural community. There is one book purposely written to lead men and women to be followers of God. That book is John."

In closing Mr. Howard recited an old favorite selection, "Oh! Brother Man."

While the offering was being received the band played a selection and led in the singing of the closing hymn, "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me."

ANNIVERSARY KEPT AT CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. William Allan of Peterboro is the Special Preacher.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30.—Anniversary services were held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Sunday, June 27, the preacher for the day being Rev. William Allan of Peterboro. Large congregations were present at both services and special music was rendered by the choir. Mrs. Robert Drummond of Winnipeg, a former member of St. Andrew's choir, sang solos at both services which were well rendered. Mr. Arthur Collinson played an instrumental solo with Mr. Pearson as accompanist. All those taking part and their leader are deserving of praise for the music.

The church was beautifully decorated with [illegible] At 12 [illegible]

Rev. Allan took as his text, "And they lifted up their eyes and saw no man save Jesus only", giving a very explicit and well delivered line of thought.

In the evening Rev. Allan read the 15th chapter of 1st Corinthians and gave a few minutes talk on the death and resurrection of Christ. He spoke about so many people of the church feeling they were always being asked for money and that if more people would make themselves acquainted with the fortieth Psalm their attitude toward church subscriptions would change. Rev. Allan said he had never begged but if he had to beg he would like the privilege to beg for Christ and ask that on his tombstone be engraved, "It came to pass, the beggar died."

As his text for his sermon he read the 2nd verse, Psalm 122, "Our feet shall stand within thy gates, O Jerusalem." The first church in Jerusalem was composed of Jews before the Gentiles entered, and the one hope of the Jews was to live according to the law and not be as the pagan countries with idols. He explained that the only hope of Heaven was obtained by following the narrow way and living a Christian life. He gave as an illustration two children playing train. The little lad was engineer and the little girl was an only passenger. The first station called was Edinburgh, but the passenger did not get off; then Glasgow but still she stayed on; then suddenly he called out, "Heaven", and the little tot said, "Stop here, this is where I want to get off," showing that even children in their play show a serious line of thought.

He gave another illustration of an organist of a famous cathedral who was so jealous of anyone playing his organ that he would not allow it. One day a stranger asked to be allowed to play and on an impulse the organist gave his consent. At the conclusion, he asked the stranger his name and found out he was Mendell, a famous player. He cried out, "Oh my God and I almost said 'no.'" He urged all members to be like the player and say "yes" and follow the Christian life and like the theme of the text, "Stand within the gates of Jerusalem."

Mr. Allan thanked all for close attention and expressed appreciation of the excellent music, large congregations, and to Rev. Mr. MacKenzie of Burnbrae, who omitted his evening service to allow his congregation to be present at the anniversary services.

Garden Party.

St. Andrew's garden social was held on Monday evening on the Manse lawn. There was a large attendance and the weather man proved himself a sport and a nice evening was the result. The grounds were well lit up and the many booths, with their bright decorations, added to the beauties of the grounds.

The Northumberland Regimental Band, under the leadership of Mr. Pearson, provided excellent music for the evening. The Blue orchestra also played several selections which were heartily encored. Messrs. J. C. Anderson and Fred McMullen proved themselves excellent violinists and received many ovations from their audience.

The supper tables were constantly filled with crowds until long after 10 o'clock. Mrs. James Alexander, convener, Mrs. John Anderson and Mrs. John Wallace, who had charge of the coffee, and all the ladies who assisted at the tea tables are to be congratulated on the capable management and efficiency of the service given.

Miss Grace Blue, Miss K. McArthur and Miss D. Reynolds, all in Gypsy attire, were in charge of the fish pond and the "fish" were all caught long before closing time.

Messrs. J. Allan, T. Campbell and J. Storey had charge of the ice-cream and soft drinks and were kept busy by a steady stream of customers.

Mrs. N. Morrison, Messrs. N. Morrison and J. Wallace were keepers of the "hot dogs" and soft drinks and were not allowed to idle many moments.

Misses H. Atkinson, L. Hay, V. Hay and Storey were busy throughout the evening selling candy and Mrs. Bayttisby, Mrs. G. Hay and Miss Connor had charge of the flower booth.

All the booths were gaily decorated with evergreens, lanterns, flowers and streamers.

An acre of performance is worth a whole world of promise.—Howell.

"The blade slipped!"—that explains hundreds of cases of foot infection," says Rachel H. Freer, well-known New York chiropodist. "No unskilled hand should ever pare a corn. It is a job for a chiropodist."

Visit your chiropodist as often as you do your dentist, if you would keep your feet in prime trim. But between visits, when a corn needs attention, put on a Blue-jay plaster.

Blue-jay is the safe, gentle and sure way to remove a corn at home. Even the most obstinate corn seldom needs more than a second plaster. Standard for more than twenty-six years . . . May be had at all drug stores.

A NIGHT AT THE [illegible] HOUSE.

"That was the [illegible]ning, Judy, of the happiest few m[illegible] I have ever spent," said Joan Me[illegible] continuing her story. "As soon as th[illegible]argain was struck there were times [illegible]e we did not meet at The Circle a[illegible] except for Barry to hand in my [illegible] dollars of which I know now h[illegible] half.

"I found ev[illegible]ly that I was hopelessly in love [illegible] I thought he was as well.

"We stayed in separate rooms, of course, and, Judy, I was that innocent that when I went into my room and locked the door I thought I was perfectly safe.

"I drove home, let myself in with my night key, and thought I was perfectly safe.

"I knew that one of the chauffeurs would find my car in the driveway as they often did when I came home late at night and I thought nothing more about it, except to congratulate myself that I was safe.

"Weren't you, Joan? Surely Barry loved you."

She shook her head.

TOMORROW: Blackmail.

AN ENTERTAINING LAWN PARTY.

A most delightful way of entertaining summer guests is with a lawn party. It is also an inexpensive way to entertain, for no lights or decorations are needed. As the time is generally from four or five to seven, refreshments are the same as for an afternoon tea party.

There are a number of outdoor games including ring toss, dart throwing, archery and others that are sure to interest the participants. Then a large canvas tarpaulin may be staked down and make quite a good dancing floor. Here you can stage a Charleston contest. The usual camp chairs scattered about make the onlookers comfortable.

The usual tea table is centered on the grounds, though tea wagons are circulated among the guests seated about the play centers, so they do not have to leave the games to enjoy their refreshments. The more informal the affair can be made, the more enjoyable it is, especially if the garden is a large and attractive one.

Refreshments are rather an important part of such a function, and a wide scope is allowed in their selection. Tea may be hot, iced, in sherbet and jelly. Sandwiches may run the gamut of all varieties, but they must be well and attractively made and prettily garnished.

Cream frozen in individual molds will prove a boon for quick service.

Invitations need not be restricted on account of room, for there is plenty of it outdoors, so a party of this sort may pay off many obligations in a pleasant way.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads simply dissolve and disappear by this one simple, safe and sure method. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle it on a hot, wet cloth, rub the face briskly — every blackhead will be gone.

Smocking Gathers a Frock Together at Hip and Yoke Line

PARIS has invented many ways of softening the straight line, introducing fulness and yet retaining the neat look at hip and shoulder that belongs with the sports influence in dress. Smocking is one way and one of the best. It is highly decorative, produces a mosaic of lovely color and makes use of the hand-work which always gives a dress a certain refinement that is characteristically French. Frocks of this type are made by the Paris dressmakers in heavy Georgette, silk or cotton voile and crêpe de Chine in pastel or drages (sugared almond) colors. White, smocked in one color or several or keeping entirely to white, is smart.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

SCHOOL IS OUT.

Everything is up-side-down, in every house in every town. Things that make things look that way are things that make all mothers gray. Kids, of course, are runnin' loose, and mother figures, what's the use ta fret and fuss when things go wrong. They'd keep her at it all day long.

Childish voices loudly ring, 'cause youth, ya know, must have its fling. Doin' this, an' doin' that till neighbors don't know where they're at. Playin' tag, an' jumpin' rope. It ain't no use to ever hope ta quiet down a peppy child, when kids just dote on runnin' wild.

"Please be quiet," mom implores. Racin', tearin', slammin' doors. In the house a while, an' then, like a flash, outdoors again. Nothin' fer the tots ta do but run around an' ballyhoo. Can't ya guess ta hear them shout? Here's the answer—school is out!

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY JULY 1.

Although the dominant lunar transits for this day point to many substantial benefits and rewards for industry and application, yet the outstanding event may be of a sudden and disruptive nature. An occurrence of unconventional or radical character may be looked for, although it is well to bear in mind that it is necessary to tear down faulty structures before rebuilding upon such stable foundations as the trine of Luna to Saturn presages. Jupiter, the major benefic, also assists to progress and advancement.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of substantial benefits, with increase of substance and fulfilled ambitions following an event that may seem to be disintegrating. It may be, however, the effort of forces of construction clearing the way for permanent good fortune and reward for reliability and faithful service. A child born on this day may have stability and sterling qualities, despite tendencies to soar into unusual and original channels. It should be industrious and successful as well as adventurous and independent.

A very quiet wedding took pl[illegible] at half past seven o'clock this morning, at George street church, when Edith Lillian, daughter of Mrs. Jane M. SPLENDID TURKEYS

Owner of Fine Birds Claims Record—Talks of High Prices.

E. Kelk, R.R. No. 5, Peterborough, believes he has a turkey of the bronze variety which has established a record. It has laid sixty eggs and is still laying without showing any inclination to brood. He also has a young gobbler of the same variety one year old, which weighs twenty-five pounds.

He also stated that he had paid $2.65 for half an ounce of cauliflower seed, $8.00 a pound for onion seed, and tomato plants at eight dollars per thousand, cabbage plants $8.00 per thousand and cauliflower plants at $8.00 per thousand, showing the expenditure necessary to start a small garden.

ORPHNAGE SOCIAL MOST SUCCESSFUL

Splendid Crowd in Attendance and Much Interest Shown.

The lawn social held on the grounds of St. Vincent's Orphanage last evening, under the auspices of that institution, was one of the most successful in the history of the Orphanage. There was a splendid crowd in attendance, both for supper and for the evening programme, and a great deal of interest was manifested in the various booths and the fine collection of articles offered at the Country Store. A thriving business was done at each of the stands, and the fish pond and doll booth were well patronized by the younger members. The band of the Salvation Army played excellently, as usual, during the evening, their music adding much to the attraction of the affair, for which Mrs. John Lynch acted as general convenor.

The arrangements for a fine supper of home-made cooking were well looked after by the convenor, Miss Croft, assisted by ladies from the parishes of St. Peter's Cathedral and the Immaculate Conception Church, including Mesdames Flynn, Madden, Murphy, Mulcahy, Hummell and Dobbin, from the East City parish, and Mesdames Daly, McGarrell, Geary, McFadden, Murphy, Scott, Crowley, Fitzgerald, and the Misses Nevin and K. Allen, from St. Peter's Cathedral parish. The tables were prettily centered with large vases of flowers. Officiating at the gate were Messrs. W. Merrell, F. Fairen and F. J. McFadden. Mr. T. J. Brooks also assisted with the carving of meats for the supper.

The grounds were arranged with rows of overhead electric lights and the various booths were decorated with colored paper. Pennants were a bright note at the booth where ice cream, chocolate and peonies were sold, in charge of Mrs. J. Lynch, Mrs. M. LaPlante and Mrs. T. McQuillan. Mrs. Frank Daly had the tiny doll booth, with its gay arrangement of cherry and green hoops, and Miss Annie Simons did a rushing trade at the fish pond, assisted by the Misses Josie Lynch, Hannah Fraser and Agnes Burns.

The booth where candy, soft drinks and cigars were sold was in charge of the Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral, and was decorated prettily with the blue and white colors of the society, and bases of snowballs and pale pink peonies. Miss Eileen McCabe was in charge, assisted by the Misses Florence Murray, Mamie Archambault, Margaret O'Brien, Genevieve Murray, Mamie McCarthy, and Josephine Clancy.

The Country Store was a very popular centre all evening. It was in charge of Mrs. W. J. Young, Mrs. W. O'Brien and Mrs. M. J. Roche, and contained a quantity of pretty and other staples rugs, chinaware, dren's dresses, embroidered linens, comforters, blankets, bags of flour and other stples, rugs, chinaware and iced fruit cake. In the evening, the sale of the articles was supervised by Messrs. Thos. Turcotte, J. E. Sullivan and J. R. Corkery.

A few nights ago, as I sat in a movie theatre, laughing at some comic strips, I was reminded of some birds of which I will tell. Truth is stranger than comic strips.

These comic reels were about a guy who wanted to go to the South Sea Islands, where folks live on nothing and dress on twice that much. He rushed down to the dock but missed the last boat. He scratched his empty looking head, and appeared to get a good idea, for he rushed back off the dock and sat down behind the Life-saving Guards' tent. Well, presently some fair and foolish girl bather began to holler for help, and out rushed all the guards to see if she was good looking, and finding such to be the case, off they hastened to the rescue.

The moment all the guards were out of reach, our South Sea Island Dreamer slipped into the guard tent and donned a submarine diving suit. And out he came, all equipped, oxygen box on his back and all. He walked straight to the water, faced towards the south seas, and walked in. He walked up to his waist, up to his neck, over his head, and right on walking on the ocean tom until he arrived at what thought was a far off wild isl[illegible] When he walked up and up finally out of the water, he found that he had become twisted and walked up the intake pipe of city waterworks. He was arre[illegible] for walking on the bottom of city reservoir.

All this made me think of little bird called Water Ouzel. would naturally expect a water to be a duck or something like but this little fellow looks like a Robin. He is an expert diver or dipper. He has ordi[illegible] feet and how he managed to co[illegible] the swift waters of mou[illegible] streams is one of the riddles science cannot answer.

DON, June 30 (Canadian Cable).—Resulting in an in- encounter, but furnishing vidence that English cricket trong as ever it was, the Test match, played at passed into history yester- ning. Only the determined of C. G. Macartney, with the stubborn caution . Collins, saved the touring ans from what might have catastrophic defeat.

The Middlesex batsman, Hen- n, was in splendid form, and for first half hour Mr. Chapman tented himself with getting ac- inted with the Australian de- ies. He kept his own wicket up while Macartney got the runs. When the visiting captain was re- tired at 24 by Sutcliffe off Larwood, the game was as good as ended. T. J. E. Andrews took the bat but did not last long. The Australian cus- todian was only a little more suc- cessful than Andrews. He also was taken by Sutcliffe off Maurice Tate, and W. M. Woodfull was next man up. He provided the second zero of the innings when Root promptly snapped him off Woolley. The Australian wickets were rapidly crash- ing, but time was against England. Ryder came in only a few minutes before the close of the play, and had not begun to score when the game was called.

With five wickets gone, the Australians had notched up 194 runs, whereof Macartney had secured 133, leaving a margin of only 61 for the other six batsmen.

FIREMEN DEFEATED FOR SECOND TIME

Last night at Central Park the Triple Link defeated the Firemen 14 to 6. This defeat was the second loss of the Firemen this year to the Triple Link, which is the only team that has been unable to come out on the long end of the score after playing them. Dunkerley for the Firemen was not as good as usual, being rather wild at times, and the team in the field by no means gave him good support. Munroe for the Triple Link knocked a home run in the second, with two on bases. The second innings saw the bad break for the Firemen in which the winners ran in nine runs. Chief Gimblett knocked what was supposed to be a home run, in the seventh, but he was caught on coming home. The team play and fielding of the winners could not have been better, as they gave their pitcher good support. The box score:

Famous Bennies Help Bring Another Title To Michigan

You heard a great deal of that famous "Bennie to Bennie" forward passing combination on the football field last fall. It had much to do with Michigan's phenomenal success in the gridiron sport at the time. Friedman and Oosterbaan — they were big cogs, indeed!

In baseball, during the season just closed, the two Bennies again played a leading part in the Wolverines' advance to the Big Ten title. Friedman cavorted at third in many of the games, while Oosterbaan held down an outfield job.

Friedman and Oosterbaan form a great pair and should be heard from again when football activities get under way next fall.

W. J. Nelson Berates Simple Susie

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—In reply to simple sarcastic Susie, whoever she or he may be, I may state that the remarks published over that name, personal and otherwise, were of an insulting nature and very discouraging to the girls who are endeavouring by their clean sporting actions and ladylike manners in the field of sport, to try and place the popular game of softball in this city on as high a pinnacle as it is in the city of Toronto and other places, and judging by the satisfied crowds that have attended our games so far this season we are meeting with a fair amount of success.

"Respectfully" Dressed

In the matter of dress our girls are respectfully dressed on the field and far more decent than many on the streets.

A game is not very silly that will attract 10,000 people such as softball does in Toronto and at each of our games in Peterboro we had more than a thousand and in a crowd such as that you are almost certain to get one simp or knocker who would be better away and as "Simple Susie" has no sense of clean sport and was dissatisfied I would gladly return the money "it" paid for admission if he or she will apply to me. I shall be looking for a simple Susie" on the circus and if there should be one I can venture to say it would only be on the antics that the clowns performed for the rest of the performance would be too serious for her or his simple mind.

W. J. NELSON,
President of the C.G.E. Ladies' Softball Club.

SECOND BATTLE TO CRESCENTS

Southenders Get Runs in Bunches and Win by Score of 4 to 4.

SOME HARD HITTING

Crescents evened the count with Raybestos in the city Intermediate series at Exhibition Park last evening by taking the second game by the score of 8 to 4. Although played on a muddy field the contest was always a battle and the big crowd of fans witnessed some interesting baseball. Crescents stole the brakeliners' thunder of the opening game a week ago by taking a commanding lead in the first frame, and with Casey Masterson showing plenty of stuff on the hurling heap, held their opponents at a respectful distance. Crescents pulled away for keeps in the fourth when a pass to Hall opened the gate for another quartet of runners to get home. Masterson started another rally in the fifth which he opened with the only three-base clout of the evening but Maudsley tightened up and retired the next three in order, two of them by strike outs.

Raybestos passed up their best chance to get some runs in the third, when O. Nicholls and Wood singled, and Maudsley was passed. It was a glorious opportunity but Cameron's best was a tap to the pitcher who retired Nicholls at the plate. LeBarr fanned, and on Rogers' hit into left, Maudsley was caught at the plate on the return peg by Corbett via Scully.

LEAGUE MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Programme of Zion Church Branch is of Patriotic Nature.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 30.—About sixty attended League service at Zion on Thursday evening last. The programme was in charge of Miss Jennie Fry, convener of the social department and was of a patriotic nature throughout in recognition of approaching Dominion Day. An interesting talk was given by Earl Fairman on the growth and development of the British Empire.

Before the service the usual softball game was played, the contending teams being the Reds and Khaki, the final score being 12 to 10 in favor of the latter team. The Reds were somewhat short handed and with the addition of three Whites put up a strong bid for a win. G. Kerr was the batting hero, with two homers and a triple in four trips. Rev. Daniel and H. Petherick also got homers. The Khaki pulled a a snappy double play in the fifth, Daniel to Johnson to Petherick.

The teams were as follows:

Reds—G. Kerr, c, p; A. Watson, ss; E. Fairman, p, c; G. Brunton, F. Fry, 2b; Fred Barnum, 1b; G. Meiklejohn, 1b; J. Milne, lf; Allan Simpson, cf; Don Kerr, rf.

Mr. Garnet Kerr, a prominent cattle breeder of this district, exhibited some nineteen head of his choice Jerseys at the annual spring show at Ormstown, Quebec, during the second week of June. The prize winning lists show that he won first place in almost every class in which he exhibited. This is a decided boost for Seymour Jerseys at Eastern Ontario and Quebec have some noted Jersey herds. Mr. Kerr won several premier awards at Brockville show last year so that these attempts will encourage him to try other fields.

HOLIDAY GAME.

An attraction for stay-at-homes will be staged in Riverside Park on Thursday at 6 p.m., when Lakefield will be pitted against Kiwanis in a Juvenile League game. Drs. Gibson and Smith have gathered together a good bunch of ball players in Lakefield and a hard game is expected.

TORONTO FALLS BEFORE BUFFALO

Victory in Ninth Gives Herd Third Win in Series.

HARD GAME

BUFFALO, June 30 (Canadian Press).—For the third time in the preesnt series Buffalo defeated Toronto, yesterday's score being the closest played, 4 to 3. It was a very tight game, the victor being undecided until the ninth inning was over for the Maple Leafs. Toronto outhit Buffalo, but the safeties for the most part did not come at the right time to score tallies. Both backstops, Lake and Styles, hit over the fence to make the journey alone. With two down in the ninth, Carlyle, batting for Stewart, raised the Leafs' hopes with a two-bagger, but Gilhooley popped to Webb to end the conflict. The score:

Toronto . . . . . 002000100—3 11 1
Buffalo. . . . . 00102010x—4 7 1

Stewart and Styles; Lucey and Lake.

Feeble Pitching.

SYRACUSE, June 30 (Canadian Press).—Feeble pitching and heavy hitting and sloppy fielding stood out yesterday in both line-ups as Rochester beat the Stars, 13 to 9, to gain the edge on the series at 2 to 1. The score:

Rochester . . . . . 300620002—13 15 3
Syracuse . . . . . 520200000— 9 15 4

Moore, Mitchell, Horne and Devine; Grabowski, Niehaus, Haid, Boyd and Niebergall.

Baltimore . . . . . 100200131—8 14 0

Jersey City . . . . . 00010022—5 8 1

AMERICAN TENNIS CONTINGENT PLAYERS REACH SEMI-FINALS

Suzanne Le[illegible]n Has Withdrawn Entirely From Wimbledon.

ILL WITH NEURITIS

Yesterday's Play in Tournament of World High Class.

WIMBLEDON, June 30.—(Canadian Press).—The Wimbledon tennis tournament had to get along yesterday without Suzanne Lenglen, for early in the morning it was announced that Suzanne had withdrawn from the tournament entirely, with neuritis causing much pain.

Without the zest which Suzanne's paricipation always gives tennis contests, Wimbledon doings morning and afternoon seemed rather prosaic, although some high class tennis was staged. Howard Kinsey and Miss Mary Browne advanced to the fourth round by winning from C. Eames and Mrs. Geraldine Beamish in a pretty 6-5, 7-5 affair.

This was a great day for the United States contingent, for its contestants went into the semi-finals in every class except the mixed doubles, which is still in the early rounds. Mrs. Molla Mallory met the Dutch champion, Miss K. Bouman, in a match, the first two sets of which were fiercely contested. Mrs. Mallory, however, won the third set quite easily. The score was 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey defeated Crole-Reese and C. H. Kinsey, the English pair, in the men's doubles, 7-5, 3-6, 13-11, 7-5, while Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Mary Browne won the honors in the doubles with a victory over Mrs. Lambert and Miss Harvey 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Kinsey was already in the semi-finals of the men's singles.

Henri Cochet and Mlle. Vlasto went into the third round of the mixed doubles by defeating the Dutch pair, H. Timmer and Miss Bouman. Cochet and Brugnon reached the fourth round in the men's doubles by defeating Kozeluh and Zemla.

SLOW GREENS HELP U.S. GOLFERS TO WIN

LONDON, June 30.—Walter Hagen's opinion of what is the trouble with British golf, as printed in the Evening News, has resulted in a mild storm of disagreement among the players who participated in the recent tournaments.

Many of the British players disagreed with Hagen's assertion that young British players are too "gosh darn lazy", while others feel that by the time the open championship comes around they have been worn out by preceding tournaments.

Ted Ray, well-known British professional, disagreed as to Hagen's suggestion that British golfers are not good match players.

"Why, we beat the Americans at Wentworth in the Samuel Rider cup, in the singles and the foursomes," Ray said. "British courses have suited the Americans this year. The green have been very slow, and we British professionals are accustomed to fast greens in the summer. As to being lazy, well there are a lot of big tournaments just before the championship, and we have not got much time for practice."

Audrey Boomer, winner of the Daily Mail tournament, who fell far behind in the open championship, said that it was difficult to keep up form for two months a task that most British players have to face.

"Had some of us entered in the bigger tournaments before St. Anne's, there might have been a different story at the open," he declared.

George Duncan was of the opinion that the open championship was held too late, and that it might be better be played in May, "when we British players are fresh and our nerves have not become ragged through playing in so many important tournaments before the open." The British players were all worn out before the open, and their form was too bad to be true, he concluded.

The golfing experts on the Evening News, however, believe that British amateur and professional players are using wrong methods, and that American form in handling clubs is well worth watching.

DE LAVAL DEFEATED MASSEYS 4 TO 3

Winners Scored Four Goals in Fifteen Minutes After Three Down.

Fifteen minutes from the final whistle of the Masseys versus De-Laval league game last evening at King Edward Park, the former were leading by three clear goals against their opponents. All within that time the DeLaval scored four goals to defeat them and win a brace of points; also leaving the Phelan Cup holders in the cellar position in the league table, in an interesting tussle before a good attendance of spectators.

First Half.

Both elevens started minus players at 6.45 for a seventy minute battle. Most prominent in tactics was Beggs, at inside left for the Masseys, who initiated two nice movements on the left, but Lindsay nullified his progress. At the other end Hanson took advantage of a player falling, to work inside, and skim the cross-bar with his parting shot. Both goals went under bombardment until Masseys bore down on Jones' charge, who threw himself on the ball to throw it clear. A few minutes later James hit the cross-bar Jones saving in a peculiar fashion as the ball dropped outside the goal-line. This was followed up later by Foster on the left wing with a low ground shot that slipped through De Laval's custodian's hands. Just before half-time De Laval pressed against Massey goal but were erratic in shooting. Half-time, Masseys 1, De Laval 0.

Half-Time.

On resuming, De Laval opened up an aggressive campaign against Massey's defense that replied with a long punt up-field which brought two goals rapidly from the foot of Foster and James, thus making it three up in their favor. De Laval then scored through Dyer from a penalty kick. The game was stopped a few minutes when Montgomery had to receive attention to his fingers, as the result of trying to grab the ball. A break-away by Hanson terminated in Frank Dyer beating the goal-keeper with a low rocket drive, making it 3 to 2. De Laval came back to even up the score as Dyer completed the "hat trick." To be three goals down after the re-start was converted into a great win when Hanson, from the wing, lobbed the fourth goal past Montgomery, with only five minutes to go from the finish. De Laval 4, Masseys 3.

Goal scorers:

De Laval—Dyer 3, and Hanson 1.

Masseys—Foster 2, and James 1.

The Keene baseball club, who are now leading the rural section of the E.P.B.L. will visit Exhibition Park Friday evening to meet the Cogs in what promises to be a real battle. The Otonabee nine are going great guns this season and the Cogs will have to step to stay in the running. A large crowd should turn out on Friday and help the locals win.

MALONE BOYS WARDS OF HOME

Catholic Emigration Association Brought Drowned Boy From England.

NOT BARNARDO BOYS

The following letter is from the Catholic Emigration Society, guards of Patrick Malone, who was drowned recently:

Please permit me to point out an error in your paper re the death of this boy. Patrick belongs to our Association and was a ward of ours at the time of his death. His brother, John, with Mr. John Ryan, Douro, is also a ward of this Association. Both boys were born in England. I shall be glad if you correct this. These do not belong to Barnardo Homes, but to the above.

NO LOVE LOST BETWEEN PONIES AND PETERBORO

To-morrow Morning's Game With Kingston Will Be Battle.

PETES NEED A WIN.

While Joe Daley Dearly Loves To Take a Fall Out of Us.

Everything is set for the Ponies-Petes clash in the Central Ontario League series at Riverside Park to-morrow morning and the holiday crowd should see a real snappy battle between two teams who are keen to beat each other. The Ponies have had all the best of the argument so far but that doesn't matter to Joe Daley and his men, who are just as anxious to down the Petes tomorrow as if his crew hadn't won a game from the Johnstonites this season. On the other hand the Petes need a win in the worst way and even if they didn't they would rather beat the Ponies than win the pennant. It will be a scrap all the way and should provide plenty of excitement as a Dominion Day feature.

The game will get under way at 10.30 o'clock sharp with Alex Kay and Edgar Lebarr in charge.

Detour May Be Necessary On Highway Near Bailieboro

When the Dufferin Construction Company commenced operations on the Provincial Highway between Frazerville and Bailieboro it promised the president of the local branch of the Motor League, A. W. Blade, that if the motoring public would be careful and drive slowly through the part of the road under construction, there would be no necessity for a detour.

The Construction Company has lived up to its end of the agreement but the motorists have not. Several of the workmen have had very close escapes from being run over by speeding motorists, who thought the only thing they had to do was to blow their horns and the workmen would step out of the way, but the men are not able to hear the horn on account of the noise of the machinery.

The company has notified the president of the Motor League that unless those driving cars are more careful in their driving on this section of the road, it will have to be closed to traffic.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

THRILLS ABOUND IN WESTERN ROMANCE STARRING TOM MIX

Surrounded by an excellent cast and supplied with one of the most thrilling stories of the West ever brought to the silversheet, Tom Mix, as Jeff Boyden, gives a remarkably fine performance in "Hard Boiled," Fox Films version of Shannon Fife's romantic tale of a dude ranch which comes to the Regent Theatre next Thursday for a 3 day run.

In this, his latest release, the great Western ace finds upon leaving his comfortable home in Chicago, that crooks are crooks—no matter where they are encountered.

In this particular case, the bad men are New York gun artists, headed by one Diamond Sadie, and they are bent upon mischief in the Far West.

In the course of the action Tom encountered them planning a little haul, which if successful, would bring to their strong boxes some of the most desirable jewels in the safe at the famous Boiling Springs, where Abigail Gregg rules with an iron hand.

Just how Tom and Tony, working with "Spec" O'Donnell and a homely little dog, enlist the interest of the beautiful Marjorie Gregg, engineer a startling rescue, and land the culprits behind the bars, develop into a western release of rare beauty and dramatic action.

Helene Chadwick, seen as Marjorie Gregg, is said to do the finest work in her screen career.

AT THE CAPITOL.

DENNY, A VERSATILE SPORTSMAN WINS LAURELS IN TERPISCHORE TOO

Athlete, yatchsman, hunter, automobile racer, aviator and all-round sportsman are a few of the avocations of Reginald Denny. His fame as an outdoor and sports enthusiast has reached every corner of the world.

Now he has added new laurels to his already formidable list of accomplishments. When William A. Seiter, noted director ,sought for a suitable dance, which was necessary in an important sequence in "Skinner's Dress Suit,' the new Universal-Jewel, which will come to the Capitol Theatre, starting tomorrow, everyone was stumped.

Various suggestions were made and rejected on account of their not being feasible. All sorts of dances were mentioned and a hundred different titles were submitted.

After everyone had had his say, Denny spoke up. As the star of "Skinner's Dress Suit," naturally any suggestion made by him would at least have a hearing. And then he sprung his surprise .

He produced the lyrics of a song

DRAYTON TABLES EXTRA ESTIMATES

Exactly as Prepared By For- mer Government, He Tells House.

OTTAWA, June 30 (Canadian Press) — The supplementary esti- mates for the present fiscal year amounting to $8,005,893 were tabled in the House of Commons this after- noon by Sir Henry Drayton, acting government leader. Further supple- mentary estimates for the past fiscal year (1926-26) totalling $2,727,876, were also tabled. These provide for the governor general's warrant for 1925-26, amounting to $731,726, and $1,995,649 for unprovided items, 1924-25. Sir Henry Drayton, in tabling the estimates, announced that they were exactly as prepared by the former Government.

Sir Henry then gave notice of motion to go into committee of Ways and Means and M. N. Camp- bell, Progressive, MacKenzie, rose with an amendment. Speaker Le- mieux promptly ruled Mr. Campbell out of order, pointing out that there was not a motion to go into com- mittee of ways and means before the house. It was merely a notice of motion. Mr. Campbell, he said, would have an opportunity to make his motion later.

Sir Henry Drayton, acting Gov- ernment leader, announced that the House would sit on Dominion Day.

Third reading was given to a bill providing for the loan of $12,000,000 to the Montreal Board of Harbor Commissioners.

INSPIRING SERMON

HAVELOCK, June 30. — The Havelock Lodge A. F. and A. M. No. 435 G.R.C., held its annual church parade to Knox Church on Sunday evening, June 27. Rev. P. W. MacInnes, minister in charge, conducted the service and delivered a very interesting and also fitting message, the subject being "Silent Builders," based on First Kings 6, verse 7: "And the House, when it was in building, was built of stone made ready before it was brought hither; so that there was neither hammer nor axe nor any tool of iron heard in the house while it was in building." In opening his discourse Mr. MacInnes said he felt honored to take the service in the Havelock Lodge on this occasion. Masonry, he said, is associated with what the church stands for. Faith, Hope and Charity are mountained peaks and grand ideals which every Mason as- pires to. Masonry has always stood for the highest and best in every community and in every part of the world you will find a Masonic Lodge. Freemasonry dates back to the building of Soloman's Temple, which was begun in 1011 B.C. A strong fraternity existed at that time among the workers. All those en- gaged in the work of erecting the temple were free from taxes and that is the origin of the name Free Ma- sons. The temple was built silently, and the lesson that may be learned to-day from the story is that we are all silent builders building for good or evil, building by every action, every word, every smile and frown and building for eternity. To build properly we must have a sure found- ation and if we build upon the sacred law, cherishing the Word of God in our lives and conduct, we shall have a holy, four square, grand edifice. The temple went up with prepared material, and we are also building with prepared material. Symbols, Holy landmarks achievements and failures of the ancient brethren of the Old Testmament will help us to get a wise building. I ask to- night, he continued, for wise, care- ful builders. Someday our work shall be tested before the Steward of the universe. If we build upon the sure foundation, the volume of Sacred Law, with Christ as the chief corner stone when we pass home we shall hear "Well done, good and faithful servant. In conclusion, may we all at this moment search our lives and with prayer, faith and de- termination make up our minds to build wisely and carefully for eter- nity.

DRAYTON TABLES EXTRA ESTIMATES

Exactly as Prepared By Former Government, He Tells House.

OTTAWA, June 30 (Canadian Press) — The supplementary esti- mates for the present fiscal year amounting to $8,005,803 were tabled in the House of Commons this after- noon by Sir Henry Drayton, acting government leader. Further supple- mentary estimates for the past fiscal year (1926-26) totalling $2,727,376, were also tabled. These provide for the governor general's warrant for 1925-26, amounting to $731,726, and $1,995,649 for unprovided items, 1924-25. Sir Henry Drayton, in tabling the estimates, announced that they were exactly as prepared by the former Government.

Sir Henry then gave notice of motion to go into committee of Ways and Means and M. N. Camp- bell, Progressive, MacKenzie, rose with an amendment. Speaker Le- mieux promptly ruled Mr. Campbell out of order, pointing out that there was not a motion to go into com- mittee of ways and means before the house. It was merely a notice of motion. Mr. Campbell, he said, would have an opportunity to make his motion later.

Sir Henry Drayton, acting Gov- ernment leader, announced that the House would sit on Dominion Day.

Third reading was given to a bill providing for the loan of $12,000,000 to the Montreal Board of Harbor Commissioners.

ign Government Defeated Wat Of Confidence Motion y Sigle Vote Cast In Error

W. Bird Progresve, Nelson, Announces, After Result Is Announced That He Voted Against Government, Although Paired With D. M. Kennedy.

KER RULES RESULT MUST STAND AS CHAIR DOES NOT RECOGNIZE PAIRS

Declares Actig Ministers Cannot Sit in House—Demonium When Vote Is Announced—King Asks If Goernment Will Resign.

OTTAWA, July 2 (Canadian Press).—By a single vote, and ast in error, the Meighen Government went down to defeat House of Common, shortly after two o'clock this morning. vote recorded in a slim House was 96 to 95. Immediately the result had been announced, T. W. Bird (Progressive, ison, Man.) rose and announced "with extreme regret," that had voted, although paired with D. M. Kennedy (Progressive, Pe e River).

r. Speaker Lemieux in- d Mr. Bird and the House he vote having been re- and the result an- ced, he must accept it as The Chair took no of- cognizance of pairs, he motion before the House, by Hon. J. A. Robb and sec- by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, d that the actions in the of the acting cabinet minis- were a violation and an infring- of the privileges of the Com- ons. It declared that the ating ters had no right to sit in the use and should have vacated their ats if they held office legally as administrators of the various depart- ts assigned to them If they did hold such offices legally they no right to control the business the Government and ask for pply.

Announcement of the result of the e, followed closely by Mr. Bird's tement, created a pandemonium the Chamber. In the midst of ir Henry Drayton, acting leader the House, moved adjournment. e was necessary for considera- of the situation which had de- d as the result of an "accident" tated.

Amid great applause from the Lib- al benches, the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King said that in view of the evening's vote, he would assume that Premier Meighen would advise the Governor-General that "this government has no right to exist."

Henry retorted that the pre- vote of censure on the Liberal ion gave the Government a ity of ten. If Mr. Meighen upon the Governor-General ld point out that the Govern- as nine votes to the good.

Speaker was on his feet, try- make himself heard aboove to ask if the House would ir Henry's motion for ad- ment. Members in all parts of Chamber were on their feet, shouting and others throwing per into the air. At last Mr. succeeded in raising his bove the din and put the for adjournment.

"C ried," should ex-Prem Mackenzie King. The Deputy S geant-at-Arms, who had been w some time until the hubl subsided, picked up the ace escorted the Speake from the Ch ber. For som minutes the g hall reso ded with cheering and ulations of Liberal meml ixed in groups to discuss he close of the day's busine King said that the present ation "cannot extend to ency their full confidence o not explain to His Excell whole situation that exists arliament at this moment the subterfuge to which they are oming in attempting to carry the business of this country and p ending to carry it on," as pri councillors sworn by solemn oat to protect the crown, it was the bu ness of the present administrati "to prevent the crown and its presentatives in this country fro being put in a false position befo the people of Canada."

If confidence did not exist, H inistration the ntlemen opposite Excellency could "dismiss" the pre ere doing the most by every ent administration, said Mr. King eans in their to obstruct and "Without hesitation, I say," he co barrass th ument. The at- tinued, "that if these gentlemen co tude of Si Macdonald, he tinue longer in office after all tha ded, w one. The at- ns been said with respect to the tude Liberal leader present position. His Excellency be expected duty is to dismiss these ministers that Mr. King and to find somebody who will take abruptly, even the responsibility for it."

The present administration should eighen in con- inform His Excellency of the real ernor-General situation before it was too late.

Prevent a Rebellion

"What are you going to do, start a rebellion?" asked D. M. Sutherland (Conservative, North Oxford).

"I want to prevent a rebellion," retorted Mr. King.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George) rose to a point of order. Any honorable member of the House, he declared, had the right to state his question of privilege. Having stated his question of privilege he could not proceed to carry on a debate without making a motion thereby presenting a clear issue for discussion. This had not been done.

Question of Privilege.

Hon. Lucien Cannon said the question before the House was a most important one, and the point of order was not well taken. "There need not be a motion," he declared. The question of privilege under discussion was one which interested every member, and every member had a right to speak to it. If any member decided to move a motion he would do so when he had so decided.

Speaker's Ruling

The Speaker ruled that on a question of privilege which effects all members of the House, any member has a right to speak but that, after the question has been stated and a reply given, he did not seen why the debate should be unduly extended unless the issue raised in the question of privilege be put into concrete form in a motion to the House.

Mr. King reiterated that the present cabinet should not be allowed to function until its various members had gone before their constituencies for re-election.

Hon. R. J. Manion, acting minister of immigration said that for over two hours yesterday and an hour today the party on his side of the House had listened to a "tirade of abuse" from the leader of the Opposition. Mr. King at once demanded that this be retracted, adding "that is what we can expect of him." The Speaker ruled that "tirade of abuse" was too strong, and Dr. Manion withdrew it.

Threat to Progressives

Referring to the claim of the leader of the Opposition that the present Government was holding as a threat over the Progressives that in case of Government defeat there would be an election, Dr. Manion declared that on every occasion during the present session that the former Government was in danger the then Prime Minister threatened an election.

Pacific Scandal

Dr. Manion referred to the situation at the time of the "Pacific scandal," when Sir John Macdonald, then Prime Minister, announced to the House that as he found that his Government would not have a working majority in the House, his Government had presented its resignation, but that it was the bounden duty of the expiring administration to see that everything was done in the meantime in order that the incoming administration might not be embarrassed. How different, he said, was the attitude of the late Liberal Government. Instead of trying not to embarrass the new temporary administration the gentlemen opposite said Dr. Manion, amid an uproar. When quiet was restored, Mr. King demanded that this statement be withdrawn. "I say the statement that any of my remarks were veiled attacks on the Governor-General is absolutely unfounded, unparliamentary and should be retracted."

Again there was shouting across chamber such as "withdraw" and "shut up."

Dr. Manion withdrew the statement and continued that those who served under that gentleman, and there were twenty of them on that side of the House, wanted to defend Baron Byng At this juncture exception was taken to bringing the name of the Governor-General into the debate and the Speaker again ruled that the name of the King or the Governor-General should not be introduced to influence the opinion of Parliament, except where ministers were assuming responsibility for the action of the crown.

"I do not wish" said Dr. Manion, "to refer further to His Excellency, except to say that on this Dominion Day it is unfortunate that we cannot be permitted to pay compliments to him."

Precedents Cited

Dr. Manion proceeded to read sixteen cases in which he said the crown had on former occasions refused to grant dissolution to governments.

"The whole speeches of the Liberal leader last night and this afternoon have been veiled attacks on the Governor-General of this country," said Dr. Manion, amid an uproar. When quiet was restored, Mr. King demanded that this statement be withdrawn. TO INVESTIGATE STORY TOLD BY MRS. M'PHERSON

County Grand Jury To Probe Tale of Kidnapping Letter Altered.

TO COVER DATE.

Mayor of Agna Prieta Says Tracks Indicated Arrival in Car.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 2 (Canadian Press).—A county grand jury investigation of her kidnapping story instead of the wildly demonstrative throng of 50,000 persons that greeted her a week ago, waits Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Ingersoll, Ontario, evangelist, and pastor of the Angelus Temple, on her return here to-day from Douglas, Arizona, according to William H. Carter, foreman of the jury.

The crux in the evangelist's mysterious case was reached yesterday when post office inspectors revealed that a letter carrying what was designed to be subtantial proof that the pastor was still alive, had been tampered with in an apparent attempt to cover up the fact that the communication was delivered before and not after thousands of dollars in donations and pledges had been made at a memorial service for the then missing religious leader. The Angelus Temple congregation still thought at the time of the service that their leader had gone to her death on May 18.

Came in Car.

TUSCAN, Arizona, July 2 (Canadian Press)—Ernest Boubion, Mayor of Agua Prieta, in a statement printed by the Arizona Daily Star here to-day, tells of his investigation of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson's story of her kidnapping after she appeared at his town.

Boubion was one of the first to talk to the Los Angeles evangelist and aided her to reach Douglas, Arizona, where her identity was established. He said the track in the desert indicated Mrs. McPherson had alighted from an automobile a short distance from Agua Prieta and walked into town.

Tourists Must Play "Duke Of York" Until Trent Waterway Is Completed

"Up the Hill and Down Again," or, "In a Cul-de-sac—A Play Enacted Every Summer.

Why is Peterboro at a stand still? There must be a cause. What is it? This city occupies a central position in Canada with railways radiating in all directions and possesses great natural advantages for manufacturing and distributing products and yet we now find our population is not increasing but our tax bills are. What is the cause?

During this last ten years the Dominion Government has collected in taxes from the Port of Peterboro alone, on an average over one million dollars a year. Just think of it, over one million dollars a year paid into the Federal Treasury from this city and county, and all we have to show for it is nothing but repairs and maintenance employees paid to collect revenue and stewards to look after government repairs maintenance and operations.

Trent Canal and Its Merits

But what is the remedy? There are two things that demand immediate attention. Finish the Trent Canal and develop our own waterpowers. There has been $18,000,000.00 already invested in the Trent Canal and until is is completed it is a national waste and a reproach to our public men. The late lamented Robert Stuart told me repeatedly and so has his fellow directors that his company would put on a fleet of barges to carry grain from Georgian Bay ports to Peterboro and the finished product to Montreal when the Trent Canal is completed. Return cargoes would be carried and cheap freight rates to this city would be the result.

Look what this city has lost and is losing through not being connected with an inland shore line of over three thousand miles with passing and repassing boats to carry products of all kinds, collect farm products from farmers on its lengthy shore line and at the same time give pleasure and delight to ourselves and to strangers within and without our gates.

The Tourist and His Joys and Laughs

As an attraction to tourists, the Canal is a cul-de-sac until it is completed. The visitor in his yacht from the Thousand Islands, is not going to "march up the hill and then march down again." He wants to go on and make the round trip through Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, pass Detroit go through Lake Erie, Welland Canal, Lake Ontario and home again to his Thousand Islands. It may be when the visitor sees the shores upon which Samuel de Champlain stood over three hundred years ago, he will retrace his journey and follow the track of the great explorer.

We do not sufficiently advertise but we greatly despise the wonderful beauties of the Kawartha Lakes. The trip from the Bay of Quinte to Georgian Bay, in the mind of the foreign tourist, would be like cold waters to a thirsy soul. He would return and yet again. He would bring others with him. He would treasure its glorious beauties up in rhyme and sing them to others in foreign climes.

He would have many a side-splitting laugh when he passes Peterboro. He would see a city "sipped" on Hydro. He would see a city paying $26.35 per horsepower to the Hydro-god brought from afar, when at half the cost, it could be furnished with more power from water powers at its very door. He would exclaim, "I know the lesse Indian threw a "pearl away richer than all his tribe but I never thought I could find a "city in these modern times that would throw its birth right away—worth "fifty thousand tons of coal a year. I must bring, next year, all my "friends to see this wonderful hypnotizing curiosity."

"O wad some Power the giftie gie us,
To see ourscls as ithers see us!
It wad frae mony a blunder free us,
An' foolish notion;
What airs in dress an' gait wad lea'e us
An' ev'n devotion!"

Peterborough Youth At Caledonian Picnic Drowned In Otonabee

William McPhate (19) Stepped Off Ledge While Bathing at Wallace's Point and Perished Despite John Smith's Gallant Attempt at Rescue—Ted Bradshaw Recovers the Body.

VICTIM'S FATHER WAS IN PORT HOPE PLAYING WITH PETERBORO RANGERS' BAND

William McPhate, 19 years of age, of Sherbrooke Street, was drowned in the Otonabee River yesterday shortly after noon. He went to Wallace's Point with the Caledonian Club picnic party of eighty, and had been swimming about forty minutes when the tragedy occurred.

John Smith, about the same age, who resides at 305 Park Street, was also swimming, and made a gallant attempt to rescue his companion, eyewitnesses say. The youths had been disporting themselves near the shore, where the water is shallow. Suddenly, McPhate, who had strayed out some distance, apparently stepped off the ledge into deep water, sinking without a sound. Smith rushed to his assistance, and succeeded in grasping an arm, but was nearly dragged down. Then he grasped a foot of the drowning youth, but could not drag him ashore. When Smith finally gave up his heroic endeavors he was compelled to rest during the remainder of the afternoon.

Dr. A. L. Russell of Bailieboro, who was quickly in attendance after the body had been recovered by Ted Bradshaw of Peterborough, expressed the opinion that death was due to heart failure, though it might possibly have followed cramp caused by the sudden plunge into the colder water in the deep part of the river. The pulmotor was rushed to the scene from Peterborough, but on the doctor's pronouncement that heart action had stopped, it was useless to attempt resuscitation

McPhate's father was at Port Hope, playing with the Peterborough Rangers' band yesterday, and rushed home by car on learning of the tragedy. Tom, a brother of the victim, who plays on the Thistle football team, broke the news to his mother, who was in the city.

County Constable Frank Pratt took charge of the body and made a report to Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, who gave permission for the removal of the body. It is not probable that there will be an inquest.

"Chaotic Condition Into Which Public Affairs Have Been Drifting, Warrants Election," Says Meighen—Much Legislation Is Lost By Dissolution.

STORM OF OPENING DAY LAST FALL PRESAGED MANY SERIOUS CLASHES

Earliest Date Possible For General Election is August 17 Meighen To Form Cabinet in Meantime and Governor General To Issue Warrant For Supply.

OTTAWA, July 2 (Canadian Press).—Premier Meighen, in a statement issued this afternoon said he would complete the organization of his Cabinet after which the date of the general election would be announced. The dissolution of parliament caught the members by surprise. Through the day there had been rumors that dissolution was imminent, but it was not expected that the end would come before the remaining business of the House had been disposed of.

Mr. Meighen's statement reviews the events leading up to dissolution of Parliament and declares that the "Chaotic condition into which public affairs have been drifting" necessitated an early appeal to the electorate.

As the situation stands, only one-quarter of the supply has been voted and this expired on June 30. As Parliament is, however, no longer in session, His Excellency can by warrant authorize necessary appropriations and this course, no doubt, will be followed.

Legislation Lost

At the same time, considerable legislation goes by the board. This includes some legislation which has already passed both houses, but has not received the royal assent. As the Royal assent cannot be given except in the presence of both Houses of Parliament, such legislation cannot now go on the statute books. The Rural Credits Bill is such a measure. It has not received the royal assent. Other measures also go by the board. There is the Campbell Bill to empower grain growers to ship their grain to which terminal elevator they choose; the bill providing for the revaluation of Soldier Settlers' lands; a resolution on the transfer of Alberta natural resources; a bill to amend the Civil Service Superannuation Act of 1924, and a bill to authorize advances to settlers on crown lands.

Shortest Parliament

Dissolution brings to an end the shortest and most dramatic of Canada's fifteen parliaments. It is the only parliament of but one session.

Canada's second session of 1875 consisted in all of only 97 days, or 15 days less than the present Parliament, but the second Parliament had two sessions in one year, while the present Parlament has had one session only.

Canada has never before had such a Parliament as the one which ceased to exist to-day. Its composition, with the Progressives holding the balance of power between the two old-time parties, led to crisis after crisis. For the first time in the history of Canada it saw one Government resign, another take its place, and within three days go down to defeat.

Water Wagon Driver Drunk, Sings Sweetly

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 2.—(Associated Press.)— The driver of a water wagon was convicted of drunkenness in East Cambridge Court today.

James Rosa, of Cambridge, was the defendant,

Policemen of Station No. 2 said they heard a mellifluous tenor voice raised in operatic selections on Saturday and traced the strains to Rosa, who occupied the driver's seat of a city sprinkling cart,

The officers said Rosa was drunw and the Court agreed. The case was filed.

BIBLE CLASS SOCIAL.

Cheerful Workers Gather at Home of Mrs. T. Byers.

The Cheerful Workers' Bible Class spent a very pleasant evening on June 29th, at the home of Mrs. T. Byers, 494 Patterson street. The following programme was much enjoyed: Instrumental duet by Mrs. H. Welbourn and Miss Greta Welbourn, readings by Mrs. English and Miss Jean Hamilton, piano solos by Miss Marguerite Rome and Miss Dorothy Swanger, and a vocal solo by Mrs. William McLaren. An interesting contest also added to the attraction of the programme, after which dainty refreshments were served, and the evening wound up with the passing of a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess and the singing of the National Anthem.

London Standard Says Sympathy Felt For Governor General.

AWKWARD POSITION.

Public Approval or Disapproval Will Settle Whether Decision Was Right.

LONDON, July 2. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Evening Standard of yesterday says editorially that a great deal of sympathy will naturally be felt for Baron Byng, having to face the awkward decision of granting or refusing dissolution at the request of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King.

The Standard continues that a search of precedents in British politics during the last century produces a barren result. One faint parallel of Lord Byng's action was in 1858, when Lord Derby, then Prime Minister, asked Queen Victoria's leave to say in advance that if a certain measure was defeated he had a dissolution order in his pocket. The Queen refused this permission, and was told by Lord Aberdeen that she had done right in doing so. But if Lord Derby was defeated, and had then asked dissolution, Queen Victoria doubtless would have granted it.

It will be seen that this precedent carries us nowhere, the Standard adds, though it has been suggested that Lord Byng's justification lay in the fact that Mackenzie King was not defeated in the House of Commons. But as a matter of fact his government was in a minority on two division, and he had ceased to be able to depend on the House in a real test.

Lord Byng's action did not follow precedent, the Standard says, but in the common sense the governor-general is there to do what the public wants. If the public approve his decision then his action is right; if they disapprove he will be shown to have erred.

Italy's Authors Must Aid Her Spiritual Imperialism

ROME, July 2 (Canadian Press)—Italy's authors must be instruments for her "spiritual imperialism," declared Premier Mussolini, inaugurating last night the new headquarters of the Italian Authors' Society.

"Italian writers, creators at home and abroad," Signor Mussolini said, "must be carriers of a new type of Italian civilization. They must carry out what can be described as spiritualle imperialism by means of the the theatre, books and lectures.

CAMP BOYS TAKE HIKE ON HOLIDAY

Some Walk To McCracken's and Paddle Back—Others Reverse Process.

LEADERS ELECTED.

As part of yesterday's program at the Y.M.C.A. Rotary boys' camp on Clear Lake a long hike was taken by land and water to McCracken's Landing. The boys were divided up into two teams under Fred McNeely, instructor of the camp and Trevor Miller, of the Peterborough Public School teaching staff. One team went up by water and returned by treking across-country, the instructor showing the boys the different points of interest. The huge stone quarries from which the stone for the different churches and shale rock edifices in Peterborough were drawn across-country by horses or shipped through the Trent Valley canal by scows, proved a vast source of wonderment to the youngsters.

Plenty of Strawberries.

Small parties of boys gather and make explorations in the wasteland back of the camp and some of these were most joyously received when they returned yesterday with a pail of wild strawberries and the knowledge that they had discovered a patch about a mile or so from the camp.

After a general meeting held in the bunk-house and a little coaxing on the part of some, Mrs. Peace finally consented to bake them a strawberry short-cake if they would gather the berries. A raid is expected on the same berry patch sometime within the next few days.

While at McCracken's Landing the boys were treated to ice-cream by Mr. McKinney, a camper at Stoney Lake, which brought grins and happy smiles to the faces of many after their long hike over the hills.

Leaders Elected.

At a general meeting around the camp-fire the following boys were elected as camp leaders—Oscar Sloane, Frank Jopling, Charlie Joyce, Eric McKinnstry, Trevor Miller, Alex Rogow and Leslie Welsh. Mr. McNeely gave a short talk to them and explained that there was a time when it was believed the chief task of a good camp leader was to formulate a program of activity for the camp, put the program on paper, and, after the boys arrived—to drive the program through. "We have now discovered that the better way is to conduct the camp entirely as an educational enterprise," he said. "Thus we do not open the camp with the idea in mind of simply providing entertainment. If we did follow such a course, very soon our program would pall and we would find a group of homesick boys upon our hands. But we make of the camp a school, wherein a boy's interest is maintained as he ventures, step by step, into new realms of contacts with the great out-of-doors. Every boy is at heart primitive, and he longs to gain a knowledge of trees, flowers, birds and the taking care of himself in all situations associated with camping and camp life.

"Our objective shall be to develop in the boys, qualities of self-reliance and clean thinking. As far as possible the boys will organize their own daily program and assume responsibility for order, cleanliness, good behaviour, etc. The camp staff must be ready with observations and advice as being necessary for healthful development and protection.

"One of the hardest lessons our boys of today have to face is learning to live with others. In one of the campfire stories we shall read of how the primitive man learned loyalty to the tribe. Throughout the entire camp experience—be it new or an old one—we must keep before the boys the thought that the best way of life is to 'Give in; give up,' and 'Give out.' Is not this what we define in terms of good sportsmanship?"

LAWN BOWLERS HOLD TOURNEY

Annual Dominion Day Doubles Event Has Many Entries.

THE WINNERS.

First year bowlers took the lion's share of the honors at the annual doubles tournament of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club yesterday, three of the four prize winners being new men. Twenty-eight pairs entered the competition and howled from 2.00 to 11.00 p.m. T. C. Elliott, who has been winning prizes for years, was the only old timer to get a look in and his partner was a new man, Don Hill. These two captured the first prizes, military brushes in leather cases. Jim Melrose and George Taylor were the finalists, winning leather belts with silver buckles.

The regular Friday night tournament will be held this evening as usual.

VISITORS WIN CRICKET MATCH

Score is 90 To 77 For Birchcliffe C. C. in Annual Encounter.

GOOD PLAY.

In ideal weather the local clubz entertained the Birchcliffe Cricket Club yesterday. With the visiting club this match has developed into their annual club picnic, and they certainly made a day of it, leaving Birchcliffe at 6.30 a.m., standard time and it would not be much before 8 o'clock before they left town at night. They certainly did the thing in style, travelling in a brand new bus which took first prize at the recent Chicago Motor Show. The party numbered some forty in the bus and five in a private car. Landing here only at 12.30 after being on the road six hours, it was decided to have lunch before the game, and a hearty lunch was taken and thoroughly enjoyed at the Paragon rooms.

The game got under way at about 2.15, each side playing and fielding 12 men, Birchcliffe winning the toss and batting first. They lost their first wicket at seven runs, then settled down to steady cricket, this partnership by Morritt and Robertson taking the score up to 44 before the latter fell to a catch by Monkman in the long field, having made 19 by steady play.

The next wicket to fall was Morrit's at 61. He had played a bright innings of 33 which included two boundaries. Hollowell and Morris contributed useful innings of 9 and 12 respectively, the innings closing at 90, at 4.45.

The Peterboro bowling and fielding was very good, Elliott coming out with the best average of six wickets for 13 runs and Dunkerley 4 for 21.

Peterboro opened up very steadily, the score rising up to 63 for 6 when the game seemed "sewed up" for the locals, but the remaining five wickets only adding 14 runs, to make a total of 77. Useful double figure innings were contributed by Dunkerley 15, D. Hammond 13, which included a four, C. Thorpe 12, which included a splendid six right over the rails at the west end, and Dyer 10, one fours.

The visitors, though not quite so snappy on the field as the locals fielded well, Hollowell taking four wickets for 11 runs, Morritt 3 for 17 and Robertson 2 wickets.

Over anxiety spelt defeat for the locals.

PARTING PRESENT TO SMITH TEACHER

Miss H. M. Grieve Leaves for Guelph After Five Years' Service.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Darling was the scene of a very plesant entertainment on Monday evening, June 28th. Pupils, parents and friends of S. S. No. 3 Smith Township assembled to say good-bye and good wishes to Miss Helen Grieve, their efficient tacher, during the past five years.

Merry games on the lawn furnished enjoyment for the earlier part of the evening, and followed by a short musical programme, presided over by Fred W. Scott.

The assembly took the opportunity to present Miss Grieve with an address of appreciation, read by Miss Jean Scott, accompanied by a lovely ring with pearls and diamonds presented by Miss Grace Darling.

After a jolly sing-song and pleasant conversation, dainty refreshments were served.

Appended below is the address which Miss Grieve acknowledged with well-chosen words of thanks for many kindnesses received.

Miss Grieve has accepted a position on the teaching staff of the Guelph City Schools.

Miss Helen Grieve.

Dear Miss Grieve. — Your pupils and friends of S. S. No. 3 Smith Township feel that they can not allow you to leave our neighborhood without expressing our appreciation of your years of faithful service in our school.

During these years we have always found you capable, interested and industrious, eager to keep your pupils advancing in knowledge and experience, and you have spared no effort to encourage and assist them in attaining the very highest success in their studies.

The standards of a useful and successful public school have been maintained under your guidance, and we have been pleased and proud of the classes that have entered High School from our section. We hope that the example of industry and perseverance that has been so evident in all your undertakings, may not be lost upon our girls and boys.

Realizing how unselfishly and untiringly, so conscientious a teacher serves her pupils and also the whole neighborhood, we ask you to accept this ring as a token of our grateful appreciation, and assure you of our good wishes for continued success in your chosen profession.

Signed by Norman Edminson and Herbert Darling for the parents, and May Millburn and Keith Scott for the pupils.

KING'S WHARF NEWS.

KINGS WHARF, July 2. — The weather is very unfavorable for the fall crops such as sweet clover which is all killed and fall wheat which looked so promising in early Spring is beginning to head out and is only about a foot high. It will be no good. The pastures are fairly good but it is too cold.

Since the fishing season opened the lake here is covered with launches and boats. It is so cold the fishing is not very good. A large number of people come from Toronto and other large cities to spend the week-end on Pigeon Lake shore as the lake is famous for its excellent fishing.

DETROIT TO HAVE TALLEST BUILDING

Work Starts on Book Tower, To Be 81 Stories High.

DETROIT, Michigan, July 2. — Construction of the world's tallest building, which will ascend 87 stories above the street level at Washington Boulevard, State street, and Street and Park Place, was started yesterday with the razing of several landmarks that have occupied the site for many years.

The Book Tower, as it will be known, will be 873 feet high, nearly 100 feet taller than the Woolworth Building in New York, and comprise 23 more floors.

The structure will have a frontage of 225 feet on State street, 120 feet on Washington Boulevard and 180 feet on Park Place.

In all the new tower will have 85 floors, four of which will be below the street level. The main portion of the building will be 42 stories high with each floor providing 30,000 square feet of space. From that point the tower, 120 by 125 feet, will continue upwards, terminating at the 81st storey with the largest searchlight in the world.

Unlike the Woolworth building, some 18 stories of which are devoted to the tower the book tower will be available for office space.

THE FULL-STOP PLAN.

Belleville is the latest Ontario city to adopt the through-street plan of handling traffic, by which cars coming into certain busy thoroughfares from side streets must come to a full stop.

The Bay of Quinte authorities, basing their conviction upon what they have gleaned from other centres where such a regulation has been tried out, are satisfied that the plan will be a very effective contribution to public safety.

All cities which have given the full-stop plan a thorough trial report a very material reduction in accidents as a result.

The method has been proposed in Peterboro several times, but no progress toward its adoption has been made, and many motorists are opposed to it.

Yet throughout Ontario this system of dealing with traffic is coming more and more into favour, even in places with much lighter traffic than in Peterboro.

CONCLUDING THE PROBE.

That the final decision of the House of Commons in regard to a continuance of the customs investigation was that the inquiry will be conducted by a judge selected by the two judges of the Exchequer Court, will appeal to most Canadians as the most satisfactory feature of the whole controversy.

The probe carried on by the Parliamentary Committee merely touched the fringe of the situation, and the feeling is widespread that the inquiry should be persisted in until every part of the Dominion has been covered.

At the same time the public is insistent that the investigation must be impartial and non-partisan; the matter is too serious to allow party politics to check the fullest inquiry.

The method decided upon of allowing judges of the Exchequer Court to name a judge to act as commissioner was suggested by a Progressive member of the House and was unanimously adopted.

It should prove a fair and effective means of getting at the real facts in connection with the administration of the customs department throughout Canada, and because of that fact the plan decided upon will be approved by the people generally.

CADET TRAINING.

Ontario Council of Carpenters and Joiners oppose cadet training in the schools. But they advocate the substitution of some system of physical training.

In this regard, they are ahead of certain church conferences which have expressed opposition to cadet training. Because, the church conferences did not suggest anything else. They aimed to be destructive, without attempting to be constructive.

Remembering, as The Journal has cited, that the war drafts and consequent medical examinations on this continent showed that 300,000 to 500,000 in every million of the young men of this continent were deficient in health or physique, one would imagine that intelligent men in church conferences or anywhere else would feel an anxious interest to promote physical education in the schools in some fashion or other.

We are f[illegible] cadets. You've got to sugar a pill if you want [illegible] popular with the youngsters. Physical train[illegible]out spectacular interest of some kind is a grin[illegible]ard to make the boys take to it. Give them [illegible] that appeals to their spirits or imaginations, and [illegible]f the battle for physical gain is won. That's what makes the Boy Scouts.—Ottawa Journal.

THE ROTARY CARNIVAL.

It is sc[illegible]y necessary to remind the citizens of Peterboro [illegible]od work that is being carried on here by the [illegible] Club.

The [illegible] of the organization on behalf of crippled c[illegible]d in aid of under-privileged boys and the [illegible]illingness of Rotary to assist all worth-whi[illegible]s have already firmly impressed themselve[illegible]e community.

The [illegible]deal of service above self has been well live[illegible] admirably exemplified in Peterboro.

This [illegible] it seems only necessary to call attention t[illegible]nival promoted by the local Rotary Club on [illegible] its various activities to ensure liberal pat[illegible] next week's event.

The [illegible] of the Rotary Club are throwing themselves [illegible]eartedly into this undertaking, and they are counting upon the hearty support of their fellow-citizens in ensuring a complete success.

A week's carnival offers an opportunity for lively and clean amusement, and at the same time those who attend have the satisfaction of knowing that, different from most carnival attractions, next week's organization will leave a large amount of money in Peterboro for promoting activities that desire community support.

DUTY TO HOME.

It is reported that the children of George Dwyer, have been returned to the custody of their father, but that he will move with his family to Peterboro'. Thus another nine-days'-wonder comes to an end. In this case, the wonder lasted more than nine days; but it is probable that, in spite of the publicity aroused by the neglect charge, the facts will be conveniently forgotten now that the incident is closed. The case is remarkable for the comments of the judge, who held the community responsible jointly with the parents for the deplorable conditions which were shown to exist. The judge's remarks are worth pondering, for they undoubtedly contain a truth which is too often lost sight of. What is the sense of sending out missionaries, at great cost, he said in effect, to Christianize and civilize foreign lands, when right in our midst such abominations are permitted? Not that there was any depreciation of missionary effort in the judge's remarks. It is of the essence of Christianity that the good tidings should be spread throughout the world; but there is certainly the concurrent obligation near at hand. "Charity begins at home," says the old adage. It does not necessarily end at home, but it begins there. Conditions at home should first be made right.

If the principle recommended by the Peterboro' judge were applied in all centers, it would undoubtedly be a splendid thing for the country. Every community should make absolutely sure that it does not harbor a vicious area, where the social life for many is of the most degrading character. If all communities bent their efforts to cleaning up the moral plague-spots in their own neighborhoods, it would do more good than dissipating effort at a distance. Hamilton is, fortunately, in an enviable position, as large industrial cities go, in respect of the housing of its poorer-class population; but there is very much that could be done to improve conditions and to prevent the possiblity of slums arising to disgrace the life of the community. Right here in this ambitious city plenty of scope exists for the activities of churches and social workers among the overcrowded tenements and the congested foreign sections. It is not wise for any community to point the finger at another and to deem itself exempt from criticism. The Peterboro' judge's remarks are of general application.—Hamilton Spectator.

A SUGGESTION FOR THE POLITICIANS.

Policies must be framed anew to catch the fancy of the voting public. Indications are that they will be unchanged on the part of the Conservatives, save that they will be marked by bitter attacks on the customs department. The Liberal policies have been pretty well foreshadowed by the program of the present session. They may include more tax reduction, and will be based on a continued downward revision of the tariff. Senate reform will probably come up again.

Probably the greatest opportunity will be overlooked or at least under-estimated by both parties. That is the stern demand for reduction of the public debt, which can be done only through strictest economy. It is well to see where we stand at present on this. According to the Financial Post, nearly $100,000,000 has been added to the floating debts of the Dominion during the year. This includes Federal, Provincial and municipal. The total now is $4,262,542,000. The Post notes a "very definite attempt to reduce expenditures and thus lessen the burden of debt." It finds the Dominion Government has made a gratifying cut in the net debt, but that it has added $25,000,000 to the floating debt. Canada, however, is doing more of her own financing. The amount payable in the United States has been reduced by about $20,000,000, that in London remains about the same, at $312,000,000, and that maturing in Canada has increased by about $50,000,000.

The manufacturing industries, the Post says, have been hampered by a variety of conditions and little if any progress has been made, while the farms have increased their revenue $264,890,000.

Those are the figures. The floating debt is increasing at a tremendous rate. Much of it was no doubt unavoidable, on the luxurious basis of our government system. Public services are expanding, and their costs must soar accordingly. But is the increase in the debt more than commensurate with the increase in development, in internal trade, in internal revenue? If it is, then we are not really advancing, but actually going back. We are, in fact, paying a higher rate of interest on borrowed money than its investment is returning to us.

Increase in farm revenue in itself does not insure prosperity. Neither does increase in foreign trade. Neither do better terms on our bond issues. It is the amount of that money which stays and works in the country that tells the story. It is always difficult to hear the finances of Canada ably discussed in an election campaign. But they should be so discussed.

Our floating debt has been increased by nearly 100 millions. Our total is now more than four and a quarter billions. No serious effort has yet been made save in Ontario and Quebec to pay as we go.. In this Province a debt retiring plan is already being put into effect. Quebec plans to apply its surplus to the reduction of debt. The Dominion Government's turn comes next. How will they go about it? Here is material aplenty for an election campaign.

Our credit is good and maturing loans can be easily covered. That is the favorite argument. Certainly they can, by issuing new loans.

Then why the alarm? The reason is this, that the cream of our prosperity is being poured into the great sinkhole of interest charges. On four and a quarter billions, even at the lowest rates, the interest piles up at the rate of from 125 to 150 millions annually.

That is why debts are serious. They must be reduced.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The resignation of Mr. Forke adds another to the week's list of political sensations.

Doubtless friends of the new Government are hopeful that the shadow Cabinet will ever grow less.

Mr. Ferguson and his Ontario campaign are apparently due to be sidetracked in favour of a Federal election.

Miss Agnes MacPhail says that more women are needed in Parliament. And yet there are people who think there are too many there now.

The Rotary Carnival next week offers a chance to help a fine cause, and at the same time to have a lot of fun.

Too much ginger, even in a political group, is not very helpful, as Mr. Forke has found out to his sorrow.

Those acting Ministers will not even be dollar-a-year men.

Mr. Ferguson was right when he said there would be no hiding behind women's skirts. Even the women can hardly do that.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

YOUNG WHILE OLD

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

For short skirts

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I would like to answer "One of the Boys'" letter, also one who signs herself a Mother—so there are some narrow minded people still left in this good old world. I wonder which is the worst: short dresses and low necks or about ten yards in a dress, flip-flopping up and down the street. Let a young girl come out in one of the old-fashioned dresses, and see how quick people will talk, and let me say that the girls years ago were just as bad, if not worse, than the girls of to-day, only they were more under-handed about it. "One of the Boys" speaks about the bad girls of to-day.

Pick up the papers and you will read every day where three or four fellows take one girl out, and besides insulting her they will beat her until sometimes its a case of murder. One fellow couldn't go out alone with her. If he did she'd knock him cold. It takes three or four cowards to fight one girl. As for "A Mother," all I can say is: "God help her husband," especially when she gets her maidenly blush on.

However I'm one for short skirts, low necks, and everything that's comfortable.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

A Modern Young Mother.

CONFIRMATION AT OMEMEE CHURCH

Rt. Rev. Bishop Sweeny Preaches Most Inspiring Sermon.

OMEMEE, July 2.—A beautiful and impressive confirmation service was held in Christ Church, Omemee, on Sunday evening when a class composed of twelve young men and ten young ladies made their solemn vows and were confirmed as members of the church by Bishop Sweeny of Toronto. The class were Ethel Stephenson, Marion Dickson, Lenore Jamieson, Margaret McQuade, Carrie McQuade, Ada Atwell, Mamie Lang, Gertrude Fee, Maye Fee, Jesse Chatten, Hillier Cunningham, Harold Bannon, William Burgomaster, Norman Burgomaster, Oscar Lang, Tom Dickson, George Dickson, Harold Mitchell. The following from St. John's were also confirmed: Cecil McConnell, Norman McConnell, Tom Jones, Mrs. Elliott. The class preceeded the gowned choir up the aisle singing heartily that good old hymn, "Fight the Good Fight." The young ladies wore white dresses and the customary confirmation veil.

The evening sunlight shining through the beautiful stained glass windows of the church, cast a glow over the altar, which was beautifully decorated for the event with June flowers.

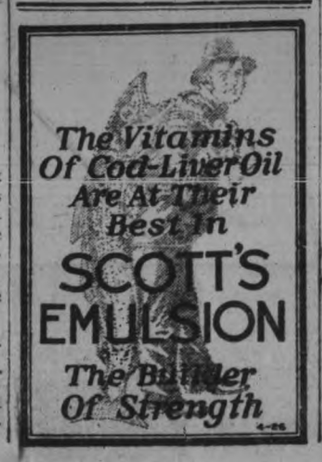
Bishop Sweeny preached an inspiring confirmation message, taking for his text the words found in St. John 6, 69, "And we believe and are sure that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." The speaker introduced his subject by explaining that these words were spoken by Peter, after many disciples had rejected the Lord and turned back from following after Him. He stated that this was one of the so-called hard sayings of Christ, that is hard to understand, hard to believe and hard to be acted upon. He mentioned other sayings of Christ, "Before Abraham was I am," "Yet a little while ye see Me and then ye cannot see Mee," and again, "Except ye eat My flesh and drink My blood, there is no life in you," and stated that it was little wonder that the people, and even the apostles, found these hard to understand. "However," continued the speaker, "the key in each case is the same. Christ was not merely human but was also the Son of God. He not only dwelt on the earth with men but also had his habitation in heaven. These facts colored his utterances and often made them incomprehensible to men."

The speaker then launched upon a more direct and personal message for the candidates. "I'm sure every one of you has accepted Christ, the Christ of the gospels, He who is spoken of in the Old Testament and revealed in the New. If you have accepted Him as your saviour, you can stand beside Peter and say, 'We believe and art sure that Thou art the Christ.'

"There are several steps in our relationship to Christ that we might appropriately note at this time. First, we are the servants of Him, servants and soldiers to our life's end. But not only servants, for we are His children, for He Himself called us the children of God, and above all, Christ is our friend. 'Ye are My friends if you do what I command you' are His own words as He speaks to His disciples. Then Christ is more than a friend, for He is our advocate before God, was sacrificed for our sins and stands before the throne interceding for us. Lastly, we are heirs with Him in the kingdom of God. Confirmation is a fresh start in the Christian life, a self-dedication of your all to Him. The Master is standing beside you saying, 'Give Me your heart,' and in return you say, 'Take my life and let it be consecrated all for Thee.' As a branch without the vine is nothing, so we of ourselves are nothing, but only can be full and perfect in Jesus Christ our Lord."

The large congregation was most attentive throughout the service, and went away deeply impressed with the solemnity of it all.

An afternoon service was held at St. James' Church, East Emily, when the following class was confirmed: Ida Ward, Gertrude Davis, Violet Davis, Albert Davis, Mrs. Herman Franks, Mrs. Ross Boate, Gilbert Franks, Howard Clarke, Smithson Nurse and Kenneth Nurse.



CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, July 2 (Canadian Press).—Wheat scored a sharp advance in price here yesterday owing a good deal to export sales estimated as high as one million bushels There were also adverse reports from the spring wheat crop, both American and Canadian, together with a surprising upturn in quotations at Liverpool. The Chicago wheat market closed strong, 1 7-8 to 3 net higher; corn 1-4 to 1 1-2 up; oats showing 1-4 to 3-8 to 1c gain, and provisions at a rise of 20 to 55 cents.

Virtually the topmost prices of the day prevailed in the wheat market at the finish, despite heavy selling to realize profits. Unofficial forecasts here yesterday of domestic spring wheat production this season averaged 207,000,000 bushels, and it was pointed out that only four times in twenty years has the prospective total been so small. Furthermore, advices were at hand that on account of excessive hot weather and drought, much wheat both in North and South Dakota would hardly yield enough to make seed. Although some rain fell in the American nothwest yesterday, most wheat traders apparently considered the amount too small to be of material benefit. Estimates on the probable Canadian crop were conflicting, but one expert figured the probable output at 329,000,000 bushels for the three chief provinces, a decidedly smaller aggregate than last year's harvest. The average of estimates on domestic winter wheat, 562,000,000 bushels, was about as generally expected.

Corn and oats derived their strength largely from the action of wheat. Crop estimates on corn and oats were construed as somewhat bullish, but corn belt weather conditions were favorable.

Provisions rose with hogs and grain. Packers and eastern houses were buyers.

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING TEACHER

Miss Sarah Black is Given Candlesticks by Pupils.

On Friday, June 25, the school on the 4th line of Smith held its closing, when teacher, children and a few friends gathered for a picnic, at the close of which the entrance pupil, Kenneth Mahood, read the following address. At the close of this, little Dorothy Darling and Jean Metcalfe presented their teacher, Miss Sarah Black, with a beautiful pair of silver candlesticks.

Miss Black.—We, your pupils of S. S. No. 2 Smith, at this, our last gathering together, wish to express to you our appreciation of your work on our behalf.

During the past two years you have labored most faithfully to instil in our minds the knowledge which will be very needful to us in the future. You have in no way spared yourself, but have given of your best, that we might benefit thereby.

And not only in our school activities, but in any capacity in which you have been asked to act, you have cheerfully and willingly endeavored to do your part, considering it, not a both, but rather a privilege to lend your services.

Wherever your chosen vocation may lead you in the coming years, we hope you may find pleasure, and the satisfaction of knowing you have done your best.

We would now ask you to accept this gift as a remembrance of the years you spent with us.

Signed on behalf of the school.

HORSE RUNS AWAY

Downeyville Man Loses Fine Set of Harness—Buggy Broken.

While Mr. Hoolihan, of Downeyville, was shopping in the village on Tuesday, his horse broke loose from the shed in which it was tied and proceeded homeward. It was soon captured by a couple of boys who brought the animal back and replaced it in the shed. Soon after the animal made another get away, leaving the halter in the shed, and after crossing the railroad track upset the buggy, breaking the shafts and before it ceased running had made a complete wreck of the harness. The animal ran into Mr. R. Boyd's yard where it was captured and a set of harness borrowed to make the return journey home.

Miss Lila Parsons had the sad misfortune to break her arm at the wrist on Tuesday morning. Miss Parsons was standing on the step-ladder hanging curtains when the ladder slipped on the rug beneath and threw her to the floor. Medical aid was soon summoned and the fractured member set. Later in the afternoon the victim was suffering such intense pain that an X ray was thought advisable and she was taken to Peterboro by the doctor where a perfect set was shown. The break is a zigzag one and it will require several weeks time before the splints can be removed.

Merry games on the lawn furnished enjoyment for the earlier part of the evening, and followed by a short musical programme, presided over by Fred W. Scott.

The assembly took the opportunity to present Miss Grieve with an address of appreciation, read by Miss Jean Scott, accompanied by a lovely ring with pearls and diamonds presented by Miss Grace Darling.

After a jolly sing-song and pleasant conversation, dainty refreshments were served.

Appended below is the address which Miss Grieve acknowledged with well-chosen words of thanks for many kindnesses received.

Miss Grieve has accepted a position on the teaching staff of the Guelph City Schools.

Miss Helen Grieve.

Dear Miss Grieve. — Your pupils and friends of S. S. No. 3 Smith Township feel that they can not allow you to leave our neighborhood without expressing our appreciation of your years of faithful service in our school.

The standards of a useful and successful public school have been maintained under your guidance, and we have been pleased and proud of the classes that have entered High School from our section. We hope that the example of industry and perseverance that has been so evident in all your undertakings, may not be lost upon our girls and boys.

Realizing how unselfishly and untiringly, so conscientious a teacher serves her pupils and also the whole neighborhood, we ask you to accept this ring as a token of our grateful appreciation, and assure you of our good wishes for continued success in your chosen profession.

RRIDAY, JULY 2, 1926.

THE FULL-STOP PLAN.

Belleville is the latest Ontario city to adopt the through-street plan of handling traffic, by which cars coming into certain busy thoroughfares from side streets must come to a full stop.

The Bay of Quinte authorities, basing their conviction upon what they have gleaned from other centres where such a regulation has been tried out, are satisfied that the plan will be a very effective contribution to public safety.

All cities which have given the full-stop plan a thorough trial report a very material reduction in accidents as a result.

The method has been proposed in Peterboro several times, but no progress toward its adoption has been made, and many motorists are opposed to it.

Yet throughout Ontario this system of dealing with traffic is coming more and more into favour, even in places with much lighter traffic than in Peterboro.

CONCLUDING THE PROBE.

That the final decision of the House of Commons in regard to a continuance of the customs investigation was that the inquiry will be conducted by a judge selected by the two judges of the Exchequer Court, will appeal to most Canadians as the most satisfactory feature of the whole controversy.

The probe carried on by the Parliamentary Committee merely touched the fringe of the situation, and the feeling is widespread that the inquiry should be persisted in until every part of the Dominion has been covered.

At the same time the public is insistent that the investigation must be impartial and non-partisan; the matter is too serious to allow party politics to check the fullest inquiry.

The method decided upon of allowing judges of the Exchequer Court to name a judge to act as commissioner was suggested by a Progressive member of the House and was unanimously adopted.

It should prove a fair and effective means of getting at the real facts in connection with the administration of the customs department throughout Canada, and because of that fact the plan decided upon will be approved by the people generally.

CADET TRAINING.

Ontario Council of Carpenters and Joiners oppose cadet training in the schools. But they advocate the substitution of some system of physical training.

In this regard, they are ahead of certain church conferences which have expressed opposition to cadet training. Because, the church conferences did not suggest anything else. They aimed to be destructive, without attempting to be constructive.

Remembering, as The Journal has cited, that the war drafts and consequent medical examinations on this continent showed that 300,000 to 500,000 in every million of the young men of this continent were deficient in health or physique, one would imagine that intelligent men in church conferences or anywhere else would feel an anxious interest to promote physical education in the schools in some fashion or other.

We are f[illegible] adets. You've got to sugar a pill if you want it to be popular with the youngsters. Physical train[illegible] without spectacular interest of some kind is a grin[illegible]ard to make the boys take to it. Give them [illegible] that appeals to their spirits or imaginations, and [illegible] if the battle for physical gain is won. That's what makes the Boy Scouts.—Ottawa Journal.

THE ROTARY CARNIVAL.

It is sc[illegible]ecessary to remind the citizens of Peterboro [illegible]od work that is being carried on here by the [illegible] Club.

The s[illegible] of the organization on behalf of crippled ch[illegible]d in aid of under-privileged boys and the g[illegible] willingness of Rotary to assist all worth-whi[illegible]s have already firmly impressed themselve[illegible]e community.

The [illegible]deal of service above self has been well live[illegible] admirably exemplified in Peterboro.

This [illegible] it seems only necessary to call attention t[illegible]nival promoted by the local Rotary Club on [illegible] its various activities to ensure liberal pat[illegible] next week's event.

The [illegible] of the Rotary Club are throwing themselves [illegible] heartedly into this undertaking, and they are counting upon the hearty support of their fellow-citizens in ensuring a complete success.

A week's carnival offers an opportunity for lively and clean amusement, and at the same time those who attend have the satisfaction of knowing that, different from most carnival attractions, next week's organization will leave a large amount of money in Peterboro for promoting activities that desire community support.

DUTY TO HOME.

It is reported that the children of George Dwyer, have been returned to the custody of their father, but that he will move with his family to Peterboro'. Thus another nine-days'-wonder comes to an end. In this case, the wonder lasted more than nine days; but it is probable that, in spite of the publicity aroused by the neglect charge, the facts will be conveniently forgotten now that the incident is closed. The case is remarkable for the comments of the judge, who held the community responsible jointly with the parents for the deplorable conditions which were shown to exist. The judge's remarks are worth pondering, for they undoubtedly contain a truth which is too often lost sight of. What is the sense of sending out missionaries, at great cost, he said in effect, to Christianize and civilize foreign lands, when right in our midst such abominations are permitted? Not that there was any depreciation of missionary effort in the judge's remarks. It is of the essence of Christianity that the good tidings should be spread throughout the world; but there is certainly the concurrent obligation near at hand. "Charity begins at home," says the old adage. It does not necessarily end at home, but it begins there. Conditions at home should first be made right.

If the principle recommended by the Peterboro' judge were applied in all centers, it would undoubtedly be a splendid thing for the country. Every community should make absolutely sure that it does not harbor a vicious area, where the social life for many is of the most degrading character. If all communities bent their efforts to cleaning up the moral plague-spots in their own neighborhoods, it would do more good than dissipating effort at a distance. Hamilton is, fortunately, in an enviable position, as large industrial cities go, in respect of the housing of its poorer-class population; but there is very much that could be done to improve conditions and to prevent the possiblity of slums arising to disgrace the life of the community. Right here in this ambitious city plenty of scope exists for the activities of churches and social workers among the overcrowded tenements and the congested foreign sections. It is not wise for any community to point the finger at another and to deem itself exempt from criticism. The Peterboro' judge's remarks are of general application.—Hamilton Spectator.

A SUGGESTION FOR THE POLITICIANS.

Policies must be framed anew to catch the fancy of the voting public. Indications are that they will be unchanged on the part of the Conservatives, save that they will be marked by bitter attacks on the customs department. The Liberal policies have been pretty well foreshadowed by the program of the present session. They may include more tax reduction, and will be based on a continued downward revision of the tariff. Senate reform will probably come up again.

Probably the greatest opportunity will be overlooked or at least under-estimated by both parties. That is the stern demand for reduction of the public debt, which can be done only through strictest economy. It is well to see where we stand at present on this. According to the Financial Post, nearly $100,000,000 has been added to the floating debts of the Dominion during the year. This includes Federal, Provincial and municipal. The total now is $4,262,542,000. The Post notes a "very definite attempt to reduce expenditures and thus lessen the burden of debt." It finds the Dominion Government has made a gratifying cut in the net debt, but that it has added $25,000,000 to the floating debt. Canada, however, is doing more of her own financing. The amount payable in the United States has been reduced by about $20,000,000, that in London remains about the same, at $312,000,000, and that maturing in Canada has increased by about $50,000,000.

The manufacturing industries, the Post says, have been hampered by a variety of conditions and little if any progress has been made, while the farms have increased their revenue $264,890,000.

Those are the figures. The floating debt is increasing at a tremendous rate. Much of it was no doubt unavoidable, on the luxurious basis of our government system. Public services are expanding, and their costs must soar accordingly. But is the increase in the debt more than commensurate with the increase in development, in internal trade, in internal revenue? If it is, then we are not really advancing, but actually going back. We are, in fact, paying a higher rate of interest on borrowed money than its investment is returning to us.

Increase in farm revenue in itself does not insure prosperity. Neither does increase in foreign trade. Neither do better terms on our bond issues. It is the amount of that money which stays and works in the country that tells the story. It is always difficult to hear the finances of Canada ably discussed in an election campaign. But they should be so discussed.

Our floating debt has been increased by nearly 100 millions. Our total is now more than four and a quarter billions. No serious effort has yet been made save in Ontario and Quebec to pay as we go. In this Province a debt retiring plan is already being put into effect. Quebec plans to apply its surplus to the reduction of debt. The Dominion Government's turn comes next. How will they go about it? Here is material aplenty for an election campaign.

Our credit is good and maturing loans can be easily covered. That is the favorite argument. Certainly they can, by issuing new loans.

Then why the alarm? The reason is this, that the cream of our prosperity is being poured into the great sinkhole of interest charges. On four and a quarter billions, even at the lowest rates, the interest piles up at the rate of from 125 to 150 millions annually.

That is why debts are serious. They must be reduced.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The resignation of Mr. Forke adds another to the week's list of political sensations.

Doubtless friends of the new Government are hopeful that the shadow Cabinet will ever grow less.

Mr. Ferguson and his Ontario campaign are apparently due to be sidetracked in favour of a Federal election.

Miss Agnes MacPhail says that more women are needed in Parliament. And yet there are people who think there are too many there now.

The Rotary Carnival next week offers a chance to help a fine cause, and at the same time to have a lot of fun.

Too much ginger, even in a political group, is not very helpful, as Mr. Forke has found out to his sorrow.

Those acting Ministers will not even be dollar-a-year men.

Mr. Ferguson was right when he said there would be no hiding behind women's skirts. Even the women can hardly do that.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

YOUNG WHILE OLD

A man with good health is young at 60, but a man with poor health is old at 30. Age is an accomplishment when accompanied by the strength to do and the will to work.

Little things are great to little men. —Goldsmith.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

For short skirts

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I would like to answer "One of the Boys'" letter, also one who signs herself a Mother—so there are some narrow minded people still left in this good old world. I wonder which is the worst: short dresses and low necks or about ten yards in a dress, flip-flopping up and down the street. Let a young girl come out in one of the old-fashioned dresses, and see how quick people will talk, and let me say that the girls years ago were just as bad, if not worse, than the girls of to-day, only they were more under-handed about it. "One of the Boys" speaks about the bad girls of to-day.

Pick up the papers and you will read every day where three or four fellows take one girl out, and besides insulting her they will beat her until sometimes its a case of murder. One fellow couldn't go out alone with her. If he did she'd knock him cold. It takes three or four cowards to fight one girl. As for "A Mother," all I can say is: "God help her husband," especially when she gets her maidenly blush on.

However I'm one for short skirts, low necks, and everything that's comfortable.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
A Modern Young Mother.

CONFIRMATION AT OMEMEE CHURCH

Rt. Rev. Bishop Sweeny Preaches Most Inspiring Sermon.

OMEMEE, July 2.—A beautiful and impressive confirmation service was held in Christ Church, Omemee, on Sunday evening when a class composed of twelve young men and ten young ladies made their solemn vows and were confirmed as members of the church by Bishop Sweeny of Toronto. The class were Ethel Stephenson, Marion Dickson, Lenore Jamieson, Margaret McQuade, Carrie McQuade, Ada Atwell, Mamie Lang, Gertrude Fee, Maye Fee, Jesse Chatten, Hillier Cunningham, Harold Bannon, William Burgomaster, Norman Burgomaster, Oscar Lang, Tom Dickson, George Dickson, Harold Mitchell. The following from St. John's were also confirmed: Cecil McConnell, Norman McConnell, Tom Jones, Mrs. Elliott. The class preceeded the gowned choir up the aisle singing heartily that good old hymn, "Fight the Good Fight." The young ladies wore white dresses and the customary confirmation veil.

The evening sunlight shining through the beautiful stained glass windows of the church, cast a glow over the altar, which was beautifully decorated for the event with June flowers.

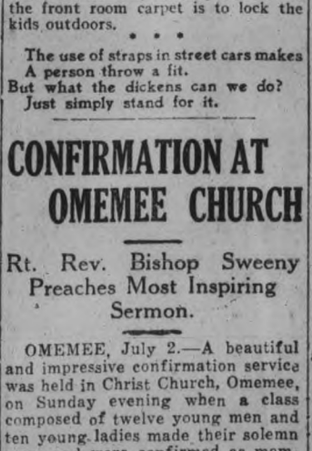
Bishop Sweeny preached an inspiring confirmation message, taking for his text the words found in St. John 6, 69, "And we believe and are sure that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." The speaker introduced his subject by explaining that these words were spoken by Peter, after many disciples had rejected the Lord and turned back from following after Him. He stated that this was one of the so-called hard sayings of Christ, that is hard to understand, hard to believe and hard to be acted upon. He mentioned other sayings of Christ, "Before Abraham was I am," "Yet a little while ye see Me and then ye cannot see Mee," and again, "Except ye eat My flesh and drink My blood, there is no life in you," and stated that it was little wonder that the people, and even the apostles, found these hard to understand. "However," continued the speaker, "the key in each case is the same. Christ was not merely human but was also the Son of God. He not only dwelt on the earth with men but also had his habitation in heaven. These facts colored his utterances and often made them incomprehensible to men."

The speaker then launched upon a more direct and personal message for the candidates. "I'm sure every one of you has accepted Christ, the Christ of the gospels, He who is spoken of in the Old Testament and revealed in the New. If you have accepted Him as your saviour, you can stand beside Peter and say, 'We believe and art sure that Thou art the Christ.'

"There are several steps in our relationship to Christ that we might appropriately note at this time. First, we are the servants of Him, servants and soldiers to our life's end. But not only servants, for we are His children, for He Himself called us the children of God, and above all, Christ is our friend. 'Ye are My friends if you do what I command you' are His own words as He speaks to His disciples. Then Christ is more than a friend, for He is our advocate before God, was sacrificed for our sins and stands before the throne interceding for us. Lastly, we are heirs with Him in the kingdom of God. Confirmation is a fresh start in the Christian life, a self-dedication of your all to Him. The Master is standing beside you saying, 'Give Me your heart,' and in return you say, 'Take my life and let it be consecrated all for Thee.' As a branch without the vine is nothing, so we of ourselves are nothing, but only can be full and perfect in Jesus Christ our Lord."

The large congregation was most attentive throughout the service, and went away deeply impressed with the solemnity of it all.

An afternoon service was held at St. James' Church, East Emily, when the following class was confirmed: Ida Ward, Gertrude Davis, Violet Davis, Albert Davis, Mrs. Herman Franks, Mrs. Ross Boate, Gilbert Franks, Howard Clarke, Smithson Nurse and Kenneth Nurse.



CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, July 2 (Canadian Press).—Wheat scored a sharp advance in price here yesterday owing a good deal to export sales estimated as high as one million bushels. There were also adverse reports from the spring wheat crop, both American and Canadian, together with a surprising upturn in quotations at Liverpool. The Chicago wheat market closed strong, 1 7-8 to 3 net higher; corn 1-4 to 1 1-2 up; oats showing 1-4 to 3-8 to 1c gain, and provisions at a rise of 20 to 55 cents.

Virtually the topmost prices of the day prevailed in the wheat market at the finish, despite heavy selling to realize profits. Unofficial forecasts here yesterday of domestic spring wheat production this season averaged 207,000,000 bushels, and it was pointed out that only four times in twenty years has the prospective total been so small. Furthermore, advices were at hand that on account of excessive hot weather and drought, much wheat both in North and South Dakota would hardly yield enough to make seed. Although some rain fell in the American northwest yesterday, most wheat traders apparently considered the amount too small to be of material benefit. Estimates on the probable Canadian crop were conflicting, but one expert figured the probable output at 329,000,000 bushels for the three chief provinces, a decidedly smaller aggregate than last year's harvest. The average of estimates on domestic winter wheat, 562,000,000 bushels, was about as generally expected.

Corn and oats derived their strength largely from the action of wheat. Crop estimates on corn and oats were construed as somewhat bullish, but corn belt weather conditions were favorable.

Provisions rose with hogs and grain. Packers and eastern houses were buyers.

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING TEACHER

Miss Sarah Black is Given Candlesticks by Pupils.

On Friday, June 25, the school on the 4th line of Smith held its closing, when teacher, children and a few friends gathered for a picnic, at the close of which the entrance pupil, Kenneth Mahood, read the following address. At the close of this, little Dorothy Darling and Jean Metcalfe presented their teacher, Miss Sarah Black, with a beautiful pair of silver candlesticks.

Miss Black.—We, your pupils of S. S. No. 2 Smith, at this, our last gathering together, wish to express to you our appreciation of your work on our behalf.

During the past two years you have labored most faithfully to instil in our minds the knowledge which will be very needful to us in the future. You have in no way spared yourself, but have given of your best, that we might benefit thereby.

And not only in our school activities, but in any capacity in which you have been asked to act, you have cheerfully and willingly endeavored to do your part, considering it, not a both, but rather a privilege to lend your services.

HORSE RUNS AWAY

Downeyville Man Loses Fine Set of Harness—Buggy Broken.

While Mr. Hoolihan, of Downeyville, was shopping in the village on Tuesday, his horse broke loose from the shed in which it was tied and proceeded homeward. It was soon captured by a couple of boys who brought the animal back and replaced it in the shed. Soon after the animal made another get away, leaving the halter in the shed, and after crossing the railroad track upset the buggy, breaking the shafts and before it ceased running had made a complete wreck of the harness. The animal ran into Mr. R. Boyd's yard where it was captured and a set of harness borrowed to make the return journey home.

Miss Lila Parsons had the sad misfortune to break her arm at the wrist on Tuesday morning. Miss Parsons was standing on the step-ladder hanging curtains when the ladder slipped on the rug beneath and threw her to the floor. Medical aid was soon summoned and the fractured member set. Later in the afternoon the victim was suffering such intense pain that an X ray was thought advisable and she was taken to Peterboro by the doctor where a perfect set was shown. The break is a zigzag one and it will require several weeks time before the splints can be removed.

Following in Grandpa's Footsteps

Willie's got it too!

For unfailing jollity and cast-iron optimism there's not a pin to choose between the old chap and the young chap — because the one's just as brimful of bounding health as the other.

But even boyhood is not proof against boyhood ills. The most vigorous of youngsters are sometimes out of sorts.

When your kiddies develop "moods," lose interest in their lessons and their play, are naughty without apparent reason, or mope listlessly about the place you should recognise at once the danger-signals. Something is wrong with their health. They may have eaten something to upset them, or perhaps they are constipated. Whatever the trouble may be, they cannot become their cheery little selves again until it is removed.

There is one safe, simple way to remedy all these minor ills of childhood: to stir a tiny dose of Kruschen Salts into the child's tea or cocoa or bowl of porridge. The tiniest pinch suffices — about "half a dimeful" — and they never know they're taking it, because given in this way it's quite tasteless. There's no fear of "horrid medicine" scenes with Kruschen.

The tiny dose gently but surely expels all waste clogging matter from the small insides. Next day the kiddies wake up with "that Kruschen feeling," energy and high spirits completely restored.

Don't wait for your children to be ill. Buy a 75c bottle for the nursery to-day, and be prepared.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 360 doses—nearly enough for six months—which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for daily use for adults is "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," taken in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. Every druggist sells Kruschen. Get a 75c bottle to-day.

LABOR CONTINUES OPPOSITION TO GOVERNMENT'S MINING BILLS

Resort To Obstructionist Tactics To Block Obnoxious Measure.

BALDWIN PACIFIC.

LONDON, July 2 (Canadian Press). — The extreme Laborite members yesterday continued their openly avowed determination to resort to every possible obstruction to delay the passage in the House of Commons of the Government's two bills dealing with coal. Their anger was especially directed against the First Lord of the Admiralty, W. C. Bridgeman, whom, with Sir William Joynson-Hicks and one or two other Ministers, they consider intentionally inimical to the Labor interests.

On Tuesday night they prevented Mr. Bridgeman from speaking at all; yesterday the First Lord of the Admiralty was scheduled to move the third reading of the eight-hour miners' bill, and a repetition of the boisterous tactics was quickly evident.

Premier Baldwin rose and tried to pour oil on the waters by a speech conciliatory in tone. He dealt less with the bill in question than with the general aspects of the dispute and maintained that the Miners' Federation had no policy and that the Government had been driven to its present course because there was no alternative.

Desperate Remedy.

Nobody, he said, liked to increase the workers' hours, but this method of giving the men freedom of choice between reduced wages and increased hours seemed the best way out of the difficulty. It was a desperate remedy, for the industry was in a desperate condition.

The Premier again promised that the Government would deal with the other portions of the Royal Commission's recommendations as soon as circumstances warranted, and he hoped soon to be able to announce the personnel of certain important committees, constituted without regard to their political proclivities for this purpose.

Jones Expelled.

The First Lord's every effort to speak met with insulting epithets and a chorus of interruptions. The disorder culminated with the expulsion of Jack Jones, member for West Ham, for characterizing the Ministers as a gang of murderers. Jones declined to withdraw his words, and marched out of the House at the Speaker's request.

Mr. Bridgeman was then allowed to proceed, but was subjected to continuous interruptions, and the Speaker had again to warn the obstructionists.

After a number of Laborites had denounced the bill, Vernon Hartshorn, a former member of the Coal Controller's Advisory Committee, and once Postmaster-General, declared in the course of his speech that the greatest enemy of the working classes this generation had produced was the present Prime Minister. This sentiment aroused prolonged Laborite cheers.

Mother's Radio Message Brings Wanderer Home

A radio message, broadcast at the request of an anxious mother, brought James Toohey, 11 years old, who had been missing for three weeks, back to his home at 6 Irving Place, Yonkers. James, who explained that he ran away because he thought he had failed in his examinations at the Monaster School in Yonkers, heard the radio announcement in the home of Mrs. John Adams in Thornhan, N.Y., a little village in the Adirondack Mountains.

Young Toohey discovered when he arrived at home that he did not fail in his examinations after all. He made the return trip in an automobile with David J. Luddy of 154 Court street, Brooklyn. Mr. Luddy had been on a camping trip to the Adirondacks, and consented to bring James back with him when he learned of his plight. The boy said he had obtained automobile rides to the mountains, and had worked for a while on the summer place of Albert Johnson, who has an office at 326 Clinton street, New York.

Pacts Between Italy and Britaing To Be Discussed By League.

GENEVA, July 2.—The attempted division of spheres of influence in Abyssinian territotry between Italy and Britain, which is revealed in two treaties registered with the Secretariat of the League of Nations, will bring official protest by the French and by the Germans as soon as they are affiliated with the League. The issue of infringement of Abyssinian sovereignty also will be raised in the September assembly.

Prussians Will Retain Whipping Of Children

BERLIN, July 2.— (Associated Press.)— The dictum, "spare the rod and spoil the child," is still taken seriously by the Education Committee of the Prussian Diet, which defeated a Socialist motion to discontinue corporal punishment in schools.

Failing to obtain complete abolition of corporal punishment, the Socialists attempted to obtain abolition of corporal punishment of girls. They then moved to do away with whipping of children during the first year of public school, when the average age is six years. This also met with no success.

The committee, however, promised to call a conference within a short time for further discussion of the question.

AVIATOR SAVES DROWNING MAN

Soldier Seized With Cramps Picked Up By Unknown Flier.

SKILFUL RESCUE.

NEW YORK, July 2.— (United News.)—A modest aviator has become the flying life saver by swooping down in his hydroplane to the spot on Long Island Sound where a soldier was drowning and placing him on the wing of the plane.

Before the pilot's name could be learned, he flew off in his privately owned plane, TurtleII. Private James Stanley of the Fort Slocum garrison, was seized with cramps about five hundred yards off shore. Overhead in the air buzzed the hydroplane. The plane was seen swooping down, skimming forward as it touched the water. The aviator jockeyed his ship toward the swimmer, leaned out from the cockpit, caught Stanley's arm and pulled him across one of the wings.

The government's launch, Q-12, took Stanley aboard.

OBITUARY.

ICHARD ARMSTRONG.

ighly esteemed citizen of K in died suddenly on Monday mo s. While Richard Armstrong had been known locally as having hea trouble for some months, fro which he had laid off work for abo our months during the severe cold weather, he had recovered stren to enable him to return to work about two weeks ago, remaining on duty till last Saturday evening. On Sunday he was about as usual and retired to bed at his usual time, sleeping fairly well till about two o'clock in the morning, when he felt the need of arising from his bed. He laid down again, and in a few minutes coughed a little and with a sigh the end came easily from heart failure.

The late Richard Armstrong was born near Peterborough and came to Keewatin twenty-five years ago, and since at time has been a steady employee of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. being warehouse foreman. He was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, of fine character and the friend of all who knew him. He was also a faithful member of Minnetonka Lodge of Oddfellows, and of the Keewatin Orange Lodge.

He was married forty-five years ago to Miss Caroline Munro, but there were no children to bless their married life, but it was a happy one nevertheless. The deepest sympathy of all is felt for the bereaved widow in her great loss. There are four brothers and one sister of the family surviving: Fred H., William, John M., and George, and Mrs. R. F. Cummings, all of Keewatin. The funeral took place to Lake of the Woods cemetery, with the Oddfellows' impressive service, and was largely attended.—Keewatin Enterprise.

JOHN MORRISSEY.

DOWNEYVILLE, July 2.—The death occured in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro, Tuesday of John Morrissey of Downeyville. Deceased was in the hospital only a few days and his illness was short, and his death came as a great shock to his family and country at large. Deceased was born in this place 80 years ago and resided here all his life. Just last year he celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary of his marriage. The funeral was held Saturday morning from his late home near the village and was very largely attended by numbers from the surrounding towns and villages. The funeral mass was said by Rev. Father Galvin, assisted by Father McGuire and Father Guiry, both of Peterboro. Rev. Father Guiry, who knew the deceased since childhood, spoke briefly on his life and his great loss to his family and the community in which he lived and offered his sympathy and that of everyone there to the grief-stricken wife and family and especially to the parents, who were present, and many in the congregation were visibly affected. The service at the grave was conducted by Rev. Father Galvin, assisted by Rev. Fathers Guiry and McGuire. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. James O'Neill, Michael O'Neil, Jos. M. Lucas, Ed. C. Hoolihan, Thos. Morrissey and T. J. Morrissey.

C. Hoolihan of this city and Mrs. John O' Reily of Lindsay, two brothers, Thos. and T. both of Emily.

9-YEAR PASTORATE CLOSED ON SUNDAY

Rev. P. L. Jull of Lakefield United Church Preached Farewell Service.

LAKEFIELD, July 2. — A very large congregation assembled in the United (Presbyterian) church on Sunday evening for the concluding service of Rev. P. L. Jull's pastorate. The evening service in the Regent street church was given up and Rev. S. A. Kemp assisted Mr. Jull in the devotional exercises.

Mr. Jull spoke briefly of his coming departure and of the pleasant memories he has of the past nine years and its delightful relations with the community. The speaker said he was built on community lines and with an ancestry which includes Anglican, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian forebears it is hard to be sectarian. In working in the mission fields of the West among all the Protestant churches and Roman Catholics he had gained a broadened outlook and in the nine years spent in Lakefield there were numerous changes in other denominations and it was often his lot to be a helper in the intervals which increased the broad vision of community life. There have been many pleasant community gatherings at the curling rink and elsewhere and it will be a pleasure to return and renew the delightful relations. Relations with brother clergy were always helpful and inspiring.

During the offertory Mrs. MacMillan sang very sweetly, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," accompanied by the organist, Miss Etta Garbutt. Mr. Jull took his text from the 20th verse of the 3rd chapter of the Revelation of St. John the Divine, "Behold I stand at the door and knock."

Mr. Jull's Address.

The world's greatest need today is Jesus Christ. There is nothing that men and women under every condition stand in as great need of. Man is a spirit and because of that he can't be satisfied with merely material things. Every man and woman stands supremely in need of Christ who teaches them how to live and how to live together. Wars and rumors of wars, strikes and lockouts occur because men can't agree to settle their differences. Political, social and domestic disturbances occur for the same reason. Many of the latter are aired in the divorce court but most of them are not. All these things show us that we need Christ to teach us to live together.

How shall we get Christ? That is the church's business, primarily to give Christ to the world. It is not the primary object of the army or navy or industry, commerce, the press, schools or the lodges and societies of men and women who teach service, brotherhood and chivalry. They all have their share of responsibility but it is the church's business to lay the healing hand or seek bodies and to train human minds to think aright and to teach us how to live.

The church cannot give what it has not and unless the church has the spirit of Christ it cannot communicate it.

The Church of Laodicea.

The church is the body of Christ and it is possible for the Church of Christ to be Christless, the body of Christ in which the spirit does not dwell. Christ is pictured as knocking at the door of the church in Laodicea which was a beautiful church with rich members who had an exalted opinion of themselves. They had wealth, and all the appointments to worship in comfort and their handsome edifice looked like a church but Christ's spirit was lacking. They were neither hot nor cold but complacent and self satisfied which was so disgusting to Christ that He said, "I will spew thee out of my mouth." They had locked Christ out of their church. A people's own judgment and that of Christ are often vastly different.

Last week in Chicago one of the greatest, if not the greatest, demonstrations took place of organization and power with richly robed ecclesiastics who elevated the Host before thousands of worshippers. It was a remarkable occasion where more than a score of countries were represented, and where a wonderful demonstration was given of the visualized power of the Roman Catholic church with its three hundred million members.

A year ago some of us were at the inaugural service of the United Church of Canada, held in the Arena, Toronto, where three great historic bodies united to form one great union. If the Church of Canada is alive to the home missionary problem it will make a bold appeal to the people to forget the divisions and remember the unity.

In the Roman Catholic church the the watchword is Catholicity; in the United church it is a national idea for great Canadian national problems.

Some bodies lay great stress on their historic name and the Apostolic succession and their forms of creed but in this is there not great danger of greatness producing littleness. The multitudes and the power will so fill our eyes so that we forget Christ within our lives and unless Christ's spirit is in the church, Christ is not there and if He is not there our pageantry, pomp and wealth are empty show and the body of Christ becomes an empty shell.

The church in Laodicea was a beautiful embalmed corpse and it is not the corpse of Christ but his living body which will save Canada and the world.

The body of Christ should be vibrant with life and should be able to face responsibilities and be able to teach, to comfort and to help. It is a great necessity that the body of Christ should be more than a mere name. If He came to Lakefield He would speak English, wear modern clothes and be concerned with our sins and sorrows, our problems and our tasks and responsibilities and He would stand for truth and righteousness and for promoting the spirit or brotherhood and love. He would be facing our modern life and it is our part to do what Christ would do if He was here today. One can't help feeling that we are spending our immense amount of energy in doing what Christ would not have time to do if He was here. We should be grappling with the problems of life and of bringing the power of God into and hearts of men. Imperfections, coldness and lack of harmony do not come from Christ but show a lack of His spirit. Imperfections in our lives are due to the fact that we are not sufficiently Christian. There are many beautiful attributes which are of Christ, such as fidelity to the common task, faithfulness, charity, which covers a multitude of sins, loyalty, faith, trust and courage.

There are too the ugly things which we deplore and which are not from Christ such as lack of harmony, coldness, slackness, narrowness and bigotry.

Christ stands at the door knocking to get in and His admission is a personal matter; we hold the keys and the door opens inward and the home of Christ is a willing heart. Our acceptance of Christ means to accept wholly for when He comes He comes to reign and many things will have to be cast out.

He changes our lives as He did that of Saul of Tarsus, who from being an enemy to the Christian church became through the spirit of Christ. Paul the Apostle who, instead of thinking the world owed him a living, knew that he owed the world a life. Christ is our friend, councillor and guide and will never fail us. He says: "Lo, I am with you alway even unto the end of the world."

The voice of God is speaking to the human heart offering us new life in His church, doing His work we say: "Come in Lord and reign and be my king, my master and my friend." The last word I wish you to remember is God's word, Christ's word: "Behold I stand at the door and knock and if any man hear my voice open the door I will come in to him and will sup with him and he with me."

Present to Bride.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter, Regent street, on Saturday, where the executive of the United (Presbyterian) church Sunday school met and presented Miss Beatrice Johnston, a bride of the month, with a pair of Dutch silver candlesticks on behalf of her friends and coworkers in the Sunday school. STARS AND STRIPES BUT NO UNION JACK

American Vessel in Trent Canal Shows Lack of Courtesy

LAKEFIELD, July 2.—A large and luxurious private yacht passed through the canal one day last week flying the Stars and Stripes but no Union Jack. This negligence has aroused a good deal of hot feeling among loyal Canadians. To put it mildly it is unneighborly to act in such a discourteous way to a neighbor and Canadians have the right to expect and enforce espect to our flag and our laws. Incidents of this sort occur each year and tend to widen the breach beween the neighboring countries and do no good unless the jingoism of the American gives its devotees any satisfaction.

Miscellaneous Shower.

On Tuesday evening last about sixty ladies gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomson for an interesting and very pleasant event, viz., the presentation of a miscellaneous shower to Miss Beatrice Johnston, a bride of this month. To the familiar strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. M. P. Kennedy, two demure little maidens (Misses Jean Knox and Doris Chittick) drew in a decorated waggon laden with gifts for the bride-elect. The waggon was trimmed with crepe paper and summer flowers in pink and white, and was much admired. The gifts which were numerous and varied and there were few, if any duplicates, and included articles useful for boudoir, kitchen, living room and dining room.

When the gifts were all opened by Miss Johnston, assisted by Mrs. Melville Moncrief and Misses Mollie Thomson and Lelda Northey, the bride-elect in a neat little speech thanked her friends for their kind remembrance of her on this occasion and assured them of her appreciation not only of the gifts but of the kindly spirit which prompted the giving. The remainder of the evening was spent in conversation and Music. Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. D. H. Webster and Miss Cullen contributing solos with Mrs. M. P. Kennedy as accompanist. The gathering dispersed about eleven with many expressions of good wishes and congratulation to the bride-to-be and thanks to Mrs. Thomson and her daughters for affording the opportunity for the delightful evening.

Lilac Social.

A lilac social was held on Monday evening last under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Regent street church in the school room of the church. Lilacs in profusion were used in the decorating scheme and were not only beautiful to look upon but their delicious fragrance permeated the room. Mrs. W. A. Nixon and Mrs. A. E. Higgins and several other ladies were in charge and are to be congratulated on the successful event.

The following programme was rendered:

Hymn.
Prayer.
Chairman's address—Rev. S. A. Kemp.

Reading—Miss Sharp.
Solo—Mrs. D. H. McMillan.
Piano solo—Miss Zetta Nixon.
Solo—Miss Nelson.
Reading—Mrs. Milburn.
Duet— Mesdames Webster and Purdy.
Reading—Mrs. E. A. Higgins.
Reading—Mrs. Milburn.

After the programme the committee served dainty refreshments to those present and the remainder of the evening was spent informally in games, contests and music. In spite of the weather there was a gratifying attendance.

Annual A.Y.P.A. Picnic.

The annual picnic of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's church was held on Thursday afternoon to Sandy Point. The attendance was fairly good but if the crowd was not a bumper one the picnic was not behind previous years in enjoyment. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald kindly allowed the young people the loan of their grounds and a pleasant afternoon and evening was spent. Rev. W. Cox and Mr. C. C. Stenner were the sports' committee and provided lots of fun for the young people.

In the afternoon a game of ball was played between the President's team (C. C. Stenner), and the vice-president's (W. Chappell) team which resulted in a victory for the latter 21-11.

In the evening Mr. Fitzgerald's team clashed with Mr. H. Wannamaker's, with the former victors by a score of 15-8.

The following are winners of the races:

Ladies' egg and spoon race—Miss Dell Watson.

Gent's thread and needle race—Mr. Fitzgerald.

Mixed wheelbarrow race—Mrs. Millage and Mr. C. F. Webster.

The drive home in the moonlight was another of the pleasant features of the trip which will long remain a pleasant memory.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Livingstone Gibson, daughter of Mr. O. S. Gibson of Brantford to Mr. Kenneth Alexander Mackenzie, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie of "The Grove", Lakefield, takes place at St. Peter's church, Stoney Lake, on Saturday, July 3.

After a wonderful weekend on Ontario roads

No speed records were made—for it was a trip of wholesome enjoyment. Two days in the glorious outdoors—in friendly farming country, through alluring woodlands, through fascinating villages and towns.

The trip will be remembered by what was seen, not by the speed at which the road was covered. With moderate driving, every beauty spot was enjoyed; every panorama was appreciated.

There is good sense and good business in moderate driving in the country. Good sense, because it enables you to see everything as you go along. Good business because excessive speed is dangerous and destroys the road surface. As the cost of road maintenance is borne by you and other motorists, you are interested in helping along this movement to preserve Ontario's roads.

Those who persist in breaking the speed laws will find a numerous traffic patrol on the highways, whose duty it is to rigidly enforce the law.

Minister of Highways

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute —Milton.

E. A. S.—You have quite a few conflicting elements in your nature, and life to you must have up to date been rather a precarious proposition at times. You have not always been able to steer a clear course, have you? Naturally, you were well-fitted for mental achievements, or matters connected with business and finance. Then again, you had a tendency to domestic life and service to others appealed to you as being the most worth-while thing in life. And you have been ruled to a great extent by change and uncertainty. You have not been easy to get along with, preferring to throw over the most cherished plans in order to prove your own right to a certain position. You are generous and wholesouled with those you like. With others, you are not at all amiable. Large and true in essence you have spoiled many things for yourself by jealousy, caprice and quick temper, although these have not been carried out to great lengths, owing to deterrent influences for good in your own nature. You have not cultivated patience as much as would have been good for you. You could start now, however. It is never too late to mend. You have always had an inclination to value more the affection which you could not gain than the steady, true liking of real friends. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are shades of tan and buff.

E.T.E.—You were born with a very great liking for pleasure and good cheer, and an aptitude for the fine arts especially acting, singing and dancing. But your life has not followed these channels to any great extent. You have been walled about to a certain extent by reserve and retirement and you have inclined toward the study of the mystic and the occult. Much of what trouble has come to you through your lifetime has been your own fault. You have always resented interference, even when well meant, and you have been inclined to be jealous and exacting in your ways. Naturally large and true, you have always been swayed by caprice, and this has not made for real happiness at times, either for yourself or those about you. You have sacrificed your health to a certain extent through hard work, and in younger life, you were very fond of what you called a real good time. You have never valued to its fullest extent that affection which came easily, rather preferring to look for the liking which eluded you. This is one of the saddest traits in any life, as the good things of affection often are the ones that come most easily, and the truest friends are those who are constant in every situation. You have not always recognized this. To you the valuable thing has been the one out of reach. Well, many people are like this. You are not alone. You were born on Monday. Your color is black.

Pansy.—You are quite a youthful lady, so I am going to tell you some things that you may not appreciate now, but you can look them over in four or five years, and then guide yourself accordingly. You have a strong type of character, and will be well equipped to face the circumstances of life, but you must always watch a tendency to fickleness and change, and try to overcome it, as it is one of the very worst traits, also the commonest. You would make a very good teacher, a desigher, milliner, or business woman of any type. Try to get a good business education, no matter what avocation you choose to follow in life. You are active, independent and persevering, and have a kind, good disposition. You must try always to control your temper and do not become depressed by scolders and fault-finders, whose company you should avoid. Always follow out your own original ideas and make self-reliance your watchword. Dress well and study the art of personal attractiveness. You will be inclined to neglect the arrangement of your hair. Marry while young, a man born in May, July, February or November. March and November will be your good months, Tuesdays and Saturdays your lucky days. You were born on Friday. Your colors are red and brown.

Starlight.—You have good deal of personal attraction, which is often marred by a vacillating quantity in your nature. You are the type that is hard to trust. This is one of the most devastating traits that anyone can possess, and, cMriously enough, it owner often fails to realize that he or she is really fickle and changeable, condoning the fault by asserting a right to individuality and to freedom of mind. You should always associate yourself carefully with others in any enterprise. You will gain nothing by attempting to stand alone and playing the lone wolf, neither will you ever succeed in controlling the affairs of others. Do not try. You are kind-hearted, generous and magnetic, with a strong temper that often gives you and yours much trouble. You are strong in your love for your own people, and will listen to nothing evil about them. You are apt to take a dislike to a person without a real cause, and find it very hard to overcome this trait. You like planning for others, but do not care for detail work. You are fond of rich, highly-seasoned foods, and will do harm to your digestion by this. You would do better in a big city. You were born on Friday. Your color is pink. The day —o ask about, a Tuesday, is one for exercising patience and for making no important purchases.

Insurance.—You were born with a trend toward matters relating to science and business achievement, and should do well in your present occupation, or something higher in line, as promotion comes to you. You have the innate ability to do many things well, but you will be hampered all your life, unless you can overcome this trait, by a fickle and uncertain element in your nature that pulls you this way and that in turn. You may not notice this at once, as you are of the type that thinks very well of yourself, and does not like to see yourself as you really are, but, if you will watch carefully, you will discern this wayward element and also traits of envy and jealousy and quick anger that do not make for peace. In a lesser makeup they would not count for so much, but with you, there are too many fine things in your character to allow weeds to hamper their growth. You will suffer through nervous trouble, caused by an insatiable habit of hurrying things and a desire to finish one task absolutely before beginning another. Try to cultivate the faculty of not seeing little things which annoy and the idea that the other fellow may know as much as you, or perhaps a little bit more, astonishing as it may seem at first. When you get wise to yourself, you may accomplish much. You were born on Thursday, your lucky day. Yous colors are tan and buff shades.

H. F. S.—As I am not a fortune-teller, I cannot answer the questions in your letter. You have a type of nature that is not of the strongest. You were born with a kind and affectionate disposition, but without much efficiency and you have a habit of changing your mind about things that does not always mean success or happiness. If you could strive to have more strength and decision of character, you would do better in many ways. You do not always realize the value of money and are careless about returning borrowed articles. You like to put things off, and this is a very bad habit. You are kind and amiable, with a dislike of cruelty and hard or dirty work. You are easily confused, and dislike crowded and busy thoroughfares. You should try to cultivate habits of order, even in small things, and control worry, anger and impatience. You would make a good real estate dealer. August and December are your good months, and Friday your lucky day. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are gold and white.

M. L. F.—As I am not a fortune-teller, I cannot answer the question contained in your letter. I can only indicate strong signs in your reading, and what path you should follow to attain success. You were born with a strong, active nature that is rather domineering at times, and a little self-centred, but you have with this a great deal of love for your own people and will do best along lines that point to personal service to others, the service inspired by love. You are generous, kindhearted and ardent at heart, but are inclined to be jealous of your friends and companions. You are always fearing poverty, burglars and robbery, and dread being left alone at night. You are fond of money, and may become miserly as you grow older. You have strong healing powers within yourself, but are apt to have trouble with your lungs, throat and kidneys, and should not allow any disease to gain a hold on you, as medicine is very slow to act in your case. February and September are your good months, and Monday your lucky day. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are the many hues of flame, from rose and yellow to gas blue.

ELIMINATION OF WHITE DIARRHOEA

Birds Should be Tested and Infected Ones Removed.

The elimination of bacillary white diarrhoea from the poultry flocks of Ontario depends on three factors; first, the finding out which birds in the breeding flock are infected through the application of the blood serium test: second, the removal of all infected birds from the flock; third, the protection of the young and growing flock.

It has been conclusively proven that this disease is an ovarian infection. Eggs from infected birds carry the bacillus pullorun in the yolk. The chick that develops from an infected egg will be infected and have the disease when it steps out of the shell. Normal chicks running with diseased chicks may pick up the organism through picking up infected materials and feed from the floor of pen or yard. In this way, a few germ carriers may be responsible for a large percentage of the flock going down with the disease. Chickens that survive the attack are always a menace in that they carry the bacillus over to the next breeding season. Find them out and eliminate from the flock at once. The finding out is done by securing a blood sample from each bird and applying to it the blood serum or agglutination test. The test depends on the principal that in the blood serum of infected hens there is a substance produced as a re-action against bacterium pullorun. This substance is spoken of as agglutinin and its function in the test is to cause the bacteria of bacillary white diarrhoea to clump together and precipitate. The blood of birds, free from the bacillus pullorun contains no agglutinating agent and gives a clear reading.—L. Stevenson, O.A. College, Guelph.

HAIR CAME OUT IN COMBFULS

Pimples on Scalp Itched Badly. Cuticura Heals.

"After having the flu my hair fell out so that I had to have it bobbed. I also had some pimples on my scalp and it itched badly. My hair was lifeless and dry, and when I combed it, it came out in combfuls.

"Sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, together with the Cuticura Ointment, I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. H. Elliott, West St., R. R. 4, Orillia, Ont.

CUSTOMS REVENUE SHOWS INCREASE

Last Month's Total Almost Double Figures For June 1925.

A great increase is shown in the Customs returns of the port of Peterboro for the month of June over the same month a year ago, and also an increase over the month of May this year. June showed a revenue of $121,554.83, an increase of $57,429.12 over the month of June last year, and an increase of $10,622.12 over the month of May of this year. The receipts for May, 1926, were $110,932.71 and for June, 1925, $64,125.71.

Up in Toronto.

TORONTO, July 2 (Canadian Press).—Greater prosperity in the city of Toronto than a year ago is indicated by the Customs returns for the month of June and for the past twelve month, according to reports issued by J. H. Bertram, collector of Customs for the port of Toronto, June showed a revenue of $5,100,000, an increase of $700,000 over June, 1925. The total revenue for the past year was $56,314,400, or more than $7,000,000 greater than the previous year.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO CARRY WEIGHTS

An undersized, puny expressman comes trotting along with a trunk three times his own weight on his back. You are amazed at the great strength of such a slight fellow. Yet it is not a question of strength entirely. He has learned by long experience how to lift and carry weights.

For many years, Dr. J. F. Williams, professor of physical training at Columbia University, New York, has studied this interesting subject, and in Popular Science Monthly he gives some of the secrets of lifting heavy objects.

"The strongest muscles in the body," he explains, "are the heavy thigh muscles. These should be used in lifting whenever possible. The shoulders, too, can be used. Don't stoop and expect your arm muscles, supported by the back, to lift a heavy weight. The weight at the end of the arms is at the end of a long lever with rulerum at the pelvis, and the mechanical disadvantage is terrific.

"To pick up a weight, squat with back kept straight. Grasp the object, then straighten up, and the whole work of lifting will be done by the legs.

"Always keep a weight as close to the body as possible. When you can, get the weight on top of your own. Another good idea is to follow the Oriental's plan of balancing weights. If you are planning a long trip, for example, buy two suitcases instead of one. Lifting may cause injury to your whole body."

Paint Now!

And paint with Lowe Brothers' "High Standard" Liquid Paint. It costs approximately ½ cent per square foot. That is another way of saying that per job cost, which should always be the measure of your Paint and Painting costs, High Standard is the most economical paint you can buy. The reason is found in its exceptionally high quality.

Lowe Brothers

"High Standard" Paint is a pure lead and oil paint. It dries to a beautiful high-gloss finish that lasts from two to four years longer than any so-called cheap paint.

Neptunite Varnish

NEVER TURNS WHITE

Neptunite Varnishes have the distinction of being the only Varnish made that can withstand the heat of a hot iron on its surface. They will not turn white, crack under the hammer test or show heel marks. They produce a beautiful finish and cost less than most good varnishes.

MELLOTONE

For Interior Decoration, is a liquid oil paint ready for use. Mellotone combines all durable elements of a lead and oil paint with the delicate beauty of a water paint. It is washable with soap and water.

HARD DRYING FLOOR

Dries overnight to a high-gloss enamel finish. It is so smooth that it requires no scrubbing — light washing will keep it always bright and clean. Anyone can apply it. Is very durable, retaining its finish for an exceptionally long time.

NEPTUNITE VARNISH STAIN

Is a high grade Varnish-Stain for Floors, Trim and Woodwork of all kinds. Varnishes and Stains in one easy operation. The stain colors are non-fading. It has splendid wearing qualities and is very easy to apply.

AUTO GLOSS

Any amateur can renew the finish of his car with Auto-Gloss. It only takes a few hours to do it. It is an easy flowing enamel of exceedingly high gloss and durability. It flows out evenly, leaving no brush-marks or overlappings.

All Stocks Must GO!

LAVOIE'S Big Clearance

Listen Again Folks!

Now that I've had a real chance to look this stock over, I want to come right out in front of the class and tell you that NEVER in my experience have I had such a genuine, all-round, high-quality stock to handle at such low prices! Add to this the fact that Mr. Lavoie is already straining at the leash to leave town, but that this stock must be disposed of before he can do so, and you will readily understand why prices—actual cost prices!—have been slashed and literally murdered to get it out of the way.

And now, whether you've already taken advantage of these big savings or not, don't forget to be on hand over the week-end, for we are breaking out stock from the back especially for the week-end buying. What's more, I'm pricing everything at figures that will stagger you. Nuf sed!

H. C. WILSON,
The Man in Charge.

NOT FOR MANY MOONS HAS PETERBORO SEEN SUCH A "CARNIVAL OF BUYING." BUT THEN, IT HAS BEEN A LONG, LONG TIME SINCE SUCH GENUINE HIGH QUALITY GOODS HAVE BEEN OFFERED AT SUCH RIDICULOUSLY LOW PRICES! ALL DAY LONG THE "LITTLE STORE OF BIG VALUES" HAS BEEN CROWDED TO SUFFOCATION; MANY WOMEN WHO CAME TO "LOOK AROUND" FINALLY FOUGHT THEIR WAY TO THE STREET POSITIVELY LOADED WITH PURCHASES. "THESE SURELY MUST BE SECONDS TO BE SELLING AT THIS PRICE" IS A REMARK YOU CAN HEAR MOST ANY MINUTE; BUT, AS WE'VE SAID BEFORE, THERE'S NOT AN ITEM BUT WHAT IS GUARANTEED "FIRST" QUALITY OF REGULAR LAVOIE STOCK.

Big Week-End Specials

NATURALLY, WITH STOCK GOING SO FAST—SEVERAL LINES ARE ALREADY SOLD OUT—IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO LIST ANYTHING AT THE TIME OF WRITING. THEN AGAIN, WE'VE BEEN SO RUSHED THAT MANY REQUESTS WENT UNFILLED BECAUSE WE HAD NO TIME TO UNPACK RESERVE STOCK. THESE WILL ALL BE ON HAND, HOWEVER, FOR THE WEEK-END, AND IF YOU WANT TO SEE SOME REAL HONEST-TO-GOODNESS BARGAINS, YOU'LL HAVE THAT WISH FULFILLED. BE THERE EARLY, THAT'S ALL!

DEBATE IS HELD BY WARSAW INSTITUTE

Negative Wins Discussion on "Resolved That World is Growing Better.

WARSAW, July 2.—There will be no Woman's Institute meeting in July. A regular meeting will be held in August, probably on Tuesday, August 10, instead of on Thursday, August 12. The subject will be a demonstration in bandaging and kindred subjects.

Business of importance will come up.

The entertainment held by the Warsaw Women's Institute was a decided success. Mr. Currie was chairman. The numbers included the Institute opening ode, and two selections by Dr. Munro's orchestra, each of which was heartily encored.

Mr. Currie's address was interesting, with a certain amount of humor. Among other things he spoke of the work of the Institute.

The Misses Petrie gave two selections on their guitars, which were encored, and they kindly responded.

Mrs. MacIlvena's solo, "Keep on the level with Mother" was much appreciated. Miss Nellie Bullock recited "Neighbors" in her usual style, and was very amusing. Miss Crena Crowe recited "The Mustard Plaster' in her usual good style. Keg'am Mauradian gave "Pack up your troubles" and the "Armenian National Anthem" on his mouth organ. Mr. Albert Bryan, in costume, gave a darkey selection "Hap I Happy", and as an encore "This love of mine".

The principal item on the programme was the debate, resolved: "That the world is growing better." The affirmative was taken by Mr. E. N. McDonald and Mrs. William Forsythe and the negative by Messrs. Fred Crowe and Henry Batten.

Mr. McDonald started out with a reference to the Armenians. Twenty-five years ago, if an Armenian boy managed to get into Canada, he trudged the roads with a pack on his back. Now they are taken into homes.

A few years ago a gathering such as that would always have a certain amount of rowdyism, because of drink. Now the rank and file in Canada and the United States is quite willing to spend large amounts to enforce the law.

Now people are willing to spend large amounts on mother's allowances; also on the old age pensions.

Mr. Batten considered the world was growing worse because of the World War and the conditions arising therefrom. Science had developed for destruction, a colored man must eat by himself. Any one could obtain all the liquor he wanted any place. Even preaching is for a salary. Minimum wage is a big consideration. Not so much family prayer, nor so much prayer in the churches. The modern dress is a disgrace. He hit both sides for political corruption, and class legislation. Now there is the worst kind of slave traffic. He summed up four points: The Word War with its results, the liquor traffic, the political corruption and slavery.

Mr. Forsythe considered the youth of today better trained than the older people had been. She considered Mr. Batten was only bluffing. He would not care to see a woman dressed as they were fifty years ago.

The Watchword of this age is "humanity." Never were the interest of religion so practical, nor so enthusiastic.

One who knew whereof he spoke, said the young people of today were the finest the world had ever known. In some large cities there were more at church on Sundays than in all the theatres, dance halls, and other places of amusement on any week-day. Six dollars is given for missions now, where twenty-five years ago there was only one. Superstition is dying out, and education is within the reach of all.

The world is more wide-awake. The war brought great progress in science for the combating of disease. Nature, science, and God work together. Science and education work together.

Ordinary people may have the best there is. The rich men are a better class of men than rich men ever were before. This is a time of the poor man's opportunity. Only the shiftless need fail. Mrs. Forsythe is a very rapid but very clear speaker, and she backed up her points from the best authorities.

Mr. Crowe considered science with its labor saving, and all the rest of it, as only making the world a better place to live in, not making the world actually better. The people who made the world are not, he considered, growing better. The Romans taught the savages, so, that by the time they were civilized they were proud to be called Roman citizens. Now a conquered race may live on reservations. The white man's love of gold keeps him from doing much for those with whom he comes in contact. The forcible opening of China has caused the yellow peril.

The bootlegging system is much worse than ever before. Educationally, the world has not progressed. As good alfalfa was in Persia three thousand years ago, as is found today.

The best parts of the school books are the Fables of Aesop, a crippled slave who lived three thousand years ago. Some parts of the world may have progressed in science, a greater part has gone back. The Ethiopians were a cultured race, now they are gone. Missionary efforts barely touch the Hindu races. China, once a world power, is now a menace. Greece, Rome, Persia, once great, are now fallen. Mr. Crowe is a very clear, rapid and forceful speaker.

Mr. McDonald showed that much progress had been made in missionary work in India. The United States officials who will find and ta xsmall articles, quite willingly let the liquor come in.

Political corruption as it is now is ony a little bit compared with what it used to be. Until Peter Smith was put in jail a cabinet minister could do about what he liked, and was exempt.

If a person has a term in jail and behaves himself he gets out before that term is served, and there is a parole board to see that he is.

Dr. Munro was judge. While he was looking over his notes there was a parcel post sale. O. B. McIlvena made a splendid auctioneer. Most of the parcels were worth a good deal more than the ten cents asked, and the majority went at fifteen and twenty cents; a very few went up to thirty-five cents.

Dr. Munro announced his decision. He found it very hard to decide. The first two speakers were easily even. Mrs. Forsyth read her notes (a thing she never did do, but she had had severe illness in the house for two weeks) and while she had many good points. After considering the way Mr. Crowe delivered his debate, he decided to give the decision in his favor.

As the hour was growing late some solos and an orchestra selection were cut out. After the National Anthem those who had assisted and those who had come with them were served refreshments.

Mr. Fred Hairsine from Essex and Mr. and Mrs. Wemp from Kent county, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Richard Batten for two weeks, left on Friday morning for their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Weller have moved into the house lately occupied by William Selkirk and family.

Work in China is Subject of Special Programme at Bethany.

BETHANY, July 2.—On Sunday afternoon in the United Sunday School a missionary programme was given. The programme was prepared by the Missionary programme committee under the leadership of Mrs. Otto Spencer. The subject for study was China.

Hibbert, by Mrs. Spencer; solo by Mrs. Poulter; a story of a Chinese idol, by Mrs. Jackson for the benefit of the younger scholars; duet by Miss Helen Byers and Mr. Keith Thorndyke; John Porteous then read a very interesting letter from Mr. Sparling of China which told of his trip to one of the Chinese sacred mountains; Miss Elsie Richardson sang a solo and Mr. W. A. Jackson led in prayer for the missionaries and the mission cause.

The senior baseball team played the Mount Pleasant team at Mount Pleasant Monday evening, the score being 5-4 in favor of Bethany.

TAILORED SUIT, SMALL HAT, AND BLACK—THAT'S VOGUE

By BETSY SCHUYLER,
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The United Hunts meet at Belmont Park brought out the Social Registerites in full force, and it was possible to learn how the ultra-smart set of New York stand on several important issues.

Therefore, I wish to report:

That the vogue of the moment is undoubtedly the tailored suit—

That the small hat with more crown and less brim is the correct accompaniment in millinery—

That black is smarter than ever before.

Mrs. Harry C. Cushing, formerly Cathleen Vanderbilt, was there in a black kasha suit with a long coat and box pleated skirt. Her tiny black hat concealed her eyes, and one had an impression only of very red lips and a pale skin. She was wearing black hosiery.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney wore black, but there were interesting touches of white on the cuffs and collar of her long wrap.

The former Consuelo Vanderbilt, now Mrs. Earle T. Smith, wore a suit of navy blue, with leather brown collar and cuffs, and her navy blue silk hat was faced with the brown.

The Smiths gave every appearance of being extremely devoted, and remained together in their box all during the meet.

In contrast to the quiet costume of her daughter, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt was extremely colorful in a coral colored costume trimmed with darker bands. Her hat was a draped turban of black satin.

Very tailored indeed was Mrs. Payne Whitney in grey mixed tweed with a black felt hat and a red scarf and a gardenia in her buttonhole.

I thought Mrs. George U. Harris looked extremely smart in her all black costume with the cape coat, small black satin hat and a red rose nestling in her silver fox fur.

One of the most charming combinations of the day was on Mrs. Van H. Cartmell, formerly Dorothy Clapp. With a suit of dark grey mixed material she wore a small black hat, a yellow scarf and a green leather hand bag.

I saw ever so many yellow scarfs, particularly with black or dark grey outfits, and the effect is decidedly individual.

Rosalie Evans was there in a blue suit not many shades removed from Alice blue, and a silver fox. Marjorie Oelrichs, with a very startling ochre make-up, wore an attractive wrap banded with leopard skin, and a tiny black hat with a green feather.

The New York society woman is very conservative in her day clothes and apparently never minds looking like her neighbor. The theatrical women are not so apt to conform. I saw a number of motion picture and stage celebrities at a theatrical opening the other evening, and they certainly added to the gayety of the scene.

There was Carlotta Monterey, in black satin and white ermine, carrying out her own black and white color scheme. I have never seen her when I suspected her of rouge. Her complexion is about as near ivory as any I have seen.

Alice Joyce's chinchilla coat, wrapped around her slender figure, was something to write home about, and so was the white taffeta frock beneath. Ann Nichols, mother of Abie's Irish Rose, was very regal in black velvet.

Anita Loos, who usually looks very tailored and boyish, was quite too alluringly feminine in black chiffon with a black velvet wrap lined with heliotrope satin. She looks younger than any debutante I can mention.

Grace George wore a picture frock, I should say of Lanvin origin, in what seemed to be very heavy ivory colored silk, and a mink coat of the most superb cut.

Norma Talmadge was in white chiffon with many draperies edged in crystal beads, cut in an extremely deep V in the back.

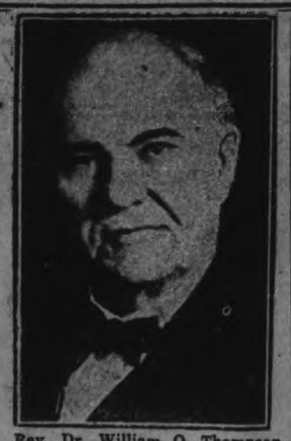
There were Spanish shawls of gorgeous coloring, and several very intricately embroidered mandarin coats.

Phantom Rider Visits Burial Place Of Steed

BROMLEY, England. — A meadow at Hayes, in which there is a 12-foot high memorial to a horse, is said to be haunted by a phantom horseman. The memorial was erected by the late Mr. Goodhart, of Beckenham, to his favorite riding horse, buried underneath, and it is the spirit of Mr. Goodhart on his white horse that a number of villagers declare they have seen at night, galloping across the meadow, past the memorial, and vanishing in the hedge bordering Park Langley golft course.

The stately mansion and grounds of Park Langley belonged to Mr. Goodhart.

Steep regions cannot be surmounted except with winding paths.
—Goethe.



Rev. Dr. William O. Thompson, chosen Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States at the General Assembly in Baltimore by the modernist vote, 535 to 382.

CONVICT INVENTOR

Two years ago, C. L. Skinner of Los Angeles, was sentenced to four years in San Quentin Penitentiary, in a tangle over a check. He was just one of a thousand oil well drillers in Southern California. Today, he is the inventor of a device for which a large oil company has offered half a million dollars cash, and he expects his invention to pay him from ten to twenty million dollars in the next ten years.

His invention, says Popular Science Monthly, prevents the loss of tools, such as bits and drills, used in the rotary drilling of oil wells. It will mean a saving to the American oil industry of ten million dollars a year, according to Skinner and other experts.

Skinner always had considered this tremendous waste necessary, and until he entered the penitentiary, had never thought of trying to prevent it. Alone in his cell one night, he hit upon an idea and worked out a model in his spare time. Subsequently, Warden Frank J. Smith and other officials gave him the use of the prison shop and of tools, to perfect the invention.

By the rotary method of drilling, a hole is drilled by the constant turning of a line of pipe fitted with a bit at the lower end. In the ordinary rotary drill, only a pipe sustains the tools in the hole, and if the pipe breaks under the strain of the bit, the tools are lost. Frequently they are never recovered, remaining in the hole to prevent further drilling.

Skinner's invention, however, provides for a continuous cable running through the pipe, from the surface of the earth to the bottom of the well. At the bottom, the cable threads into a socket on the upper end of the drill or bit. Thus, even should one or more joints of the pipe break, the cable remains intact, making it possible to pull out the pipe and tools.

JUNE DEATHS NUMBER 88

Great Increase Over Last Year's Figures—Fewer Births.

VITAL STATISTICS.

There was a very decided increase in the number of deaths in this city for the month of June over the corresponding month a year ago. The births and marriages were less. The vital statistics for June are births 43, deaths 88, and marriages 20, and for the same month a year ago births 47, deaths 22, and marriages 21.

SCHOOL MUSIC IN MANCHESTER

Report Just Issued Tells of Good Work in Ten Years.

DONE THOROUGHLY.

BY ARTHUR MASON

The Manchested Education Committee has just issued a report covering its activities in the elementary schools of that city during the ten years, 1914 to 1924. It is a document of great interest, and the total effect of its many sections is to give impressive witness to the range and the thoroughness of the work that is being done for Manchester's children—and, therefore, for Manchester, and for the country at large—by means of the highly organized educational scheme administered by this authority.

Importance of School Music.

One of the sections of the report surveys the music teaching of Manchester's schools—not the least important of the subjects under review and one in respect of which the Manchester Education Committee has to its credit some of its best success. The experience of Manchester in this regard, and the evidence here to hand of the possibilities attaching, in the elementary schools, to enlightened, systematic, and comprehensive handling of this subject, deserve the attention of all who are interested in school music teaching. There can be no doubt that education in music is an important branch of school education. In consequence of the more and more clear recognition of its importance, school music is increasingly of interest to eduationists, it covers an ever-widening area of educational activity, the number both of the teachers and of the children concerned in it steadily grows larger, and methods of teaching it are better methods by reason of the study now given to the subject by those who teach it and those who direct its teaching.

All this is, of course, as it should be. We have only to remember music's beneficient influence in the world, and to reflect that millions of children are concerned in it, and that the children of today are the nation of a few years hence, in order to appreciate the value of an adequate scheme of school music teaching to this vast body of potential music lovers, to music itself, and to many things else that relate to the well-being of the public.

Manchester's Scheme.

The teaching of music in the Manchester elementary schools is, as this report shows, the result of the Education Committee's desire to provide those schools with such a scheme. Since 1918, when that Committee inaugurated the plan of school music teaching now operating in Manchester, it has had the advantage of the services of a Musical Adviser—Dr. Walter Carroll—whose work was bound to be fruitful, since it would be the work of one who is both an enthusiast in this subject and an enlightened teacher and administrator. Quite evidently Manchester's school music teaching has been fortunate in respect of the ability with which it has been handled by the staff entrusted with its direction.

It is a scheme which is noteworthy as much for its range as for its completness. The curriculum has in view the training of the child to perform well, to listen well, and to utilize well the knowedge and the skill it acquires. To that end these factors are regarded as essential, or desirable—teachers of adequate capacity—a good piano, kept in repair and thoroughly tuned—use of music as a link with other subjects, e.g., songs and speech, songs and history, rythm and physical movement—development, by means of wise choice of school songs, of a sense of what is best in poetry and in music—a school's orchestra—a series of concerts and concert lessons of good music.

Teaching the Teachers.

The fundamental element of successful application of this curriculum was, obviously, a supply of adequately equipped teachers of the subject, and this was provided for by a series of lectures to the Committee's teachers, three courses of lectures, one in each year, each course consisting of eight lecture demonstrations covering the subject from its elementary to its advanced stages. Their voluntary attendance, after school hours, was asked of the teachers, and 3,500 have attended, since 1918, at least one year's course of lectures, and 1,500 have completed the full three years' training. The effect upon Manchester's school music of this body of instructed teaching capacity no doubt has been, and still is, very great.

Features of the Scheme.

A feature of the scheme, apart from its insistence on vocal music as its most important care, is its teaching of musical appreciation, a subject which is not always handled in the best interests either of music or of students of music. The Manchester children, however, seem well provided for in this regard. Three instructors, each of them responsible for thirty-six schools, give these lessons, which include talks, with illustrations, on the history and development of music and performance of music, by the lecturer or by gramaphone reproduction, of the great composers. In this regard, too, the correlation of music with poetry, with painting and with history, is kept within the children's view, and, as the report points out, use is made of the songs of various lands to emphasize the contact that exists, even as between music and geography.

One result of the operation of the scheme is that in the Manchester schools sight-singing from the staff notation is a familiar exercise, aural training and voice training are taught everywhere, improved teaching of songs and hymns gives desirable results, and the formation of small choirs within the schools is not only possible, but has had admirable influence upon the musical progress of the children.

ST JOHN'S SENIOR S. S. ANNUAL OUTING

The annual picnic of St. John's Senior Sunday School was held on Tuesday afternoon at Nicholls' Oval. Although dark clouds and thunderstorms threatened in the early hours, it turned out fine for the rest of the day, with a fair attendance.

The Refreshment committee (Mrs. G. S. Parlour, convenor), Mrs. Deyman, Miss Marjorie Turner, and Mrs Ross) is to be praised for the manner in which they did their part, and especially Mrs. Parlour for her untiring efforts.

The Committee in charge of the Sports (Miss F. M. Long, Miss M. Evans, Mr. H. Long and Mr. A. Bacon) left nothing to be desired.

Before supper was served the Doxology was sung led by Rev. Dr. Blagrave. Then the refreshments were served by the teachers, the superintendent, Mr. E. Sorby, and Mr. Levesconte.

Before the races a game of baseball was played with Mr. Bert Graham in charge.

By the time the day was over Mrs. Parlour's committee was quite tired out but managed to finish out the day.

The many donors called upon by Mrs. Parlour, the Sports Committee, and Rev. Dr. Blagrave are to be thanked for the very generous manner in which they responded in their different capacities.

The heavy lines show highways on which bus lines operate regularly.

RAPIDLY the motorbus is making of Ontario one great neighborhood. Already the populated parts of the province are covered by a network of motorbus lines. North, south, east and west, they draw the cities, towns and farms together, keeping them in daily, hourly communication with each other. The bus picks up the farmer at his gate and sets him down at the market-place. It speeds the salesman, doctor, minister on their calls.

Modern bus travel, with its advantages, would be impossible without the pneumatic bus tire. And in buses, as in privately-owned automobiles, more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

When you travel by bus, in easy chairs, looking through wide observation windows at the ever-changing scenery, or when your trip is made in your own car, much of the comfort of your journey is due to Goodyear Tires.

When bus or car enables you to make a business trip in a hurry—or when you decide to spend a holiday in the country and the bus or car makes a wonderful picnic possible—the reliability of Goodyear Tires insures your schedule being maintained.

Perhaps, in your case, tire economy is not of greatest importance—but it is a vital matter in bus operation. And here Goodyear SUPERTWIST, with the greater mileage it adds to tires, gives an economy which you, too, can enjoy.

And certainly you are equally interested with the bus owner in safety—which most bus owners insure by putting under their buses the clinging grip of the All-Weather Tread.

Your travel by bus is made safer, faster, cheaper, because of Goodyear Tires. To your private motoring you can add these same advantages by seeing your Goodyear Selected Dealer.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBED A COOL PRINTED CREPE FROCK.

Before I plan exactly how to make any frock that I have under consideration I notice all the well-dressed people I see, for I find this a wonderful help.

Of course Madame, who is a born designer, does not need to observe other people's frocks in order to know how she wants to make a certain model, but with me it's different. I've only become interested in designing since I've become a fashion model.

I do try to develop originality in the matter of planning new clothes, as I think everyone should, but seeing things on other people is a great help.

I'm very enthusiastic just now over a polka-dotted crepe frock I've planned for the Summer months.

To begin with, the dark blue crepe has big white coin dots and there are pleated panels at the sides. The thing I'm most enthusiastic about is the edging of these panels, which is dark blue chiffon, a single layer of it, about six inches deep. These fly back when I walk and the thin chiffon does look awfully cool, whether I happen to feel that way at the time or not. As Pam says:

"Half the battle of looking smart in very hot weather is to appear cool and crisp, whether you feel cool or not."

Then the frock has navy chiffon cuffs, and navy chiffon in bands on the white crepe collar.

Pam liked my idea so well that she is planning a crepe frock which I think will be very smart.

It is to be black and white print, and she is planning for a simple frock with rounded neck and long, plain sleeves. There is to be a knife-pleated apron at the front edged with black chiffon just like my pleated side panels.

We have been spending our luncheon periods looking about for inexpensive straw hats.

Pam goes on the same theory of looking cool, as far as the hat question is concerned. She absolutely refuses to wear felt or ribbon hats in warm weather, no matter how smart they might happen to be, because she maintains they can't be as cool as lightweight straw.

SAVE YOUR TEETH

Prepared by the Oral Hygiene Committee of Canada, with which the Peterborough Dental Society is Collaborating.

THE GOLD FOIL FILLING.

You present yourself to your dentist with a cavity in a front tooth and possibly he advises a gold foil filling.

Now just what is this?

This filling is made up from small pieces of pure gold which has the property of welding cold when the contacting surfaces are perfectly clean.

So your dentist, having prepared the cavity, takes up the gold piece by piece, and with his instruments, packs and mallets into place until a dense strong filling of proper contour is built. So it gets its name, too, of 'hammered gold filling.'

But what are its advantages?

Gold, it is safe to assert, is totally indestructible to the oral fluids which cannot be said of any other filling material except platinum, but which is of course, prohibitive to the average patient on account of its cost.

Too, gold, can be perfectly adapted to the cavity margins, this preventing the ingress of oral fluids with their contaminating bacteria. This possibly is one of its chief advantages for, wherever mouth fluids can gain entrance within tooth tissue, the micro-organisms will follow and set up the process of decay.

Nor is there any possibility of coloration of either the filling or the tooth tissue, as invariably occurs with the silver filling: nor of the 'brown line' that is occasionally disclosed at the junction of the silicate filling material, and the tooth structure where mouth secretions may seep in.

Moreover, gold, when polished, takes a pleasing finish and while totally foreign to tooth tissue, at the same time it's appearance in the mouth is much to be desired above that of 'white fillings' that are badly finished or ill-matched.

Gold is always good: and when you have a gold filling, you have the best.

Longer Skirts? Not in Small Circles, Says London

In fashions, England for the English has produced a number of important and classic styles. The smock, the brilliant blazer jacket for tennis and boating, the tailored suit, the middy, the raglan sleeve and Eton collar are among her contributions to dress. Among her children's fashions the straight gathered skirt put on at the waistline of the hour is a perennial favorite. Just now it is low, reducing the brief skirt almost to the status of a ruffle. In the smart shops in Bond Street you find these frocks in striped silk pongee, checked gingham, pin-dot swiss, crêpe de Chine, chambray and cotton broadcloth. For parties it is made of taffeta with organdy collar and cuffs trimmed with lace.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

BLACKMAIL?

"You do not mean to tell me, Joan, that Barry Cornwall did not love you?"

"He did not, he does not. He never did love me for a moment."

Joan's face grew hard and she sat up straight and the tears dried on her lashes.

"Up until today I thought he did, but now I know much better. When I went over to The Circle after I had bought those handkerchiefs of you, I showed them to him and told him they were a birthday present for my brother. He looked up quickly and said: 'Why darling, I thought you had bought them for me. Today is my birthday.'

"Of course, I gave them to him, and he was so sweet about it, that when he said: 'Dearest, I cannot wait any longer. Let's get married tonight,' I was only too glad to fall in with his plans. I remember now thinking that he acted worried over something.

"But while I was with him I was perfectly happy, but when I left him to make a few preparations I began to get frightened.

"It was then, dear, that I thought of you. You were a girl just like myself and instinctively I knew that you would understand.

"I rushed back to the store with an excuse that I wanted to buy more handkerchiefs and while you were picking them out I asked you to dine with me.

"After I left you I came out here, called up Barry, and told him that I was going to meet him at The Circle immediately. When we met I told him my plan, saying that you were coming to dine with me and I was going to bring you to see us married.

"Immediately he became so angry that I was afraid. He insisted that no one should witness the ceremony, but I would not give in. At last I told him indignantly that I would not marry him secretly or any other way.

"He was beside himself with rage and answered contemptuously that I could not marry him secretly or any other way as he was already married to Lela.

"For a minute or two I was so stunned that I could not speak.

"'Why were you going through a fake marriage ceremony with me?' I asked.

"'Because I found this morning that I must have fifty thousand dollars before tomorrow night and I knew if I went to your step-father and told him tomorrow morning that I was your husband he would buy me off for that amount and think it was cheap at the price.

"'Good-bye, Barry,' I said and turned to go.

"He grasped my arm right here." Pulling up her sleeves Joan showed me a great black and blue spot.

"'Wait a minute, Joan, you heard me say that I must have fifty thousand dollars before tomorrow night,' said Barry. 'Well, you must get it for me.'"

"I pulled myself, Judy, away from Barry Cornwall's grasp. A kind of desperate courage filled me.

"'Let me go,' I said.

"'After this last hour in your company, Mr. Cornwall, your needs mean nothing to me,' I said. 'You are a perfect stranger to me, and I am not in the habit of handing out fifty thousand dollars upon request from strangers just because they have asked me for it.'

"I made myself look up into the man's face and what I saw there confirmed my words. It was a complete stranger who stood in front of me. The eyes looking down into mine were cruel slits in his menacing face through which were glittering steel grey pupils that had narrowed to a pin point.

"'You're mistaken, Joan,' said this man. 'It does mean almost as much to you as it does to me.'

"'I don't quite understand,' I answered, 'Besides, I think there is a penalty for blackmail.'

"Judy, I was surprised at the coolness of the voice that spoke that sentence. I didn't know I had so much nerve.

"'I'm in a jam,' Barry confessed, 'where I must risk even that.'

"He stopped to light a cigaret, and I noticed that his hands did not tremble.

"'You were more courageous than I thought, my dear Joan,' he observed, 'and believe it or not I am more in love with you than ever. But even at that I do not love you enough to spend the next ten years of life in prison, which I will probably do if I do not get the money.'

"'I didn't intend to do this, Joan,' he continued, 'for had things been different I think I could have made you a good husband and you would never have known this side of me at all. In fact, I am not sure that I would have known it myself.'

"'I thought I heard a tiny intimation of pity in his voice, but looking into his cruel eyes I concluded that I was mistaken. At least the pity was not for me.

"'I still cannot understand, Barry, how you expect to get that money from me.'

"'How much will you give me for that page on the register of The Woodland Inn?'

"'What page?' I asked wonderingly.

"He could not meet my eyes as he said: 'The page upon which is written 'Barry Cornwall and wife.'"

"I felt my knees grow weak, Judy. 'Is that the way you wrote it?' I asked.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY JULY 3.

There may be much moving about on this day, according to the planetary operations, especially the sextile of Ukranus, which rules travel and change. Under the friendly reign of Jupiter and other important orbs, things should thrive and bring pleasure despite a small annoyance, probably of a domestic nature. The mind may turn to the artistic and romantic. New ventures in almost any direction should prosper, as should poetry, music and art.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively and interesting year, with some change or travel indicated. The nature may lean toward the adventurous and the romantic, with new projects engaging the attention. All should prosper, in spite of some trifling personal annoyance. A child born on this day may have a fine nature, given to poetry, music and the finer things of life, in which it should make a success. Its financial prospects and ambitions generally are well fortified, although it may be independent and fond of change.

As a moth gnaws a garment, so envy consumeth a man.

PERFUME FADS.

Light flower scents for the stay-at-home evening. No perfume for the golf course or the bridle path. Exotic heavy perfumes for the drama. These are some of the latest perfume style notes from the arbitrary world of Fashion. It is in better taste, says the same dogmatic gal, to match perfumes to different gowns than to use one individual perfume for all outfits. I am sure that the sisterhood is much relieved to be set at rest on this weighty subject.

"NO TIME!"

"How I envy you people who have time to do things!" is a moan that any "writing person" often hears! In my morning mail came a note from Dorothy Walworth Carman, author of that spicy tome, "The Pride of the Town," about which I have herein raved before. Mrs. Carman writes me —"I write my books while doing my own work and taking care of my baby, too. I wrote my first one, 'Faith of Our Fathers,' while she was teething, and I wrote whole chapters of my second on top of the kitchen table with one eye on the frying pan. I wanted to write so much that nothing could stop me!"

NOT COOL WEATHER!

I am about to speak of something that is by no means "hot weather stuff!" But the plea of "Serious" cannot be denied. "Serious" writes that for the first time in 10 years she is to have a real vacation—"and I want to make it count. I want to know something about psychology. What are some beginners' books?"

Blessings on you, and a pitcher of iced lemonade beside your hammock! Try Angell's "Introduction to Psychology:" Titchener's "Beginner's Psychology:" Buckham's "Personality and Psychology:" Drever's "Psychology of Everyday Life:" Barrett's "The New Psychology."

"BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH."

A very novel new commercial scheme is a Book-of-the-Month Club which should be a bonanza to busy ladies and clubs that "want to keep up." A selecting committee composed of big names in the world literary, selects each month the book of the month which is mailed to all club members. If the book received is not really desirable it can be returned for another selected from a list of several month's best books prepared by the committee. Now why didn't someone think of this before?

"STRAWBERRIES ON THE HILL."

It's berry time. Vary the time-honored shortcake with an occasional berry pudding. One quart berries, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup water, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup milk, 1 cup sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder. Put berries, sugar and water into a deep kettle, and when boiling, drop over the fruit batter which is made by beating the egg well, adding the melted butter, sugar, and milk, and the flour and baking powder. All beat well, dropped into the kettle, and cooked for 20 minutes.

OLD MEN AND CIGARETS.

"Cigarets smoked by young girls are improper: by older women, intolerable." So said General Erich Ludendorff, divorcing his old wife. Rumor has it that he is to wed a new wife who is a noted feminist and author of various books on sex subjects. Some might say something about the frying pan and the fire.

"AT COURT."

Plumes, tiaras, aigrettes waved aloft from the topknots of 15 American maids and matrons presented at court a few days ago. Just a few minutes and the labor of months was over. For behind each court presentation is a story of hours of nervous energy consumed in being trained to kneel and bow gracefully. And the court costume which must be just so in every detial and must cost at least a thousand dollars is too formal for any lesser events in a court presentee's life. But still, she can say forever after, "when I was presented at court!"

The Home Kitchen

By Jeannette Norton

ECONOMICAL USES FOR STALE BREAD.

Even in the most economical kitchen, stale bread is apt to accumulate, especially in warm weather. There are many ways of using the bread if it is used before any mould appears on the crust. The soft center may be dried down, after cutting in thick slices and removing the crust. When the bread is dry, roll down for use as croquettes, in meat loaf and for escalloped dishes. The crusts may be dried down and rolled very fine for breading chops, oysters, egg plants or tomatoes that are to be fried. Part may be rolled coarsely for pudding use. All the crumbs should be kept in glass jars in a dry, light place. The stale brown or whole wheat bread crumbs may be used in crumb puddings where plenty of fruit is added.

Butterscotch Bread Pudding.

Put a generous half cupful of butter and two and a half cupfuls of sugar into a small frying pan and cook until it is a dark brown. Do not burn it. Add a quart and a quarter of sweet rich milk and turn into a double boiler. Add a pint of hot water, a teaspoonful of salt and five beaten eggs. Blend all together, but do not boil. Add two teaspoonfuls of flavoring, a small grating of nutmeg and a little over a quart of stale bread cut in cubes. Turn into a buttered pudding dish or individual molds, set in a pan of water and bake. Try with a knife and if it comes out clean the pudding is done. Just before taking it from the oven cover the top with halved fresh marshmallows and leave them in the oven just long enough to brown delicately.

This Black Lace Dinner Frock Is Worn Over a Red Slip

Fashion decrees this season that every smart woman must have a black evening frock. The vogue is a most practical one, for there is nothing more useful or more becoming.

The frock may be all black, or it may be black over a color, as in the model shown above. The material is black lace, and the slip beneath is red georgette. A red rose on the frock and a silver tissue scarf of fine mesh complete the effect.

The same lace frock may be worn over varying slips. A black slip and one of flesh would make pleasing variations.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Last year the automobile owned by American citizens killed 23,000 human beings. It is almost too terrible to believe.

But let me tell you the rest of the heart-breaking story. In addition to those who died, 700,000 were more or less seriously injured as a result of Automobile accidents. Most of such fatalities and injuries are preventable.

Recently there was a meeting of the American Road Builders' Association. The retiring president, Mr. Wm. H. Connell, said, "Making the highways safe is the biggest problem of the day."

He pointed out the importance of equipping the highways with signals and adequate policing. "While drastic measures must be taken to eliminate reckless driving," he said, "a great deal of money must also be spent in the elimination of dangerous conditions on the public highways."

"Many of the highways are entirely inadequate from the safety standpoint for modern traffic, having been originally designed for horse-drawn vehicles. The elimination of hazards should be carried on jointly with the construction of new roads, and through the improvement of those already constructed."

The misleading thing about the figures I have given, is that they do not begin to cover the suffering and cost caused by injury or death. The immediate family, an average of five, perhaps, must mourn, and dozens of friends and neighbors are numbered among those touched by these unnecessary accidents.

In considering the cause for automobile accidents, we must not overlook the carelessness and recklessness of many drivers. It is a daily wonder to me that more people are not hurt.

If you love your fellow man, you will not conduct yourself in such manner as to endanger his life. If you have no regard for your own safety, at least you should consider his.

I served as a member of a medical draft board during the World War. It was shocking how many men presented themselves for examination who were physically unfit. What was more amazing was the number of men engaged in the operation of public utilities who were deaf or otherwise defective. But, worse than this, there were many who had exceedingly defective sight.

All applicants for driver's licenses should be required to submit to enough of a physical examination as to ensure the safety of the public from accidents which might result in consequence of physical defects.

This examination would serve a double purpose. It would eliminate the unfit. But, even better than this, it would call attention to the defects, most of which are removable.

For your own good you should see your doctor at regular intervals and find out if you are fit. Early discovery of defects will permit such treatment as will overcome them.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson E. Waite Shawnee Okla.

Edwin A. Sutphin, national advertising manager of The New York Sun, says:

THAT, according to the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, National Advertising in newspapers in 1925 reached a total of 220,000,000.00 This represented an increase of slightly less than 10% over 1924, and set a new record for the value of space bought by National Advertisers.

This consistent growth in National Advertising is a clear indication of its productiveness to the advertiser and of the Public's confidence in nationally advertised products.

The manufacturers in recent years have given more thoughtful consideration to the merit of their products, distribution and sales copy and have found from real tested experience that the public can be influenced through truthful and thoughtful advertising.

Successful publishers, with the full appreciation of their responsibility to their community, recognize that truth in advertising, as in news, is the best policy. Many successful newspapers censor very carefully all advertising submitted for publication, in order that their readers' confidence may not be abused through fraudulent or misleading advertising.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Fort Erie, Ontario, Canada.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS MAKES A NEW FRIEND.

Doris saw the queer-looking creature run into the underbrush, so she sat down quietly on a stone, to wait for it to come out.

"Goodness, I've seen many funny-looking animals since I've been in South America," she mused. "I wish Squee——" she got no farther, for the very little elfin of whom she was thinking popped up beside her.

"I was just wondering when you were going to wish for me," he laughed. "Who was that who ran into the bushes?"

"Oh, Squeedee, you dear! I was just going to ask that question myself," laughed Doris, shaking the wee elfin's hand. "From the view I had of him before he scooted out of sight he looked for all the world like a hog. Yet there was something funny about him, too. Will he come out again, Squeedee?"

"He will if I can get word to him that it's friends and not enemies waiting for him," replied the elfin. "Hey, there!" he called. "Come out. It's Squeedee."

"This Is Mr. Tapir."

The bushes soon parted and one of the queerest looking creatures Doris had ever seen came slowly out to greet Squeedee.

"Gracious on us, if it isn't Mr. Tapir himself," cried the elfin, patting the queer creature's head. "This is my little friend, Doris, from North America."

Doris bowed very politely, looking the fellow over carefully all the while.

He looked very much like a hog, except that he carried a funny little trunk just like Mr. Elephant's, only, of course, not nearly so big. He was brownish-black and an interesting looking fellow.

"Well, Mr. Tapir, I thought you were a hog," said Doris. "Now that I see your elephant's trunk I don't know what to call you. Do you live around here?"

"Well, in the first place, I'm not any relation to either hog or elephant," replied Mr. Tapir. "I'm just a plain tapir, that's all, and I make my home right here in the thick forests of South America."

"How did you see me so quickly?" Doris asked, for Mr. Tapir had shot through the bushes like a streak of lightning when she came in sight.

"I didn't even see you," replied Mr. Tapir. "I have a wonderful sense of smell, and when my nose tells me a stranger or enemy is near, I never wait to prove it by sight: I just turn and run. I have to be swift, for old Jaguar is one of my worst enemies, and once he gets on me I am done for. When my nose says run I never wait for my eyes to agree with it: I just run or swim. You know, I'm a splendid swimmer, too. Hunters don't bother me very much, I'm so swift, and if a bullet did hit my hide it's so thick the bullet would bounce off. Well, I hope I'll see you again, Miss Doris." Then, bowing very politely, Mr. Tapir hurried away in the thick bushes.

After that Doris and Squeedee wandered on through the woods in search of new adventures.

The new Richmond station of the Philadelphia Electric Co. is typical of the huge electric plants that are built nowadays. The first section of this plant will use 450 million gallons of water every day—one and a half times as much as the whole city of Philadelphia uses in the same space of time. Each smokestack would allow two seven-passenger automobiles to pass through it side by side. The generators would light four million 50-watt lamps.

God could not be everywhere, therefore He made mothers.

Tells How to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots and Have a Beautiful Complexion

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine from any drug or department store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have begun to disappear, ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

Moviegraphs

HOLLYWOOD, — The 1926 bathing beach costume of the film set is being directed primarily at the imagination, rather than at the untutored and gaping eye of the beholder, as the season opens hereabouts. Coyness, not boldness, is the keynote in seaside manners.

A wave of conservatism has very markedly expanded the one-time brief, not to say negligible, one-piece suit which, if memory serves right, was launched upon a breathless world by the old Sennett beauty chorus.

Two-piece attire is the fashion of the hour among the movie leaders. And, worn by some who helped popularize the former skin-tight models, they seem strangely old-fashioned. Most of the surf designs are profusely decorated, covering the entire body, without even a knee showing.

If, as is usually the case, the bathing populace follows the pace of the movie mermaids, seaside censors will actually have time this year to do a little swimming themselves.

However, none of the suits fails to accentuate the figure most alluringly. They set their wearers apart from the horde. And, as Marie Prevost, who came to stardom via the Mack Sennett bathing beauty clan, succinctly states the case—"They lend an air of intrigue which the skin-tight, single-piece suit failed to achieve."

Among celebrities seen in two-piece suits with stockings at the official beach opening day were Colleen Moore, Florence Vidor, Clara Bow, Esther Ralston, Marguerite de la Motte, Mary Brian and Lelita Lee.

There is a gaping wound in the side of Hollywood where wreckers are leveling the historic movie buildings on the Famous Players-Lasky lot, as the company prepares to occupy its new 26-acre home two miles away.

Here, a dozen years ago, Jesse L. Lasky and Cecil B. De Mille pooled their money and rented a barn in the midst of a secluded lemon orchard. Soon modern Hollywood found and enveloped the barn and its cluster of always growing stages.

The razing of this studio, which has housed many of filmdom's most famous, is another sign of the centrifugal force of soaring realty prices which will one day fling every big Hollywood studio toward the outer rim of population.

Screen actors have been teaching camera make-up to Gene Tunney, challenger of Jack Dempsey, and now playing "The Fighting Marine," the Pathe serial in which he is featured. Tunney reciprocated with an interesting account of the method by which he has literally made up his fighting face for the ring.

"Screen make-up is designed for easy removal," says Gene. "In building up my battling face I have worked for permanency. Over a period of years I have by massage developed a protective callous above the eyes and over the cheek bones, and a padding of hard flesh over the nerve centers along the jaws, so that blows will rebound instead of sinking into any portion of my face."

Tunney has considerably changed the contours of his visage by working with slowly responsive flesh, adding here and subtracting there, achieving thus what screen actors secure by use of cosmetics. Years of battling haven't left a scar.

The lightning of film fame strikes often in the same household. Among the celebrated kinship cases are Douglas Fairbanks and his son; Mary and Jack Pickford; the directors Cecil and William De Mille; the Talmadge and Costello sisters; Lillian and Dorothy Gish; the Moore trio, Tom, Owen and Matt, the Beery boys, Wallace and Noah.

Recently Francis X. Bushman's three children have entered the films. Francis Jr. did an excellent role in "Brown of Harvard," and his sisters, Lenore and Virginia Bushman, are trying to follow his pace.

The sister of Renee Adoree is just breaking in with a first bit at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. At the same studio another newcomer is Katherine Bennett, sister of Enid.

Sue, younger sister of Sally O'Neill, herself a newcomer, has been given a comedy contract by Hal Roach. Relatives of famous or even promising players have much better opportunity than those without a family foothold, of course.

GRADUATION.

Well, school days are over and book days are done. A gilt-edge diploma bids farewell to fun. The task of a life-time must soon be begun—the task that will find you your place in the sun.

The world sort of dares you to come forth and fight, to lay out your plans for a getaway, right. The lamps burned for study have flickered from sight. Your own common sense, now, must give you the light.

The task of the starting may strike you unkind. The first move to make is to make up your mind. Join in the parade and then don't fall behind. Success, in that way, is the thing you will find.

WILDWOOD MOVIES

The Little Bakeshop

"Some feathered folks hatch 'em, but, of course, no member of the crowned heads should forget herself to that extent," said little Mrs. Golden-Crowned Thrush, as she busied herself among the underbrush, "why the very idea of such common manners in nesting, nothing but hatching eggs like a hen! I certainly will not be branded as a common hatcher of eggs."

"Well, well, well," butted in Scamperdark the little elf who chases the shadows, the fairy of the happy, sunny hours, "if you deny the little matter of hatching your eggs, how then, pray tell me, are your pretty eggs going to be turned into nice little young ones?"

"You think you are a mighty clever fellow, Scamperdark," said Mrs. Golden-Crowned Thrush, "but let me tell you, that with all your cleverness in peeking into shadowy places, there are some secrets you have not discovered, and my nest is one of them."

"You don't tell me" exclaimed Scamperdark, "I wondered where you had been hiding; will you tell me?"

"Yes, stupid!" chirped Mrs. Golden-Crowned Thrush, "I have been hiding in the little bakeshop, where I bake my eggs——"

"Bake your eggs?" cried the wide-eyed Scamperdark, "do you mean to say that you do not match your eggs, and that you bake them?"

"I am the Queen of the baking business of Birdland," said Mrs. Golden-Crowned Thrush, "come with me and I will show you my oven and my set of eggs all ready to be baked."

And sure enough, in a very quiet spot in the woods, at the edge of the road, Scamperdark was shown a tiny oven shaped opening in the ground. It was a nest, sunk in the ground, and covered with a canopy or roof of grass and leaves. It was just like one of the little out-door ovens used in pioneering days, and the eggs were in there, ready to be baked by the heat of Mrs. G.C. T's body.

"So you are queen of the bakeshop, eh?" said Scamperdark. "I know now that you are the Ovenbird, and this is your oven. I shall tell the secret to the movie folks, for they would just love to show a picture of a queen baking eggs in an out-door oven."

CARE OF PICTURES.

Even the neatest of housekeepers frequently overlooks the care of her pictures.

The frame should be wiped off with a damp cloth to remove all spots, then it should be gone over thoroughly with an oil duster. The glasses may be cleaned with a soft chamois and polished with tissue paper wadded in soft wads. This care will restore the pictures to their original freshness.

Now, for oil paintings with gilt frames the task is not quite so easy. First, wipe the picture and frame free from dust. With a soft brush clean the back of the picture very carefully. With a still finer brush remove the dust from the carvings of the gilt frame. Next take a soft piece of new cheesecloth and dampen it with clear water and wipe very lightly over the face of the canvas to remove the dust, and follow it immediately with a dry cloth. Then take a small piece of clean flannel and put on it a few drops of poppy or clock oil and brush over the painting, following the application with a dry cloth. Wipe very lightly over the painted surface and do not let the oiled rag touch the frame.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR BAD STOMACH GIVES QUICK RELIEF

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meal or overeat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like — if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISURATED Magnesia—not a laxative.

Truth is tough; it will not break.

DRAMATIC SESSION ENDS WHEN

It opened in storm. Following the indecisive general election of last fall, the question arose whether Premier King would resign or challenge a test of party strength in the House of Commons. He chose to follow the latter course. The opening day of the session was such as had not been witnessed before. Usually the House of Commons asserts its right to discuss business before the speech from the Throne by the submission of a formal bill on oaths of office. On this occasion the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting leader of the Government (for Premier King had lost his seat in the general elections), submitted a motion that the Government had been justified in retaining office and in summoning Parliament. Immediately the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, then leader of the Opposition, moved a motion of non-confidence, and on this the House joined issue.

Meighen's Statement.

The followng is the text of the Premier's statement:

"On Monday last the Government of the Right Hon. Mackenzie King suddenly resigned in the midst of the debate on the motion of censure for the administration of the Customs Department. Thereupon His Excellency invited me to form a new administration. This task I accepted, and in order that the work of the session, which was then very near its close, might not be lost, I made temporary arrangements for the ordinary conduct and completion of public business, including passing the necessary supply and the early prorogation of the House.

"During the week the Government formed was sustained in several divisions on matters of vital importance, including a decisive vote of censure against the Mackenzie King administration.

"Early this morning on what was really a question of law and admittedly not a question of policy, the Government was declared defeated by a majority of one.

"The fact of this defeat, coupled with consideration of the chaotic condition into which public affairs have been drifting and the too evident instability of the Government necessitated, in my opinion, an early appeal to the electorate. I have accordingly advised the Governor-General to dissolve Parliament, which advice His Excellency has been pleased to accept.

"It is now my duty to complete organization of the present Cabinet, after which the date of the election will immediately be announced."

August 17 Earliest.

It is calculated that allowing the forty-five days provided by statute to intervene, the first day on which an election could be now held would be August 17.

Cabinet Possibilities.

It is expected that the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen will proceed with the constitution of his Cabinet. J. D. Chaplin, of Lincoln, and E. B. Ryckman, from Toronto, are mentioned as Cabinet possibilities. Hon. Dr. Tolmie and Hon. Robert Rogers are also understood to be Cabinet probabilities.

PORTER S. WHITE'S NEW STORE OPENED

Is Arranged in Cafeteria Fashion—Customers Pass Through Turnstile.

The official opening of the new Porter S. White store, two doors south of their old stand, on George Street, which took place on Wednesday, saw a rushing patronage all day. A large supply of roses, procured for the purpose of presenting to the customers, gave out early in the day, and nearly one thousand peonies were disposed of in the same manner during the afternoon.

The new store is arranged on the style of the Loblaw stores, in cafeteria fashion. The customers pass in by a turnstile, select what they wish from the shelves, and pass out by either of two openings, where they pay their check and have their goods wrapped. The non-arrival of a second cash register somewhat hampered the first day's business on Wednesday. The store has been painted throughout in pure white, and the new form of service, the way in which the goods are displayed, and the color scheme make it quite individual and very artistic in appearance. On Wednesday, quantities of palms and ferns were used in decoration.

F. H. Rowan had charge of the contract and G. H. Duncan of the painting. The Porter S. White Company profess themselves as very much pleased with the result of the work of both contractors, who completed the work in record time.

LACE FOR AFTERNUON.

The lace frock is worn for afternoon as well as evening- most frequently in the beige or red shades.

VELVET FLOUNCES.

A frock of black crepe is given a very unusual trimming.

Two very full and flaring flounces of black velvet.

TALK ON LOCARNO AT KIWANIS CLUB

Rev. J. W. Gordon Gives Interesting Address—Nations Need Service Ideal.

"Locarno and the League of Nations" was the subject of a splendid address by Rev. James W. Gordon at to-day luncheon of the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel. Mr. Gordon reviewed the progress of international agreements from the Treaty of Versailles in 1919 to the latest covenant and showed the lesson of all to be that nations must encompass their own salvation and secure the peace of the world by living unselfishly.

The German proposals for peace arrangements were not kindly received at first, but eventually the plans were made acceptable to France and the Locarno agreement was concluded. In this agreement the signatories declare their intention through common accord to establish the means for preventing their respective nations from war and for a peaceful settlement of disputes in co-operation with the League of Nations; it includes seven treaties; it is not effective until Germany is a member of the League of Nations.

Two of the principal objections to the Locarno agreement are the shades of meaning that it is possible to place upon "Flagrant Violation' and "War in Defense of Right" phrases which appear in the agreement.

With the Locarno agreement completed, Mr. Gordon said, ther would be a prospect that the era of war had ended. "We have always acted upon the supposition that our interests lie in taking all we can out of the other fellow. In Canada we have not lived up to that creed, but it was the dominating spirit in our discussions. The two greatest mistakes made by the nations of history have been, believing that the way to succeed was to live selfishly, and neglect of their great teachers."

"We have great teachers to-day," Mr. Gordon concluded, "and we are learning that the way to get on is to serve."

Rotary Canival.

John Scott, past president of the Rotary Club, was a guest, and asked the support of the Kiwanians in putting across the big Rotary Canival to be staged next week. He said he had never appealed in vain to the Kiwanis Club.

Percy Hood was booster of the day and his prize winners were Wilfrid Huycke, Charles Elliott and John Marshall.

Walter Kidd, treasurer of the Club, acted as chairman on invitation of the president, John Craig, and Carl McLean tendered the vote of thanks to the speaker.

A working party was arranged to level and decorate the lot at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets where the Club recently erected a news stand for the use of the blind basket maker.

MODERN MERMAIDS, A LA PARIS

Paris gives a thought to mermaids and the results are these snappy bathing caps which not only protect the hair, but do it in the most highly decorative and beautiful manner. Pleatings of rubberized silk in shades of blue trim the light blue model with the chin strap. A wreath of yellow flowers—buttercups, apparently—bisect the bright red model in the center, and a bunch of purple grapes on a mauve cap give a charmingly bacchanalian air to the one at the right. The most utilitarian articles of feminine apparel must be smart and chic, according to the French idea.

BILLY EVANS Says

Evil or Good.

The evil or the good that the golf swing has on the batting power of a big league ball player will always be a subject for discussion pro and con.

The veteran "Kid" Gleason, who has starred in every diamond role, player, coach and manager, is strongly against golf during the playing season and only likewarm for it in the idle months.

"The stiff left arm, so necessary to good golf, is all wrong in baseball," says Gleason. "It is bound to change the style of the batter and has a tendency to make pop-up hitters."

Big Opportunity.

Opportunity is half the battle in sport, particularly if the athlete has the ability to deliver.

In the sensational showing made by the New York Americans, the play of Catcher Collins has figured prominently.

Yet when Collins was brought back from the minors, it was really as an understudy to Benny Bengough, who had performed so well for the Yanks last season.

A sore arm so handicapped Bengough this spring that the catching burden was put right up to Collins and he more than made good. He grasped opportunity by the right hand and held on.

Yankee Pitching.

In the several long winning streaks staged by the Yankees this year, the power of the club's attack has been given most of the credit for its success.

In the orgy of base hits that the Yanks have sprinkled over the American League diamonds, the pitching has apparently been overlooked.

Here is what no less an authority than Ty Cobb, who should be able to judge good pitching, says

"True, the Yanks have been getting their pitchers plenty of runs, but a lot of them weren't needed. The best pitching we have seen this year was placed on exhibition by the New York and Philadelphia twirlers.

"Don't overlook the Yankee staff in giving proper credit to the club's great showing."

Shortstops Scarce.

Stars at particular positions in major league baseball seem to run in cycles.

Usually a number of stars at a particular position make their debut the same year, only to have a dearth of material for several years among the recruits for the same position.

This season the American League appears to have uncovered a lot of promising second sackers among the recruits of 1926.

For several years there has been a limited amount of shortstop material, so that several clubs are now in need of reserve strength at that position.

Meusel's Value.

The other day Bob Meusel scored from second base on a sacrifice fly.

That in itself is no mean feat but more important it is proof that the brilliant Bob Meusel is showing the one thing he has always lacked, initiative.

That alone has kept him from being regarded one of the greatest outfielders that ever camped under a fly ball. He deserves such a rating.

Meusel has every physical asset as well as a keen mind, but Bob seemed to lack the competitive spirit that tends to bring out a man's talents all the more.

This year he is showing the proper initiative and aggressiveness that recently caused Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees to remark.

"There is no more valuable player in the American League than Bob Meusel."

SECRETS OF STARS INSIDE BASEBALL with Billy Evans

BY JOE DUGAN.

One of the most confusing plays that is put up to a third baseman has this setting.

First and second bases are occupied and the batsman elects to bunt the ball. Usually the thought is to place the bunt down the thirdbase line. This keeps the first baseman from rushing in for a force play at second or third.

On such plays it is well for the pitcher and third baseman to have an understanding as to who will take the bunts.

The ability of the pitcher to field bunts, the speed of the runners on the bases and the style bunt has much to do with the proper procedure.

I always prefer to try for a force at third base if the pitcher is a capable fielder. Then, if there is no chance to execute that play, he is in a position to get the batsman at first.

When it so happens that the pitcher is a poor fielder, I think the third sacker should take the bunt and play for one man sure.

If the ball is bunted hard, with the third baseman handling it rather than covering, the chance is occasionally offered to make a force play at second with an opportunity of starting a double play.

Every third baseman has his most difficult play. Left-handed hitters who are fast and hit the ball hard down the third-base line, in addition to being good bunters, keep the third baseman upset. They make most of my trouble.

Ty Cobb and Frankie Frisch are players of that type.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

EDWARD RAY—RUN-UP APPROACHES.

The great thing in playing the run-up is to see that you do not pass the blade of the club too much underneath the ball. We are all familiar with the topped approach which runs on to come to rest near the hole. In this case the player has, quite accidentally, brought off a perfect run-up, for he has imparted to the ball that overspin which, without being absolutely necessary, is nevertheless a great element in the success of the run-up stroke.

This over-spin can be obtained deliberately, by turning the right hand over the left as the club strikes the ball, with the result that at the finish of the swing the shaft is pointing toward the skies. The most essential thing is that the blade of the club must meet the ball without there having been any bending of the wrists. The stroke is really a push with the wrists stiff.

Practice this shot diligently, as outlined above and I dare say that you will then be able to cut off a number of strokes from your score, for the place to save strokes and to gain them as well as around the green.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

"SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT"

With the market surfeited with so-called "polite comedies," it is a relief to finally find one that really is worth while. Such a picture is "Skinner's Dress Suit," at the Capitol Theatre this week end.

It is a cute story taken from the famous book of the same name by Henry Irving Dodge and it has been capably directed by William A. Seiter, famous for his deftness and facility of direction.

"Skinner's Dress Suit," tells the story of Skinner and "Honey," his wife. He is an underpaid clerk while she, loving him madly, can think of him only as a power in the business world, held down only by Fate and lack of opportunity.

Through his wife's constant importunity, Skinner finally plucks up enough courage to ask his employer for an increase in salary. It is refused. Unwilling to dampen his wife's spirits he tells her that he has gotten a ten dollar a week raise. She immediately makes plans to spend the money in advance from their joint savings.

"Honey" makes him buy a dress suit. That begets further expense for accessories. They begin to be invited around. They must take dancing lessons. New furniture is necessary, a radio and other things.

That's when the fun begins. Poor Skinner is hounded by his creditors at the most inopportune moments. "Honey," happily ignorant of the woeful state to which she has unwittingly brought her husband, is supremely joyous at their improved social status.

It would be a shame to spoil the climax of the picture by divulging it here. Sufficient to say that there is a surprising and unexpected denouement.

Reginald Denny is ideally cast as the hapless Skinner. Sweet Laura LaPlante is perfect as "Honey" and the rest of the players occupy their rightful niches.

The cast, aside from the principals, include Ben Hendricks, Jr., E. J. Ratcliffe, Arthur Lake, Hedda Hopper, Lionel Brahm, Betty Morrissey, Henry A. Barrow, William H. Strauss, Lila Leslie, Broderick O'Farrell, Lucille Ward, Lucille De Nevier and Frona Hale.

AT THE REGENT

"HARD BOILED" HAS SWIFT ACTION, BIG SITUATION FOR MIX

The Cowboy Star Is Constantly On the Jump in This Fox Production

It would probably be impossible to crowd more thrills into a single picture than Tom Mix has incorporated in his latest production, "Hard Boiled" which opened at the Regent Theatre last night for a three days' run. The picture is an adaptation of Shannon Fife's great story of the West and the thrills follow one another so closely that they fairly overlap, for Mix is incessantly on the jump in this picture.

He leaves Chicago for the West to help Abigail Gregg manage a dude ranch which belongs to his rich uncle. On the way he is forced to exchange clothes with a physician and when he arrives at the ranch he has to masquerade as the doctor.

Tom knows a lot about fast riding and sure shooting, but absolutely nothing about medicine. But his masquerading has won the love of Abigail's beautiful niece and Tom decides to keep up the deception.

Famous Disputes Decided by BILLY EVANS

What are the rights of baserunners to advance on an infield fly and are the two big leagues uniform in this ruling?

* * *

The two major leagues once differed in the interpretation of the rule, but for some years have agreed on same.

Relative to the advancement of baserunners on an infield fly, there is no difference between it and any other fly ball that is caught or dropped.

While the batsman is automatically retired, said action does not affect the baserunners. If the ball is caught, they must return to their bases to avoid being doubled. If dropped, they can advance at their own peril.

No longer is there any air of mystery about the advancement of runners on an infield fly, they simply do so at their peril as on any other fly ball that is caught or dropped.

SOCCER NOTES

A very important soccer league game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon between the Quaker Oats and the last aggregation from Omemee. It was only a few weeks ago that the two elevens battled for 90 minutes in the Phelan Cup Tie, when the local boys managed to gain the extra goal. It will start at 3.30 prompt. Game at the Oval.

CRICKET NEWS

The Ridley College Cricket Club of St. Catharines which is on a cricket tour at present will arrive in the city tonight on the midnight train. On Saturday morning they will visit the lift lock and other places of interest. In the afternoon at 1 p.m. sharp they will play a match with the local cricket club. This should prove a very interesting game. The Peterboro Club played well against the Birchcliffe team on the holiday and was beaten by only a narrow margin, and naturally hopes to beat the College team. The Peterboro team will be as follows: F. Dyer (captain), Elliott, Coutts, Thorpe, Dunkerley, Dyer, R., Stuart, Garbutt, Monkman, Hammond and Manning. Reserves, Ryland and Langley.

"Applesauce," Sparkling Comedy, a Chautauqua Feature

The smashing Broadway comedy hit, "Applesauce," will be one of the big features of the coming Dominion Chautauqua. It will be presented by a splendid cast of New York actors.

The play gets its name from the blarney of a lovable, good-looking, happy-go-lucky youth who wants to marry Pa Robinson's daughter, Hazel. Pa and Ma want her to wed a plodding, well-to-do youth of the town, Rollo Jenkins. She does accept Rollo, but her love for Bill and his "applesauce" cannot be downed and wins out, just as the audience wants it to.

Appearing with the Dominion Chautauqua, Peterborough, afternoons and evenings, July 17, 19, 20, 21, 1926.

Important Measures Annulled By Collapse of Parliament

Sudden Dissolution Delays Royal Assent To Tax Remissions

Penny Postage, Receipt Tax and Act Taking Tax off Cars Under $1,200 in Price Are Affected and May Have To Go Over Into Next Session.

50 DIVORCE BILLS, PASSED ALL STAGES AWAIT FORMAL ACT OF LEGALIZATION

OTTAWA, July 3 (Canadian Press)—Among the wreckage of the session just brought to an untimely close by reason of dissolution are certain amendments included under a bill to amend the special war revenues act, which emanate from the budget statement of Hon. James Robb ,minister of finance. Included among the changes are return to penny postage, the abolition of the stamp tax on receipts, the removal of the excise tax on automobiles of a certain price, etc. This bill passed both houses, but in the hurry of dissolution was not assented to.

It is in the power of the government, by order-in-council, however, to reduce taxation, but not to increase it. All of the proposals above set forth were in the nature of reductions. The abolition of the receipts tax became effective immediately after the budget was announced. Return to penny postage became effective, according to the bill, on July 1st, when parties were fighting for supremacy in the commons. The removal of the excise on autmobiles was effective later on.

It is felt that ,even though this bill has not been given royal assent, it can be confirmed by order-in-council.

These include about 50 divorce bills which have passed all stages and merely need the royal assent. They cost their applicants about $10,000 in fees and costs, but they cannot become legalized unless arrangement is made to give them royal assent.

Divorce Bills Affected

According to officials of the house and Senate there is no way in which the procedure relative to these bills can be completed, and all must stand over until next session. Some of them passed the Senate, such as the divorce bills, some had passed the house, such as the rural credits and postage bills, while some had passed both houses and merely awaited the formality of the royal assent. Had parliament met once more these bills could all have been completed and taken their place on the statute books of Canada.

The postage stamp provisions were contained in bill 115, which amended the special war revenue act of 1915, eliminating the additional cent on letters. It also removed the tax on receipts, and readjusted the tariff on playing cards. Furthermore, it exempted machinery, articles for exhibition, menageries, carriages for travelers, heirlooms and certain oil well machinery. It also added canned fish, dried fish and canned pineapples to the list of articles subject to only 50 per cent of the sales tax. Taxes on ship's stores were also to be refunded to encourage the outfitting ships in Canada.

Tax Stays On

Another surprise is that the concession made to automombile manufacturers with respect to the elimination of the sales tax on cars under $1,200 is also included in this bill, and therefore cannot be put into effect. These provisions, which the dissolution of parliament makes null and void, are:

"1. Paragraph (a) of subsection one of section nineteen B of the said act, as enacted by section fourteen of chapter forty-seven of the statutes of 1922, is amended by adding thereto the following proviso:

"Provided that the said exercise tax shall not be imposed, levied or collected on automobiles specified in item (a) of said schedule 1 adapted or adaptable for passenger use valued at not more than twelve hundred dollars each:

"IA When such automobiles are imported into Canada before the first day of April, 1927, from any British country the goods of which are admitted to the benefit of the Brtish preferential tariff, when at least forty per cent. of the cost of producing the finished automobile has been incurred in such British country; or

"IB. When such automobiles are imported into Canada on and after the first day of April, 1927, from any British country the goods of which are admitted to the benefit of the British preferential tariff, when at least fifty per cent of the cost of producing the finished automobile has been incurred in such British country; or

"I. I. A.—When such automobiles are imported into Canada before the first day of April, 1927, from any foreign country the goods of which when imported into Canada enjoy most favored nation treatment, under the provisions of a treaty or convention, when at least forty per cent. of the cost of producing the finished automobile has been incurred in such foreign country.

"I. I. B.—When such automobiles are imported into Canada on and after the first day of April, 1927, from any foreign country the goods of which when imported into Canada enjoy most favored nation treatment under the provisions of a treaty or convention, when at least fifty per cent. of the cost of producing the finished automobile has been incurred in such foreign country.

"IIIA. When such automobiles are produced or manufactured in Canada before the first day of April, 1927, when at least forty per cent. of the cost of producing the finished automobile has been incurred in Canada; or

"IIIB. When such automobiles are produced or manufactured in Canada on and after the first day of April, 1927, when at least fifty per cent of the cost of producing the finished automobile has been incurred in Canada.

"Provided further that there may be paid to the automobile dealer or agent a refund equal to the amount of excise tax actually paid by the dealer or agent under the provisions of this subsection or such automobiles new, unused and unsold in the possession of the dealer or agent on the 8th day of June, 1926.'

"(2) This section shall be deemed to have come into force on the eighth day of June, 1926, and to have applied to all automobiles described in this section imported or taken out of warehouse for consumption on and after that date to have applied to goods previously imported for which no entry for consumption was made before that date."

The semi-public bills affected include acts respecting patents of James McCutcheon Coleman and of the John E. Russell Company; to incorporate the president of the Lethbridge stake, (a mormon financial bill); the Dominion Electric Protection Company bill; the Quebec, Montreal and Southern Railway

Man Knows No Reason Why Fiery Cross Is Burnt

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 3 — Although a shot was fired through the home of his mother-in-law, a fiery cross burned and a charge of dynamite exploded about 300 feet from the same house while his wedding reception was in progress, George T. Devlin, formerly district constable at Webbwood in connection with Ontario Temperance Act, declares he is not to be scared away. He says he is at a loss to know the reason for any persecution. Devlin came to the Soo about a year ago, and is now living in Korah Township. He was employed for a time with the Northern Development Branch, and was married recently to Miss Eva Jane Cole.

FRENCH VETS PLAN PROTEST

Will Stage Demonstration Near U.S. Embassy Against Debt Agreement.

BRIAND OPPOSED.

PARIS, July 3 (Canadian Press) —The first protest on a large scale against Parliament ratifying the Washington debt agreement will be staged in Paris on July 11 by French war veterans. A delegation of veterans has notified Premier Briand to this effect. M. Briand besought the delegation of veterans to think what a repercussion such a demonstration would have on the negotiations now in progress for the stabilization of the franc.

The delegates, however, insisted that they would hold their demonstration before the Washington statue in the Place Iena, a stone's throw from the United States Embassy.

MR. KING'S STATEMENT

OTTAWA, July 3. — The following statement was issued yesterday afternoon by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King:

"On Monday of this week I made the following statement in the House of Commons:

"'The public interest demands a dissolution of this House. As Prime Minister so advised His Excellency the Governor-General shortly after noon to-day. His Excellency having declined to accept my advice to grant a dissolution, to which I believe under British practice I was entitled, I immediately tendered my resignation, which His Excellency has been graciously pleased to accept.'

"On Tuesday last the House of Commons was informed that the then leader of the Opposition, the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, had, on the previous evening, advised His Excellency that he would undertake the task of forming a new administration, and that he had been sworn in that morning as Prime Minister, Secretary of State for External Affairs, and President of the Privy Council. The statement, which it was announced had been prepared by Mr. Meighen, as Prime Minister, concluded as follows:

"'The Prime Minister accordingly decided to constitute and submit to His Excellency a temporary Ministry, composed of seven members, who would be sworn in without portfolio, and who would assume responsibility as acting Minister of the several departments.'

"On Wednesday the members of the temporary ministry in the House proceeded to have the House vote supply. On being questioned as to their authority so to do, they admitted that not one of their number had been sworn in as a Minister of the Crown.

"On Thursday after careful consideration by the House, then assembled, of the unconstitutionality of the whole proceedings, the following resolution was adopted by the House of Commons:

"That the action in this House of the hon. members who have acted as Ministers of the Crown since the 29th of June, 1926, namely, the hon. members for West York, Fort William, Vancouver, Centre; Argenteuil, Wellington South, and the hon. senior member for Halifax, are a violation and an infringement of the privileges of this House for the following reasons:

"'1. That the said hon. gentlemen have no right to sit in this House, and should have vacated their seats therein, if they legally held office as administrator of the various departments assigned to them by Order-in-Council.

"'2. That if they do not hold such offices legally they have no right to control the business in this House and to ask for supply for the Department of which they state they are Acting Ministers.'

"The adoption of this resolution by the House defeated the Meighen Administration.

"This morning a dissolution had been obtained by the defeated Ministry, a Ministry which by resolution of the Commons has been declared never to have had the right to exist. On Monday a dissolution was denied to a Ministry which has not met with a single defeat in Parliament in a period of over four and one-half years.

"In these circumstances the issue which above all others is now before the people is whether or not Government in Canada is to be carried on in accordance with the expressed will of the people's representatives in Parliament under a system of responsible self-government."

Russian Prelate Travels Third Class To America Owing To Lack of Funds and Goes To Ellis Island

NEW YORK, July 3 (Canadian Press)—Because he had insufficient funds to travel other than third class, Bishop Arsenyi, the ranking prelate of the Russian Orthodox Church for all Canada, was held on the Cunarder Aquitania last night and had to go to Ellis Island this morning for examination where he was passed this morning. Canada has requested United States to detain for examination at port of entry all the aliens in third class in transit to Canadian cities.

Bishop Arsenyi has been ministering in Belgrade and when he was made a Bishop and given the Canadian Post last month he was poor.

Manner in Which Dissolution Announced Was Insult To Members.

OTTAWA, July 3 (Canadian Press).—E. J. Garland (Bow River) one of the Alberta Progressives whose vote helped to defeat the Meighen Government, issued the following statement yesterday: "Mr. King had no moral right to ask for a dissolution, faced as he was with a possible vote of censure, but having sought dissolution it should not have been denied him. The action of the Governor-General in refusing dissolution in the circumstances was a violation of constitutional practice and calculated to reestablish the status of military governorship from which Canada has so long been free. But if his first act was vicious, his second, in refusing to retrace his steps to a constitutional position when the temporary government was defeated, vividly recalls to mind the Cromwellian psychology.

"Parliament was dissolved to-day.

Mr. Forke's Statement.

OTTAWA, July 3 (Canadian Press))—With reference to despatch printed in the Mail and Empire this morning, accusing the Progressive group of a breach of faith in connection with negotiations for a new government, the following statement was issued this morning by Robert Forke, former Progressive leader:

"The memorandum referred to was given to me by the Progressive group for my own guidance. It was not sent to His Excellency. The undertaking our group arrived at was on the distinct understanding that the new government was able to function. If it had been sustained in the House we would not have attempted to prevent the passage of the supply bill."

Strawberries are rich in lime and iron.

Knitting mill machines for making stockings have 200 needles, all working at once.

It was learned by members of Parliament from office boys and messengers. This manner of dismissal was an insult to the representatives of the people."

Bootleggers' Lot Is Harder - Gasoline Added To Alcohol

WASHINGTON, July 3. Canadian Press. — The government is now going to put gasoline into denatured alcohol, expecting that the bootleggers will have a much harder time to make their wares from it.

LOCAL PRODUCE ENTERS MARKET

Home Grown Berries and Vegetables on Sale To-day.

POTATOES DOWN.

New arrivals on the market this morning were home-grown strawberries, gooseberries, new beets and cabbages and tiny rabbitts. The lattter enjoyed a cool hutch in a shady corner, and munched greens contentedly or washed their faces with two simultaneous paws, while an appreciative audience looked them over. They were priced at 35 cents apiece, with a half dollar quotation on a pretty blue-grey specimen.

Strawberries opened at 30 cents for the quart box, descending later on the open market to 20 cents, with 25 cents a general price. They were large and of good quality. Gooseberries were 25 cents a quart, new beets 10 cents a bunch, and cabbages 15 and 20 cents a head.

Potatoes were descending in price this morning, the general quotation being $2.50 a bag.

Upstairs, dairy products sold quickly. Butter was priced from 35 to 38 cents a pound and eggs sold from 33 to 37 cents a dozen.

Flowers were very plentiful this morning. White pinks, peonies, bleeding hearts, sweet william, purple and yellow iris, daisies, spicy yellow roses and the pink briar variety, sold in bouquets ranging in price from a nickel to twenty cents. They had a good sale.

Downstairs, a good-natured medicine man with an East Indian headdress offered his curative wares and also a ride in his car as far as Bowmanville, his next destination.

Hay on the open market this morning was $16 and $17 a load.

Broilers in the basket section were down to 37 and 38 cents a pound, and up to 45 and 50 cents, the former being late quotations. Hens sold for 25 cents a pound, and young birds of the in-between type were 35 cents a pound.

TOURIST INVASION STRIKES MONTREAL

Many Americans Flock To Province of Quebec To Celebrate Glorious Fourth.

MONTREAL, Que., July 3 (Canadian Press).—Taking advantage of the fourth of July holiday, thousands of people from the United States are pouring into Montreal and Quebec Province. All the local hotels are filled to capacity, while reports from Quebec City show that the ancient capital is also undergoing an American invasion.

PLANS ARE MADE TO COMBAT STRIKE

An Emergency Force of 15,000 Police Officers Will Be Used.

NEW YORK, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Plans were completed today for the mobilization of the police in event that the threatened subway strike becomes effective on Monday midnight. Order will be maintained by an emergency force of more than 15,000 police officers.

The men are voting on the question of submitting their wage demands to an arbitration board, and the result will be known early tomorrow morning.

BRITISH WOMEN MARCH TO-DAY IN COLORFUL PAGEANT TO PARK SEEKING POLITICAL EQUALITY

Two Thousand Take Part in Parade To Hyde Park.

FIFTEEN SPEAKERS.

Days Before War Recalled, But There Is No Disorder.

LONDON, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Brititsh feminists, some of whom were famous in the days of the militant suffragettes, marched to-day in a colorful pageant in behalf of equal political rights for British men and women.

Fully 2,000 women, including a contingent from the United States, were in line and marched to Hyde Park to listen to their leaders make a plea for the enfranchisement of women at the age of 21 instead of 30, and for the seating of peeresses in their own right in the House of Lords.

The United States section of the parade, in which the National Women's Party played a prominent part, marched behind a great purple, white and gold banner bearing the legend, "All women in the United States can vote. Why not here?"

Although the presence of some of the old standbys of the suffrage movement in Great Britain revived memories of the days of picketing-window-smashing and police-baiting, to-day's demonstration was most orderly. The marchers began gathering along the embankment soon after noon in the sweltering heat.

The younger generation of suffragettes carried sandwiches and thermos flasks to refresh the weary ones on the march to Hyde Park. Red Cross detachments dotted the side streets along the line of march in case emergency treatment should be necessary to the veteran campaigners, who are no longer as sprighlly as they were in the hectic days before the war.

A double line of "Bobbies" marched with the paraders from the Embankment through Pall Mall and Picadilly to the speaking platforms at Hyde Park, where fifteen feminine orators argued their cause simultaneously.

Proposes That Firemen Wash Their Own Bedding

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 3 (Canadian Press)—City firemen will be forced to wash their bed clothes if Safety Director Edwin D. Barry has his way. Barry proposed that a washing machine be furnished every fire station.

"Anything at all to make the bums work, and quit sitting around all day doing nothing," Barry declared. "There's nothing a fireman thinks about so much as when he's going to be off next."

FAIL TO BLOW SAFE.

Burglers Make an Unsuccessful Attempt To Blow Safe.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 3 (Canadian Press).—Three burglars tried to blow the safe of the Taylor and Bate Brewery last night. They smashed the combination and exploded a charge of nitro-glycerine, but the door held. The interior of the office was partly wrecked.

SCOTT TO HANG ON OCTOBER 15

Sentenced To-day After Motion For New Trial Is Overruled.

BROTHER TO BE TRIED.

CHICAGO, July 3 (Canadian Press)—Russell Scott, former Canadian stock salesman, who escaped the gallows almost by minutes several times, today was sentenced to be hanged on October 15.

Superior Judge Marcus Kavanaugh sentenced Scott after first overruling his motion for a new trial.

Scott was convicted of the murder of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk in the City Hall pharmacy, who was shot and killed in what the prosecution charged was a hold-up engineered by Scott and his brother.

CHOIR PICNIC.

George Street Choristers Take Trip To Bobcaygeon on Holiday.

The choir of the George street United Church held its annual picnic on July 1 and it was a very successful trip for all.

About 54 choir members and their friends motored to Bobcaygeon, where the day was spent. Dinner was served at the Rockland House, after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. G. H. Potts for his kind hospitality.

The afternoon was spent in playing softball and tennis and a picnic lunch was served in the dancing room of the hotel.

After the tea hour the races were run off along with other sports and the cars left for home about eight o'clock.

The thanks of the choir are extended to the social committee and to the president, Mr. W. H. Cunningham, who did so much in making the excursion such a success.

CROPS THREATENED BY SEVERE FLOODS

Jugo-Slav Peasants and Troops Are Constructing Dikes.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, July 3 (Canadian Press).—The worst flood in more than a century in all the lower quarters of the Jugo-Slavian kingdom is keeping the population and troops busy in an endeavor to combat it. There have been numerous victims and considerable property damage. Five peasants were washed away and drowned at Schtit. Railway lines have been destroyed at Koumanovia, Kriva and Palanka.

In the Batchelle region 15,000 men, aided by troops, hurriedly constructed dykes which kept back the water and saved the croops.

COAL STOPPAGE IS A CAMPAIGN ISSUE

By-Election is Being Waged Over Government Policy.

LONDON, July 3 (Canadian Press Cable). — Nomination and polling day in the Wellsend by-election, necessitated by the resignation of Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., have been fixed provisionally for July 10 and 21 respectively. The coal stoppage will naturally be the leading issue in the campaign, and Miss Margaret Bondfield, Labor candidate, is already in the constituency strongly attacking the Government's policy of longer working hours for miners.

A. Charlton Curry is the Liberal candidate, and Sam Howard the Conservative nominee.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

What is the object?

The Progressives say that the reason they agreed to support the King Government at first was that the King Government agreed to hand over to Alberta her natural resources.

Originally, these resources belonged to the Dominion Government. That was before Alberta was an organized province. All Canada once belonged to the Crown. When large blocks of land were carved out of it, and made into provinces, the vacant lands of these provinces were handed over to the governments of the provinces, and are known as Crown lands. When Alberta became a province it became entitled to its Crown lands. For years it has been demanding them but for one political reason or another, it never received them. At last it hoped to get them from the King Government, because a sympathetic government was in power in Alberta,. An agreement was signed last January 9th. It was supposed to be a mere matter of form. Of course the agreement would be carried out. But it was not. For some occult reason it was referred to the courts, and a new clause put in. This clause Alberta objected to. The lands were hers, and she wanted them. Now what the merits or demerits of the clause, or of Alberta's attitude regarding it, we have nothing to say. That is for the parties interested. But we do want to know is: "Is this question to be decided as a party question or on its merits? Is it to be opposed or upheld simply because it will possibly dish the other side?" So far that seems to be the determination of both sides. It will produce another Manitoba school case and rend Canada from end to end—not from any conviction of the justice of the case, but simply to gain power. Then we pretend to wonder that Canada is not a united Canada. The truth is that partyism and a lust for power has reduced us all to a mass of hypocrisy. This fierce and uncontrollable party-spirit which allows nothing to stand in the way of its lust for power is out of date. If we are a sane and honest people we must cut it out and devote ourselves to a non-partisan deliberate and judicial consideration of the case. That condition of mind is not impossible. We refer matters to our courts because we believe them reasonable, fair and impartial. We refer things even to Royal Commissions on the same supposition. But what's the matter with people themselves? Can't the electors be fair and reasonable? We can if we will, and the only way to begin is by having it distinctly understood that we want our members to do what is right and what is best for all, not simply what is best for "the party."

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

WHEN one has the spiritual over-sight of a large parish, it means that the pastorate is a busy one, and that there will be seasons when there is very little opportunity for sitting at a manse window or anywhere else and therefore not much time for musing. Such has been my experience during these past days. So, like a certain nameless young man, I am borrowing from a friendly source, in the hope that, as in his case, it may provide the opportunity for a special manifestation of the power of God. The source from which I am borrowing is "The Life of Faith," friend of many years. Surely more than a passing interest is being taken in an address when a great religious weekly like 'The Life of Faith,' on two successive weeks writes at some length on the subject of this address. It is the address delivered by the Right Rev. Dr. George H. Morrison, of Glasgow, from the Moderator's chair of the United Free Church of Scotland.

THE CHURCHES GREATEST NEED.

If there is any one subject which is nearer and dearer to the hearts of God's spiritual people in all parts of the world than that of spiritual revival no one has yet come forward to tell us what it is. In conferences and conventions as well as in private conversation we have all been deploring its absence in recent years, and been longingly looking and earnestly praying for another period of quickening from the presence of the Spirit of the Lord within the Church and in the world. Therefore it is with greatly increased interest and enlarged expectancy that we have read something of that prophetic utterance of Dr. Morrison. He stated at the outset that he had chosen that subject for two reasons—first, because a genuine revival is the great need of the Church to-day, and secondly, because of his profound conviction that this revival is at hand.

WHAT REVIVAL WILL DO.

If every minister and church member, the world around, were to lay the following words to heart, I believe the Spirit of God would get the opportunity that He is waiting for, to do such a work as would produce so great a transformation in the life and work of the Church as we have not known in many years.

"Never was the Church more richly organised than she is at the present hour. Her ministers were never more thoroughly equipped for the proclamation of the Gospel. Yet who does not feel that there is something lacking, some large and heavenly baptism of power, to give authority to those who preach, and reality to those who hear? The lustre is there, of method and efficiency, of able preaching and devoted service, yet somehow, if I see things aright, that lustre is not lighted up, and nothing will light it up except revival."

"A revival is like a sacrament in this, that it gives nothing which was not there before. Neither reveals the new; each illuminates the old. Each makes intensely and powerfully real what the trafficking of common days has dulled, till the hearts of men begin to burn again. A large baptism of the Holy Spirit—that is the Church's deepest need to-day. Many are longing for it. Many are praying for it. There are souls in [illegible] 'and agonising for it. And may I utter my profound conviction that the fulness of time is nigh?"

ARE REVIVALS OBSOLETE?

Continuing his message to the Assembly, Dr. Morrison protested against the large assumption that revival, in the older sense, is obsolete.

"Many voices, and none without significance, are proclaiming that better days are coming, when religion shall grow dominant again, and faith recapture her spiritual authority. But, generally, these somewhat precious prophets take it for granted that, whatever happens, it can never be a revival of the older sort. Why, they never tell us. It is the assumption of superiority. Few people can be more irritatingly high-brow than the race of journalistic seers. Revivals for them are among those childish things that to the mature mind are quite intolerable, and therefore they are never going to happen. Fathers and brethren, if there be one thing written clearly on the difficult and blotted page of history, it is that the wisdom of men is foolishness with God. His ways are not our ways and His thoughts are not our thoughts. The last infirmity of the superior person is to limit the Holy One of Israel. What has been shall be. As God hath wrought so will He work again. From the first day on which the Cross was preached He has confounded the wisdom of the wise."

Dealing with two considerations which reinforce this hope, Dr. Morrison pointed out that revival is the great law of personal religion, and is also the general law of progress. And to him the strange thing is that while in all other walks of life men are talking of revival, they look askance at revival in religion. They recognise the law in every high activity save in the highest activity of all.

WHY SOME OBJECT TO REVIVAL.

In discussing some of the objections that are commonly urged against revivals, the speaker referred to the deep dislike, "perhaps especially in Scotland," to their emotionalism. Another common objection to revivals which he named is that they are self-centred. "But perhaps, the strongest objection to revivals is that they do not last. They are evanescent—they dissolve and leave not a wrack behind. On that there are two things that I want to say.

The first is that it seems to me that all such judgments rest on a confusion between emotion and effect. That the emotion passes is unquestioned. It passes because its work is done. But the effects produced by high emotion, whether religious or artistic, are as lasting as any facts in history.

Has the Reformation proved a transient thing, though the initial glow of it is gone? Has not England, though the rapture has departed, been permanently influenced by Wesley? I venture to say that to this very hour one can trace the ethical effects of the revivals of Kilsyth and Cambuslang Granted that in these seasons of excitement things are said and done that are regrettable; granted that not a few prove renegade who have only been emotionally touched—nothing is more certain, in the whole course of his than the permanence of revival issues in the individual, the nation, and the Church.

The Cother thing I want to say is this. I call it the witness of the higher level. When there is decadence after revival-time it is never the same as that which went before. To the student of history one great fact is manifest and that is that the Church in bygone eras fell to degradations and to depths which are inconceivable today. The tide goes back after every great revival. There is a tidal element in history. But it never goes back to the old point of ebb. Something is gained never to be lost. There is a general heightening, a rise of level, a more sensitive conscience, a glimpse of new ideals which persist even when deadness comes again."

SOME CONCLUSIONS.

We find ourselves in hearty agreement with 'The Life of Faith' when it writes "The subject is such a vital one that we feel it imperative to add a few words more." Dr. Morrison appealed to his brethren to go home from the Assembly touched with a new and high expectancy. "Stressing our unities and not our differences—our oneness in things that really matter—not hindering the times of heaven by antagonisms, but hastening them by the love that thinks no evil, earlier than we dream the places where we assemble shall be swept as with the sound of the mighty rushing wind.

Go home and expect that. Go home and pray for that. Go home and put first things first, one of the hardest tasks there is in life. And God, Who is waiting to be gracious to our Church, to our beloved land, and to the world, will solve our problems and redeem our weakness with the baptism of power from on high."

There must be something seriously wrong with any individual or church if that is not an appeal which they earnestly desire to pass on and press home to the hearts and consciences of all who profess faith in Jesus Christ. Where is the church that for long has not been mourning the fact of spiritual sterility, the indifference of professing Christians, the absence of conversions?

Just where this revival may burst forth no one can predict with any assurance of being correct. But when it does come it will not need any prophet's voice to proclaim that it has come. Like the Ulster revival of 1859 it may break forth in a comparatively sequestered region, but it will not be long before all classes and ages will be caught in the onward sweep of the heavenly fire. Within the Church a cold formality, an apathetic and unimpressible decorum will be exchanged for a living and vigorous piety: men and women will be siczed as by a resistless power: and from the ranks of the abandoned and the profligate, as well as of those who have been brought up under the gracious influence of the sanctuary, thousands and tens of thousands will be made to realise the possession of an endless life.

Plain Speech

THERE are some preachers who would rather speak of an agricultural implement and be thought cultured, than call the same thing a spade and be understood. Paul was not such a preacher as that. He says that at all seasons he did not hesitate to declare the whole counsel of God, keeping nothing back from those to whom he spoke. From the most casual reading of his epistles we can gather that he was a plain and fearless preacher. One of the strong business men in the city of New York told the late Dr. Chapman, that although he was not a Christian, he liked his minister, who had the reputation of saying very sharp, plain things from the pulpit, "because he is not afraid to tell me where I am wrong." More preaching of this kind would hasten a revival of real spiritual religion.

Lack of Interest in Religious Weeklies.

THE Editor of "Church Management" says, "We had a visit a few days ago from a man who is seeking backing for one of the livest religious weeklies in the field. It has assumed new obligations and needs added capital to put the program across. He had just visited an alumni gathering and interviewed ministers who had access to wealth. But all of his efforts to interest them were disappointing. "Here is a chance to make a worthwhile religious paper," he told them. "Just why should we be interested in promoting any such paper," was the reply in most instances. It is an interesting commentary on why church papers are hard pressed. And we think that the situation is going to be worse before it is better."

Church Choirs in the Good-New Summer-Time.

THE representative of a church in the State of Wisconsin says: We have three volunteer choirs in our church. The only persons receiving remuneration for the music are two organists. The senior choir, a mixed choir, and the male choir sing alternately on Sunday morning. The junior choir, made up largely of the young people, sing every Sunday evening. Our experience has shown that when the warm weather begins, or after the middle of May, our choirs begin to become irregular. Therefore, two years ago the pastor suggested that after Mother's Day there be no more choir rehearsals until September. In order to have special music for every Sunday morning service during this period (they do not hold evening service during the summer), each member of the choir be responsible for one service, getting whatever music he may deem wise. Some of the members invited their out-of-town friends to come and sing on their Sunday. Some secured local talent; some rendered their own special music.

The plan was so successful last summer that this particular church is trying it again. This time the minister with the help of the music committee is going to award three prizes for the three best renditions during this period. The best part of this plan is that the choirs have their vacation, and are ready and anxious to start again in the Fall.

What Do You Know About Marriage?

THE University of North Carolina is presenting a course on the social, economic, medical and psychological aspects of marriage. The class meets two evenings a week for lectures and discussions. This course is presented at the request of a group of students who asked the faculty to arrange it. The students in making the request stated that they felt a subject of such importance should have a place in the curriculum of the University instead of leaving them to pick up what knowledge they could. We are not told whether they seek this knowledge for their own personal benefit or for the benefit of others. I have always believed that love was both blind and deaf; and whether wise or otherwise, a college course, may interest it intellectually, but I don't expect it to influence it emotionally.

Worth Thinking About.

THE OLD SOUTH RECORD, Worcester, Mass., prints the following which ought to be taken to heart by church people everywhere.

"Shall we allow a further commercialization of the Lord's Day by the forces of organized sport? . . . If church members would more conscientiously observe the Fourth Commandment it would stop a great deal of the hue and cry for a wide open Sunday. A Sabbath breaker, especially if he is a church member, betrays the cause of Christ and vitiates his influence."

ISRAEL ENSLAVED IN EGYPT

Text: Exod. 1:8-14.

Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph.

And he said unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we:

Come on, let us deal wisely with them: lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies and fight against us, and so get them up out of the land.

Therefore they did set over them taskmasters, to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treasure cities, Pithom and Raamses.

But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved because of the children of Israel.

And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to serve with rigour:

And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, in mortar, and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field: all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigour.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 4. Israel Enslaved Egypt. Exod. 1:8-14.

(By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.)

From the story of Joseph with its triumphant advancement of a man of sound character and purpose whose rise to power became shared by his own people, we pass quickly to a story of distress and tragedy, though originally a much longer time was occupied by this changed order of events that the proximity of these narratives in the Scriptures would suggest.

A new king had arisen who knew not Joseph, and the descendants of Joseph consequently suffered. While these ancient kings cannot be identified with certainty, the probability is that the king who elevated Joseph to power himself belonged to a line who had come in through foreign conquest. He was probably one of the Hyksos rulers who came from the north and who were likely of the same general Semitic race as the Hebrews.

The Hyksos rulers were eventually driven out by the native princes, and much of the oppression of the Hebrews may have been because in the eyes of these later pharoahs they were of this foreign strain. At any rate, the people who had come down to Egypt with the favor and good will of the ruling authorities now found themselves subjected to severe oppression.

But dipg Stone Cities.

Few people realize that until comparatively recent times the condition of the great mass of people has been that of slaves. In the ancient world this was particularly true. The great works of ancient time were done by hordes of slaves who worked under oppressive taskmasters.

Here in our lesson we find the Hebrews under this compulsion building for a pharoah the stone cities of Pithom and Raamases. But this oppressed people showed, in spite of their ill treatment, that vigor and productiveness for which the Jews have been proverbial in history. Their numbers increased in such proportions that the Egyptians were further alarmed and sought to hold them in restraint by giving to them severer forms of service than ever.

Here came the real testing of Israel. Great prosperity and great adversity alike test the characters of men and the faith and institutions that characterize their social life. Here we begin the study of a theme that symbolically has left its mark deeply upon the world.

The bondage and oppression of the Hebrews in Egypt have become the symbols of bondage and oppression everywhere. Just as Moses has become the symbol of every great liberator, and the promised land the goal of freedom and progress.

Growing Power.

It is instructive to see the foolish way in which many people in the modern world deal with the problems of life exactly as these Egyptians dealt with the increasing numbers and growing power of the Hebrews. The Egyptians said, "Let us deal wisely with them."

But the only wisdom they had was in subjecting the Hebrews to brutal force. Real problems of life are never solved by selfish measures and by brutal procedure. It is a lesson that history has w itten very, very deeply into its pages, and yet it is amazing that many people in our modern world still place almost all their faith for the safety and upbuilding of the state upon selfishness and force.

Wise men will find a better solution of life's problems, whatever they may be, than the solution of brute force. Might never, makes right. The principles of love and justice may seem weak and ineffectual, but in the long run love and justice constitute the only solutions of human problems.

This is as true in relation to the modern vexed problems of social, industrial and racial relationships as it was true in relation to the problem of an unassimilated people in ancient Egypt.

The Electrical Pot

NOTHING is more obvious than that God reveals Himself more at certain times than at others. The prophet says, "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found: call ye upon Him while He is near."

In David's experience there was a time when he was hard pressed by his foes and he could see no way of escape so he inquired of the Lord, and the Lord told him what he should do. And this was what he was told "When thou hearest the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry trees, then shalt thou bestir thyself." Doing as he was told, David conquered his enemies.

There is an apt illustration of this truth in the electrical world. Electricians tell us about the electrical potential. The potential is the energy with which free electricity manifests itself. Now this potential differs greatly at different times. Free electricity sometimes gathers in such quantities that we have electrical storms.

Now there is a spiritual potential that differs greatly at different times. When the children of Israel marched through the wilderness this potential was high. It was high in Egypt, as seen in the plagues: it was high at the crossing of the Red Sea: it was manifested at Horeb: it was shown at the Mount. During Christ's sojourn on earth the spiritual potential was always high. We read, for example, in Luke 5:17, that "the power of the Lord was present to heal them."

The spiritual potential was high with the apostles. It has been high with some evangelists, such as the Wesleys, Whitefield, Finney, Moody and others.

God's Spirit manifests Himself in various ways some of the conditions of which are as follows. Faith is one condition. When Peter lost his faith he began to sink. Prayer is another condition. It was after many days of prayer on the part of the disciples that Pentecost came. And still another condition is Consecration of the people to God. The spiritual potential can be lessened and destroyed. Sin is a destroyer of it.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

A SUNDAY-SCHOOL teacher asked a class of poor ragged boys, gathered from the slums of one of our great cities, "Where is Jesus Christ?" In an instant, a bright-eyed little fellow confidently said, "Oh, He lives in our alley now!" What did he mean? The alley in which that boy lived had been a place of poverty, dirt and wretchedness. The mothers quarrelled, the fathers drank, and the children were neglected and forgotten. But a lady whose heart was full of light full of the Spirit of Jesus, offered her services and went to live in that alley. The vicar to whom she went said to her that he must not send her to this alley. "Why not?" she asked. "Well," he said, "it is a very bad district." "Then," said this noble lady, "it must the more need our sympathy and help." So she went and worked, and prayed, and helped, and blessed these people. By the beauty of her life she soon won all hearts. The homes in that slum soon became brighter and cleaner, the mothers became more gentle, the fathers brought home their wages instead of spending them in the public-houses that abounded around them. The children felt this change more than any one: hence that beautiful answer, "Oh, He lives in our alley now!"

THE SPENDTHRIFT

By Hervey Smith McCowan.

My friends, for twenty years I have been looking for the man who never saved a dollar in his life and is glad of it.

I have not found him.

But I knew a man who lived to be seventy years of age and could not fill out a check. He had never signed one because he never had a bank account.

He is dead.

He died a pauper.

He left his wife in suffering poverty.

His shroud is the wedding suit of the friend who dressed him for burial.

He lies today in a coffin bought by kindly neighbors.

And he sleeps his last sleep within the weed-grown grave of the potters' field.

When he died he left the epitaph to adorn the board which marks his tomb

"Here lie the remains of a spendthrift.

"I never saved a penny in my life.

"I never [illegible] the Day of Misfortune.

"I never took out a life insurance policy.

"I never owned a home of my hown.

"I never had a bank account.

"There are debts which I have never paid and never can pay.

"My life has been a failure and I want the world to let the grass grow over my grave and forget that I ever lived."

(Signed) A Spendthrift.

The Four Anchors

The night is dark, but God, my God,
Is here and in command;
And sure am I, when morning breaks,
I shall be at the land.
And since I know the darkness is
To Him as sunniest day,
I'll cast the anchor, Patience, out,
And wish—but wait for day.

Fierce drives the storm, but wind and waves
Within His hand are held;
And trusting in Omnipotence,
My fears are sweetly quelled.
If wrecked, I'm in His faithful grasp,
I'll trust Him tho' He slay;
So letting go the anchor, Faith,
I'll wish—and wait for day.

Still seems the moments dreary, long,
I rest upon the Lord;
I muse on His "Eternal Years,"
And feast upon His Word.
His promises, so rich and great,
Are my support and stay;
I'll drop the anchor, Hope, ahead,
And wish—but wait for day.

O Wisdom Infinite, O Light,
And Love Supreme, Divine,
How can I have one fluttering doubt,
In hands so dear as Thine;
I'll lean on Thee my Best Beloved,
My heart on Thy heart lay,
And casting out the anchor, Love,
I'll wish—but wait for day.

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1926.

NEEDED MORE THAN EVER.

The supervised playgrounds which are to open Monday should more than ever this summer justify their establishment, inasmuch as there never was a greater need of safe recreation areas for children.

With motor traffic always on the increase, the streets which a decade or two ago were the common playground can no longer be used for that purpose.

The newspapers carry daily stories of young lives being sacrificed in traffic accidents.

The headings read very much the same; they tell of a little tot racing out into the road in front of a car, the driver of which has no chance to stop.

The street as a playground is impossible, and thus the supervised recreation ground for children becomes a necessity.

Parents should impress it upon their children to make every use of these playgrounds where they can play in safety under the eye of supervisors, who know their work and know how to give their little charges the full benefit of healthful recreation.

The playgrounds are there to be used; it is hoped that they will be more popular than ever this summer.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

In the excitement over the rapidly changing political situation at Ottawa the Canadian people, it is hoped, have not failed to note the splendid report of the receipts and expenditures of the Canadian railways for last month.

It is with great satisfaction that the Examiner calls attention to these figures, inasmuch as they are the most hopeful that have been presented in a long time.

The Canadian National Railways show for May a net operating surplus of $3,226,000, and for the first five months of the year a net operating surplus of $12,915,000.

For the same month the Canadian Pacific Railway shows a net operating surplus of $1,485,000, and for the first five months of the year a net operating surplus of $4,916,000.

These returns are most gratifying.

They show that general business conditions in Canada are improving, and the showing of the National Railways indicates that before long they may cease to be such a heavy burden upon the finances of the country.

There is much ground for satisfaction in the May report of the railways.

THE HOUSE DISSOLVES.

Defeated in the House and thus unable to carry on government, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada since Tuesday, has been granted a dissolution by His Excellency the Governor-General, and Canada's fifteenth Parliament came to an abrupt end yesterday after one of the most extraordinary sessions in the history of the country.

The sudden dissolution of the House came as a surprise to every one.

With supply to be voted and a considerable amount of legislation to be finished, it was thought that following the adverse vote against the new Government yesterday would come a temporary arrangement, a stop-gap of some kind that would make possible the finishing of the business before the House.

Mr. Meighen will, it is presumed, proceed at once to form his Cabinet and will as soon as possible appeal to the country.

The people do not welcome an election, but they have been prepared for it more or less ever since the indecisive result of the last campaign.

They realized, if the politicians did not, that neither of the old parties could hope to carry on government depending upon the frail support of the Progressives, and so they are in the mood now to hail an election as the only course that offers a way out of the mess.

BRING ON THE ELECTION.

The sooner the people of Canada are given an opportunity to clear up the present political entanglement at a general election the better for the welfare of the Dominion.

The public is disgusted with the whole situation, weary of the partisan manoeuvring of the two old parties, "fed up" with the shifting of the Progressives, and tired of a Parliament out of which there is no hope for real government.

The only chance for a proper administration of the country's affairs is to be found in the return of one party or another with sufficient strength to command a clear majority in the House.

Many electors have got to the point where they don't particularly care which party that might be so long as they could be assured that the present era of partering, compromise, cajolerie, pleading, plotting and manoeuvring would be brought to an end.

If a general election would bring about such a chance then the turmoil and confusion of a Federal campaign would be cheerfully endured by the people.

An appeal to the country, it is true, might not greatly alter the situation, but at least it offers some hope of a way out, and that is more than can be found in the present intolerable situation where Governments are at the mercy of a small group of Progressives and Independents.

Bring on the election.

FEWER PISTOLS?

A fairly obvious need is a reduction in the supply and common possession of pistols. Curtailment, found essential in so many manufacturing lines at times, may here be socially necessary. It has been so pronounced by magistrates who encounter much of the menace. There is no prospect of anything but more motor cars—one of the agencies perverted as a criminals' tool. But the revolver has no such claim to existence and growth.

It may, of course, be a weapon of defense as well as offense. But is not the balance fearfully one-sided? A few folks able to handle a gun declare they should have that individual protection. But there are two qualifications which affect the equation.

The first is that the vast majority of citizens are not and can't or won't become expert in such self-defence. The second is that so seldom would there be much real chance to apply such defensive knowledge at sudden and sharp need. The crook, premeditating attack, almost invariably gets "the jump."

It might not be possible—any more than international disarmament seems to be faring well at Geneva just now—wholly to abolish gun-toting, to prevent completely the smuggling or bootlegging of pistols. But it should be possible to reduce greatly the present abundance and accessibility. And such restriction would find far more general social acceptance than some other attempts made to alter habits and customs. The reward might be a big cut in loss and cost now sustained by an ill-defended community.—Barron's.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PROSPERITY.

(From "The Square Deal")

We hear much from politicians and newspapers about the crying need of more population for Canada. That is claimed to be the solution of all economic troubles, but we have yet to see any really sound suggestion of how to induce the class of people who want to come here. Assisted immigration is beset with all sort of difficulties, and our trade unionists very naturally protest against public money being used to attract people to this country to compete with them for employment. It is admitted on all hands that the immigrant that pays his own way generally represents a superior type and is more the kind which we want in Canada. It is conceded that what we want is men to fill up the vacant spaces in our Northwest and take up and cultivate the millions of idle acres which still can be found within reasonable distance from the railway transportation. But no public man dares to suggest the sane and practical way of a stiff tax on idle land.

The C.P.R. and Hudson Bay Company are the chief owners of the vacant farm lands near railways. If a tax of three per cent. of the capital value of these lands were annually collected by the Dominion it would not only add considerably to the revenues of the country, but would go a long way to solve the immigration problem.

In the United States, where farm lands now sell from $80 to $200 an acre, it would not be difficult to persuade a few hundred thousand farmers there to sell their high-priced lands and come and farm ours if it could be got at from $10 to $20 an acre. In order to market their lands and save paying vast sums in taxation, the land speculators of the Northwest, such as the C.P.R. and the Hudson Bay Company, would have to reduce their prices to about the figures above mentioned.

What would it mean to Canada if 100,000 United States farmers, every year for the next ten years, could be induced to sell out their holdings in the States and locate in our own Northwest? It would double the population there and provide a great market for the Eastern manufacturers. It would reduce railway deficits, increase the public revenue, and permit of reduced taxation to such an extent that we would enjoy the best of times.

THE PRINCE'S WORK.

The visit of the Prince of Wales to the United States two years ago was not altogether a "joy" trip, according to Col. Solbert of the U. S. Officers' Reserve Corps, who accompanied him through that country. Col. Solbert had already become interested in a plan to bring British students to American universities and when he was military attache at the Court of St. James' after the war he attended one evening a banquet of the American University Union in London. The Prince in the course of a speech there made a plea directly concerning this matter when he said: "I wish there could be a few British students at each of your universities and colleges that make up this Union, that we might better learn about your country and your people." Such an educational plan would have to be carried out by American initiative and American money, as the Rhodes Scholarship Fund had been conceived and put into effect by an Englishman. Col. Solbert found that the Prince was more than willing to function personally as the head of the British selection board of such an educational plan. "So it came about," he writes in World's Work, "and here is told, for the first time publicly, one of the objects, known only to a few, of the visit of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales to the United States in 1924."

Soon after the Prince arrived, Mr. E. S. Harkness of New York, who was also interested in the idea, was introduced and a quiet luncheon was arranged. "Mr. Harkness was anxious to try an experiment in international education that would have besides its curriculum a value in better relationship. The Prince was anxious to help to obtain for the achievement of this experiment the most representative types of British student." The result of it all was that a plan was adopted by the Commonwealth Fund, of which Mr. Harkness is a director, providing for twenty fellowships of about $3,000 each year for this purpose open to both men and women with the important condition that each Fellow shall have at least three months' travel in the United States at the close of the first year of study. By the late summer of 1925 there were 20 British students in the United States distributed from Harvard to University of California.—Mail and Empire.

CHICAGO GRAINS.

CHICAGO, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat slipped downward in price yesterday owing a good deal to rains over the spring crop belt and to enlarged offerings of winter wheat southwest. The wheat market closed easy, half to 1 1-8c net lower, with corn at 1-8c decline to 1-4c advance; oats a shade to 3-4c up, and provisions varying from 10c drop to 30c gain.

The market effects of the rainfall in the nothwest was tempered by talk which was current that moisture had come too late throughout much of the territory and that the amount as a rule had been insufficient. This was declared to be especially true regarding North and South Dakota. Mention of black rust counted also as a handicap to would-be sellers. On the other hand, in addition to larger offerings of winter wheat yesterday, huge receipts in the southwest were expected to be announced on Tuesday, the total arrivals of newly harvested wheat appearing likely to show up after three days holiday here.

Failure of the Liverpool market to respond well to Thursday's sharp advance in wheat values on this side of the ocean acted as an evident further weight on values, and so too did slowness on export demand yesterday for North American wheat. Besides, considerable new wheat was sold to arrive here this month from Illinois points. Primary receipts of wheat yesterday were 1,780,000 bushels, against 1,211,000 bushels last week and 1,919,000 bushels a year ago. Meanwhile Kansas City was offering wheat to Illinois mills at 7 1-4c less for shipment at the end of thi month than at present.

Showers and higher temperatures in pairs of the corn belt made the corn market easy. Adverse crop exports strengthened oats.

Prospects of a light movement of hogs to market next week helped provisions to average higher.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—(Canadian Press)—Western offers at Montreal are for extras 29 1-2 f.o.b. Saskatchewan and 30 f.o.b. Manitoba. The freight from Saskatchewan is 4c and from Manitoba 3c. 2 cars have been sold at these prices this week.

Toronto market easy and unchanged. Dealers offering for ungraded eggs extras 32-33, firsts 29, seconds, 24-25. Prices to retailers: extras 37, firsts 34, seconds 30.

Montreal egg market has shown no change over the holiday. Dealers paying delivered for ungraded eggs extras 32-34c, firsts 28-30, seconds 23-25. Prices to retailers extras 37-38, firsts 33-35, seconds 28-30.

Winnipeg receipts show a slight increase. Prices to country shippers extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 21 delivered cases returned. Prices to retailers: extras 36, firsts 32, seconds 26. Retail firsts 35-38, seconds 30-32. Live poultry is bringing the following prices delivered Winnipeg hens over 6 pounds 22, 5 to 6 pounds 19, 4 to 5 pounds 17, old roosters 8, no. 1 broilers 30.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 3 (Canadian Press).—While the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was without any special feature, there was a continued good demand from United States houses for Canadian Western oats in nearby positions. Sales of No. 1 feed grade were made at 4 1-4 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July options, and No. 2 feed at 1 1-2 cents per bushel over, c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the renewed strength in the Winnipeg market for oats local spot prices for car lots were 1-2 cent per bushel higher.

A moderate amount of export business was transacted in spring wheat flour yesterday but the local situation was quiet. Prices, however, were steady. The trade in winter wheat flour was also slow, but prices were unchanged.

The demand from United States buyers for all lines of millfeed continued fair but the local trade was quiet. The feeling was firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was inactive but prices ruled steady.

The feature of the egg market was the weaker feeling that developed and prices were reduced 1 cent per dozen. This was attributed to the increased offerings and the small demand. The receipts were 1,811 cases.

A stronger feeling developed in the potato market owing to the fact that supplies at country points have been pretty well cleaned up, and prices were advanced 35c to 45c per bag. New Brunswick Green Mountain white were quoted at $2.25 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk.

Butter prices were reduced another 1-4.. cent per pound owing to the large supplies available. The receipts were 6,805 packages.

The demand for cheese was quiet, and as a result, prices scored a fractional decline. The receipts were 14,373 boxes.

Prices for beans were well maintained under a quiet demand. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.25 per bushel, and broken lots at $2.35 to $2.45 per bushel.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Editor, Examiner.

The longest day of 1926 has already gone by and summer (we are hoping) is just about to commence. To anyone who has observed closely, the days are rapidly getting shorter and in a very short time it will be dark again in the evenings by the time the average worker is ready to go outside to indulge in a little recreation, etc.

Just think of it—after the long drawn out winter we left behind us (what seems) a few days ago.

What a difference that extra hour in the evening would mean to those who work indoors all the year round.

It is obvious why the farmer disapproves of Daylight Saving time. He gets all the daylight and fresh air he requires, therefore the additional hour does not appeal to him.

We agree that mothers have to be considered also but any well disciplined children will go to bed when instructed.

It is certainly time that a city the size of Peterboro got into line with other cities which have adopted D. S. time and in most instances it is an unqualified success. It is my contention that we are sadly lagging in the background on this question (and also roads) and I hope that it will be revived at the next municipal election.

Yours truly,
G. M.

BAILIEBORO NEWS

BAILIEBORO, July 2.—A number of the boys from Bailieboro motored to Cavanville on Saturday evening and played a ball game with "The Cavanville Nine ball team." H. Dean was the catcher and A. Deyell pitcher for the Bailieboro team, while G. Staples was pitcher and U. Reynolds catcher for Cavanville.

Only three innings were played, owing to the fact that the Cavanville pitcher, when running to second base, slipped and hurt his knee and was unable to finish the game. The boys expect to play a return game at Bailieboro next week.

This Girl Was So Very Pretty That Barber Bobbed Her Ear

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 3—Desiring to be in the fashion an exceptionally beautiful Turkish girl named Namica, living at Eren Keui, Asia Minor, went to her hairdresser to be bobbed.

The task was allotted to a young man who, on seeing his customer, was overcome with emotion at her beauty, but began to bob her as best he could.

When about half-way through the undertaking he stopped and gazed at the girl lost in admiration until she said sharply, "Please go on."

Unnerved, he completely lost control over his scissors and clipped off a small portion of the lobe of her ear.

The girl shrieked and the manager came running into the room.

Namica demanded the immediate discharge of the assistant, but when she regained her composure accepted, while her ear was being bandaged, his abject apologies.

HASTINGS BRIDGE A COMMUNITY CENTRE DURING FISHING SEASON

One-Fourth Population Lined Railways at One Time This Summer—Tourists Now Rub Elbows With the Natives.

Imagine 5,000 or 6,000 persons fishing off the Hunter street bridge! About one-quarter of the population!

Peterboro's proportion of anglers is far below one in every four of its citizens, but Hastings is reputed to have lined its bridge on at least one occasion this year with 200 of its more than 800 inhabitants. And several recent observations lend a decided color of probability to the correctness of that estimate. The bridge that spans the Trent and its lock at the dam is more than a link between the two parts of the town. Traffic shuttles across it, and the turbulent water rumbles and splashes beneath it, but during the summer months, in fact from the first catch of pickerel in the spring until autumn comes, the bridge is a resort for townspeople and visitors who rub elbows along the railings while they play their lines and bait in the swirling water.

June brings to the ranks of the natives tourists from far and near dressed for a carefree holiday in the open, men booted and appareled in the khaki and bright conceits of smart haberdashery; women in knickers, most of them, hatless, sunburned, and one and all heavily armed with the newest implements of hooking and landing all the law allows in the size and number of fish. The visitors are usually unmistakable. They identify themselves by the fun the sport affords them, by their air of expectation and especially by their delight when they hook one, and by the acclamation of their companions.

The natives get few thrills from the pastime, but when the fish are biting there is much satisfaction in landing a fair share of them.

Hastings people appreciate the table qualities of pickerel for apparently this fish is more than a occasional variant in the diet of many of the homes. In the afternoons and evenings until long after dark worms and frogs and minnows are offered as lures to the pickerel and bass with such usual luck that all the regular anglers seem to get a full share for themselves and friends.

And it's a satisfactory method of fishing. No paddling or rowing, no gasoline to buy for a power boat, no weeds to shake off; nothing but patience and replenishment of the hook! Plenty of company for quiet chat although for the most part it is a silent business! And a cool one! On the warmest day and sultriest evening there is always a breeze down the river providing refreshment for the men who have worked all day in shop and factory and for women who have toiled at home.

Out on the jutting approach to the lock tourists spread their evening meal. They have motored long distances, most of them from across the border for just such sunset pleasure as this. In two weeks or less they are gone and others take their places, while the Hastings people, the regulars along the bridge railings and on the piers of the dam, round out the summer apparently in full appreciation of the advantage at their doors which others have come so far to enjoy.

That is one reason why the bridge is a local rendezvous, and more than that, especially for those whose lines perhaps never dry all season and who find a simple contentment in sharp contrast with the prevailing quest for excitement.

70 MILES ON LESS THAN TWO GALLONS

From Campbellford To Belleville and Back.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3—How many miles can you travel on two gallons of gasoline? Hugh Innes, driving a Ford runabout left Meyers and Stone's service station at 7.20 p.m. Tuesday and proceeded to Belleville by way of Stirling and the Oak Hills returning by Trenton and Wooler to the starting point, a distance of 70 miles on less than two gallons of gas.

The test was made to settle a wager between Mr. Innes, who contended he could make the trip on two gallons and others who said the feat was not possible.

The tank of the car was drained and the two gallons of gas, measured in a gallon container, put in before the start was made, and at the completion of the test there was about one pint of gas left.

The affair aroused considerable interest and several citizens made the journey behind Mr. Innes and quite a mob were on the scene at the finishing post.

CHINESE OPERETTA IS WELL RECEIVED

Crowded House Applauds Effort of St. George's Choral Society.

APSLEY, July 3.—The presentation of the operetta, "Little Almond Eyes" in St. George's Institute on Tuesday evening, by member of St. George's Choral Society was a brilliant success; gorgeous costumes, elaborate scenery, good singing and acting winning unstinted applause from a crowded house. The play is a Chinese one, and the principal's costumes as well as the scenery, the work of Mrs. Spence, were correct reproductions of the Ming Dynasty, while the Chinese costumes were very kindly lent by R. J. Devey of Peterboro. The production was in a sense experimental this being the first time anything in the nature of an opera has been attempted in Apsley, and its enthusiastic reception proves that rural communities have an appreciation of the fine arts which only needs to be educated to be fully developed. Considering that more than half of the chorus have no knowledge of music, the rendering was doubly creditable, its only weakness being numerically, and so lacking in volume. The principals all acquitted themselves well, the trio "Though death may claim within the hour" by Wang Ho, Ping Po and Almond Eyes being especially effective. Miss Flowers of Peterborough very kindly officiated as accompanist. The cast was as follows:

Wang Ho (tenor) captain of the guard, C. Spence; the Emperor Ming (baritone) F. Tanner; Ping Po (bass) Master of Ceremonies of the Court of Cathway, G. Carr; Little Almond Eyes (soprano) one of the Emperor's prospective brides, Mrs. George Kilborn; Miss Lotus Leaf and Dooma the Prophetess (alto), Miss Ella Brown; Teefofum lieutenant of the guard, Wilbert Johnston; Chief Bonge, P. Willis; Courtier, H Lean; Miss Tip-toe (dancer), Miss A .Howlett; Miss Lady Slipper Mrs. C. Smith; Miss Deerfoot, Miss P. Spence; Miss Jasmine Bud, Miss C. Spence, all prospective brides of the Emperor; Ruth Johnston and Charlotte Masters also in chorus.

Being a copyright production the cost of presentation would have been prohibitive, but for the concession in price granted by the publishers, the Oliver Ditson Co. of Boston, for whose courtesy the Choral Society is deeply grateful.

In rendering his verdict, the Magistrate remarked that it would have been much better had some of the remarks not been uttered. "No one, however," added Sir Hugh John, "had attempted to rush out and throw 'these men' into the River."

Newspaper Report as Evidence.

In his address Mayor Webb was quoted, in a report of a newspaper reporter accepted as evidence by the court, as having declared that certain men, whom he styled "agitators," should be thrown into the Red River, if it was not possible to take legal action against them. He charged the one Big Union was "undermining progress and development in the city," and mentioned the names of Dunn and Clancy in his reference to the Labor organization.

In his address to the court, Marcus Hyman, prosecuting counsel, described the Mayor's language as "inflammatory." He declared Mayor Webb's high office did not give him the "privilege of inciting lawlessness."

COMMITTEES PASS ROUTINE BUSINESS

Finance and Parks Affairs Are Transacted at Regular Meetings.

Routine business occupied the attention of the Finance and Parks committees of the City Council last night. A number of indigent patients reported, as well as some account, which were ordered paid.

Correspondence with the Finance Department of the Dominion Government regarding the payment of fines in two home brew cases to the city, as the charges under the Inland Revenue Act had been laid and prosecuted by the city policemen, was read and a second request for this money will be made.

The amount necessary to complete the sewage disposal plant will be ascertained and whatever debentures needed will be sold. There still remains some $30,000 authorized but not issued for this work.

Plans for the memorial gate to be placed in honor of the memory of Mrs. Nicholls, donor of several of the city parks, were discussed by the Parks committee and the chairman was ordered to get prices. He will also take up the matter of improved accommodation for the ladies at James Stevenson park.

Now - for Canada a revolutionary European-type high-speed Light Car

This New Car Offers:

35 miles on a gallon of gasoline

55 miles an hour . . . 5 to 30 miles in 13 seconds

4-wheel brakes . . . stops in 2 car lengths from 25 miles an hour

Turns in 34-foot circle . . . easiest car in Canada to park

5 feet 8 inches high . . . lower gravity centre . . . greater safety

European-type body . . . more inside room than any other light car

A three minute study of these remarkable facts may save you from buying an obsolete automobile

THIS is the announcement of a revolutionary new-type car, different from anything you have ever known before.

A car that combines the advanced engineering practice of Europe with new and improved standards of performance on this continent.

A car that will travel 55 miles an hour in perfect comfort.

That will pick up in 13 seconds from 5 to 30 miles an hour.

A car that will go 35 miles on a gallon of gasoline . . . over 1,000 miles on a gallon of oil.

This new-type car is a challenge to all former engineering practice. It casts aside every old tradition. And marks the most important light car engineering improvement on this continent during the last 16 years.

Because of easy handling in traffic, the Whippet will strongly appeal to Canadian women. It will park in a 14-foot curb space

• • •

This new car has a low, European-type body, with height and length in true symmetrical proportion.

It is 5 feet 8 inches high . . . not as tall as the average man. Yet it provides more room and comfort than you've ever found in any automobile of this class before.

It has a high-torque, 31 horsepower motor of small bore and long stroke—the same engineering principle used in the fastest racing cars of America and Europe.

It turns in a 34-foot circle . . . that's less than the width of an average city street. You can park in 14 feet . . . which is much less than the space required for the ordinary car.

4-wheel brakes are an integral part of this new car's chassis design . . . a luxury which light car owners have not heretofore enjoyed. Measured tests show that it will stop in two car lengths from a speed of 25 miles an hour.

Its center of gravity is extremely low, with ample road clearance . . . thus giving a sense of security you have never found in any light car. Something you actually feel when you drive this car.

Two Engineering ideals combined

The Overland Whippet represents a combination of the most advanced European and American engineering thought.

It is a complete new car . . . designed and built as a unit . . . not an old-fashioned reconstructed chassis.

For over three years, Willys-Overland engineers in Europe and America have been developing it. Over a half million miles of road tests have proved its practical advantages beyond all doubt.

Here's a car that will do 55 miles an hour in the hands of the average owner . . . with all the reserve power that this implies.

You can drive this car as fast as you like with the utmost ease of control . . . for no light car ever hugged the road like this before.

In traffic it gets away with lightning pickup . . . stop-watch tests show that it accelerates up to 40 miles an hour 18% faster than other light four-cylinder cars.

It runs like a "six" and pulls like a tractor.

The Overland Whippet will climb the gruelling grades of steep mountain trails in high.

In all your life you've never driven any car like this before. Its wonderful activity . . . its flashing bursts of speed . . . and quick acceleration . . . have never been available in any car of this type.

Smart European-type body design

The distinctive body lines of the Overland Whippet frankly resemble the smartest automobiles of America and Continental Europe. When you see this car on the street you can easily imagine yourself on the Bois or the Strand.

The radiator is typically foreign . . . every line, curve and contour of the body is the result of painstaking craftsmanship and study.

Low-swung . . . rakish . . . graceful as a Whippet . . . that's the only way to describe it.

Complete symmetry of design has been achieved with compact external dimensions.

Compared with contemporary big, bulky cars the Overland Whippet appears smarter and much more graceful. That's because height and length are in true artistic proportion.

In the Overland Whippet you have the feeling of riding closer to the ground . . . with the resultant sense of solidity and absence of that sidesway so noticeable in the conventional type of car. That high-up-in-the-air feeling is gone . . . here is a new kind of riding comfort. Step into this car and you will be surprised to find so much spacious room.

Due to its unique body and dash construction there is actually more head room and leg room than in any other car of this price class.

45 inches from the dash to the front of the fore-seat cushion. Several inches more than you have been accustomed to.

44½ inches from the toe-board to the front of the rear seat cushions. Again several inches more than in other cars of this type.

All seats are placed in a naturally restful position so that you have complete relaxation as you ride. No more sitting bolt-upright . . . you ride in this car, not on it.

Hitherto unheard-of economy

Here at last is an automobile that will run 35 miles on a gallon of gasoline . . . well over 1,000 miles on a gallon of oil . . . with extraordinary mileage on tires.

Imagine if you can what this saving will mean to the average owner in a single year. It cuts present operating costs just about in half. Doubles the value of every dollar you now spend for upkeep.

Exhaustive tests so far indicate that the average year's operating cost of the Overland Whippet should save you from $75 to $150 in gas, oil, tires and mechanical upkeep.

Money that goes back into your pocket. Money you must add to the list price of any less economical car you consider.

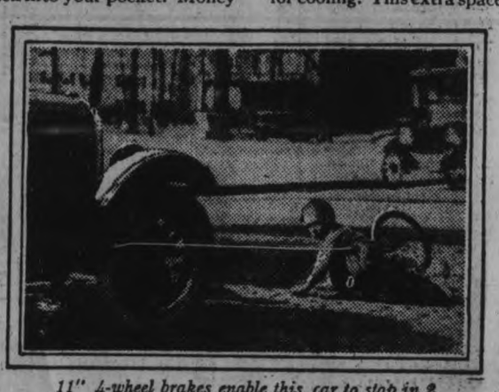
Based on these figures, it is easy to see how standards of automobile value must change in the next 30 days.

With this new factor of economical operation, list prices do not mean the same today. Resale values of less modern and less efficient cars are bound to suffer.

New standards of mechanical design

The new principles . . . the new ideas . . . the new standards of design in the Overland Whippet are bound to change your whole conception of light car mechanical features.

Its high-torque motor of 3⅛-inch bore by 4⅜-inch stroke, is by far the most efficient light car engine made on this continent . . . hence the most costly to build. The torque development of this engine is probably the most outstanding engineering achievement of the past decade.



11" 4-wheel brakes enable this car to stop in 2 car lengths from a speed of 25 miles per hour

In 13 seconds

Stop-watch tests show that the Whippet accelerates 18% faster than other light 4-cylinder cars

Note the long, low European-type body of the Overland Whippet

It has an 80-lb. torque . . . this means greater pulling power . . . the ability to master hills without shifting gears.

The engine of the Overland Whippet actually develops more horsepower per cubic inch of piston displacement than any other light 4-cylinder car engine made today.

The Overland Whippet is one of the two light 4-cylinder cars that have the modern force-feed oiling system throughout the engine, instead of the old-fashioned splash.

It is the only 4-cylinder light car that combines genuine Chrome silicon steel valves with silent chain front-end drive and pump water circulation.

It has long connecting rods, long valve guides. Its valve stems are unusually long, with more space above for cooling. This extra space makes for quietness of operation and longer life. For the life of the engine is measured by the life of the valves.

Compared with old-fashioned, bulky cars the Whippet appears smaller and much more graceful

Greater accessibility for inspection and repairs is another outstanding engineering feature. The Overland Whippet has all of the engine refinements characteristic of the most expensive cars.

New chassis features

Horn, spark and throttle control are on the steering wheel as is standard practice on the highest price cars.

The position of the steering wheel is adjustable to fit the requirements of the individual driver.

The worm and gear irreversible steering mechanism is typical of this car's quality and is especially designed for full balloon tires and 4-wheel brakes.

Timken bearings are used throughout the front and rear axles.

The rear axle housing is banjo-type pressed steel.

All 4-wheel brakes are 11 inches in diameter, of the mechanical internal type. They provide the amazing total of 182 square inches of braking surface. Each is completely encased, thus not susceptible to weather conditions.

Brake and clutch pedal pressure has been developed so that a child could drive this car with ease and safety. Gear shift and emergency brake are right at your finger tips. Remarkable ease of gear shifting has been perfected in this new-type car. Under-slung, semi-elliptic Vanadium steel springs add immeasurably to its riding and driving ease.

Designed and built without restrictions

The engineers who designed this car . . . and the men who built it . . . have worked without restrictions.

Nothing has been spared that would improve its engineering or its quality.

The Overland Whippet is not a 1 or 2 year car. Instead, it has been honestly built to give years and years of satisfactory service . . . to deliver thrilling and trouble-free performance for thousands and thousands of miles.

This new-type car has such costly equipment as a one-piece windshield, cowl ventilator, quick-acting crank-type regulators on doors and windows.

Windows are unusually broad and high . . . the exposed glass area is approximately 16½ square feet.

The doors of this new car are 33 inches wide . . . thus providing easy entrance and exit.

A beautiful cut velour trimming is used for seats and cushion backs . . . with sides and head-lining to match.

A dome-light and a handsome walnut-finished instrument board add to its unusually attractive and complete interior equipment.

To millions of Canadian women this car will bring an entirely new pride of ownership—a new delight in its comfort and refinements.

The car is beautifully finished with durable triple-coated lacquer that will retain its lustrous beauty for years and years.

The Overland Whippet is a quality car through and through. Your first inspection will tell you that.

In every respect it is entirely different from all other light cars being built today.

In Europe, people are accustomed to paying $1,500 to $1,800 for a car of this size and quality. Yet today, because of the tremendous manufacturing facilities of Willys-Overland, it sells in Canada for practically half this price.

You can compare the Overland Whippet with all other Canadian light cars on the basis of price alone. But from the standpoint of engineering, performance, comfort and quality, it has established an entirely new criterion by which all other light cars must be judged.

No more sitting bolt-upright—seats are placed in a naturally restful position

See this new-type car

Come see this car. Take this advertisement with you and check the things we say here against what you find. We have purposely understated every fact. We have told you the story of the Overland Whippet without exaggeration.

You have never seen a car like this before.

With the introduction of the Overland Whippet, it is dangerous today to consider the purchase of a less modern car.

A new trend of automobile design is dawning in Canada. Other manufacturers will surely follow in Overland's footsteps.

But today Overland—and Overland alone—offers you these unique engineering attainments.

In fairness to yourself, see this wonderful new-type car.

The first formal showing of the Overland Whippet is now being held by the dealers listed below.

Great preparations are being made by people who spend the summer away camping and hope to go this week.

Ontario is going after Alberta coal in real earnest this year. These are members of a special committee appointed at a conference held this week. From left to right, Mayor Foster, Toronto; Mayor F. F. Treleaven, Hamilton; Mayor J. Balharrie, Ottawa; City Clerk Kent, Hamilton; and below, Mrs. Walter Creswick, of the Toronto Local Council of Women, who will negotiate with the Dominion Government with a view to having the freight rates reduced so that Alberta coal may be sold at a competitive price in Ontario.

BOUNTY ON COTTON.

The Australian Government Wishes To Aid Production of Seed.

LONDON, July 3 (Canadian Press).—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Melbourne, Australia, says the Federal Government has decided to ask Parliament to grant a bounty of three and half pence per pound for five years for Australian seed cotton, except on low grades, the bounty on which would be three farthings per pound. The despatch adds that the Government also purposes a bounty for yarns.

MARX MINISTRY ESCAPES DEFEAT

Reichstag Will Not Sit Again Until November 3.

BERLIN, July 3 (United Press) —The German Reichstag has adjourned until November 3 and the cabinet of Chancellor Marx seems assured of continuance in office throughout the summer.

Last minute intervention of President Von Hindenburg in causing the withdrawal of the Government's compromise bill for hunting the claims of the royal familes saved the Government from what seemed certain defeat before adjournment at midnight last night.

The Marx cabinet was determined to submit the Government's measure to a vote and then resign if necessary.

The Communists introduced a resolutio of lack of confidence later in the session but the motion was side tracked.

LULL AT OTTAWA.

Everybody Resting Following Hectic Meetings of the Week.

OTTAWA, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Political circles are enjoying a lull to-day following hectic days which culminated in the dissolution of Parliament.

The Prime Minister, it is understood, will take a brief rest over the week-end before getting down to work on Cabinet organization.

WARSAW NEWS.

WARSAW, July 3. — On Friday evening, June 25, about 30 friends of Mr. Currie's gathered at Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper's home for a farewell party to Mr. Currie. Some time was spent in social conversation, music and a little dancing. Dr. Munro and his son each had their violins. Miss Elsie Cooper played for them. Dr. Munro read an address to Mr. Currie in which he spoke of his excellent work as a teacher in the Sunday school, in the church, and in the community as a whole. He had done a great deal of good in the community and would be very much missed. Miss Elsie Cooper presented a handsome club bag. Mr. Currie was taken completely by surprisebut made a suitable reply thanking the people for their kind words, and for the club bag, and for kindnesses shown during his stay here. He felt that his two years in W.rsa had done much for him. He had come here a mere boy, but had become a man.

About one o'clock Mrs. Cooper served a splendid lunch, which she had provided. Afterwards "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," "Auld Lang Syne," and other songs, were sung. Good-byes were said and a very happy gathering came to an end.

Mr. Currie's mother and brother came to Warsaw on Friday afternoon. His brother went to a summer school on Saturday, and his mother accompanied him to Apsley, where Mr. Currie presided at the Entrance Examinations. They will return to their home in Rodney on Saturday.

Entrance Examinations.

Mr. Went of Norwood presided at the entrance examinations in Warsaw. Thirty eight pupils wrote. Those from Warsaw were: Mary Rose, Ruth McQuaig, Elva Kidd, Har old Payne, Harry McCauley, Tom Davis, Trevor Watts, Ivan Drain.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Munro's home.

New Bridge.

A new cenent bridge is being built at the back dam, and when it is vnished one will be built to replace the little old wooden structure at the foot of the hill west of the Presbyterian church. A Peterboro man has the contract.

Crushed stone is being put on the road west from Job Wheeler's house.

Some alfalfa has already been cut. No long hay is reported yet. The general opinion seems to be that hay will be short and consequently a small crop.

Cattle on the Road.

Cattle on the roads are a great nuisance to motor drivers. Within the last few days Bart Allan, who is a splendid driver, has had three encounters. On Monday when he had the heavy Monday morning load, a sheep was in the middle of the road on Clarke's hill. Mr. Allan blew his horn, but Nannie would not budge. When close to it and no sign of any move, to avoid killing the sheep, he stalled the car, and then had to back all the way down the hill. At another time he met a herd of cows. He was going slowly, and just as he was about to pass one cow, that was headed off the road, she turned suddenly, and her leg was broken. Another time he had to take to the ditch.

Patterns of Progress

An American home—its bathtub, breakfast foods, furnace—set down in the heart of Europe would be unmistakably an American home. An American man—the cut of his coat, the tie of his tie, the comb of his hair—walking the streets of Europe is in all his obvious tastes an American.

Advertisements stamp American homes and owners of homes with a kind of national pattern. They create desire for the same kind of things; make particular people know and want the most advanced of things. Homes—what to put in homes. People—how to dress, nourish, entertain the people. Offices—how to equip and operate offices. They set America right about radios and talcums—tell businessmen, housewives, government officials how to brush their teeth!

We cut the pattern of our personal lives and surroundings from advertisements. We keep modern only with their intimate help. We go forward with them, as we would stand still without them. We form our tastes and discriminate values by using their truths. Advertisements offer us patterns of progress that mean quick steps to the fore.

Keep pace with progress by reading the advertisements every day

SALVATION ARMY ANNUAL PICNIC

Little Ones, and Parents, Too, Have Enjoyable Outing.

TO HIAWATHA.

(Contributed.)

The annual picnic of the Salvation Army Temple School took place on Tuesday, June 29th, to Hiawatha, proving a great success in every way, and it is unanimously agreed "It was one of the best." Many little folks had been eagerly waiting for the day to come. One little girlie in particular had kept coaxing her mamma to "Take off this frock and put on my nice one, and get me ready for the boat." The weather has been so changeable that one hardly knew what to expect, but many hearts, young and old, were at ease and delighted when the day dawned giving every evidence of a perfect day.

George street wharf was the scene of bustling activity with the crowd of heavily laden people hustling to the boat to enjoy the day's outing. At length the usual noise of those awful fog horns announced the starting of the boat, and the kiddies' dreams were being achieved at last.

It was a delightful sail down the river. The piano and orchestra music supplied by Misses Nellie and Muriel Boorman, and the united singing of sacred songs, added greatly to the pleasure of all and combined to make it a very pleasant and enjoyable trip. I would just say, what astonishing appetites some folks have—they actually could not wait for the noon hour, but indulged their appetites and ate their lunch on the boat. The booth did a thriving business all day under the supervision of assisting Sergt.-Major W. Boorman and G. Leggott. R. C. Braund's face was radiant, and he was telling some one during the day of a certain rose he possessed by which the changing colors forecasted the weather and that morning it was pink, indicating a fine day, and he was pretty sure it was "not going to rain anymore."

After three and a half hours sail we reached our destination and the crowd quickly dispersed and very soon gay groups could be seen dotted here and there on the green grass partaking heartily of the contents of those heavily laden baskets, happy in the knowledge that there was no time limit to complete their task.

Lunch over, the little folks were soon paddling in the water to their hearts' content, while some of the boys engaged in a game of ball.

Soon however the sports appeared on the programme and quite a lively time followed.

By this time the threatening clouds began to look darker and one and all beat a hasty retreat to the boat just in time to escape the rain. (If we could only have just got one glance at the color of Mr. Braund's famous rose!) Quite a storm followed. Some folks made a brave attempt at staying on deck. One kind lady was seen heroically trying to shelter nearly a dozen under her umbrella—(What faith to bring an umbrella!)—but her efforts proved futile and all were obliged to seek shelter below and no one appeared very worried. Dad Edmison with his concertina and singing helped to allay their fears; the young folks joining in the singing and all had a pleasant time till the clouds dispersed, and once more the blue sky appeared and the sun shone brightly again. By this time it was time to start on the homeward trip again, so we said goodbye to Hiawatha and proceeded on the homeward journey.

Soon the ladies were contentedly sipping away at their cup of tea and having a quiet chat. There were several amusing incidents on our journey home, one being that of the two fortunate ladies who were prize winners, who were not a bit slow in showing off their prizes. Another rather of an energetic salesman fight neared frequently on deck throughout the season.

tily calling out his tempting sales of ice cream, oranges, etc, which in spite of dwindling funds quickly disappeared. Mr. Braund was still smiling and sitting at ease. Why worry, while they work?.

With singing and smiling the time swiftly sped away and the boat glided once more into the George street wharf where a tired but happy lot of folk standing together unitedly sang very heartily "The Doxology." Thus ended "The Perfect Day."

The following races were run: Relay race, egg and spoon race, three-legged race, threading the needle race, potato race, sock race, swimming competition, blindfolded writing competition, and whittling competition.

CHURCH FINANCES RECEIVE INCREASE

Anniversary Service and Garden Party Great Aid To Treasury.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3.—The finances of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were advanced $1,200 with the anniversary services and garden party this week. The congregations contributed $674 on Sunday at their services, and on Monday evening the ladies made $526 at their lawn social. This is a decided increase over other years; in fact it was the largest financial success in the history of the Presbyterian Church.

The various committees have all worked very hard to make these services successful, and are deserving of much credit for the wonderful results of their efforts.

The young boy was of good size, with red hair, and was attired in his everyday clothes, with running boots on his feet but no stockings or cap.

TEACHER RECEIVES GIFT FROM PUPILS

Miss Wilma Humphries Is Leaving S. S. 1, Dummer, For New Post.

A number of parents and scholars of S.S. No. 1, Dummer, gathered at the school on June 28th and presented Miss Wilma Humphries, their departing teacher, with a handsome leather club bag.

The following address was read by Mrs. E. N. McDonald and the presentation made by Mrs. M. Clysdale.

Dear Miss Humphries:

One of the unpleasant things of life is parting with those we have learned to love and respect. Having heard that you are leaving our school and neighborhood, we felt we could not let you go without assembling for a little while to bid you farewell.

You have ever had the best interest of the neighborhood at heart, and our children have progressed wonderfully in the past three years. Our wishes were that you would continue to be their teacher.

We have always admired you for your sterling character, honesty and uprightness in your dealings in executing every duty in a friendly and just spirit. We trust that you may be spared for many years of usefulness in your new field of labor. We are proud of you as a friend and teacher and look forward to a bright and happy future for you. May joy and prosperity be your lot.

We felt we could not let this opportunity pass without giving you some evidence of the esteem in which you are held. We beg you to accept this club bag as a memento of our appreciation of you, not for its intrinsic value, but as a remembrance of your friends and scholars. We again wish you every success in your new school and at any time it is possible for you to visit us we will give you a hearty welcome in our midst.

May the Giver of all good, protect and aid you through life and when life's journey is ended may we all meet where parting is no more.

Signed on behalf of the parents and children of school section number 1, Dummer—Ernest MacDonald, Hugh Kelly.

Miss Humphries then thanked them for their expressions of good will after which everybody joined in singing, "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow."

On Thursday evening, June 24, the members of the Young Peope's Society gathered at the home of Mr. J. S. Kidd and presented Miss Humphries with a lovely string of pearls, the presentation being made by Miss Laura Webster, and the address was read by Miss Mae Stevens.

PASTORS PREACHED INSPIRING SERMONS

Flower and Farewell Services Held in Trinity United Church.

COBOURG, July 3. — Rev. Jas. W. Pedley, D. D., preached at the annual flower Sunday services of Trinity United church on Sunday morning, June 27, and the audience assembled to hear him filled the auditorium to capacity. The Sunday school scholars marched from Trinity hall to the church, each bringing one or more white or crimson flowers. There a committee of young ladies received the flowers at the altar and deftly festooned them into a large cross with crimson centre and white arms. Other beautiful floral decorations converted the altar and railings into a mass of spring bloom.

The Sunday school orchestra under Mr. E. Halls baton, with Mr. Frank Parkinson at the organ, and Mrs. Kerr at the piano, assisted in leading the service of song. The Superintendent A. J. Gould, presided. J. E. Skidmore led the opening invocation. Lt.-Col. Odell led the responsive Scripture reading. Mr. John Morrow gave the secretary's report. Rev. Dr. Brown and Rev. W. A. Bremner assisted in the service and four young girls sang a chorus.

The secretary's report showed that over 2000 more people had been present at Sunday school during the year just closed than the previous year. Over $1000 was received, $225 of which was given to missions, and over $400 for papers and Sunday school helps.

Dr. Pedley in his sermon stressed the great importance of personality, of freedom of thought, and of religious conviction while holding intact the great essential of one common belief in Jesus as the Son of God. He scored the controversy between fundamentalism and modernism and rejoiced in the broad mindedness and liberality of the church into which three denominations had merged.

Rev. W. A. Bremner's Farewell.

Rev. W. A. Bremner was the preacher at the evening service, in which he gave his farewell message to the congregation, among whom were some to whom he had long ministered as pastor. His address, however was not a farewell. It was rather a challenge to faithfulness to fight the good fight, to be instant in season and out of season, in all good works, "forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." His words regarding his own ministry were very few, for as he told his hearers this was not different from other leave takings. It was simply a going forth to take up the same kind of labor which he had endeavored to perform as best he could here, in some other sphere.

Dr. Brown, before the service closed, paid a sincere tribute of appreciation to the help and cooperation of Mr. Bremner during the time he had been associated with him as pastor. He spoke of the cordial relationship that existed between them. He paid a tribute also to Mrs. Bremner's interest and help in the work of the church in different departments, and of her daughters, and on behalf of the congregation wished Mr. Bremner and family Godspeed.

SUDDEN DISSOLUTION

Company bill; the Gatineau Transmission bill; amendments to the Canadian Evidence act respecting bank books and records, the Rural Credits bill, the Detroit and Windsor subway bill, and the Montreal Harbor commissioners' bill.

Civil Service Act Stranded

OTTAWA, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Consequent upon the sudden dissolution, bill 233, to amend the civil service act of 1924, was stranded. This measure proposed to extend the time for one year for those civil servants who had not elected to come under the provisions of the cat, many having held back in the hope that legislation would be enacted embodying amendments which the civil service organizations have been urging. Dissolution left the bill on the order paper standing for the second reading, and as the period of election under the act will have elapsed before parliament can meet again members of the service who have still to make their choice must do so before the 19th of the present month.

Fred Cook, president of the Professional Institute of the Civil Service, caused notices to be sent out last night to the members throughout Canada, advising them of the situation, and urging prompt action.

C.M.G.C. TRAINS AT RIFLE RANGE

Local Militiamen Are Doing Good Work With Guns.

SHOOTING MATCH.

That the local Militia is not a dead issue as far as the Canadian Machine Gun Corps is concerned was ably demonstrated at the rifle ranges yesterday. The Peterborough Company belonging to the 4th Batt. under the command of Major Hurrell Dodds is encamped on the ranges, undergoing a strenuous course in the practical end of the work. Though the company is small in numbers, only thirty-eight officers and men being allowed on the strength, a lot of good work was being accomplished. Throughout the entire day the air reverberated with the rattle of the guns which fire up to 500 rounds of ammunition a minute. Passing motorists did not stop to inquire as to the cause of the noise but sped on in a seemingly anxious manner as if their lives depended upon their being somewhere else in a very few minutes.

Part of the afternoon session was devoted to the firing of the annual classification musketry course. This course as well as determning the grade in cial "best shot" badge for the best shot in the company and a money prize for first and second place. The badge and first prize was won by Private J. F. Thomas, the second prize going to Private B. E. Aiken.

For the first time in the memory of the oldest soldier in the camp there were pies and cakes left over at mealtime, an occurence decidedly unique when a person considers the appetites that young healthy fellows have after gruelling work. It was a decided tribute to R. H. Muir, the official caterer, who seemed to have a never ending supply of eats on tap, which he produced on the slightest provocation.

The unit is fortunate in having the services of Q.M.S.I. T. Thomas of the Royal Canadian Regiment Instructional Cadre and C.M.S. W. R. Piercy, a graduate of the Hythe school of Musketry, both of these men proving extremely valuable in assisting in the instruction of the Company.

DOURO, July 2.—A number of pupils and ex-pupils of S. S. No. 4, Douro, assembled at the schoolhouse on Wednesday, to bid farewell to their teacher, Miss Lillian Condon, who has taught there for four years.

After an entertaining programme by the pupils, Miss ondon was presented with a handsome rosary and an under-the-arm bag. The following address was read by Carrie Condon, the presentation being made by Ella Tobin.

Dear Teacher:—We, your pupils of S.S. No. 4 Douro, having heard, with regret, of your departure from amongst us, cannot let the occasion pass without tendering you some slight token of our love and esteem.

The four years you have labored amongst us, have been to us at least a time of untold pleasure and profit.

We thank you sincerely for the kindness and sympathy extended to us in our difficulties, also for the painstaking yet pleasant manner in which you have conducted our daily studies; for the patience and good judgment you manifested in correcting our many faults, which must have caused you much annoyance, and for which we humbly ask your pardon. You have always endeavored to instill in our hearts your nobleness of character and purity of mind which we hope we shall ever remember.

We pray that God will bless you and guide you in all your undertakings. We beg of you to accept these gifts to show our sincere appreciation of your unselfish efforts to improve our lives by precept and example. In conclusion, we all join in wishing you every success in your future undertakings.

Signed on behalf of pupils.—Anna Tobin, Mary Moher, Jack Kennedy.

After the singing of "She's a Jolly Good Fellow," Miss Condon thanked the pupils for their very thoughtful gifts.

Addition to Barn

Monday and Tuesday were sort of "lend a hand" days. On Monday afternoon some thirty or forty men assisted James Sweeney to raise an addition to his barn. Everything went off well and the work was finished without mishap.

On Tuesday upwards of thirty men assisted Frank D. Leahy at a stone bee when the stone-piles were all removed off fifteen acres on the farm purchased by Mr. Leahy last year from A. Hayes and known as the Farley farm. A splendid day's work was done and in the evening the workers and their friends were entertained with music and dancing. An orchestra composed of Misses Watley and McMurray, violins; Gerald Crowe, cornet; Olan Leahy, Hector Munro and Dr. Munro (of Warsaw) and Mrs Taylor rendered several excellent selections before dancing commenced. Music for dancing was supplied by local musicians. Ice cream and lunch were served and all voted Mr. and Mrs. Leahy splendid hosts.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Garvey; sons, Leonard and Emmett, and daughter, Irene, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Leahy on Tuesday evening.

Canada's First High-Speed European-Type Light Car

The distinctive body lines of the New Overland Whippet resemble the smartest custom-built automobiles of America and Continental Europe. Stand in front of this car and you can imagine yourself on the boulevards of France.

It will travel 55 miles an hour in perfect comfort . . . pick-up in 13 seconds from 5 to 30 miles an hour . . . go 35 miles on a gallon of gasoline . . . over 1000 miles on a gallon of oil.

Measured tests show that the Overland Whippet, with its 4-wheel brakes, will stop in two car lengths from a speed of 25 miles an hour.

CHARLESTON REVUE IS WELL RECEIVED

Miss Perry's Dancers Appear at Royal Theatre, Port Hope.

The added attraction to the programme, "Mae Perry's Dance Revue" was a most satisfactory success from the standpoint of both the audience and the management. The house acclaimed the act with hearty applause and were most insistent with their oncores. Miss Perry is not a newcomer to Port Hope, having appeared here on many occasions. Her popularity with local audiences was shown Monday night and in company with a clever troupe she made a decided hit. In dancing the Merry Widow Waltz with her partner, the young lady was greeted by unanimous praise and the Charleston revue including Miss Perry, two tiny tots and eight of the best dance interpreters of Peterborough brought down the house. Their dancing was particularly well done and showed careful training.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE PREFERRED

Peterborough Man Faces Two Charges in Bowmanville Police Court.

OSHAWA, Ont., July 3—W. A. Reid, Provincial traffic officer, of Pickering, who has been in Oshawa in connection with the recent accident which occurred on the Kingston Road, east of Tooley's Mill, three miles east of Oshawa, on Sunday evening last, when William Cardinal, who lives near Hampton, was struk by an automobile driven by Thomas Beatty, Peterboro, states that two charges are being laid against Beatty under Sections 25 and 41 of the Highway Traffic Act —one for reckless driving, and the other for not remaining at the scene of the accident to render all possible assistance.

The case will be tried before Magistrate Ward at Bowmanville on Monday next. Mr. Cardinal was repairing a punctured tire when the Beatty car came along and struck him, inflicting serious injuries. He was taken to the Oshawa Hospital, where it was found that eight ribs had been broken, one puncturing the lung. His collar-bone was also broken.

Dr. C. E. Wilson, who is attending the injured man at Oshawa General Hospital, reports the condition of Cardinal is still very serious, although yesterday he showed a slight improvement.

CHARGES AGAINST MAYOR

in attendance at the meeting of the Industrial Board, for the purpose of creating industry and thrift, adding that the remarks were merely expressions of "contempt."

Second Charge Dismissed.

A second charge of intimidation against the Mayor was withdrawn, following the Magistrate's decision on the first charge.

The charges against Mayor Webb arose as a result of a speech given at the annual meeting of the Industrial Development Board, June 2. Action was brought by officers of the one Big Union who were specifically mentioned by the Mayor. Mayor Webb had voiced strong objections to the activities of the One Big Union.

In dismissing the case the Magistrate said that he did not think there was any criminal intent on the part of the Mayor, but referred to Mayor Webb's language in the speech of June 2 as "improper" and said some expressions would have been better unsaid.

The case was heard in the City Police Court.

The Bloused Body Comes to a French Conclusion

BUTTERICK 6932

The absence of sleeves, the shirrings on the shoulder, the wide sash and, above all, the entirely new bloused body are the unmistakable evidence of French origin in a frock of pastel sky-blue Georgette printed with pale-pink and lemon-yellow flowers. Paris also uses eyelet embroidery for the blouse and matching embroidery flouncing for the straight skirt when the dress is for daytime use. The Georgettes, silk voiles and crepes de Chine make the two-to-two combination afternoon and informal dinner frock that the young girls find so useful, especially in Summer. It is also a nice type of dinner dress for the steamer.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thornecliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A CHIC SPORTS COSTUME.

Pam and I took a stroll down the Avenue at lunch time today on a window-shopping tour.

"I've seen lots of unattractive clothes in the shops lately," Pam remarked after we had taken quick glances at a number of the windows and strolled on.

"Madame's originality in clothes rather spoils us for the creations of less talented designers," I returned. "But we're sure to find something worth our while, for I never walk on the Avenue without getting some ideas, either from the windows or the passers-by."

Sure enough we were rewarded, for we came to a window in a chic little shop that specializes in smart sports clothes and paused to exclaim in pleasure.

The entire showing was of yellow garments, and the window made one think of a huge bed of daffodils.

There were sports frocks in yellow jersey, yellow crepe and yellow crepe de chine.

"There's the new idea I mentioned to you yesterday," Pam exclaimed, nodding to a costume in the corner.

"You see, the only adornment is the polka-dotted girdle and tie."

The costume she referred to was an utterly simple two-piece model of yellow crepe, consisting of a skirt finely pleated and a plain overblouse with long sleeves. The trimming that made it stand out from the others was the use of two bias handkerchiefs of polka-dotted silk, one carelessly tied about the neck and the other about the low waistline.

"I wonder how the neckline is finished," I said.

"I should say it must be a simple round neck, that could be worn without the kerchief," Pam suggested.

"Well, the walk has been well worth while to me," I said as we turned about. "Now I shall have white kerchiefs with red polka-dots to finish that white crepe sports dress I've been making."

SAVE YOUR TEETH

DEAD NERVES.

'Tis said that 'dead men tell no tales'—but dead nerves do! Listen!

You had an aching tooth, then the pain ceased and the soreness left. So perhaps you just neglected to have it 'fixed' or else you determined to forget it, since it was fairly comfortable—anticipating no further trouble.

But as with some little children when too quiet you may be sure that there was mischief brewing.

Nature works pretty much by rule of thumb: when a part dies, it is cast off. The dead leaf falls to the ground: the dead limb that held it finally separates from the trunk. But in this case, nature, seemingly, is tricked in that she is unable to expel the lifeless pulp while the tooth remains.

Yet she may endeavor to throw off the tooth by permitting the infective process to proceed to abscess stage: thereupon you need no further warning that you must assist by seeking relief, which you probably do.

But, perhaps, being more tolerably disposed nature may endeavor to protect you from further disaster by establishing an effective quarantine of the diseased area. This she does through walling off the root and infection by means of dense tissue.

So we have, then, these bacterial brigands roaming at large throughout the body avenues and seeking their opportunity to strike—an opportunity of lowered process of resistance occasioned through body fatigue, exposure, accident, or from advancing years.

Childhood and old age resist infection poorly. In youth and in vigorous adult age, the poisonous effects are manifested, perhaps, only in headaches, common colds or occasionally in stomach disorders. But as the age of forty approaches, a marked fall in energy is noticeable and a general debility may set in. The whole trouble may be summed up in the one word 'fatigue.'

The insidious feature of these processes is that if not checked in time, it may be too late to ward off the establishment of the secondary infections, which will persist even though the original source of trouble may be removed. In this manner, various heart, kidney, joint and other affections which are inimical to health and even life itself are induced.

Thus, the tale, but with a sorry ending. Think it over!

Playtime Toggery

Sandbox days are here, and little folk who have been playing indoors all winter will be having glorious times in sandboxes and gardens. The small person pictured here looks most attractive in her cunning little frock, trimmed with cross-stitch in bright-colored silk or wool. The diagram shows that it is the simplest, easiest sort of frock for mothers to make, each side of the front and back being gathered to a shaped section, forming a yoke and sleeves. The straight bloomers are gathered into bands at the waist and knees. NO. 1315 is in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 years requires 2¼ yards 32-inch material. Price 20 cents.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically, by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out. Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make without difficulty an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

WEAK AND NERVOUS.

A Condition Due To Watery Blood — Easily Corrected Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Thin, pale girls lack the power of resistance to disease that rich, red blood gives. Nervous breakdown is the result of thin blood. So is indigestion, headaches, backaches and many other troubles. Girls suffering from thin, impure blood need just the help Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give. For many years Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a world-famous blood-builder and nerve restorer. They actually make new, rich, red blood which imparts new vigor and life to all the organs of the body. Their first effect is usually shown by an improved appetite; then the spirits revive and restlessness at night gives way to health restoring sleep. For sufferers from anaemia, nervousness, general weakness or physical exhaustion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a restorative to the utmost value. This is proved by the experience of Miss Sarah A. McEachern, R.R. No. 3, Brule, N.S., who says:—"About three years ago I became very weak and nervous. I had pains in my side and back. I also had frequent pains in the back of my head and neck. I was very pale and very weak. I had attacks of nervous irritability, and at times I was so nervous that life seemed hardly worth living. While in this condition a friend strongly advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking these pills and used them for about two months with the result that there was such an improvement in my condition that friends would ask me what I was taking, and I was only too glad to tell them it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am now enjoying good health and am glad to give this statement for the benefit it may be to some other sufferer."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HAIR AND REVOLT.

Young lady students of Jena, Germany, have pitched tents in two battle camps—one waging war for long hair and against short, the other battling against long hair and shouting salvos to short. It all began when a professor issued summons to all fair maids to come forth and perform in a pageant. But he added that no bob-haired maidens need apply, as "unsuitable" to part.

* * *

The long hair of a New York factor girl became entangled in a book binding machine a day or so ago. She may live.

A QUEEN'S BEAUTY.

"I know that I am said to be the most beautiful woman in Europe. About that, of course, I cannot judge, because I cannot know. But about the other queens I know. I am the most beautiful queen in Europe. And I am so glad to have a face that can give my people pleasure."

So Queen Marie of Rumania is reported by Mabel Potter Daggett as saying. Mrs. Daggett, realizing that the remark may bring forth criticism, meets it by denying that any trace of offensive ego lives in the queen. "She just cannot help knowing that she is 'something nice'," she writes. "But she is as impersonal in estimating her values as she might be in appraising a rare rug."

* * *

Just the same I wonder if Queen Marie gets invited to the other queens' teas and garden parties and stork showers and things!

SUMMER FOOD FOLLIES.

A "hunk" of plain whipped cream can be "dolled up" by sprinkling it with cocoanut, chopped nuts, chocolate shot, or colored sugar.

"Company" apple pie is made by baking it with only one crust and garnishing the top with whipped cream and cottage cheese.

A cabbage leaf cut about the top into scallops makes a decorative "salad bowl." Filled with cold carrots and peas mixed with salad dressing, the Sunday night supper's all ready!

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL.

If you use "catty corner" arrangement of furniture you're all wrong, according to home decorating specialist. With a united firm cry they say that chairs are the only possible exception to the rule that furniture shoud either be in a right angle position or flat against the wall. Neither are tables placed in the center of the room these days, and the several end tables are apt to be used rather than one large center table.

COOL DESSERT

Peach mist makes a delectable warm summer evening dish. Made from 2 egg whites, 2 cups of small cut peaches, 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, and 3 tablespoons of some berry jelly or jam. Chill the eggs before breaking them. whip whites until stiff, add powdered sugar and jelly before whipping. Mix in peaches, chill and serve in sherbet glasses.

CROWNING GLORY.

Since it is now assumed that gentlemen prefer blondes, blondes will keep that way. Borax and soda in the rinse ill keepthat way. Borax and soda in t water will help. And curly-headed blondes have a "better break" than straight tressed ones. If you dislike curling your hair with a hot iron, and stick to the old soft kid curlers, you might like this curling lotion with which the hair is moistened before it is rolled on the curlers. MAN SHE SHOULD MARRY!

Writes Martha Ostenso, author of the best seller "Wild Geese," in an article entitled "A Man I Would Marry"—

"A professional woman is in a peculiarly wistful position. She wants men friends without having to squirm and grimace and look laboriously arch to win them. She has no wish to be, more or less figuratively speaking, poked in the ribs and called 'You little rascal'!"

MORE GOOD STUFF!

"It was not long ago that I could, at gay gatherings masquerade as one of those 'harmlesslittle things.' Inevitably however, some time during the evening a sad light would dawn in the eye of a man whom I had so artfully misled, and he would retreat in that male terror that will not grant a woman the right to be intelligent. One has, as George Meredith says of the coy Annette, 'almost to fight a battle to persuade the world that she has downright thoughts and feelings'."

HER OWN WAY by a Girl of Today

BARRY CORNWALL'S WIFE.

"'It was the only way I could write it, Joan,' Barry Cornwall said, 'I did intend to get rooms on different floors and register you under an assumed name. But I found that that suite were the only rooms in the house that were unoccupied, and as the inn preserves outside conventions, it had to be Barry Cornwall and wife.'

"'You will at least let me justify myself by saying that when you went into your own room and locked the door I did not even kiss you good night. At that time, you see, I had not thought that this annoying circumstance would come to pass.'

"'Why should it make any difference whom you registered as your wife? No one would know that the woman was I.'

"'Yes, Joan,' he asserted. 'Someone does know.'

"'By a curious fortunate or unfortunate circumstance the manager of The Circle was in the lobby of that house that night and stepped just inside the door of another room. He recognized us both. I sometimes think he followed us intending to blackmail us. For many times since he has wanted me to ask you to pay for that page of damning evidence which I carefully cut from the register as soon as I found out that he had seen us. Something he had forgotten to do or you would have heard from it before this.

"'Last night the manager of The Circle inveigled me into a card game in which there were three or four of the richest young men in town. I lost fifty thousand dollars, and on the impulse I went into the other room and signed a check with your stepfather's name. It was then that I decided that you and I would be married, at least go through the ceremony, for that was the only way I could see my way out. I knew your stepfather would do anything to get rid of me.

"'Your insistence upon having a witness to our marriage upset all my plans, for, of course, I had no license. A friend was going to impersonate the minister. Consequently, you must get me out of the mix-up.'

"My eyes must have been wide with horror, for Barry continued

"'I really wouldn't do this, Joan, but—well you see if I don't get the money by tomorrow night, it is prison for me, and I'm desperate.'

"'Get that money I must, and get it I will. The stork is coming to my house and I'm not going to let my child claim a criminal for a father if I can help it.'

"Judy, I do not believe that I could again feel what I felt at that moment. The agony and horror of mind was too great. I think it has dulled my brain for evermore.

"When I heard Barry say that his wife was going to have a baby and I remembered that he had been making love to me for many months, well—oh I can't describe it."

"'Does Lela know a—a—bout us?" I stuttered.

"'Yes, of course, but she knew it was business. We had to live. She shared in your money from the first. In fact, she got the most of it, poor girl.'"

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JULY 4 AND 5.

Sunday's horoscope makes for lively and pleasant conditions in all that pertains to the conventional affairs of the double holiday, and yet in all relations to business, contracts and writings, caution is enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a pleasant and prosperous year, but they are warned of a danger through carelessness in the signing of writings. A child born on this day may be capable and generally successful, but it should be given rigid training in the matter of integrity and veracity, as it may be visionary and of dangerous imagination.

Monday's astrological forecast may not be considered a propitious one. Perplexities and dangers, as well as delays and disappointments, beset the way. It is admonished that important affairs be postponed and every safeguard taken against loss of money and property. Shun new projects.

Those whose birthday it is should manage to keep in the accustomed, tried and safe grooves for the coming year, guarding against loss of money and property of every nature. A child born on this day may have many serious and sterling traits, which should be developed to meet obstacles wisely.

POP STEPS OUT.

"I guess I'll stay downtown tonight," says Mister Married Man. "'Tis best that I keep out of sight. The missus says I can. She might as well just tell me, I'd be sorta in the way. It's actions that expel me from the household, for the day.

"I watched her fix the table. I could quickly understand. As much as I was able—well, I sorta lent a hand. The tricky little trimmin' that she spread around so free just pictured talkin' women—and it's, not the place for me.

"I'll gladly pay the grocer, and believe me it's enough. But, frankly, I say no sir, as to helpin' eat the stuff. The feed that she's preparin' may be nice an' all of that, but I prefer an airin' in the outdoors. Where's my hat?

"Of course you know the answer to what's goin' on tonight—the reason why yours truly much prefers to fade from sight. The neighbor 'girls' are comin' and a bridge game's in the air, so father's goin' bummin' cause he's just not wanted there."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHY WILLIE TREE TOAD SINGS ON A GLOOMY DAY.

Willy Tree Toad hopped far out on the end of the limb of the tree and glanced up at the heavens. The sun was shining brightly and all the meadow people were hustling and bustling around getting ready to go to a picnic.

Johnny Grasshopper was out trying to jump over a tall weed and Willy Tree Toad called to him gayly.

"Taking your morning exercise, Johnny?"

"Morning exercise nothing," laughed Johnny Grasshopper, almost out of breath. "I'm practicing so I can jump higher than I've ever jumped before. It's meadow folks' field day today and I want to win the prize."

"You'd all better look around for your umbrellas," croaked Willy Tree Toad. "For just as sure as I'm alive, it's going to storm before the day is over."

"There you go, Gloomy Gus," laughed another voice, as Cheery Cricket hopped up to join her friends. "Always throwing cold water over a party."

"Mark my words, my cold water won't be the only water you'll have to duck from today," and, wagging his little brownish green head, Willy Tree Toad crawled back to his doorway.

He began to sing so loudly his neighbors ran on to the picnic to get away from his song, for none of them believed it would rain.

But just as they were about to begin their games, the sun went under a cloud. Before the little merry-makers knew what was happening the rain was coming down in torrents. Everyone scooted for the nearest shelter, and the few that had spoken to Willy Tree Toad earlier in the day looked at each other in astonishment.

Cheery Cricket hated the storm more than any of them, unless it was Mrs. Spider. Cheery Cricket hated to get her feet wet and Mrs. Spider hated to get her webby house wet.

"Croak-croak—will you listen to me,
I told you it would rainy be.
So Fol-de-little, Fol-dee-lay,
Oh How I love a cloudy day!"

This was the song that floated over the meadows, and Willy Tree Toad repeated it over and over again until the storm had stopped.

The little meadow folks came from under their shelters and all went dragging home through the wet grass.

"I'd just love to know why you persist in singing on a gloomy day like this?" chirped Cheery Cricket, stopping under the tree where Willy Tree Toad sat singing.

"That's easily answered," croaked the singer. "I sang in the sunlight to warn folks of the approaching storm. No one heeded my warning, so your day was a wet one. Now what's the use of crying when it's gloomy? It makes it seem all the gloomier. A gloomy day, seasoned with song passes much more quickly than one spent in tears."

After that, no matter how the day was planned, if the meadow folks heard Willy Tree Toad singing from his tree home, they changed their plans and heeded his warning, for Willy Tree Toad is a splendid prophet.

BRITISH PAPER UPHOLDS BYNG

Free To Grant Or Refuse Dissolution, It Says in Review.

NO QUESTION RAISED.

LONDON, July 3. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The Nation, weekly review, remarks in its issue of this week that it is surprising on the whole that the Liberal Government in Canada was able to survive "even this brief time, since its postion was thoroughly illogical, particularly in view of the defeats inflicted upon Ministers at the last general elections."

Scandals in the Customs Department, with appalling revelations of liquor smuggling into the United States, were more than enough to bring a Government down, the Nation continues, but it would be folly for the Conservatives to pretend that in the presence of permanent temptation and stretched along a thousand miles of frontier, the Customs officials under a different party Government would be immune.

Discussing Lord Byng's refusal to grant dissolution against the advice of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, The Nation thinks that his action does not really raise a constitutional question, "although certain sections of the Canadian press assure us that it does." The Governor-General, The Nation adds, was apparently free by precedent to grant or refuse dissolution, and he was probably well advised in deciding that the business of Government ought to be carried on until the session was over, and the quarrel settled by an appeal to the country during recess.

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—whether it be for the newborn babe or the growing child the Tablets always do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Armour, R.R. 1, South Monaghan, Ont., says:—"We have three fine, healthy children, to whom, when a medicine is needed we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Old Landmark Gone

The above is a reproduction of the old Swanston Bakehouse at the corner of Hunter street East and Driscoll Terrace, which was demolished this week.

It was one of the most familiar landmarks in Ashburnham and its disappearance would be at once noticed by any of the old Ashburnham boys and girls who might be renewing old scenes and reviving old memories of the corner and the cricket grounds at the rear.

For many years the late Mrs. Swanston ran a bakery with "Bill" Swanston as baker who still resides in Asburnham, and the product of this small shop was found in many homes on both sides of the river, who looked upon it as a product of superior quality.

The bread was delivered by boys of the village with a white horse obtained from Mrs. McGregor, and another Bay of their own, and every evening after school there could be seen a flock of small boys waiting around to be of service in some capacity and obtain as a reward one of the "little loaves" much appreciated by them.

Quite a few men who have got along well in the business life of this district and elsewhere had their first business experience in peddling bread for Mrs. Swanston.

Anyone can see a light in the dark. That is plain. Were you ever in a movie theatre when the ushers flashed their pocket lights in the dark, while trying to show some fat man exactly where to plant his number eleven foot in order to make sure of landing on somebody's corn? Yes? Well then, you know what a flash in the dark is.

But it takes something mighty flashy to make us see it plainly right outdoors in the sunlight. Doesn't it?

Well now, there are some dainty little creatures of the feathered kingdom, who flash flaming brightness in the eyes of all who are near them. These are the Flame Flashers, or what are more commonly known as Redstarts.

One morning, when I was away up in the Laurentian Mountains, I decided to get up at four o'clock in the morning, and go into a nearby clearing on the edge of a hill, and see what would happen. Well, there I was, up in the gray dawn, and figuring that something mighty clever would need to happen every minute, to repay me for crawling out from under the nice warm bedcovers in that cool mountain air.

Things were not happening with any lightning-like speed; in fact everything that could have happened was still in bed, and I found only silence, quietness and a big flat stump.

I sat on the stump and waited, and presently I heard a wee small peep, as of a bird awaking from slumber. Did you ever hear birdland awaking from deep sleep? First a peep here, then a very sleep peep away over yonder, then a dull chirp or two, then some peppy, snappy cheeping, and then the beginning of morning song.

Well, after all this, up came the sun, and there, in the first blaze of his golden light, I saw the flame flashers., flitting hither and yon, dancing in the sunlight, dazzling old Sol himself, as their brilliant feathers and coloring reflected back the light in flashes of glory.

These little Redstarts, these dancing Flame Flashers, were called, in the romantic old days of Spain, "Candelita," "Little Torch-bearer," and they are warblers worthy of that name. They do indeed flash without the aid of darkness.

CAMP FIRE GOSSIP.

On Monday last about 27 boys arrived at the Y.M.C.A.-Rotary Boys' Camp on the Dummer side of Clear Lake. This is indeed an ideal spot for the boys to spend their vacation. The accomodation consists of three buildings, cottage, dinning hall and sleeping quarters, situated about a hundred yards from shore, with birch trees offering plenty of shade.

Fred. McNeely, as instructor, and Mr. Miller, as assistant, are well adapted for instilling into the minds of the youngsters the conception that the beauty of nature, the lake, the woods and the green pasture lands are of God, who created all these things, for this camp is not all entertainment and amusement. A certain course of religious and educational instruction must be gone through each day.

Entertainment and Instruction.

A well-defined program is drawn up by the instructors for each day, containing both entertaining and instructive courses.

On Tuesday the following program was set up by the instructors:

Reville call was sounded at 7.30 and at 7.45 all the boys collected in front of the dinning hall, marching to the green sward at the side, where the flag was raised. The roll call was answered and ten minutes were spent in physical drill, under the personal supervision of Mr. McNeely.

At 8 o'clock swimming was indulged in, and at 8.40 breakfast was called. At 9.15 inspection of the sleeping quarters was made by the leaders, who are the older boys of the camp.

Morning Worship.

At 9.25 Mr. McNeely conducted a morning worship service, in which several hymns were sung, a psalm was read, followed by a short prayer. Lamp duties were next performed, followed by a ball game from 11 to 12.45.

At 12.45 dinner was served, and from then until 2.15 a rest hour was declared, during which the library and canteen were opened. A lecture by Mr. McNeely on first aid, dealing principally with antificial respirations, cuts, bruises and broken bones, was given and was followed by a recreation period.

Supper was served at 5.40, followed by a sing-song, camp-fire or a long hike through the woods back of the camp.

Altogether this proves an ideal vacation for the youngsters, not a dull moment being left during the whole day. At the same time it is instructive as well as entertaining.

Softball League.

A softball league was formed, composed of four teams, under Captains Eddie Wright, Herb Rye, Donald Best and Rus. Jones. The teams were composed of eight players in the following order:

Dirty Dozen—Donald Best, Ross Gillespie, Frank Jopling, Charles Brick, John Wedell, Roger Herrick, Gordon Duncan and Trevor Miller.

Wolves—Herb Rye, Gordon Roper, Mel. Rolson, Charles Barton, Garvin Saxby, Stanley Armstrong, Gordon Smith and G. Fraser.

Roughnecks—Rus. Jones, Jack Oke, Eric McKinsty, Oscar Sloane, Tom Dunlop, Leslie Welsh, William Parkes and David.

In the first two league fixtures played on Tuesday the Dirty Dozen beat the Wolves, 7 to 6, and the Toughs beat the Roughnecks, 22 to 7.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Somebody told a story about an old man so remarkably well that a newspaper reporter asked why he had lived so long and kept so strong. "I suppose it is because you take systematic exercise," said the reporter.

The startling reply of the old gentleman was, "The only exercise I take is acting as pall-bearer to my friends who have indulged in strenuous exercise!"

This is a ridiculous yarn, but it has in it a suggestion of value. Exercise is useful so long as it really is exercise and not violent and difficult work.

Too many athletes die of heart or blood vessel trouble. Too much strain on the organs of circulation will do real and lasting harm. There must be good sense in practising any and all kinds of sports or games. They must not be too exacting and strenuous or to overtax the organs.

Where I live in the Summer-time is on the edge of the Interstate Park, near Bear Mountain. In the park, tens of thousands of Boy Scouts camp every year. Not a day goes by but pairs or groups of Scouts pass my house.

I approve of the scouting idea, because it gives boys a chance to exercise under the direction of men who are experts. They know what is good for boys and when the individual boy cannot keep up to par.

What I say about Boy Scouts is even truer of Girl Scouts. It does not pay to be too active until the expert say it is all right.

All these warnings apply twice over to persons in middle life, or past middle life. Unless there has been a lifetime of sensible and sustained exercise, it will not do to take up some unusual activity and play it too hard in the beginning.

I have a friend, a doctor, advanced in years, who plays many sets of tennis every day in the season. He has remarkably soft blood vessels and an unusual heart. Nature has been kind to him and he carries on very strenuously, thriving with it all.

But because my friend can do this no argument in favor of other men and women past seventy, or just past sixty, or, for that matter, just past fifty, attempting to imitate him. Disaster is perilously near if persons who have never exercised much, suddenly take up some active sport.

You must not undertake these activities until you have been looked over by your family doctor. He will examine your heart and blood vessels, take your blood pressure and assure himself you are all right. It pays to be on the safe side.

When you go to a well-conducted bath establishment, you are not permitted to take very hot baths, very cold baths, needle-baths or other stimulating baths, until you have been carefully examined by a doctor. It does not add to the reputation of a bathing establishment and they do not propose to let you die. But of course they have a higher motive than this—they honestly desire to have the series of baths do you good and not harm.

Have your exercises supervised and then be sensible about them.

THE CARTOON FOLLIES OF 1926—IT'S DIFFERENT WH EN IT HAPPENS TO YOU — — — — — — — — — By Rube Goldberg

The Evening Examiner

MAGAZINE SECTION

FACT, FICTION | PETERBOROUGH, ONT., JULY 3, 1926. | HUMOR, PICTURES

13 Has Jinked Many Peterboro People --But Some Beat It.

FROM time immemorial mankind has viewed the number thirteen with some degree of diffidence. While openly avowing an absolute unbelief in the superstition, deep down in his heart there lies a sneaky inclination to have nothing to do with the significant number if he can help it.

With a view to ascertaining if there was anything in this belief The Examiner interviewed the man on the street and discovered that in a few cases the fatal number, while not resulting in actual disaster, had certainly figured in some very unpleasant happenings.

Strange to say, the first man spoken to had what might be described as a modern "Comedy of Errors" to recite. In answer to the question, "Have you any adventure you can associate with the number 13?" he spat out in a forceful, if not exactly polite, manner the reply: "I'll say I have—if I ever forget Friday, August 13, 1920—well I'm a Dutchman," and recounted the following experience. He and another Peterborough man were associated in the implement business. A farmer residing in Harwood called up on telephone and ordered a spring for his binder. As the Peterborough men were anxious to build up their business and with a view to rendering prompt service to their client, they decided to make the trip quickly in a touring car. On going out to the car one of them discovered that the cone on one of the front wheels was in bad shape, so he decided to take the car to the garage and have it repaired. While in the garage a leak developed in the gas line. Eventually they started out and were burning up the road in the great style when just this side of Bewdley—'bang' went a front tire—the blowout completely ruining it. Another tire was speedily put in place and things went along smoothly until about a mile past the same village, when the front spring broke. Some wire from a fence rectified the trouble and the farmer's house was reached without further mishap.

But the jinx—the fateful thirteen—not satisfied with the havoc that had already been wrought, again demonstrated its presence in no uncertain manner. When the spring was brought from the car it was found—well, what else could a person expect—they had brought the wrong spring! The farmer, an accommodating chap, of course, asked them to stay for supper, but they decided they had better be getting home. On nearing the village of Harwood the jinx again asserted itself, another blowout being the latest in the chapter of accidents, and then, on the car's reaching Gore's Landing, the muffler and the exhaust pipe blew off.

They limped along at a snail's pace to Bewdley and decided to part company at that point. The other fellow borrowed a car in order that he might take some people to Cobourg and while crossing a new culvert which was being built and had not been completed came out on the other side with two broken springs. The man who stayed with the original car reached Peterborough later that night and drove up George street, rattling along to the jeers of a mob of delighted children who were having the time of their young lives at his expense.

Hockey Jinxed.

HAVING thirteen in a party brought bad luck to the members of the Peterborough junior hockey team on one occasion last winter. The boys had a game with Markham and just after they started someone in the crowd noticed that the party totalled the jinx number.

They won their game, however, and were congratulating themselves while on the way over to Locust Hill where they were to entrain for Peterborough. Arrangements had been made to flag the midnight train on the way through as it was not a regular stop. The team loafed around the waiting-room putting in time until the train would arrive. After an hour's wait the noise of the approaching train was heard and the usual scramble ensued in getting club-bags ready. But the jinx was working. Along came the train, but instead of stopping, it breezed through Locust Hill as if it was the last place on earth, incidentally causing consternation in the ranks of the hockey players. They caught a mixed train which landed them in the city next morning some five hours later than they had expected.

Another man has a picture of a militia outfit taken before the war. The group contained thirteen men, all hale a ndhearty, men who in the ordinary course a person would think had many years of life ahead of them—but before the year had passed out three of them had died.

While some measure of ill luck or disaster seems to have associated itself with the foregoing occurrences it was discovered that there were cases where the number was in evidence and yet did not display any tendency to operate in accordance with the superstition.

They Beat the Jinx.

ON FRIDAY, March 13, 1925, and what could be more suggestive, a certain fraternal society in the city held its regular meeting. Thirteen members showed up before supper, and while some did not stay for the meal enough newcomers arrived to make thirteen at the table. After the supper session had concluded and the regular meeting had commenced there were thirteen members in attendance. Thirteen applications for membership were dealt with, and thirteen names were ballotted on. Sure a peculiar iconcidence: and as far as could be learned nothing untoward has happened since that could give a person any reason to imagine that there was anything in the superstition.

Further inquiries brought the following information from a resident of the city who is the inspector for one of the societies here. He was born on Good Friday, April 13, 1878, and his eldest sister was born on the same date five years later. There were four other children born in the family but they all died when younpsters. The two born on the thirteenth are still alive and active.

A party of Americans, with a lust for adventure, decided to try out the superstition. They started out thirteen in the party on the thirteenth day of the thirteenth week in the year. They held their farewell party on the thirteenth floor of a skyscraper. On the boat they could not find a cabin number thirteen (sailors are naturally superstitious and as a result the number thirteen is never permitted on a cabin), but the leader slept in the thirteenth cabin on the corridor. If due to sea sickness enough of them did not appear to make thirteen at the dinner table they recruited sufficient volunteers from the remaining passengers. But it was all in vain, for nothing happened to disturb their way of going. The leader of the party visited Monte Carlo, sat down at table number thirteen, placed thirteen francs on number thirteen and got up the winner of thirteen hundred francs.

The number may, or may not, deserve the prestige that it has received but the foregoing tales should satisfy those who believe it has a special significance and incidentally satisfy the skeptic that he is right in his belief that "there's nothing in it."

A Modern Classic in Slanguage

It surely isn't ladylike
To say "ah heck" or 'gee."
But then a little word like that
Sure gives relief to me.

It's really funny, I'll admit,
To hear "Ain't that a wow?"
It always makes me laugh to hear
A girl exclaim "My cow!"

To drive in "benzine buggies"
And to tell "the cock-eyed world."
Far passes all "baloney"
And "shredded wheat that's curled."

Folks think it's wrong to call,
A fat old man a "geezer,"
I'd like to give those "eggs"
A "sock" right in the "beezer."

When someone pulls a "wise-crack"
Or hands you a nice "slam"
Just make a sweet, low bow—
'N say, "So's your ole man."

"Any part of the city for fifty cents!" yelled the taxi driver.

"You can't sting me again," retorted Hiram, "I bought the city hall last year, and they wouldn't give it to me."

You worry not a bit,
For when you see a traffic cop,
You know your tail light's lit.

WRITERS OF STORIES TRED ROCKY ROAD

Eminent Author Advises That Cards Are Stacked Against Beginners.

The lot of the budding author has always been a bit rocky.

And now comes Sinclair Lewis, eminent novelist, to add one more bump to the toilsome pathway.

In brief, Mr. Lewis advises people who want to write, not to do so. The cards are stacked against them, he says. The chances against success are 99 out of 100, he continues, and, when success is won—"writing is about as romantic as being a bookkeeper."

Speaking at Kansas University, Mr. Lewis added that he had one sure recipe for success in the "writing game." He gives it as follows:

"First, one must possess tremendous native ability, and then one must work five times as hard as any ordinary human being ought to work. Then success will come if one doesn't die young, and one probably will."

With these few words does Mr. Lewis take a mighty fall out of those pathetically eager, hopeful youths who are forever tormented by the desire, as Cabell puts it, "to write beautifully of beautiful happenings."

When he says that 99 out of every 100 aspirants to honors in literature will fail, he speaks the simple truth. For it is one of the tragedies of life that desire, except in unusual cases, must always outrun performance.

In many, many people there is planted a tantalizing trace of the true creative instinct. Such people are apt to be very unhappy. For they are cursed with the undying impulse to transmit to white paper the strange, beautiful emotions that surge through them; to communicate to their fellows the small secrets that they have been able to extract from life, to emulate the great masters of harmony who have set their own souls aflame.

These are the people who begin with fine enthusiasm and high hopes; who collect rejection slip after rejection slip, seeing a little of their enthusiasm and hope ebb away with each defeat, until at last they stop trying and content themselves with enjoying the works of those who are just a little more gifted than they.

Yet they need not despair or be unhappy. For the very existence of that disquieting poetic impulse that does not let them rest gives to them a richness and fullness in life that their soberer fellows can never know.

If the inborn creative ability is not quite great enough to turn out poems and fine novels, at least it lets the possessor see more clearly the beauty and truth that great writers have unfolded. If, in some ways, they are unhappier than the men who never sought to write, they are also happier; for life will always be just a little fuller and more beautiful to them than it would be if they were not cursed with the desire to write beautifully of beautiful happenings.

So, if you are one of those who must write but cannot, don't despair. Your lot has its compensations.

HIS PASSENGER-

DEAR Ken - I miss you unbearably. Aunt Julia is as obstinate as ever and bound I shall marry Roger Drake who showed up here yesterday. I shan't, of course. There's an aviator here that reminds me of you, and I'm taking a flight with him Wednesday. Wish it were you, old dear.—Pat."

Lieutenant Kenneth Barrows returned the note to its pale blue envelope and sighed deeply. Patricia, adorably satisfying when present, was devilishly unsatisfying when absent. So casual about Roger, so tantalizing about the aviator fellow. So—so—hang it all, if only he could once capture her he could keep her, but uncaught he would never feel sure of her.

Of course that mercenary old female relative had a keen eye for the Drake half-millions, and no eye at all for Ken. And it was a question how long Patty would be able to withstand her militant aunt.

He withdrew the missive and reread it, searching for those messages which are popularly supposed to be hidden between the lines. Poor sleuth that he was, he unearthed nothing. Yet, as he refolded it, an idea from somewhere smote him. Patty was too ingenuous to have originated it but, if he knew her, she would fall for it. At any rate, it was worth a gamble. And aviators who have taken their lives in their hands flying in France are good gamblers.

The following day Miss Patricia Allen sat in her bedroom and pondered deeply. "I wonder," she ruminated, "if I should telegraph Ken to fly up here and kidnap me, if he would do it. We could fly to New York and"—her eyes began to sparkle. She jumped up, jammed on her yellow sport hat, and slipped down to send her impulsive message. You see, Patty didn't know that at that very time Ken was working along a line of his own.

Wednesday afternoon two planes might have been discovered on the aviation field in the rear of the Lakeview Inn, but one was more or less concealed behind some trees and low-growing shrubs, having been wheeled there for that purpose.

"You see, old boy," Ken explained to the lad who was earning a fair amount by taking the Inn's guests for short flights, "it's my one chance to get my girl away from the clutches of a female dragon. Don't I remember you in the Argonne region? Thought so. Now you let me take your place at the last moment when the girl is seated. She won't recognize this plane and you can use mine until my return. Same engine and controls luckily. Thanks!"

It was a perfect afternoon for a flight, with blue skies and startlingly clear views. Ken's heart missed a beat or two as, according to preconceived plan, he stepped forth at the last moment and climbed into the plane beside its solitary passenger, toward whom he did not dare look. He was sure of his identity remaining undisclosed until he was ready to reveal it. He was wondering just what Aunt Julia would say when the plane failed to return with her niece and she was handed the note he had left for her with the other flier.

For some moments he was occupied in skilful manipulation of the plane, but once it had reached the desired altitude and was circling evenly, he spoke as quietly as he could for the roar of the engines. "Don't be frightened Patty. It's Ken. We'll be married in Warrensville. I had to get you away from that old she-dragon somehow."

His companion turned to him, and half lifted the visor of her helmet.

"Meaning—me?"

Ken's passenger was Aunt Julia.

Spectators who had been watching the plane saw it dip suddenly and twirl dizzily downwards. Ken told Patty afterwards that he thought for a moment that a crash to earth would be the best way out of it. Then it righted suddenly, but to the surprise of the other aviator, turned back toward the Inn. And presently it glided gracefully down to the grassy meadow and the gathered group of bystanders.

Aunt Julia had said nothing further and climbed out without comment. As she started across the field with her head held high, a slim figure detached itself from the crowd and ran over. "Wasn't it wonderful, Auntie? Like nothing you ever experienced before?"

Aunt Julia paused and those who caught her words are still puzzling over them.

"Nothing, Patricia. No one ever, not even your sainted uncle at his worst, ever called me to my face an old she-dragon before!"

"Why—what——" Patty seemed stunned. Had the high altitude affected her mind?

"Take him, if you want him," went on Aunt Julia. "What do you suppose he'll be calling you some day?"

Kenneth stepped forward. "Patty," he said in a low voice. "This is too public a place for explanations. I don't know how this mixup happened——"

"But—but how did you get here so soon? I only just telegraphed a few minutes ago. I got Aunt Julia to take my place in the plane to get her out of the way!" Patty's heart was beating wildly, although her expression was most puzzled.

"I say, Pat," he said desperately. "My plane is here. I'll get it and we'll take a spin."

And so, far from the curious throng, in the perfect isolation of space, they explained to each other. And they didn't return to the Inn

Your Child's Career

WALTER JOHNSTON, BASEBALL'S GREATEST PITCHER, TELLS HOW TO ATTAIN SUCCESS IN BASEBALL—AND IN LIFE AS WELL

WHAT are your boy and girl going to be when they grow up? How are you fitting them for the struggle of life?

Today begins the presentation of a weekly feature called "Your Child's Career"—a series of articles by some of the most successful men and women in the world today. These articles give the advice and counsel that years of experience have proved are necessary to success.

This article is by Walter Johnson, best-loved ball player. In it Johnson, father of three boys and a girl, not only gives the rules for success in his own profession; he tells now to advance in any line of endeavor. It is a remarkable article that everyone should read.

(By Walter Johnson)

I WOULD rather have my boy be an honest failure than a dishonest sucess.

No success is real that is attained through dishonest methods.

Professional sports, baseball in particular, offer a big field for the college or school athlete who shows unusual ability. The compensation is most alluring.

A Clean Game.

In no business can an individual capitalize his assets so well as the college or scholastic star who has the baseball ability to attract the attention of the major leagues.

Baseball is a clean, wholesome game played by real men.

What is my formula for success?

First—play fair.

That must be the basis for success in anything. Be on the level, a square-shooter always.

A deep respect for discipline is just as essential.

Never alibi for failure. It is merely substituting a camouflaged form of dishonesty.

Accept the "breaks" of the game as they come. The real fellow grits his teeth and bears down when things look toughest.

It's easy to smile when you are winning. The real test of courage and character comes with adversity.

To come from behind, to surmount seemingly impossible obstacles and then go on to win, is the difference between the "go-getter" and the "quitter."

Live cleanly. A clean mind makes for a clean body. Hold a good thought for everybody. The optimist always makes better headway than the pessimist.

Just make up your mind that everything is going to be all right. If you think it hard enough it will ultimately be so.

It is a serious mistake to criticize the mistakes of your fellow players. When one of them errs, no one in all the world feels worse about it than he. He needs encouragement rather than criticism. Give him a word of cheer that will "pep" him up.

Don't argue with the umpire. Most players have enough to do holding down one job. I favor lettin the umpire umpire and the players play.

Never quit. I always keep those two words constantly before me.

A greater part of my major league career, extending over a period of twenty years, has been spent with a tailend ball club. But I have never regretted it. I had to battle from the very start.

From the very beginning of my career I always looked forward to the hope that some day I would get the opportunity to pitch in a world series. That was my goal.

After 18 Years.

The big opportunity finally came, almost at the end of the trail. That was in 1924.

I wondered at the time if the big chance hadn't come too late. I knew full well that I had passed the peak of my game. I yearned to go back 10 or 15 years, when I could have won a world series single-handed. And that isn't any ego.

The world series of 1924 is now baseball history. After being beaten in my first two starts, losing a heartbreaking 12-inning game to open the classic, I finally achieved success in the final innings of the deciding game, which Washington won.

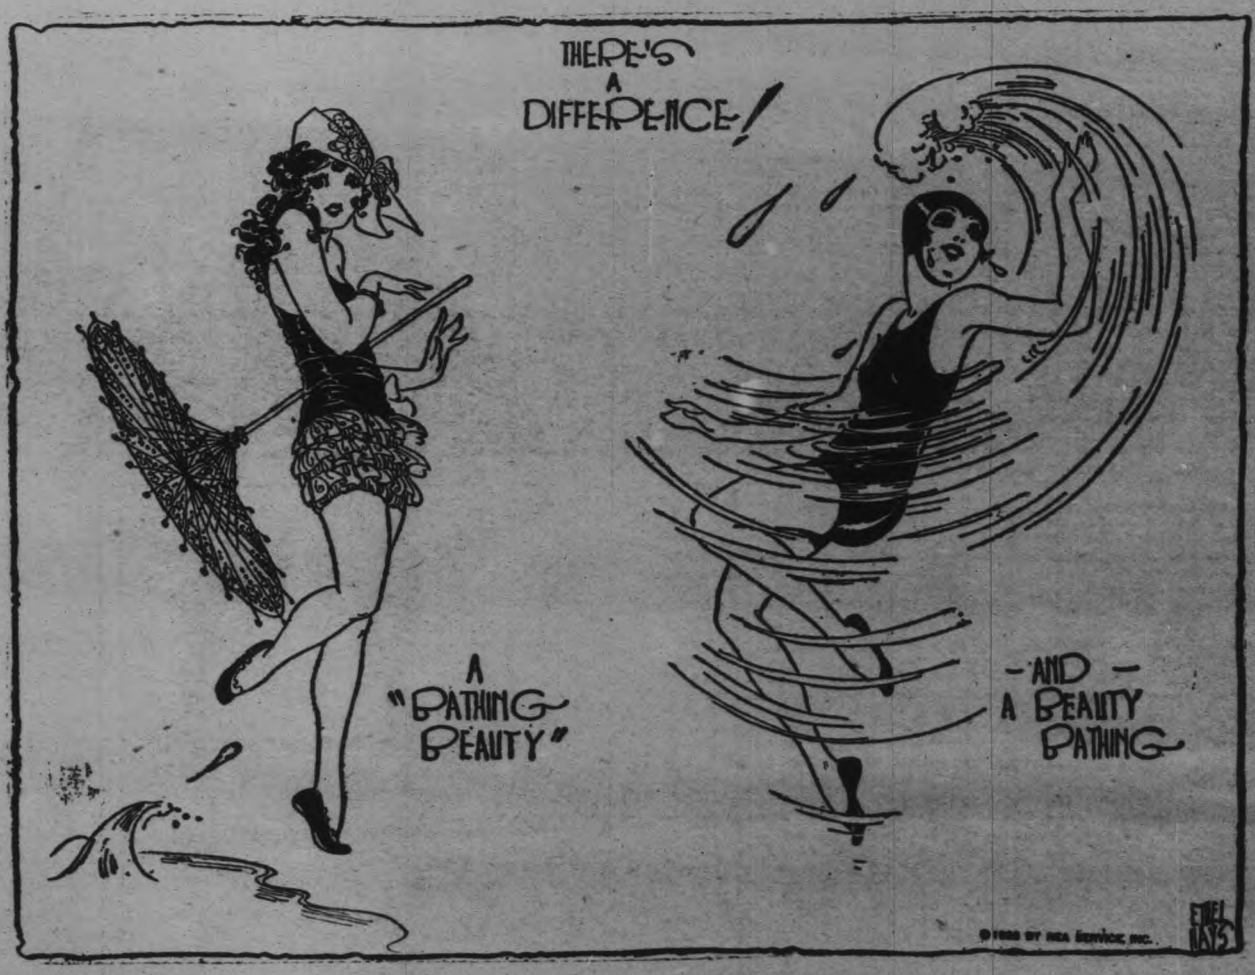
No better example could be offered of the theory that one must never quit.

Last season I was forced to accept defeat in the final game after winning my first two starts, but it was not failure in my eyes, for I had given my best and gone down fighting.

WATCH THESE FIVE POINTS —JOHNSON

Walter Johnson gives these five rules for success

1—Play fair.
2—Have a respect for discipline.
3—Never alibi.
4—Be an optimist.
5—Never quit.



Bootleg Rouge

An Opinion of the Modern Peterborough Flapper by a Sheik who Seemed To Know The Ropes.

TO-DAY on George street you see girls with their faces all powdered and rouged. They have a vanity case in one hand, for these are the traits of the modern young lady and this is the way she attempts to keep her school-girl complexion.

'What was the flapper of forty or fifty years ago like? How did she improve her complexion?' are some questions asked by the modern young lady. Of course, some people claim that there were no flappers then but it is agreed by the majority with whom everybody comes in contact that in the real sense of the term there were flappers then the same as there are now but they were not just called that name.

The bye-gone flapper had her big bustle, her long hoop skirt, her high-topped shoes, her long tresses and large hat, and when she stepped out she thought that she was just as much in prominence as the flapper of to-day. She went to the drug-store then as they do now to buy cosmetics but her mode of approach to the druggist was somewhat different than the way they go in to-day, Peterborough druggists say. Her demand was never as large and was usually just powder but if she wanted rouge or lipstick she would tip-toe up to the drug clerk in a shy and bashful way, feeling very uncomfortable if any other customers were in the store at the time, and in a low voice would ask for some rouge. The drug clerk would go behind the curtain and when he came out again he would have the parcel nicely wrapped up. The whole transaction had to it the same air as buying bootleg whiskey to-day.

Girls then did not powder their faces on the street but any powdering that was done took place in their own dressing-rooms. When the girl of 1876 used rouge it was put on in such small quantities that it was very difficult to detect, and she would not for the whole world let it be known that she used such 'stuff,' as it was called then. But the day of the plain, simple, old-fashioned girl is past, as that kind of girl does not seem to appeal to Peterborough sheiks to-day, so in order to attract the men they wish they have commenced to rouge their cheeks, pluck their eyebrows, paint their lips, roll their stockings, dance the Charleston and join in petting parties. But they forget that to be a flapper a girl must be born a flapper, for they cannot make successful imitation flappers by dolling themselves up in flapper clothes and plastering their faces with cosmetics. The very essence of flapperism is spiritual. It is flightiness. It is something mercurial, intangible, and it is unattained to by a girl with real brains, with a real heart, with a real sense of life. Flapperism is something more than being entertaining at a jazz party.

Listen to Grandfather!

This is the reason why so many girls wonder why they are not popular, for they are trying to reach popularity by a road in which they cannot make the curves, and what is the result: men do not want girls who are trying to act other than they really are, for they lose their charm without becoming flappers: they are always trying to pull their skirts over their bare knees, they are always conscious of their paint, they never get the right wiggle in the Charleston, and they are never able to throw enough abandon into their petting to make it interesting.

Maybe women look better than men, but it takes them longer.

It would not be right to say that all girls are like the ones just described, just as years ago all girls were not like the old-fashioned flapper described. But to-day millions of dollars are spent annually in cosmetics: the girls throw away money buying powder, rouge, lipstick, eyebrow pencils, shampoo powders, lash brow, cutex and 'restful road to beauty,' so as to enable them, as they think, to keep their school-girl complexions.

It has always been a mystery to men to see how these things beautify women, especially when the paint and powder is plastered on in the same manner as you would white-wash a picket fence. They may think themselves attractive but men as a whole do not like it. Take a girl to a show or concert, and as soon as she gets out on the street she puls out her vanity case, powders her nose, and rouges her cheeks as she thinks that one of the necessary things before she is fit to be seen.

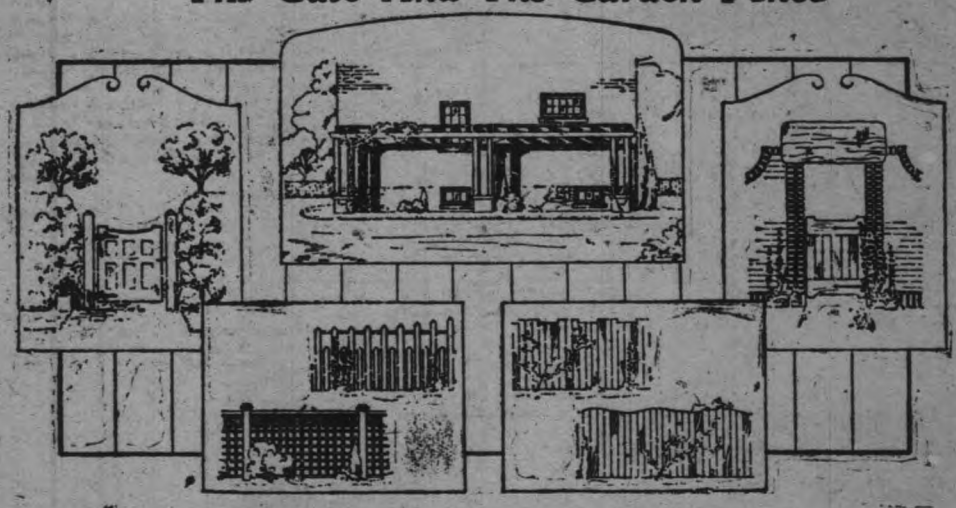
Some girls are able to get away with this thing alright, but this is where the majority of them make the mistake because they see some other girl who is popular pulling that line. They try to be vivacious when they are sober, or to be cute when they are big and dignified by nature: the result is that they make themselves ridiculous. They giggle incessantly trying to appear gay, they romp about like performing elephants and lose their dignity and charm that they might have had if they had kept to their own role. So, girlie, be yourself, and if no man admire you as a sweet modest girl it is their loss.

Not long ago a well educated young lady left her home to start out in the world. She had been used to much company and having what she called a wild time: she rejoiced in telling about the petting parties and the men whom she had refused or made a fool of. She boasted of what she was going to do to the men where she had come to live, but alas, the boys did not take up with her as she was trying to be something which she really was not. She received no invitations to dances or parties and she wondered the reason why for she did not realize that she could not act the flapper.

Oo! H ha!

Men like flappers for an evening's fun, but that is all: give them, in the majority of cases, the quiet, sensible, attractive girl and that is all they desire. Why do not girls stand out for their rights and their femininity and put an end to this trying to be that which they are really not, so that in a few years it cannot be said of them that they were once young and fair with cheeks of velvet bloom and now but a spectacle for all to gaze upon?

The Gate And The Garden Fence



By W. S. Limbery.

It is deplorable how little thought is given to the designing of the garden gate and fencing for the smaller house. Many houses would be much improved had the same careful study been given to the gate and fencing, as the house had received. The house has been considerably cheapened, both in appearance and as an investment because of this fault.

The architect's genius seems to have "petered out," or it may have been one of the many (unfortunately) important matters, in which his advice was not acted upon. The owner tells the builder to copy "Mr. So and So's fence down street, that is good enough."

The illustrations show simple treatments of gates and also of fences. The gate in the brick wall is shown with a hood or roof over it, carried on wood brackets, the hood being shingled.

How will we enclose our grounds? If you desire privacy, the best enclosure is a brick or stone wall, about 5 ft. 6-in. high: or a concrete wall, which can be finished "pebble dash." Either of these would be suitable for the street front, and if the cost will not permit different, the side enclosures can be rough board fencing, the boards being kept an inch and one-half apart, so as to allow air and sunlight to get to the plants where near the fences. The top of the fencing can be finished in some simple manner as illustrated. Stain the boards and posts a neutral green or a tree bark brown.

The open wood lattice or square pickets for fencing is preferable to the close boards.

The hedge, however, is undoubtedly the most befitting and graceful enclosure for the grounds of every home, and will not cost as much as suitable wood fencing.

For hedges there is a variety to choose from—the stately English privot or prim: spirea, with its graceful white or pink falling clusters: barberry, with its wonderful autumn tint foliage and orange red oval berry: or evergreens, such as cedar and arbor vitae, bringing summer colors into winter. A cheap hedge is the common hemlock.

Pay some attention to the gate hardware—you can now purchase well-designed gate hinges straps and latches at moderate prices, at any good hardware shop. As a real worthwhile expenditure, have the garden gate made of hard wood—oak is preferable.

In your fence plans, do not forget to work in a simple grape arbor or pergola—to be built later if not now—and a summer house and swing for the children.

DO NOT SPEND ALL YOUR MONEY ON THE HOUSE, SET ASIDE A SPECIFIC SUM FOR GATES, FENCING, WALKS AND SUMMER OUT-DOOR LIFE.

If there is a plain wall to your house that particularly annoys you, cover it with a pergola lattice, as shown on the illustration. This must be secured with bolts to the wall, and have a permanent foundation, as some climbing plants are heavy. Keep the posts out about a foot from the wall.

The walks should receive more consideration than is generally given to them. Be sure to leave ample space at the turn of the gate, and then two feet nine inches will be wide enough for the walk to the front steps. Make the walk of brick or flag stone. If of brick, lay them on a four-inch bed of sand, using paving brick, laid with cement joints. Flag stone is preferable, square or irregular in shape and laid about one and a half inches apart. Let the grass grow up between the joints. It will not hurt the lawn mower to run over the joints if the walk is first swept.

A word regarding the front entrance steps and platform. Make the steps low and wide, about five inches for the former or "rise," and twelve inches at least for the later or "the tread."

Make the platform at least four feet wide, so as to give ample room for your visitors when coming or going. The steps and platform may be built of either brick or stone flags to match the walks. Copyright, 1926, MacLean Building Reports, Limited.

A NATION OF SNOBS

By Sir PHILIP GIBBS

Popular English Writer and Novelist Asks His Fellow Countrymen To Analyze Themselves To See If There Is Reason For Being Called Snobbish—Blames Impression On Old Traditions—Feels Great Changes Are Coming About—Declares English Schools Are Out of Date.

FOREIGNERS—including Americans—have long been convinced that the English are a nation of snobs. Sometimes they are amused, but more often irritated, by what they consider to be the essential snobbishness of the English mind.

They suspect us—or at least the tradition still persists—of a national arrogance towards all people, customs, and fashions outside our own small island, a contempt for all foreigners hardly disguised by a certain cold civility, and within our own social ranks a caste system based on educated snobbishness which reaches right through the structure of our social life.

The titled aristocrat is supposed to consider himself of quite different clay from the common herd. The University man is supposed to regard himself as the intellectual superior of the self-educated student who had swotted in the back room. A certain accent, certain ideas of "good form," the cut of a coat, the color of a tie, mark the difference between a gentleman and an outsider.

No self-made man, however great his fortune, is ever allowed to mention his humble origin without a shudder passing, it is said, among those who live on inherited wealth or in privileged professions untainted by the stigma of trade.

But these social distinctions are not reserved for the very rich or the highly exalted, according to the prevailing ideas of English snobbishness. The Bank Clerk or the Civil Servant considers himself a cut above the prosperous shopkeeper or the commercial traveller. Any man who wears a black coat and a white collar looks down upon any man who toils in his shirt sleeves and wears a scarf round his neck.

There is no marriage or giving in marriage between the son of a second-class clerk and the daughter of a greengrocer. Mrs. Smith, whose children go to a private kindergarten, will not let her little ones make friends with the children of Mrs. Brown, who go to the free elementary school. In every instinct of our minds, say some of our foreign critics, we are ingrained with snobbishness.

Is This True?

Is there any truth in all this?

And if so, is it a bad thing, anyhow?

I think we must plead guilty to the charge, on the whole, though I believe that during the last few years a social and mental revolution has been going on with the effect of breaking down this caste system in English life and curing us a little if not completely of this curse of snobbishness.

It was due partly to facts of history. Our mediaeval life was founded upon clear-cut distinctions of rank and service. The Earl swore fidelity to the King in return for his land: the Baron held his lands and rights as a military and feudal subordinate of the Earl: the Knight had to raise a body of men for his overlords in the time of war or civil strife: the squire was under the knight, the thane under the squire, the villain under the thane.

When the middle classes grew numerous and powerful, they, too, were divided into well-defined ranks. Merchants and craftsmen belonged to various guilds and wore the liveries of their companies. They had a social status of their own, beyond which they did not aspire to rise. Jack was not as good as his master, in spite of the old revolutionary rhyme of

"When Adam delved and Eve span
Who was then the gentleman?"

Tradition Persisted.

It was this mediaeval tradition of accepted classes and ranks which formed our social habits of mind and persisted long after the system had been broken up or modified. But our arrogance or snobbishness as a nation which cannot be doubted—was due to our insular position in Europe and the Protestant Reformation which cut us off a good deal from intellectual intercourse with the Continent.

The Eighteenth Century English gentleman was certainly the most arrogant human being in the whole world. When he made the "Grand Tour" through Europe he left a trail of hatred behind him because of his haughty manners, his contempt for the language, fashions, religion, and manners of all the foreigners he encountered.

His attitude of mind was reflected in the coarse abuse of foreigners among the lowest class of English life. They cursed the French as "frog-eaters" and firmly believed that Napoleon drank babies' blood for breakfast. They were convinced that one Englishman could whip three Frenchmen with one hand behind his back.

In the early nineteenth century doubts began to creep into the minds of the more intelligent: there was a gradual recognition of the glories of Italian Art, the wit and elegance of French literature, the scholarship and science of Germany: but until quite recent days the ordinary ignorant fellow, of high rank or low, still called the Italians "ice-cream merchants," the French "froggies," and every kind of foreigners by the general term of "dagoes."

Are the English Cured?

Have we quite cured ourselves of that national self-conceit? The war ought to have taught us a wholesome lesson in that respect, and I think it did, among those who understood the immense heroism of the French people and the general standard of courage and sacrifice in all nations.

We are not so insular in our pride, not so snobbish as a people, though even now many of us cling to a secret belief that our character and civilization are superior to those of any other nation on earth Perhaps they are, but a little modesty becomes us!

The war has done other things to broaden our views of life. It has broken down the frontiers of caste within our own ranks. Our snobbishness is not so armor-plated. All classes are drawing a little closer together and fine distinctions of rank and profession are being lost.

I notice it very much in London. You never know whether a shop girl behind the counter is no ta "lady of quality," or at least the daughter of a good English family. Young men from public schools and Universities are going into big stores and learning their jobs in the carpet department or the haberdashery. The daughters of the aristocracy and the old country gentry whose families have been pretty hard hit by taxation and death duties are going in for dressmaking, setting up milliners' shops, teaching dancing, learning shorthand, and typewriting, serving in little teashops and restaurants.

Army Officers Heart-broken.

Ex-officers, heart-broken after the war by vain attempts to find good jobs, have turned their hand to any kind of work in town or country, without caring a jot about caste or class. I find them running antique furniture shops, doing repairs for passing motorists in wayside workshops, pig-breeding in remote little farms, setting up a garage in some London mews.

A blind officer, I know is mine host of an old-fashioned inn on the Bath Road, and many other ex-officers, including a Commander "axed" out of the Navy, are managing public houses in rural England. Sons of old families who, half a century ago, would have fainted at the thought of going into "Trade" are glad to get jobs as commercial travellers on a small commission basis, or to find a stool in a merchant's office.

All that kind of thing is breaking up snobdom. The younger generation does not care tuppence what sort of work one of their set is doing, provided he keeps his sense of humor and talks their kind of language.

When Labor Took Office.

The last strongholds of the caste idea fell with a crash when the Labor party took office, and when railway clerks, ex-miners, elementary school masters, and men of the humblest origin, became Cabinet Ministers, high officers of State, and Court officials.

Then was the social revolution accomplished by which the last reserves and sanctuaries of the old tradition were invaded and captured by the masses, without bloodshed, and with the free consent, for the most part, of the privileged classes who showed, as all must admit, a good sporting spirit, from the King downwards.

The idea of caste, that is to say, of a privileged class set apart by birth, fashion, and social conditions from the rest of mankind, has shifted a good deal from one end of society to the other. The aristocracy know that the game is up. They are no longer exclusive, haughty or snobbish, except in clinging to a few remnants of their old pride of birth and elegance of manner.

It is the Labor crowd, especially the political extremists, who believe in the caste system. They cannot abide fellows who wear black coats and white collars. They have a haughty contempt for men who speak in a different accent from themselves—the unfortunate accent of gentility.

They want to bar out from all power and place the intellectuals and the hated bourgeoisie, reserving all good jobs for men and women of their own social kind. Their Trade Unions are close corporations. No gentlemen need apply. They are terribly snobbish.

Schools Out of Date.

Our public school system seems to me a little out of date. I mean those great public schools, like Eton, Harrow, Rugby and Winchester. In the old days they were certainly breeding-grounds of snobbishness, though not so bad in that respect as the private academies for young gentlemen which flourished through the land.

To be fair, they were also great training schools of character and fine manners among boys who, by birth and fortune and social privileges, were destined to be the leaders of the nation in every department of life.

But the old Scottish system of education was better I think on the whole. The laird's son sat on the same bench as the butcher's boy, and they punched each other's heads and came to know each other with mutual respect. Afterward they could if they liked go to the University together, and the only social distinction was that the Laird's son had a little more money to waste, while the peasant's son took his bag of oatmeal with his best suit and studied harder on his poor diet.

Scots Are Not Snobs.

The Scots were never such snobs as the English, though it is an Englishman who writes that, and for this reason, partly, they took all the best jobs from us, and take them still.

There will always be a certain amount of snobbishness as long as human nature remains unchanged. It is not wholly a vice, but sometimes a loyalty, and often a method of self-defence. People who speak the same language, as the Americans say, that is, who believe in the same ideas, the same code of honor, the same social traditions, will always have secret passwords by which they know each other. They will always keep themselves from the rest of the crowd and cherish a sense of superiority. But where snobbishness is a curse is where it despises merit because of the accident of birth or fortune, and builds up barriers of privileges behind which ignorance and inefficiency resent the intrusion of hard workers and hard thinkers. That, in the past, was the vice of English society. Today, it is the vice of certain extremists in the political world who would like to see Labor protected both from hard work and honest thought. Otherwise we are getting rid of it as a national characteristic.

TWENTY PAST EIGHT

Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth president of the United States, was assassinated it is recorded at about 18 minutes past eight o'clock on the evening of April 14, 1865. Ever since that time jewellers' advertising watches, which they hang out as signs in front of their stores, have been painted to show that time. This, at least, is the tradition.

Whether Lincoln's death is the reason for the painting of the watches in this matter, or not, it is certain that all but one of those in front of Peterborough stores is set that way. Why the local jewellers should commemorate the death of a president of the United States is not clear, nor is it clear why Lincoln should be thus honored instead of James Garfield or William McKinley, who were also assassinated.

All the local jewellers give a more plausible reason for the setting of the hands in this manner. They say that it is because they are balanced, both being about the same distance from the bottom, thereby adding to the appearance of the sign. G. D. McLelland adds to this reason, telling why this position of balance is chosen instead of 7.23 or 9.13, when the hands would also be balanced. The reason for the sign, he says, is to advertise the business. If the hands were set up at 9.13 they would leave little space for the name, while if they were set at 7.23 they would cover the second hand.

Thus, while a great historical crime may be commemorated, the principal reason is that the position is the best for the purpose of the signs.

Once Upon a Time

(By Tom Sims.)

A 1926 model young lady was shown the above picture. "Oh!" she chirped, "See the dumb belle playing with the dumbbells!"

And, according to present styles and standards, she was right.

But the picture was made about 75 years ago. That was away back in the "fifties," when legs were limbs.

In those days, a thorny social path lay before the fellow who sat upon the old hair sofa in the parlor, and inadvertently blurted out, "I fell off my hoss today and skint my leg."

The girls would be flustered. Mamas would stiffen in their chairs. And fathers would cast reproving glances, while the other young fellows nudged one another and snickered.

Perhaps, as the jolly crowd gathered thrill after thrill from the photograph album on a bright Sunday afternoon, a mother would call her daughter to one side.

"Daughter," she would whisper, "your ankles are showing. Pull your pantaloons down."

Believe it or not, the daughter would blush and leave the room.

Imagine the modern girl in the upper right-hand corner paying good money for silk stockings and hiding them with pantaloons.

But these are the days when limbs are legs.

TORONTO WINS THIRD GAME FROM STARS

ROBINS DROP SECOND STRAIGHT WITH VANCE UNABLE TO CHECK

Wildness Forces McQuillan To Leave Game in Ninth Inning.

RING RELIEVES.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Dazzy Vance was unable to check the Giants yesterday and the Robins dropped their second straight to the New Yorkers, 5 to 2. McQuillan held Brooklyn to seven hits, but was forced by wildness to leave the game in the Ninth, Ring succeeding him as relief pitcher.

At Pittsburgh the home team made it two straight from St. Louis by taking a pitching duel between Kremer and Alexander, 3 to 2. Alexander allowed but two runs, the third and winning tally having been made off Johnston when Waner opened the eighth with a trible and scored on a sacrifice fly. St. Louis scored its runs in the ninth, a walk and an out, followed by O'Farrell's single, netted two tallies.

The Braves hit Clarence Mitchell of the Phillies for 11 safeties yesterday, and won the second game of the series, 4 to 2. The visitors filled the bases in the ninth inning with one out, but Benton struck out Friberg and Mitchell flied to Mann. Hubert had a perfect day at bat.

Sheriff Blake, who pitched a one-hit game, was wild yesterday and Cincinnati drove him off the mound in the fourth inning, defeating Chicago 6 to 1. Rixey pitched in fine form and although hit freely, bore down in the pinches. He was given sensational support, especially by his infield.

BATTING ATTACK BRINGS VICTORY

Washington Beat Yankees By Odd Run—Scored Five in Seventh.

ATHLETICS' RECOVERY.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—A batting attack in the seventh inning that knocked Thomas from the mound gave Washington five runs and a 6 to 5 victory over New York in the series opener at the capital yesterday. Gehrig hit a home run in the ninth. Babe Ruth, out of the line-up because of leg hurts, batted for Paschal in the nine inning, but flied out.

Bishop's Single.

Max Bishop's single in the 13th inning scored Cochrane with the run that gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the second game of their series at Philadelphia yesterday.

The Athletics previously had come from behind three times, twice during the extra innings, and tied the Boston score.

Howard Ehmke and Harold Wiltse hooked up a sensational mound duel, but both gave way to pinch hitters.

"Baby Doll" Jacobson had two doubles and two singles, half the Red Sox total hits.

Rice's Home Run.

Rice's home run in the ninth broke up a pitchers' duel at St. Louis and the Browns defeated the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2. Both Ballou and Blankenship pitched well. Manager Collins of the White Sox, with a double and a single, and Manager Sisler of the Browns, with a triple and a single, had a large part in the scoring.

9-3 for Detroit.

Two triples, three doubles and a pair of singles were grouped in the seventh inning for seven runs, writing a nine to three victory for Detroit over Cleveland. Sherrod Smith was the victim. Eleven men batted in the one inning. Cobb, who had entered the game as a pinch runner, had a chance to bat as well, his single driving in the last Detroit run.

CANADA RETAINS AMATEUR PRIZE

U. S. Contender For Dominion Golf Title Beaten in Semi-Final.

HARD CONTEST.

TORONTO GOLF CLUB, July 3.—(Canadian Press).—Paul H. Hyde of Buffalo was unable to carry the American flag any further in the Canadian amateur golf championship than has any of his predecessors in the history of the event, past the semi-final round, but he forced Happy Fraser of Kanawaki to the forty-second hole yesterday before the 1922 champion advanced to the final round, where he will meet Ross Somerville of London, who has reached the final round in each of the last three championships. Fraser squared the match at the thirty-fifth and they battled along until the sixth extra hole. Here Hyde put his second in a trap, while Fraser was just on the edge of the green. Hyde failed to get out in two, and then conceded the hole and match.

It was a great struggle and established a record for the semi-final round, if not in any round in the championship, and it was a hard battle for Hyde to lose. Fraser just missed putts on the first and fourth and appeared to have the match won at the fifth when he was dead in three, but Hyde sank a twenty-footer to half the hole.

HOLIDAY MATCH.

Burnbrae Falls To Trent River By 8-5 Score.

BURNBRAE, July 3.—The Burnbrae baseball team journeyed to Trent River on the holiday and finished on the short end of an 8 to 5 score. In the absence of F. Little, Cowel of the Line team played and put up a good game. Eagleson was in good form, striking out eight batters, while he walked one and hit another. Errors at crucial moments defeated him however. Three errors in the third inning with only one scratch hit resulted in three winning runs. The Trents lost heavy in the second inning when four hits and a fielder's choice gave them three counters.

Burnbrae batted well with thirteen safe singles, Rannie leading with a 1.000 average, having three singles in three trips to the plate. Hume had bad luck with his stealing being out on three occasions when attempting the robbery stunt. Hooper for Trent River did not pitch as good ball as usual but was given almost airtight support except in the fith. He fanned five and walked one. This game does not count in the League standing as both teams played men not eligible. Burnbrae played Cowell and Bakley of the Line team while Trent River played Hooper and Quinn of Havelock, who had formerly been protested, and four players at present working at Trent River whose names had not been entered before the game namely, Telford, Harrison, Ceser and Todd.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Any bird which thinks Mister Al. Heckman is anyways near through as a pitcher must imagine Mister Mack King is still Premier and Mister Bob Forke still bossing the Farmers' political party. Mister Heckman went in there Thurs. a.m. against them chesty Kingston Ponies and he tied them up so bad that not 1 of Joe Daley's men got round as far as 2nd, except Mister Tommy Halbert, who slid in there after he had been tagged out on the way. Just 2 hits was all them Ponies could collect, and a matter of a inch or 2 on them plays woulda give Mister Heckman a no-hit game.

The Petes has come in for a lot of knocking this season, but I for 1 has always claimed they could get in there and play good ball, and they showed it plenty on the holiday. They went through the battle without a skip behind Mister Heckman's super-fine tossing, and on the day's play they looked like them, and not the Ponies, oughta to be leading the parade. The race is only ⅓ over, and the remainder of the schedule should be as full of interest as the political situation. The only fly in the ointment Thurs. was Mister Joe Daley, who was unable to come to Peterboro. It would have done any 1's heart good to watch Mister Daley's face as his Ponies ducked away from Mister Heckman's curve or swung blindly at his fast 1. To shut the penitentiary towners out without a Pony getting ⅓ way round the bases is no mean feat, and the customers went away chuckling for about the 1st time this season.

Them that has been saying the Central race was as good as over may have spoke too soon. Right now the Ponies is 3 games in front, but the teams is only at the ⅓-way post, and the race down the stretch may be full of fireworks, especially if Mister Daley keeps over-working his pitchers in exhibition games. Mister Cairns is his only real heaver, and the way the Kingston management is staging extra battles, playing Syracuse on Fri. and Sat. of this week after visiting here Thurs. may burn out the southpaw just when the Ponies need him the most. With three twirlers the Petes is in better shape than Mister Daley, and the way Mister Heckman went here Thurs. musta given the Ponies something to think of about in connection with the play-off serious. No, dear friend, the Central ain't over yet.

By the way, Mac, a lot of fans is worrying about the baseball situation generally what don't seem to know they is plenty of good ball being played in the various serious. Let them take a tip from me to go out and see some of them kids' teams perform, or slip down to the Exhibition Grounds on Tues. night and watch the Raybestos and Crescents tangle. Them 2 teams is playing a serious that is chuck full of excitement. It's a horse apiece so far, and they tie into each other again next Tues. night, so the fans should jump into 1 of Mister McCann's Campbell soup cans and travel down to the Ex. and look the lads over. If they don't like the performance they can just put a plugged nickel in the hat when it comes round, but here's betting they like it. They's a lotta good youngsters in these 2 line-ups, and they're fighting for every point.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, they ain't much more on my chest today except to remind the customers that next Sat. Mister Walt. Gerow and his Belleville railroaders are with us again. The way the home talent travelled on Dominion Day they earned better support than they've been getting, and the fans oughta to remember that same thing next week.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

HEARTY WELCOME FOR BOBBY JONES

Modest Golf Champion Embarrased By Tremendous Ovation.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Amid the same clamor that within a month has greeted the Prince of Sweden and eight princes of the Catholic Church, Bobby Jones, prince of golf, came back home yesterday and proceeded up lower Broadway from the Battery to the City Hall, while thousands cheered. Friends from Atlanta, the home town of Robert T. Jones, joined with the New Yorkers in honoring the youth who a week ago won the British open golf championship, the first American amateur to take that trophy.

From the moment that the Cunarder Aquitania reached Quarantine, to the accompaniment of shrill sirens on harbor vessels, it was obvious that Bobby, whether he wished it or not, was going to receive the tribute of a hero.

Sailors stained by the sea who would be hard put to describe the difference between a niblick and a putter, leaned far out over their barges and tankers and waved a greeting to the smiling, greatly embarrassed young man, who seemed to think there was too much fuss.

Catcher in an effort to throw out runner attempted to steal second hits he umpire working back of the pitcher wtith the ball. Is the ball dead or in play?

* * *

In this play the umpire is a part of the scenery, being regarded as an active part of the game on all thrown balls, whether he is standing in fair or foul territory.

Therefore in the play cited, when the thrown ball struck the umpire, it continued in play and runners advanced at their peril.

The runner had a perfect right to advance as many bases as possible on the throw, and the team in the field should have made every effort to prevent his progress by making an immediate play on him.

It is up to the umpire to avoid being hit by a thrown ball, but when it happens, the ball is always in play.

HORSE SHOW IS CANCELLED

Cobourg Annual Event Will Be Dispensed With This Year.

FOUNDED IN 1905.

COBOURG, Ont., July 3. — Although it was expected that the Cobourg Horse Show would have been held for four days in August instead of the usual five as formerly, it has now been decided to dispense with the event for this year. This show has been looked forward to by thousands every year since its inception in 1905.

TORONTO LEAFS SCORED 6 RUNS IN SIXTH INNING

Drove Miller From the Box and Took Lead on Stars.

NEWARK OUTHIT.

First Fight at Rochester—Buffalo Man Gets Eye Cut.

TORONTO, July 3 (Canadian Press). — Toronto made it three straight over Syracuse by winning yesterday's game 9 to 4. The Stars were in front, 3 to 1, going into the sixth, but this inning proved a big one for the Leafs. They drove Miller from the box and scored six runs before the side was retired. The trouble started when Miller hit Mullen and then walked Lawry. Layne followed with a double and the rally was on in earnest. Hoe Maley pitched invincible ball after the third.

Bears Win Two Straight

NEW YORK, July 3 (Canadian Press).—Reading outhit Newark, 8 to 5, yesterday, but the Bears won their second straight game, 5 to 4. Beard was wild in the opening innings with six passes and four hits being converted into five runs by the Bears. Twombley weakened in the eighth but Smallwood came to his rescue.

Rochester made it two straight yesterday by defeating Buffalo, 7 to 2. In the third inning Catcher Devine of Rochester and Pitcher Lucey of Buffalo engaged in a fist fight, the Bison City player receiving a cut eye. A near riot followed, but police and cooler-headed players separated the players.

MACHINE GUNNERS TIE WITH EXAMINER

Come From Behind in Ninth To Make Sorec 14 All.

The Examiner softball team journeyed out to the Rifle Range last night and played the C.M.G.C. team. The game ended in a tie score, 14-14.

It was a well contested affair and The Examiner led till the last inning. They went out in the ninth with a 7-run lead, but the Machine Gunners stepped on the heavy artillery and before they let up they had sent seven runs across and tied the game. Major Dodds, who had already distinguished himself in the field with four nice catches, led the attack in the ninth. He crashed out a long three-base hit with the sacks loaded.

Piercy was on the mound for the Machine Gunners. He pitched nice ball, but was accorded rather poor support from his infield. On several occasions when in a bad hole he would retire the side by strikeouts, or force them to pop up weak flies. The Machine Gun boys were good on fly balls but fell down badly on grounders, probably due to the condition of the diamond.

Dormer started on the rubber for the newspaper boys but was relieved by Dunkley. Both pitchers were given support, most of the Gunners runs being scored on solid hits.

Feature catches were made by Major Dodds and Sergeant Nixon for the Gunners and Roy Taylor and Max Swanston for the Examiner.

Jimmy Winterbottom was umpire-in-chief and gave good satisfaction to both teams, his decisions not being questioned. He was assisted by Bob Matchett at first and Capt. Perks at third, who both gave good service.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Reginald DENNY IN "SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT" WITH LAURA LA PLANTE

LAST TIMES TONIGHT 7-9

CLOSING NOTICE

THE CAPITOL CLOSES TONIGHT FOR RENOVATION AND DECORATION. RE-OPENS MONDAY, AUGUST 2ND.

BILLY EVANS Says

Left fielder, with both feet in fair territory, reaches over the foul line to catch fly ball, which he fails to hold. Is the ball fair or foul?

* * *

In judging whether a fly ball is fair or foul the umpire is guided by the ball rather than the position of the fielder.

In other words, when a fielder reaches over the foul line to catch a ball that is in foul territory, the fact that both feet are in fair territory at the time cannot be given any consideration.

The position of the ball, not the fielder, determines whether it is fair or foul. In the above play it was a foul ball, since the ball on which the fielder tried to make a play was in foul territory when it came into contact with his hands, later being dropped.

Adolphe Menjou's unsophisticated-looking brother, Hank Menjou, acts as business manager for the "prince of film philanderers," cocks a straw hat on the side of his head and would make as good a film actor as—well, as Adolphe would make a business manager, for instance.

Speaking of film families—some months ago a mother and daughter appeared at the Paramount Long Island studio. The mother wanted to get the daughter a position as an extra. She came along to chaperone, a very common phenomenon around film camps where one trips over waiting mothers almost everywhere.

A casting director, needing some middle-aged folk for a scene, looked over the crowd and picked out—the mother.

"But," exclaimed the surprised mother, "I didn't come to act. I'm here to get my daughter a job."

Since then the mother gets work almost constantly. And the daughter is gradually breaking in.

Your correspondent saw Mrs. Julia Stegman and daughter working side by side in "The Sorrows of Satan."

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

WALTER HAGEN — DON'T TAKE GAME TOO SERIOUSLY.

Golf was invented for the fun and amusement it afforded its devotees. This idea of winning a tournament or deciding who was the most proficient player is of recent origin. We know from the history of the game that it is some 400 years old, but the first British open was played in 1860. Undoubtedly, during the many years previous to this, if a golfer played fairly well, he was satisfied with himself because he was getting his outdoor exercise and a lot of amusement. Beating an opponent was good fun and the game was considered worth while.

The happy player is the one who can go out for a round of golf and get real amusement out of the sport. The player who leaves the first tee full of determination to beat his opponent and then winds up by breaking a few clubs, is not going to come in happy unless he has accomplished everything he has set out to do.

I pity the golfer who worries about his golf to this extent. Every golfer makes poor shots but very few are prepared for the emergency. One must first learn self-control before learning to hit a golf ball.

EXPERTS GIVE FINANCE PLANS

New Taxes and Settlement of All Debts Are Necessary For France.

REPORT SUBMITTED.

PARIS, July 3 (Canadian Press)—The experts' committee which was charged by the Government with the examination of the financial situation finds in its report that three things are necessary for a lasting solution. The first is "super-equilibrium" of the budget; second, stabilization of exchange; and the third, establishment of a sinking fund for interior and exterior debts. To make the budget safe against changes in the situation, it suggests some new indirect tax. For the stabilization of the franc it insists that all foreign debts must be settled.

For the sinking fund it suggests an organization separate from the treasury to take charge of national defence bonds and gradually retire them.

GARDENING.

A dandy spade from the store once came, and dad, of course, was the one to blame. He bought the thing so's to make his yard look mighty nice, by workin' hard.

A rake and hoe were the next things bought. Ah, pop was sure in the spirit caught. Hard work, thought he, is the thing that brings the beauteous flowers, and a lot of things.

A man worked hard every afternoon and seeds all over the place were strewn. The richest dirt for miles around was hauled and dumped on his clay-packed ground.

A smile spread over a toiler's face. Ah, hope had set him a merry pace. But, shucks, he stuck with the tiresome gait, and now all he had to do was wait.

The rain came down and the sun came out, and after a week there came a sprout. And was pop pleased? Oh, yes, indeed—until he found it was just a weed.

He watched and prayed for 10 days more and then things started togrow galore. And just when his work was about to pay—the rent came due, and they moved away.

QUAKERS WIN FROM K. OF C.

Score of Close Game is 8-4—Winners Lead Group.

SNAPPY PLAY.

Last night at Central Park the Quakers defeated the Knights of Columbus 8 to 4 in a very close game of softball. This win allows the Quakers to hold the top rung of A group ladder along with the C.G.E. There was some very snappy fielding and playing pulled off. M. Sheehy caught a fly of Butcher's in the third which was the finest catch of the evening. One double play was featured alone by George Rutherford in the fourth when Morphet ran Vincent off the base. Ash got a three-base hit and a home run. The line-up:

Quakers—Butcher, Kirn, Ash, Morphet, Vincent, Jones, Meyette, Wilson and Carruthers.

K. of C.—Mulloy, McCarney, V. Rutherford, G. Rutherford, LeBarr, Wolfe, R. Sheehy, M. Sheehy, and McKinnon.

KEENE WOBBLES GIVE COGS WIN

Billingsley Uses Slow Ball and Visitors Get But Three Hits.

WON IN FIRST.

Long John Billingsley slow-balled Keene into a 6 to 1 defeat at Exhibition Park last evening, and Cogs are now in a better position for the final scramble for the Wright Trophy. Keene have a game here next Friday with Curve Lake and a win will give them the second half, while a loss means a play-off with Cogs. One postponed game in the first half to be played in Curve Lake also means much to Cogs, as a win means a playoff and a loss will give the first half to Keene.

Billingsley lobbed the Spalding a lot last evening and his support did everything right, when Keene hit flies or weak grounders, Crary doing some fine work around second base. The usually reliable Gene McCarthy at first base, and Catcher Robertson had costly errors, all of which helped the Cogs around the runways.

Cogs took four runs in the first when Wilson and Smith singled and Billingsley's choice filled the bases. Wilson scored on Rooke's infield fly, Max Robertson dropping the ball, allowing Wilson to get home. The play, an unusual one, got all hands flustered except Umpire LeBarr. Mahood fanned but Cripps came through with a double to score Smith and Billingsly. Cripps scored when C. Robertson let lose a wild throw to first. With Weese batting, Crary was thrown out at going to third.

Errors by the first baseman and catcher gave Cogs two more runs in the third with nobody gone. A double play fr om third to first, stopped the rally.

Keene got their only run in the second, when M. Robertson shot up a single over second, stole, and came home on it. Fletcher's double.... .... home on A. Fletcher's double to left.

"Once Upon a Time."

NOT SO DUMB!

Builder of First Auto Fixed the Back-Seat Drivers

By TOM SIMS.

Once upon a time, in the good old days of 1898, when the phrase "Thanks for the horseless buggy ride" came first into being, a man built an automobile that was just right.

For lo! the back seat was in the front and the front seat was in the back, and the back seat driver was confounded!

John Henry had all the best of it, indeed. He sat in the back seat and steered, while all Mrs. Henry could do was sit in front and shiver. The tables were turned.

Ladies and children first! If there were poles to be climbed, fences to be gone through, railroad trains to be struck, there were Mrs. John Henry and little Chester in the front seat, and John, the chauffeur, "Chauffing" away in the rear.

* * *

Powerless, wordless, squirming, Mrs. John Henry sat there while the frisky John Henry raced his infernal vehicle down the dusty roads, to the consternation of the townsfolk and the horses. Fully five miles an hour!

But the modern motorist can look upon this picture with horror. Suppose it were the style today, and the ladies indeed did sit in the back seat and actually do the driving instead of merely supervising with shrill cries!

Can't you picture John Henry sitting there, frozen to the seat, with the equipage heading straight on for a street car?

The 1898 model, shown above, and said to have been the first in America, still has most of its molars, and gets around fairly well without crutches. For all its 28 years, it has lived a good life.

Nobody ever complained of the cold in this venerable model. There was a boiler right under the seat. And it was not always from nervousness, perhaps, that John Henry squirmed.

SIMPLE SUSIE'S SWAN SONG

Simple Susie's Swan Song—C 2 col

We meant to continue our "Simple Susie Series" from time to time in these columns, but seeing as how we struck a snag right in the moment of flight, so to speak, perhaps it might be better to switch off onto another line. We got such a set back from this Mr. W. J. Nelson who didn't like our remarks about the softball girls that we sort of feel inclined to rest up awhile. Not that we think he should have taken us up the way he did. Not by a long shot. We think he broke into print in a hasty moment and if he knew us as we really are, he wouldn't be a bit mad at us. (We might say that as we aren' an editor we shouldn't use this here "we" so much, but it comes in kind of convenient and sort of camouflages our sex.)

A funny thing about this "Simple Susie" stuff is all the letter "esses" it uses up. This typewriter has the "s" letter nearly worn out, so it won't mind a bit if we stop exercising our genius in this way. Of course, Mr. Nelson doesn't think we have any right to be talking about the softball girls, but we never intended for a minute any reflection on the ladies. We think they are fearfully clever to be able to play the game the way they do. If Mr. Nelson were near us at the moment, we would whisper in his ear a long-cherished ambition, one of those things the highbrows call an "inhibition," which always led us to hope that some day we too, might shine on the ball field. But, it "wuzn't to be." We are short on wind, and, besides, we came in a small size. "You're too small, kid," they used to say to us in our school days, when we tried to sprint after a fast ball, so we gave it up.

Anyway, being "simple and sarcastic," as Mr. Nelson says, and being taken up wrong, is no joke. We read that letter through twice and then we immediately got "sobby and sorrowful" and we had to use up two linen handkerchiefs before we got over feeling "sad" about it. Here we were, trying to be funny, and a gentleman gets mad at us, right off the bat, so to speak. We spoke about giving up our career as a writer altogether, but somebody said we might get along a little bit better if we tackled something "hardboiled." so we went to see a hardball game and didn't think half as much of it as we did of the ladies' playing.

These hardballers aren't in it with the girls when it comes to real playing. The amount of advice they need is tremendous. All the time they play the crowd keeps yelling things at them to do, and half the time, they're so dumb that they just go ahead and do things their own way, anyway, and then they spoil everything. They have to get "warmed up" to do anything, and goodness knows, it was a hot enough day when they played here, without needing all the exercise they took. They must be a cold-blooded bunch. They said they came from a place where there's a "big cooler", though.

One thing about them, they carry a parson with them. At least, one of their players kept kneeling on the ground most of the time behind the fellow with the bat. And talk about girls being afraid. Why, the fellow that stood behind the batter and the man who made signs to the pitcher were all dressed up with small mattresses and wire screens, something not one of the girls had on. And, besides the stripes running 'round their legs, they had stripes all down their suits. But one of these men that knows everything said it had nothing to do with the place they came from.

They all liked dirt a lot better than the girls, too. If there wasn't enough of it on their suits, they rubbed their hands in it and put it on the bat and the ball and on their suits. One man was pretty finicky. He was the fellow with the wire guard over his face, and he carted a little whisk broom around with him and kept brushing off a white stone near him. He made the man with the bat pretty nervous, because he wouldn't even go near the stone, but stood away from it all the time.

One other thing we noticed about the two games. Even when the visiting girls were putting it all over the home ladies, the crowd clapped hard. But when the men from out of town caught the ball away out on the field, the crowd that had been just applauding the home boys for doing the same stunt, kept perfectly quiet. So we think there's more real sportsmanship in the girls' games.

Mr. Nelson kindly offered to pay our admission to the softball game we wrote up. It was two bits, and we wouldn't mind a bit being Mr. Nelson's guest on that occasion, although we never met him in person. And he certainly is a great mind reader. We went to the circus and liked the clowns awfully well. We thought the bride with the green hat and the pantalettes was just too cute for anything.

W.M.S. PICNIC WALLACE'S POINT

First Vice-President and Superintendent of Auxiliaries Address Gathering.

MILLBROOK, July 2.—A district picnic, under W.M.S. auspices was held at Wallace's Point, Otonabee River, on Tuesday afternoon, about one hundred being in attendance. The very heavy storm, with thunder and lightning accompaniment, which came on just at the hour of starting for the picnic grounds, and the fact that it lasted for more than an hour, hindered a great many who had planned to be present from joining the gathering.

The speakers for the afternoon were Mrs. T. J. Field of Cobourg, first vice-president of the Women's Missionary Society for the Bay of Quinte Conference, and Mrs. J. K. Moore of Peterborough, formerly superintendent of the Auxiliaries in the Peterborough district.

Mrs. R. Cardwell, whose home is at the Point, and whose daughter, Miss Viola Cardwell, is a nurse-missionary in the Ham Heung Hospital, Korea, welcomed the guests, assisting Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard, president of the Millbrook Auxiliary, the latter organization having first suggested the holding of the picnic—a sort of "get together" gathering for the women of all the United Churches in the district to increase interest in the missionary work, and provide an opportunity for becoming better acquainted.

THEATRE

AT THE REGENT

MOVIE OF FAMOUS STAGE HIT MAKES ENGROSSING FILM

"Sally, Irene and Mary" Is Delightful Romance of Back-Stage Life—Played By Great Cast—Sally O'Neil, Joan Crawford and Constance Bennett Fine in Title Roles.

Three things apparently go toward making a good motion picture. The story, the direction and the cast.

"Sally, Irene and Mary, which opened at the Regent theatre on Monday has all three.

First the story which was suggested by the stage play which Ed. Dowling wrote and which was adapted to the screen by Hope Loring and Louis Leighton. It has a theatrical background that is full of interest for all and tells parallel stories of three girls who are in the musicale show, "The Dainties."

There is Sally, who comes as near being a heavy as anyone in the picture. Yet she has many a redeeming feature as all heavies in life have.

An Excellent Cast.

The cast is ideal. Constance Bennett as Sally, Joan Crawford as Irene and Sally O'Neil as Mary, are perfectly suited to their respected roles. It would be impossible to select any one of them as the best for the parts they play are widely contrasted.

William Haines, Henry Kolker, Douglas Gilmore, Kate Price, Aggie Herring, Sam de Grasse, Lillian Elliott and Edna Mae Cooper are all splendid in their respective roles.

Mr. William Lutkin acted as best man. After the signing of the register the bride was presented with a beautiful Bible, the gift of the church, this being the first wedding in the new building. After farming for a time in Hamilton township he bought the McNaughton farm in Hope township, not far from Port Rope and resided there until three years ago when ill-health forced him to retire from active work. He was a member of the United church, and a Reformer in politics. Mr. Westington was unmarried.
Surviving him are one brother, John of Cobourg, and two sisters Mrs. Adamson, Wainwright, Alta., and Mrs. Reuben Max of Cobourg.
Rev. Dr. Brown conducted the services and the interment was in the Cobourg Union Cemetery.

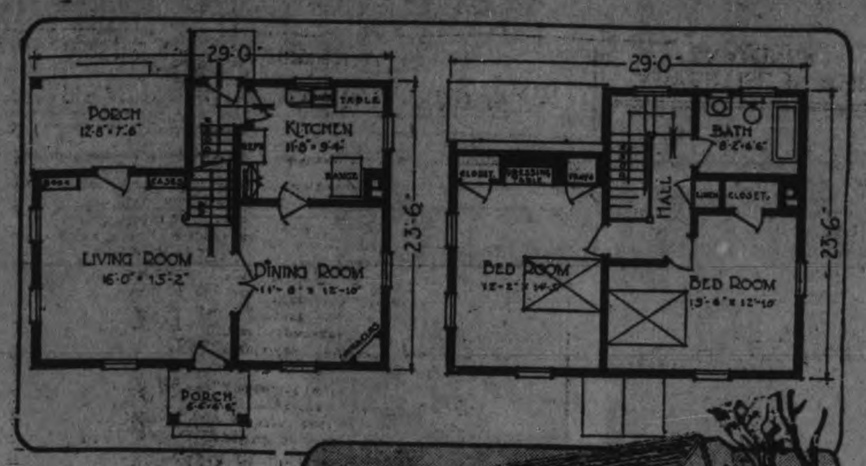
A Little Variation in Home Plan



Courtesy, Curtis Companies, Clinton, Ia.

The Colonial exterior is of special interest to builders of small homes, because of its simplicity. No style could be better suited to the tiny home, for the charm of a little house is destroyed by over-ornamentation and too much detail. The typical Colonial plan, however, with its spacious centre hall dividing the house in two, is not always suitable for the house which must be placed on a city lot. We prefer to add the hall space to that of the living room, as in this attractive five-room house.
The simple little entrance porch leads directly into the living room, and the stair, now a part of the living room, is really the centre of interest there. It is finished in the characteristic mahogany-and-ivory, Colonial fashion, and has a gracefully curved hand-rail and rounded step.
A noticeable feature of this plan is the porch, which is at the back of the house, rather than the front. This is a happy idea, for in many cities there is very little privacy possible for a front porch. How much more inviting is this one, looking out over lawn or flower garden, or perhaps more distant views.
Dining-room and kitchen are pleasant, comfortable rooms, with built-in conveniences to increase their desirability.
There are two large bedrooms with ample closets. Both are cross-ventilated. One of them has a dressing table and tray case built-in. The bathroom is extra roomy, and there is a linen case in the hall.
This is a small house which is in good taste, and will be suitable for any neighborhood, and which is a comfortable home for the average family.

(Detailed plans and specifications of this house may be obtained at low cost by writing to the House Plan Editor of the Examiner.)

"Proper Food and Exercise," by ARTHUR A. McGOVERN, Former physical director, Cornell Medical College

Cultivate health then conserve it

FREQUENT INDISPOSITION A DANGER SIGNAL

HEALTH is a state of being that must be cultivated and conserved. Every single hope, dream and ambition you want to realize is contingent on having the health to win and enjoy it.
You have to fight the battle of health just as you fight the battle of success. You cannot disregard the generally known rules of what to do and what not to do and still keep your health.
Recurring colds and headaches, indigestion, anaemia, obesity and all of the other symptoms of a poor state of health cannot be disregarded with impunity.
Your duties, whether business, social or both, are a daily drain on your physical and nerve power. Sleep and rest are great recuperative forces, but they do not by themselves clear your system of each day's accumulation of poisons. The organs of elimination, such as the lungs, bowels, kidneys and the pores of the skin, must be kept active, and exercise that reacts on these parts of the body is necessary to keep them functioning normally.
You can, with the aid of the exercises at the end of this article, give yourself each day a complete physical rejuvenation.
Any man or woman who will faithfully follow these movements each morning will be inspired to a more erect carriage and to deeper breathing and will be conscious of great zest, strength and nerve force throughout the day.
Your ability to carry on in the life work that you have laid out for yourself is so completely dependent on your health that you owe it to yourself to see to it that you build up and maintain an efficient standard of health.

Exercise No. 1
Breathing: Lie flat on your back, hands at your sides, palms down. Take a deep slow inhalation, raising chest high, bringing your abdomen in and turning palms up, with shoulders to the floor—hold breath for five seconds. Exhale, returning to a relaxed position, turning palms downward. Ten times.

Exercise No. 2
Lie flat on your back. Draw knees up with both feet on floor. Place a weight (a heavy book will do) on abdomen. Raise the weight up by contracting the stomach muscles and lower it by relaxing these muscles. Ten times.

Exercise No. 3
From flat position place palms down, legs out straight. Raise right leg up as far as possible, keeping your legs straight, toes pointed. Ten times.

Exercise No. 4
From flat position place palms down, legs out straight, as in No. 3. Raise left leg up as far as possible, keeping your legs straight, toes pointed. Ten times.

Exercise No. 5
From flat position raise legs from floor. Swing left and right leg alternately. Legs stiff, toes pointed and do not touch the floor until exercise is completed. Ten times.

Exercise No. 6
From flat position raise both legs together from floor and bring down together, legs straight. Ten times.

Exercise No. 7
From flat position, hands straight behind head, raise body to sitting position (without bending knees) trying to touch toes with finger tips. Ten times.

Example of a Moderate Diet
BREAKFAST: Grapefruit or orange juice, one egg boiled or poached, two graham, bran or corn muffins, coffee substitute, cocoa or weak tea. Between breakfast and lunch take two glasses of water.
LUNCHEON: A vegetable luncheon consisting of any of the following vegetables: Spinach, peas, eggplant, stringbeans, turnips, asparagus, corn. Glass of milk, dark bread. For dessert, rice or tapioca pudding. Between lunch and dinner three glasses of water.

TENDERFOOT TESTS
The Uses of the Scout Staff
There are so many uses for the staff, that I am not going to attempt to mention them all here. On page 25 of the new catlogue, you will find some interesting sketches showing staff uses.
I think many people believe the Scout carries a staff in place of a rifle. Of course this is wrong, but no doubt they have received this impression from seeing Scouts parading with staves at the slope, trail, etc. My idea is that the staff is a very handy article on a hike or in camp, but on parade or at troop meetings, it is usually a nuisance.
Cutting your own staff and carving it to show a record of your scouting, is the best way to obtain a staff. Anyone can buy a pole at a shop and call it a staff. But not everyone can cut his own and carve it, as a Scout can. Of course you never cut a staff without first asking permission of the owner of the tree you wish to use. Choose a strong sapling, not too thick, and cut it to suit your height. There is nothing funnier than a small Scout carrying a long, thick staff.
This is the last of the series of articles on the Tenderfoot Tests. After the summer holidays, we will perhaps take up the second class tests, or some of the proficiency badges. Until then, I wish you a pleasant holiday and good camping.

1ST PETERBOROUGH TROOP.
The weekly meeting of the 1st Peterborough Troop was held on Friday evening in the troop rooms. The meeting opened by the calling of the patrols together and the breaking of the flag. The patrols were then sent to their corners for instruction. Many games were played for amusement and were enjoyed immensely by all. Amateur period of instruction followed.
An observation game was played to test the memories of the Scouts. Council fire was opened by Scoutmaster Mr. Hully. Camping and week-end trips were discussed. The meeting was adjourned and the Scouts dispersed to their various homes.

RINKY-DINK CIRCUS.

Friday, July 2, was a momentous day on Burnham Street, when two circus performances were given by the members of the Rinky-Dink Shack Club. About forty children gathered in the afternoon and nearly fifty adults and children gathered in the evening in Mr. Langley's garage to witness the exhibition of skill and art there presented. Those taking part were Jack Primeau, Keith Kelly, John Langley, Paul Roche, Jack Cowper, Leonard Mahood and Billy Milliken, while Harry Anderson did good work selling lemonade, raspberry vinegar, peanuts and candy. There were stunts on the trapeze, wand drills, clown acts and other events that showed diligent practice, and were second only to the stunts performed in Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey's most famous show on earth.
What added tremendously to the success of the show were some recitations given by Mrs. Gerald McClelland both afternoon and evening. Her "Friday Afternoon's Concert" and "Story of a Glass of Lemonade" brought forth laughter and applause that could be heard on the Hunter Street Bridge. The show ended with songs by the boys, three cheers given for Mrs. McClelland, Mr. Langley and the happy Shack Club. The proceeds derived from admissions paid of 2 cents for rush seats and 3 cents for reserved seats were both surprising and gratifying.

IN MEMORIAM.
In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mary Huggins, who passed away July 4th, 1922:
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they'll wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.

BYNG RECEIVED NO ADVICE FROM GREAT BRITAIN

Says London Times in Discussing Canadian Situation.

USED OWN JUDGMENT.

No Attempt Made By Imperial Government To Influence His Action.

LONDON, Eng., July 5. Cananian Press. — Editorially discussing the constitutional issue in Canada, the London Times states specifically that Lord Byng did not seek the advice of Downing street.

"In the whole of this crisis," it says, "in the refusal of dissolution to the leader of one party, and the granting of it to the leader of another, the Governor-General of the Dominion appears to have acted, as he was right in acting, solely on his personal judgment and on the advice of his constitutional advisers. It is a fact that he did not consult the Imperial government, and that they have made no attempt whatever to interfere with or influence his action."

Decision Impartial

The Sunday Times declares that it is incontestable that Baron Byng's decision in regard to the dissolution of the Canadian Parliament was given in perfect impartiality between the two parties.

"It seemed probable," the paper says, "that, with the transfer of Progressive support to the Conservatives, the latter would be able to carry on, and another general election, especially at such an unauspicious time, might be avoided.

"There was no exact precedent to go upon, and Lord Byng had to make his own estimate of the probabilities of the situation. Events have shown that he was wrong, but to make a decision under such circumstances was a trying task, and there will be general sympathy with him in his unenviable position."

The Observer states that it is not easy to follow the criticism of Lord Byng's decision, which represents the Governor-General as deliberately putting himself "in absolute charge of Canadian affairs." "One thing we may take as certain," The Observer decares, "is that he acted, whether rightly or wrongly, in a crisis of extraordinary difficulty, with no thought but that of discharging with the most scrupulous care and impartiality his duty to the people of Canada."

Big Local Issues Face-Peterboro Nominees

Parties Must First Consider Needs of City and Adjacent Townships Paying Excessive Power and Light Rates —Solemn Pledge Demanded of Candidates.

Now is the time for the taxpayers of this city to act and now is the time for the power and light users in North Monaghan, Smith, Douro and Otonabee to insure relief. A Dominion election is upon us and candidates must come before us seeking election to represent this riding in the Dominion Parliament. Now is the time to make these candidates give solemn pledges to build a new lock at Burleigh Falls of sufficient size and capacity to do away with Lovesick Lock, to build a new lock at Dams 4 and 5, so as to dispense with the present two locks at this point, and make cheap power possible at these points, and to use every effort to see that the Trent Canal is completed during the next four years.

If all the candidates give solemn pledges, then a choice should be made between the two and favor given to the one who shows the most fervent zeal, honesty of purpose and ability to carry out his pledges. Now is the time for the electors in this city and suburbs to cast one vote for himself or herself, and now is the time for the incoming member to show by his future exertions his ability to carry out his solemn pledges at the earliest possible date.

FUTURE M.P. AND CHEAP POWER

Look at what this city has at stake. The wholesale cost of power to this city is $26.35 per horse power, and it will be more, when this city gets its next power bill from the Hydro Electric Power Commission. That cost can be cut in two, if this city developed its own power at these points where new locks are to be built. That would mean an annual saving to this city of at least $75,000.00, a sum sufficient to pay interest on one and one half millions of dollars for all time to come. In fact the annual saving would be more. Why? Orillia brings her power a greater distance and sells it, not at wholesale but at retail cost to power consumers at only $12.00 per year, while the power users in this city pay nearly three times as much.

$400,000 SAVING IN U. S. COAL BILLS

These are facts, and it is for the electors who believe in these facts to make self-seeking politicians sit up and take notice of these facts. "The Lord helps those who help themselves." The taxpayers of this city have now a chance to help themselves, and at the same time make a great national saving of upwards of $400,000 per year in coal bills alone—paid to the United States. Facts and reasons can be given to support every statement and argument advanced.

Now is the time to act. Delays are dangerous. Napoleon once said, "Every hour of lost time is a chance of future misfortune." Electric power is being used for so many purposes that some enterprise may come along and use these water powers on the ground, and then our chances would be lost. Then there would be weeping and wailing and imprecations upon the Hydro-Electric god to whom or rather to which I always so reverently allude.

TOURIST TRAFFIC—MOTOR VS. YACHT

Pray, let not pagan worship stand in the way of our onward march of progress. The completion of the Trent Canal is not only for our own benefit, but that of the whole of Central Ontario and the Dominion as well. The tourist traffic alone per annum would pay for its total cost. The motor fad is over. The holiday seeker prays to be released from its risks and dangers. He wants a calm and sure retreat. He wants rest. If he is wise he will come by yacht or Peterborough canoe, and camp on the shore line of the Trent Canal, add years to his life and add dollars to the earnings of those who dwell on its beautiful shores.

MUSSOLINI AIDS ECONOMY PLANS

Cancels Trips To Various Cities and Colonies of Italy.

CIVIL SERVICE CUTS.

ROME, July 5. — (Canadian Press.) — Premier Mussolini has made a personal contribution to the national economy campaign by cancelling his plans for visits to various parts of the nation and voyages to the colonies. Such trips, the Premier declared in declining an invitation to visit one city, are luxuries which cannot be afforded at present. A drastic economy move is expected soon in the form of dismissing 25,000 persons from the government's civil service payroll of 500,000. Another 25,000, it is said, will be dismissed within a few months.

KING QUESTIONS IF DISSOLUTION OF HOUSE LEGAL

Only Notice Given in Letter From Under Secretary of State.

QUOTES PRECEDENT.

Breach of Constiution Followed By Other Violations, He Says.

OTTAWA, July 5 (Canadian Press).—Declaring that "a serious question arises as to whether Parliament has been legally and constitutionally dissolved, seeing there was no prorogation notwithstanding that both Houses of Parliament were in session and His Excellency the Governor-General was present in the capital at the time," Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, ex-Prime Minister, last night issued a statement on the constitutional question.

Commenting that the only notice that Parliament was dissolved was a letter to the Speakers from the Under-Secretary of State, and that "Senators and Members of the House of Commons were informed by messengers and page boys that their presence was no longer required," Mr. King adds:

"This method of assuming to dissolve Parliament is quite contrary to constitutional usage and law."

After quoting authorities on procedure to support his contention, Mr. King adds:

"But Canada's present Prime Minister is apparently not hampered by either British or Canadian constitutional law and practice. After the declaration by the Commons on the night previous that their actions were a violation and an infringement of the privileges of the House, Mr. Meighen's acting ministers could not face Parliament even for the purpose of having it prorogued or dissolved. He therefore advised a course which would not be tolerated in Great Britain and is in violation of constitutional law and practice in Canada, and has assumed responsibility for an act of the crown which

Only one Proclamation.

After quoting a number of authorities on procedure Mr. King raises a doubt that "a proclamation communicated by a member of the Civil Service" would be sufficient notice of dissolution. He rehearses the procedure followed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911 when two proclamations were issued dissolving Parliament. One made it clear that only the fact that the Senate had previously adjourned to a later date prevented the usual announcement in both Houses, and that therefore Parliament was prorogued on Sept. 7th. On the same day (July 29) a second proclamation was issued dissolving parliament, a third issued waits for an election, and a fourth summoned Parliament to meet again on Oct. 11.

"In the present case," says Mr. King, "Mr. Meighen has assumed to dissolve parliament by a single proclamation enclosed in a letter addressed to the Speaker of both Houses by a Deputy Minister. Under the proclamation issued, Parliament was not even prorogued to any date. Though both Houses of Parliament were in session, the Governor General was not permitted to meet parliament in person, Senators and members of the Houses of Commons were completely ignored, their presence in fact being treated with contempt.

"The first breach of the constitution of Canada was unfortunately led to and has been followed by other serious infractions and violations of the rights of the Canadian people. In circumstances so serious it becomes the duty of all who cherish liberty to consider how far the validity of parliamentary proceedings and of public and private rights is being affected by the unconstitutional course being pursued, and to make their opinions known in no uncertain manner."

Wraps Meat In Newspaper While Impersonating Clerk; Bandit's Mistake Results In His Capture In Store

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 5 (United News)—Wrapping twenty cents worth of bologna in a newspaper cost Peter Curtis, amateur holdup man, his freedom.

Curtis was half way through an efficient job of holding up McDonald's delicatessen store when a chance customer entered. The bandit attempted to assume the role of clerk.

"Twenty cents worth of bologna," was the order.

Pete cut off a generous slice but did not know where the brown paper was, so wrapped the bologna in a newspaper.

The puzzled customer looked back after crossing the street and saw Curtis busy at the till, keeping the proprietor in a rear room by waving a revolver.

The police arrived before the bandit had departed.

"THE GREAT PRICE."

"The List of Veterans Is Now Closed"—Captain James Abraham's Impressive Statement.

"Let us become renewed in the spirit of citizenship and patriotism; let us realize that we owe our country a great deal and strive to make it even greater than it now is," said His Lordship Bishop O'Brien at the annual decoration day service of the local veterans in St. Peter's Cemetery yesterday afternoon. "If we show as much loyalty as these veterans did our country will go forward to great things."

His Lordship expressed his pleasure at seeing so many of the veterans out for the ceremony, quoting the words used a few moments before by Captain James Abraham, commander of the local branch, "The list of veterans is closed." The time is gone, he went on, when others can enter that fellowship, which is growing smaller, and these men do honor to themselves as well as to their comrades in decorating these graves. They are keeping the memory alive, not of the horrors which they went through, but of the comrades who were with them there.

The speaker referred to his recent visit to Europe, and of the awful consequences of war still visible so many years after the close of the struggle. He spoke not only of the visible wreckage in the buildings and to the land, but of the discontent and discouragement found in so many of the war-ridden countries.

"What must it have been to go through that struggle whose consequences can still be seen after eight years?" he asked. "We can't appreciate, we cannot estimate what the soldiers have done, and should hold them in the highest honor." He referred to the dreary trip across the ocean at the best of times, which for the soldiers was heightened by the fact that they ran a constant risk of being torpedoed, and said that those who never got further than England should be honored as well.

The great price paid by the soldiers for their citizenship was touched upon and His Lordship said that others should learn a less from this. The enthusiasm of Americans, who are constantly boosting the United States, could well be emulated by Canadians, who have a finer country but are inclined to be too pessimistic and to find fault, said the speaker, adding that the fault finder was usually at fault himself.

The Roll Call.

A most impressive part of the service was the calling of the roll of Catholic men from Peterborough who paid the supreme sacrifice. Captain Abraham, commander of the local branch, called the names, and past commander Captain R. E. Layfield reported them all "Absent on duty." The names follow:

Captain R. Picard, C.Q.M.S. J. Kane, Sapper J. Mahoney, Gunner N. Peters, Private P. Burke, Private D. Wheeler, Driver J. McCarthy, Private Hanlon, Gunner V Grady, Private G. Tucker, Private R. Ranerd, Private R. Bolin, Private W. Watson, Gunner V. Clancy, Private R. Boyle, Private J. Scully, Private John Kylie, Private T. Theobald, Private L. Feeley, and Private Francis Booth.

Captain Abraham.

Captain Abraham, in his address, made a strong plea for the unity of all ex-service men.

"In my capacity as Commander of this local branch," said Captain Abraham, "I am called upon to address you. Last week at our decoration parade at Little Lake Cemetery I took as my subject the vital question of unity among ex-service men; to-day I am again going to appeal to you on this very important matter.

"Comrades; the time has come when you and I should take stock of our responsibilities. Have we proved faithful to the trust reposed in us by those comrades that we left behind over there and those who lie in this hallowed spot?

"Let me ask you, have you been recalcitrant to thist trust? If you have, now is the time to make amends, now is the time to take up the torch which you have permitted to fall, now is the time to grip it in firm hands and hold it aloft, determined that its light shall blazon a trail to a fulfilment of a purpose, that of seeing that justice is done to all who have suffered in rendering

Nobile's Dog Shares Los Angeles' Tribute

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 5 (United Press) — Paths of flowers were made before Major General Umberto Nobile, North Pole explorer and pilot of the Norge, as this city honored the Italian yesterday.

But Nobile, bowing graciously before the tribute, seemed anxious that his dog Titana, too, should receive a share. The dog's head was raised proudly as he wound through the cheering throngs with his master. Titana had been over the pole, too.

NEARLY DROWNED IN CHEMONG LAKE

Joseph Lynch Saved By N. C. Staples When Afflicted With Cramp.

Joseph Lynch, 29 Victoria avenue, had a narrow escape from drowning in Chemong Lake yesterday afternoon. Eye-witnesses state that he was attempting to swim across the lake unaccompanied by a boat, and when about two hundred yards from the other shore was apparently seized by a cramp.

N. C. Staples, who happened to be canoeing on the Chemong side of the lake, noticed the young man go down, and paddling with all haste, reached him just as he was going down for the third time. He grasped him by the hand and after considerable difficulty succeeded in getting him into the boat.

A motor boat manned by Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Belleghem, arrived at this juncture and brought the party to the Chemong shore.

Mr. Lynch appeared to be none the worse for his unpleasant experience and was able to proceed to his home in Peterborough.

Statement From Progressives Denies Party Gave Assurance Of Support To Conservatives

Garland Issues Explanation Authorized By Conference of Political Group, of Course Decided Upon By Party When Meighen Accepted Invitation To Form Government.

MEMORANDUM PREPARED TO AID FORKE IN INTERVIEW WITH GOVERNOR-GENERAL

No Promise of Co-operation But Understanding That Western Members Would Assist in Completing Work of Session Provided That Temporary Administration Was Legal.

OTTAWA, July 5 (Canadian Press).—The following which, according to E. J. Garland, former member for Bow River, has been authorized by a conference of the Progressive group, was made public by Mr. Garland last night.

"On Tuesday, June 29, it was made known that Mr. Meighen had accepted an invitation to form a government. This he did without having communicated with the Progressives or seeking their co-operation.

"A conference of the Progressive group took place the same day during the course of which a telephone communication was received by Mr. Forke requesting him to meet His Excellency the Governor General. Seized of the importance of the situation the group, after discussion, undertook to give to Mr. Forke a confidential memorandum for his guidance in any conversation that might take place. It was clearly understood by all our members, first, that the memorandum was simply a guide for Mr. Forke; secondly, a general indication that we were prepared to act fairly with the new administration and facilitate the completion of the session's business, and thirdly was purely voluntary and in no sense could it be regarded as a contract.

No Promise Made

"It was of course always based on the assumption that the new ministry was legally constituted and capable of functioning. The memorandum was not addressed to His Excellency, nor was any other communication from the Progressive group directed to the Governor General. Mr. Meighen had no assurance from our group nor did he seek an assurance. No promise was broken for no promise had been made. However, had the Conservative temporary government been legally and constitutionally established the Progressives would undoubtedly have given it assistance in completing the work of the session. This fact may be proved by the following incidents:

Interview With Meighen

(1) The Progressives requested an interview with Mr. Meighen and secured it at the very time when Mr. Forke was being consulted by His Excellency. In this interview no mention whatever was made of co-operation or assistance and it was solely for the purpose of ascertaining the procedure Mr. Meighen intended to adopt.

(2) A majority of the Progressives rejected the purely partizan fiscal motion introduced by the Liberals.

"We assisted in dismissing the Conservative shadow government for the following reasons:

"(1) It was not legally capable of functioning either as to the introduction of money bills or estimates or in the letting of necessary contracts.

"(2) The act of Mr. Meighen in attempting to usurp the functions of government in so illegal a manner is evident when it is known that the proper step for Mr. Meighen to have taken was to have sought adjournment for six weeks to have properly elected and sworn his ministry.

"(3 The action of the Governor-General in refusing to accept the advice of his adviser, the late Prime Minister, was unconstitutional and calculated to restore Canada to a purely Colonial status.

ELECTION WORK IS NOT STARTED

Chief Electoral Officer Has Not Commenced His Preparations.

SEPT. 21 MENTIONED.

OTTAWA, July 5 (Canadian Press).—So far, it is learned, the actual work of preparing for the coming general election has not yet been started by the chief electoral officer. The first step in this respect is usually the issue of writs, following which work on the new voters' list begins. Last year the preparation of the lists for the October election occupied approximately fifty-three days; and about the same amount of time, it is estimated, will be necessary to put the lists for this year's election into shape.

September 21 is regarded in political circles as the probable date of the election.

FRENCH CLAIM SYRIANS YIELD

Say Relatives of Druse Sultan Among Those Submitting.

REBELS KILLED.

BEIRUT, Syria, July 5. Canadian Press. — The submission of important rebel leaders in southern Syria, are claimed by the French. Relatives of the Sultan attache, the Druse leader, are said to be among those turning over their arms to the French commanders.

The Druses are reported to have lost 30 killed at Mayamas and five killed at Jale during the advance of General Andrew's column.

TARIFF BOARD WORK HELD UP

Rt. Hon. G. P. Graham, Chairman, on Trip To Europe.

BOARD TO REMAIN.

OTTAWA, July 5 (Canadian Press).—The Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, chief of the new tariff board, has gone to Europe, and will probably be away for six weeks. For the time being the work of the board is at a standstill. It will probably remain so until after the election, when Mr. Graham will be back in Canada.

Whether or not the personnel of the Board changes, it is altogether likely that the Board itself will remain, as Conservatives, as well as Liberals, advocated the creation of the tariff board. The board has held a couple of sittings already.
